CRUSADERS SEEK AID OF PRESIDENT

Illinois Vice Commission Visit Washington and Call on Executive.

Ask Him to Call National Conference of Governors of All States.

Visitors Conduct Hearing and Ask Prominent Women to Attend.

Washington, March 22.—Illinois vice crusaders, the senatorial commission headed by Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara, is in Washington seeking to nationalize the scope of their inquiry.

To that end the commission first sought the aid of President Wilson with whom they conferred at the White House. After outlining to the president the results of the inquiry in Illinois the commissioners requested the president to call a national conference of state governors to start a systematic campaign to better working conditions of women throughout the nation. Federal co-operation was sought in the movement already begun in many states for the appointment of state commissions, similar to that from Illinois, to conduct inquiries into the wage situation and into organized vice conditions in the various states.

Minimum Wage Law.

One of the means proposed as basic relief for women was the enactment of a Federal wage law. Later today the Illinois commission conducted a hearing to which were invited several hundred prominent welfare workers, clergymen, officials and many prominent women in Washington social and club life. Lieutenant Governor O'Hara sought to learn the opinions of women who move in high social circles concerning the influence upon working girls of the extravagance of women of wealth.

Women Accept.

Among the prominent women who accepted invitations to the conference were Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, wife of a South African diamond millionaire; Mrs. Christian Hemmick, Madame Havenith, wife of the Belgian minister; Sonora Rinano, wife of the Spanish minister; Mrs. Huntington Wilson and Mrs. W. Murray Crane.

BARTHOU PRESENTS HIS NEW CABINET

Paris, March 22.—Jean Barthou, who was requested by President Poincare to form a ministry to succeed that of Premier Briand, which resigned Tuesday, submitted to the president the personnel of the new cabinet. The portfolios are distributed as follows:

Premier and minister of public instruction, Jean Barthou; minister of justice, Aristide Briand; minister of finance, Charles Dumont; minister of foreign affairs, Stephen Pichon; minister of interior, Louis L. Klotz; minister of war, Eugen Etienne; minister of marine, Pierre Baudin; minister of agriculture, Etienne Clementel; minister of colonies, Jean Morel; minister of public works, M. Thierry; minister of commerce and postoffice, Louis F. A. F. Masse; minister of labor, M. C. Horon; undersecretary interior, Paul Morel; finance, M. Burley; fine arts, Leon Berard.

The office of under-secretary of the postoffice has been eliminated and a new under-secretaryship of mercantile marine created. This position will be taken by Deputy A. P. de Monsignie.

This has the general approval of President Poincare. It is considered the constitutional crisis due to the victory of Georges Clemenceau in the house was overcome at least for the present.

The make-up of the new cabinet consolidates the Republicans, who were split on the question of proportional representation. This question practically will be dropped for the present by general consent in favor of armaments and other questions, the paramount importance of which is universally admitted, and the deadlock between the senate and the chamber of deputies is ended.

WRECKED AT END OF LONG VOYAGE

Grimsby, England, March 22.—The French bark Marie, from San Francisco to Hull, at the end of her long voyage met with disaster and destruction here. Her captain and crew of twenty-four men were saved by the trawler, Amer.

The Marie went ashore before daybreak at Haisborough, in the North sea, during a blizzard. It was quickly pounded to pieces by terrific winds. The crew was in a desperate plight and had lost hope when the Amer came up, launched a lifeboat and took off the crew, making several perilous trips.

The captain and mate of the Marie refused to leave the ship until every man had been saved. The Amer's lifeboat was too much shattered by the waves to return for them and the steward of the French bark dived from the Amer with a life line and swam to the wreck. He and the captain and mate were ultimately dragged through the sea to the rescuing vessel.

Funeral for King George in London.

London, March 22.—A funeral service for the late King George of Greece was held today at the Greek church here. It was attended by representatives of King George of England, Queen Mother Alexandra and most of the members of the diplomatic corps.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE BY STORM THROUGHOUT ENTIRE MIDDLE WEST

Slow Recovery Is Being Made in Most All Localities.

Warmer Weather Lessens Suffering Among Families Who Lost Homes.

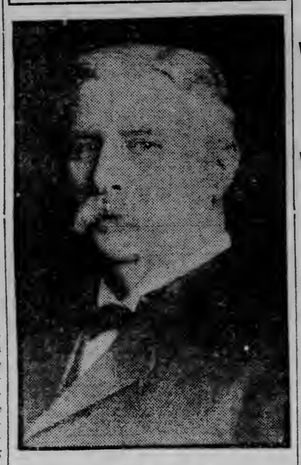
Will Take Weeks Before Damage to Wires Is Completely Repaired.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—Indiana began to recover today from yesterday's wind storm which did damage estimated at a million dolairs, cost two lives, injured a number of persons and paralyzed wire communication throughout the state.

Large gangs of linemen sent out by the telegraph and telephone companies had communication partially restored to many places today but the wires were shaky in several instances.

Warmer weather today lessened the suffering among many families whose homes had been wrecked by the storm. Warm weather is predicted for tomorrow.

Although a number of persons were reported fatally hurt yesterday, no more deaths had been reported today.



Will Take Weeks to Repair.

Chicago, March 22.—So severe was the effect of the sleet storm yesterday on telegraph and telephone wires that it will be several weeks before the damage has been repaired completely. There was some improvement today, but at best telegraphic service was feeble and liable to interruption.

Some curious routings of messages were made necessary by the prostration of the wires. It is only eighty-five miles from Chicago to Milwaukee, but press telegrams from Chicago went from Chicago to Pittsburg and around on a leased wire through Columbus,

TO BE SUPERINTENDENT OF PRISONS IN NEW YORK

JOHN B. RILEY.

New York, March 22.—John B. Riley has been named for superintendent of prisons in New York to succeed Col. Scott, who was removed. Riley was consul general at Ottawa in Cleveland's second term. He was chief examiner of the civil service commission in 1893.

PICTURE MAY BE EXHIBITED

Jury Decides Painting "September Morn" Is Not Lewd.

Chicago, March 22. — "September Morn" as the painting of a well-known artist, depicting a young girl in the nude beside a fountain is not a lewd picture, according to the finding of a jury in the municipal court here yesterday.

Fred D. Jackson, an art dealer, was on trial for displaying in his shop window an alleged indecent picture, which was a copy of the famous original. Among the witnesses called were a priest, several artists, an art critic, probation officers, settlement workers and persons well known in society.

Jackson was acquitted and the picture may be restored to its place in his shop window.

"It is the thought of the subject," asserted Mary M. Balcom, general secretary of the Young People's Civic league, in testifying in the case, "which makes a picture lewd. It is the attitude of mind as it impresses people who see the picture."

"If the girl in this picture merely is thinking of taking a nice little bath," suggested Mr. Jackson, who acted as his own counsel, "would the picture be considered immoral?"

The witness said it would not.

Another Idea.

W. W. Hallam, member of the vice commission, had another idea. He believed that the picture was immodest because it showed the girl bathing in a public place.

Mr. Jackson tried to makeMr. Hallam state what part of the picture he considered indecent.

"There is no particular part," he said, "it arouses sensual feelings in ordinary people."

"Did it in you?"

"Yes," was the reply.

Miss Helen M. E. Jewell, for many years probation officer in Evanston, admitted that she would not consider the picture immoral in the homes of her friends in Evanston.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton said she considered the picture indecent.

Walter B. Smith, an attorney, declared the picture was not immodest, but a work of art.

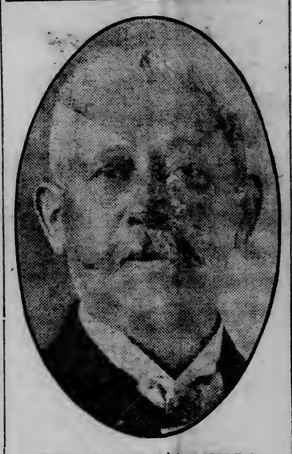
RISKS LIFE TO SAVE HER CAT

St. Paul Woman Rushes Through Fire-Swept Hall to Rescue Feline.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—Mrs. H. Sanger risked her life to save her pet cat from fire in the flat building at 263 West Seventh street, late yesterday. Mrs. Sanger returned from shopping to find the fire department already on hand and smoke issuing from the building. Brushing aside the line of guards, she rushed into the building and groped her way through the hall full of smoke to her apartment, where she found her maltese cat crouched in a corner, mewling for help. Clasping the cat in her arms, Mrs. Sanger made her way back through the smoke into the street, where she became hysterical and fought with those who tried to take the cat from her arms. Two other occupants, Mrs. William Merritt and Mrs. Ida M. Cooke, climbed to a second story window ledge and were about to jump when firemen espied them and induced them to wait until ladders could be raised to bring them down. The fire originated in a basement and the loss was about $5,000.

PROMINENT NEW YORK REPUBLICAN IS DEAD

FRANK S. BLACK.



DIES FROM WOUNDS.

Gen. Sung Succumbs to Wounds Received From Mistaken Assassin.

Shanghai, China, March 22. — Gen. Sung, a former Chinese minister of education, died today from the effects of wounds he received on March 20 when an attempt was made to assassinate him.

Before his death Gen. Sung received a letter telling him that he had been shot by mistake instead of Gen. Huang Sing, commanier-in-chief of the Southern Fu Kien, who also was in the station at the time. The writer hoped that Gen. Sung would have perpetual rest.

PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC OF HONDURAS IS DEAD

GEN. MANUEL BONILLA.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 22.—The news of the death of Gen. Manuel Bonilla, president of Honduras, yesterday, and the transfer of the executive powers to Vice President Dr. Francisco Bertrand, has been received quietly throughout the republic.

ARABS ANNIHILATE FRENCH SOLDIERS

Paris, March 22.—Dispatches today told of the virtual annihilation of a small column of French troops by Arabs in the Aderar region of the Western Sahara.

A body of 3,000 of the intractable Berber tribe of the Awellemid swooped down and surrounded the French detachment which was marching through the shifting sands of the desert about three days' journey from Timbuktu, the French military station.

After a fight lasting all day, the French troops were overcome. Their commander, Lieut. Martin, and four sergeants were killed, together with fifty-three native troopers.

A few troopers escaped on pack horses and brought the news to headquarters. They declared that the Arabs suffered tremendous losses before the ammunition of the French troops was exhausted.

RIP RETURNS AFTER FORTY DAYS.

AUSTRIANS WILL GIVE MONTENEGRINS BUT ONE MORE CHANCE TO SUBMIT

Another Note Will Exhaust All the Possibilities of Diplomacy.

Understood Russia Has Counselled the Montenegrins to Yield.

Berlin, March 22.—The German foreign office learned today that armed operations against Montenegro by the Austrian navy may be expected soon. An Austrian squadron is now maneuvering off the Montenegrin and Albanian coasts.

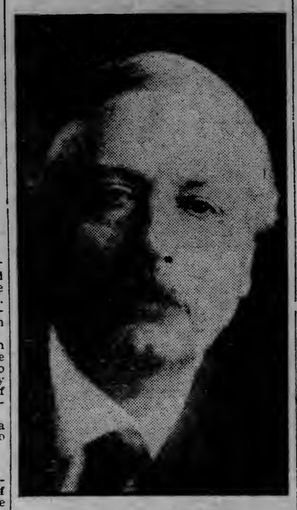
The officials of the German foreign office state that Austria will send one further note to Montenegro so as to exhaust the possibilities of diplomacy before the character of the activity of the warships changes from a demonstration into offensive action.

It is understood here that Russia has counselled the Montenegrins to yield.

Reply General Refusal.

Vienna, March 22.—Beyond promising that the future bombardment of Scutari will be directed against the fortifications and not against the town, Montenegro's reply to Austria's remonstrances, is a refusal to comply with the Austrian demands. The note declares that for military reasons Montenegro must refuse to permit civilians to leave Scutari and that she cannot allow the Austro-Hungarian consul in Scutari to take part in the inquiry into the death of the priest Palic or the alleged coercive conversion of Catholics, declaring that such an investigation by foreign officials would be incompatible with the sovereign rights of the king of Montenegro.

Finally the reply contains some evasive remarks concerning the alleged molestation of the Austrian steamer Skodra at San Giovanni De Medua. Austria demanded the punishment of the military and civil officials responsible for ordering Capt. Biasich to assist in landing Servian troops and war munitions and to help rescue drowning men from transports which the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh had sunk.



FORMER GOVERNOR BLACK OF N. Y. DEAD

Deceased Long Prominent in National Republican Politics.

Troy, N. Y., March 22.—Frank S. Black, long prominent in national Republican politics, died at his home here this morning. Valvular disease of the heart, with which he has been afflicted for some time, was the cause.

Mr. Black was born in Limington, Me., March 8, 1853. He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1873 and was at once time editor of the Johnstown, N. Y., Journal. In 1879 he was admitted to the bar. He served as a member of congress from 1895 to 1897 and occupied the gubernatorial chair from 1897 to 1899. He was prominent in party affairs for many years.

CHIEF OF UNITED STATES WEATHER BUREAU RESIGNS

WILLIS L. MOORE.

Washington, March 22.—Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, resigned today. Secretary Houston accepted the resignation after a talk with President Wilson, to become effective July 31. Prof. Moore is a Democrat and was a candidate for appointment as secretary of agriculture.

DO NOT INTEND TO SURRENDER

Troops in Adrianople Fortress Will Continue Their Defense.

Bulgarian Besiegers Are Making No Progress By Assaults.

Adrianople, March 22.—(By wireless to Constantinople)—Shukri Pasha, the commander of this fortress, and his troops, are determined to continue the defense they have now carried on for five months and all reports as to offers made by them to surrender may be dismissed as pure inventions.

Only starvation and force can capture the garrison. Food is still regularly distributed among the populace by the military authorities and there are considerable supplies.

Perfect order prevails within the city.

Making No Progress.

The Bulgarian besiegers are making no progress and their occasional assaults have been futile. The intermittent bombardment has done no harm to the defending forts.

Discord is said to prevail among the allied armies. The Servians brought up to assist the Bulgarians in the siege, remain idle in their lines and are not participating in any of the active operations.

The report from Sofia that Shukri Pasha had ordered the Greek and Armenian bishops to be hanged because they had drawn attention to the alleged miseries of the population, is groundless. It has aroused much indignation here, the two prelates themselves being most energetic in protesting against the story. They extol the courtesy of the commander, praising his solicitude for the naval and military population of the city.

SENDS DEFIANCE TO GEN. RABAGO

Francisco Villa Invites Federal Commander to Come and Take Him.

El Paso, Tex., March 22.—"Dear Senor Don Gen. Antonio Rabago:

"You have asked for my extradition from the United States. I am now in Mexico, come and get me."

This was the message received here yesterday from Francisco Villa, a former Madero insurrecto general. He wrote from San Andres, in the Guerrero district west of Chihuahua city, the state capital where Gen. Antonio Rabago is located with some 2,000 Federal troops.

Villa, with a few followers, entered the field in Chihuahua state from El Paso, where he had sojourned since his escape from Mexico City. He had been imprisoned at the national capital by order of Gen. Huerta, now provisional president.

Jose Inez Salazar, another Madero ex-insurrecto leader, is reported to have secured a concession in the Casas Grandes district, southwest of Juarez. Salazar's troops will occupy Casas Grandes on the withdrawal of all Federal soldiers. He will be made military governor of the district.

Vetoed By Governor.

Olympia, Wash., March 22.—Governor Lister vetoed today a bill making three years living apart a ground for divorce. The governor said that public demand was for restriction of divorce and not for laws making it easier.

MAY ARREST ANOTHER IN EATON CASE

Intimate Damaging Evidence Has Been Revealed to Prosecutor.

Plymouth, Mass., March 22.—Another person may be brought here under arrest in connection with the gradual unfolding of the mysterious murder of Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton. This is taken from the statement of State Officer Scott and the continued activity of the police.

While Mrs. Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, is carefully guarded in the woman's wing of the county jail here, the authorities are endeavoring to expedite her trial in every possible way.

District Attorney Barker has already obtained from Chief Justice Aikin in Boston an order for a special session of the grand jury next week. If an indictment is found against Mrs. Eaton, the case will go directly before the superior court and the hearing set for March 28 at Hingham will be omitted.

At the Eaton home in Assinippi, Mrs. George Harrison, mother of Mrs. Eaton, is said to have requested that the details of the murder be withheld from her. Miss Dorothy Eaton and Mrs. June Keyes were still in ignorance of the arrest. The will, said to have been made by Admiral Eaton, following the scandal three years ago, when Mrs. Eaton accused him of having poisoned their adopted child, in which it is reported he cut off his wife and Mrs. Keyes, leaving all his property to his other stepdaughter, Dorothy, had not been found yesterday.

EIGHT BOYS GET AWAY FROM SCHOOL

Escape From Red Wing By Means of Sheets Tied Together.

Red Wing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officers of the state training school today are searching for eight boys who escaped at 2 o'clock this morning by the use of two dozen sheets. The boys tied the sheets together, making a strong rope which they threw from a window on the third floor of the reformatory. Down the rope they slid one at a time, and disappeared in the timber nearby.

So carefully had they planned their escape that a guard on the third floor did not learn of their departure until informed by one lad who remained behind.

Six Caught at Winona.

Winona, Minn., March 22.—Six of the eight boys who escaped from the state training school at Red Wing early this morning were found by the police here in a box car on an eastbound Milwaukee & St. Paul freight train. They were only thinly clad and were suffering severely from the cold. They will probably be returned to Red Wing today.

STEAMERS CRASH IN HEAVY FOG

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 22.—The revenue cutter Itasca left Wood's Hole today to assist the steamers City of Macon and James S. Whitney, which were in collision in a heavy fog in Vineyard sound late last night. The steamers anchored after the accident.

An eight-foot hole was torn in the side of the City of Macon above the water line and the bow of the Whitney was broken in when the steamers crashed. No one was injured.

The City of Macon was bound from Savannah to Boston with a few passengers and a cargo of freight. The Whitney was bound from New York to Boston with freight.

GOVERNOR GENERAL WRONGFULLY OUSTED

Lord Denman Should Have Been Allowed His Home, Says Court.

Melbourne, March 22.—That Lord Denman, the governor general without a home was wrongfully ejected from his headquarters at Sydney by the state government, was the decision of the full supreme court today.

Great stir was caused recently throughout the commonwealth when the labor government of New South Wales threw the governor general, his wife and family, together with their baggage, out of the government house at Maquar place as the result of a state election.

Lord Denman had perforce to move to this city and the government of the mother state of the commonwealth was heartily condemned for its action.

The premises in question had been used for many years as the home of governors of the state, until a few months ago, when the labor government declared the property should be used as a public park.

Do Not Be Discouraged—Go and See
DR. MITCHELL
HE CAN CURE YOU!
The cures that Dr. Mitchell has made are very remarkable. Many have been published in the daily papers the past fifteen years, and but for reliable witnesses, would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away their crutches and walked about after one or two treatments; the sick that have tried everything else and given up to die have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin disease and bladder troubles disappear. Headaches, nervousness, fevers, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis, affections of any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. Dr. Mitchell's treatments purify the entire system and perfect health is restored.

FIRST REPLY FROM KAPLAN

Socialist Candidate Takes a Running Jump on Stirrup Club.

Challenges Members to "Produce Goods" and Prove Statements.

Morris Kaplan, Socialist candidate for mayor, is the first to reply to the report of the Stirrup club, which is published in full in another column of The Herald.

Mr. Kaplan takes a running jump on the members of the club individually and collectively and challenges them to "produce the goods."

"An open letter to the people of Duluth:

"The Stirrup club, which is of very recent and doubtful origin, and which pretends to have been organized to save the morality of the people of this city, and which numbers in its freak membership lawyers in the pay of big capital and lawyers without a clientage, real estate speculators who have the itchy palm with the desire to unload upon a credulous public, mining stock promoters and a number of other business parasites, but have not one bona fide wage-worker in its rank of membership, have gone on record that I am 'unsafe' and 'without qualification for any office.'

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to produce the 'goods' that will show that I am not morally and in every other way as capable, as honorable, as upright, as well-intentioned, to look after the best interests of the people of Duluth as any other candidate for the position, and more qualified than some.

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to controvert my contention that if I am elected to the mayoralty that I would not use my every endeavor to in every way better the living and working conditions of the wage workers of this city. I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to disprove my contention that in every city, town and village where men of my political faith have been elected to executive office that they have not fulfilled their obligations honestly and efficiently and economically and to the best interests of the commonweal.

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to arrange a symposium between the mayoralty candidates that they have indorsed and myself, such meeting to be held in some large hall in this city, time to be equally divided.

"I here any now pledge myself to withdraw from the race if I cannot at such meeting prove myself to be the one and only candidate for mayor that is pledged to an out-and-out working class program, which essentially would have the tendency to build up and develop the city morally, physically and geographically, if backed up by men elected as commissioner associates that will stand with me in my endeavors. Should the Stirrup club decline to make such arrangements, I will take it for granted that bias and class prejudice rather than common sense and justice guided this club in their conclusions.

"MORRIS KAPLAN."

LARSEN
Gets Down to Hard Facts!
Does Not Believe in Generalities; Tells Some Definite Reforms He Advocates.

Duluth, Minn., March 22, 1913.

To the Public:—

All candidates thus far, who have advanced any platform, agree upon the necessity of enforcing existing laws and ordinances, and seem ready to answer Yes to all questions propounded that tend towards making these laws and ordinances more strict than ever; all of which is to be commended. None, thus far, however, have advanced any original ideas as to other phases of city government, except public ownership and economy. They all agree that strict economy should be practiced, but do not say how they propose to accomplish same.

In addition to my stand in favor of public ownership of all public utilities at the earliest possible date, I wish to submit two measures which I know will be of great economy not only to the taxpayer but the city at large; viz, the collection of garbage and the abatement of smoke.

I am prepared to formulate a smoke ordinance that will enforce itself by less cost of fuel, and at the same time do away with smoke. This I have done at the schools, and the same can be done with any other plant. This ordinance would be so framed as to compel plant owners to furnish the city department with plans of their plant and furnaces. The City Government should assist the plant owner to solve the problem, rather than try to compel him to do something which he does not know how to do, and when he can see where fuel can be saved, there will be no trouble in enforcing the ordinance; and thousands of dollars will be saved that are now wasted by damage to buildings, stocks of goods, clothing, books, etc.

Next in importance comes the collection and disposal of the garbage. This can be made self-sustaining, and more—it can be made to pay the city a handsome revenue, by converting dry garbage into steam to run street lights and rock drills, and rock crusher for cutting West Superior street through the Point of Rocks. The garbage that is too wet to burn can be composed and sold as fertilizer for lawns, gardens, etc., at a good profit. Thus the city can be cleaned of smoke and garbage, with profit to some, without any great burden upon anyone, and with a great blessing to all.

Yours for a clean city in every respect.

L. A. LARSEN,
Candidate for Commissioner, Short Term.

CULLUM PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO CLUB

Says They Indorsed Men Who Did Not Deserve It.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Stirrup club has indorsed a number of good men. They have also indorsed men who have openly declared for violation of the law; they have indorsed men who have openly declared for segregation; they have indorsed men who will not commit themselves on this point; they have indorsed men who are flirting with the saloon vote; they have indorsed men for mayor who opposed this form of government a short time ago; they have indorsed men who would be untrustworthy, a fact known to many members of the Stirrup club; they have left unmentioned men of good character.

They say I am running on my record alone, which is not true, but if they are going to pose as public mentors and are capable of judging, they ought also to condemn my record if they believe it to be bad. Yours,

M. B. CULLUM.

MANY BALLOTS WILL BE VOID

Citizen Wants Candidates to Explain New System of Voting.

The fact that straw votes show an unusual number of spoiled ballots and the questions asked of the city clerk, candidates and the newspapers indicate that there is still a great amount of uncertainty about the provisons of the preferential system of voting.

A man interested in the election made the suggestion this morning that all candidates, or at least one candidate speaking at each meeting, include in his talk an explanation of the ballot and the rules for voting.

It is variously estimated that the number of void ballots on election day will run from 15 to 30 per cent, an unusually large number. However, the new voting system is an unfamiliar one and unless the voters are thoroughly instructed they are likely to make serious mistakes.

BERGER WILL SPEAK FOR THE SOCIALISTS.

Victor Berger, former congressman from Milwaukee, will make one speech for the Socialist candidates in Duluth, speaking at the Armory Sunday afternoon, March 30.

The Socialist candidates have arranged the following meetings for the remainder of the campaign: Sunday afternoon, Maccabee hall, New Duluth; Monday evening, 1627 London road and 431 East Fourth street; Tuesday evening, Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street; and Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street; Wednesday evening, 522 Mesaba avenue; Thursday evening, 104 West Second street and Polish Independent church, Third avenue east and Fifth street; Friday evening, Victor hall, West Duluth; Sunday afternoon, Armory with Victor L. Berger as speaker; Sunday, 8 p. m., Forester's hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, Jewish meeting; Monday evening, March 31, Toverila hall, 438 Lake avenue south.

WILL FIX RESPONSIBILITY FOR UNSIGHTLY STREETS

Roderick Murchison, secretary of the board of public works, who is a candidate for commissioner for the short term, declares that he can fix the responsibility for unsightly condition of the streets.

Mr. Murchison says that under the old charter as well as under the new the departments could form a working arrangement that would prevent unsightly results from excavations. He says that the board of public works and the water and light department had such a working arrangement.

He says:

"You will perhaps inquire why, if it was such an easy matter, no system was adopted that would insure proper work. Nearly ten years ago, during one of the periodical outbursts against the management of this work, I prepared in detail a plan under which all such work should be done by an organization within the department. It was a simple matter to arrange, but, of course, I could do nothing further than place it in the hands of the officials authorized to act.

"As to the practicability of the plan, I will say that if I were authorized to do so, I would centralize responsibility for excavations in streets inside of a month. I would do it in accordance with the plan prepared ten years ago, and I should be quite willing to be held personally responsible for the character and management of the work."

McEWEN COMPLETES HIS ORGANIZATION.

At a meeting of W. E. McEwen's supporters at Kalamazoo hall last evening, the organization of his campaign committee was completed. Charles A. McEwen, the candidate's brother, was chosen campaign manager and an executive committee consisting of the chairmen of the ward committees was chosen. The ward chairmen will appoint precinct workers, three to each precinct.

Mr. McEwen made a short talk in which he outlined the grounds of his campaign.

Mr. McEwen will speak at the following places next week:

Monday evening, Duluth Heights fire hall.

Tuesday evening, open meeting of carpenters' union at Moose hall, 221 West First street, W. E. McEwen, Alex Kennedy and representative of Municipal Ownership league to speak.

Wednesday evening, Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

Thursday evening, West Duluth.

Friday evening, Moose hall, McEwen, Kennedy and representative of Municipal Ownership league to speak.

SEVERAL CAMPAIGN MEETINGS SCHEDULED.

Several campaign meetings are scheduled for tonight. The candidates are busy fixing up their dates for next week and the final days of the campaign will keep the voters busy keeping a line on campaign utterances and activities.

D. H. Day will speak tonight at the Lakeside town hall at 8 o'clock. He will explain the preferential system of voting and make a plea for the election of candidates favorable to municipal ownership.

M. B. Cullum will speak tonight at Oneota hall, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fifth street. "Efficiency" will be the subject.

W. I. Prince will hold a conference with his workers at his headquarters in the Torrey building tonight, and will make a talk outlining his stand on issues.

P. E. Dowling will speak tomorrow evening at the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street.

W. I. Prince will speak Monday evening before the Jewish society at Coffin's academy, Lake avenue north and First street.

Another Straw Vote.

A straw vote was taken at the barber shop of R. P. Jentoft, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street this week, and the result was reported this morning. The results show strong sentiment for West end candidates.

For mayor, the total of the first, second and third choice votes follows: Sears, 54; McEwen, 37; Silberstein, 37; Prince, 34; Day, 27; Cullum, 21; Getchell, 18; Kaplan, 15; Dowling, 13; Nesbitt, 7.

For long term commissioner, the total of the three votes is: Preston, 99; Voss, 7; Merritt, 67; McCormick, 43; Armstead, 41; Phillips, 22; Graff, 17; Towne, 16; Wesenberg, 14; Dunphy, 8; Smith, 6.

In the short term vote, Stevens led with 81 for his total. Bernard had 37, Kennedy 32, Wheeler 29, Hicken 23 and Cumming, Hoar and Olson 22 each. The other votes were badly scattered.

RAILROADS MUST MAKE CONNECTION

Soo and Great Northern Ordered to Connect Along Wheat Line.

Bismarck, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state railroad commission today ordered the Great Northern and the Soo railways to establish physical connections at intersecting points along the Wheat line of the Soo between Thief River Falls, Minn., and Kenmare, N. D. The establishment of the joint tariffs based on the shortest hauling distance between points on the two lines also is ordered. This decision grows out of the application of the National Briquetting company for a billing of coal shipments over the cheapest and shortest route and which application was resisted by the Great Northern.

ENGINEERS ARRIVE.

Look Over Work at Carlton Preliminary to Operations.

Carlton, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. W. Stickney, Northern Pacific engineer, arrived on Monday to take charge of the new work that is to be done here this summer. He was accompanied by a number of other engineers and will do the preliminary work now, as nothing can be done with the actual survey until the snow is off the ground. Mr. Stickney had charge of the building of the new Northern Pacific ore docks at Allouez. As soon as the people in the houses west of town move out the company will install their offices there, but the men will live in Carlton. Mr. Stickney expects to be busy here for a year or two. The construction of the roundhouse, machine shops, blacksmith shops and other buildings will be let out on contract. The company is also preparing to install a block signal system between the Twin Cities and the Head of the Lakes and work on this will be commenced as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

Railroad Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKinnon left last night for Winnipeg to spend a few days with friends. Mr. McKinnon is general agent of the Canadian Northern road here.

W. J. Power, assistant general freight agent of the Great Northern, who is ill in St. Mary's hospital, is said to be much improved today.

OHAHA RAILWAY CO. IS LOADING TIES.

Couderay, Wis., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Omaha Railway company has a train and crew of men loading ties along the track in this locality. There is about 200,000 ties or 1,200 car loads in all to load out.

The loggers and settlers get the ties out during the winter and their product find a ready market.

Easter Novelties.

None nicer than Huot's.

Strike at New South Wales.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 22.—With the metropolis crowded for the Easter racing show carnival, deckhands and engineers of the Sydney ferries, which tap practically every crowded suburb of the city, struck today, throwing the public into indescribable confusion and tying up traffic.

Blockade Raised.

Washington, March 22.—The Greek government has raised a blockade on the coast of Epirus from Prevesea northward to 40 deg., 4 min. north latitude, according to official reports today from the American legation at Athens.

The cures that Dr. Mitchell has made are very remarkable. Many have been published in the daily papers the past fifteen years, and but for reliable witnesses, would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away their crutches and walked about after one or two treatments; the sick that have tried everything else and given up to die have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin disease and bladder troubles disappear. Headaches, nervousness, fevers, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis, affections of any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. Dr. Mitchell's treatments purify the entire system and perfect health is restored.

FIRST REPLY FROM KAPLAN

Challenges Members to "Produce Goods" and Prove Statements.

Morris Kaplan, Socialist candidate for mayor, is the first to reply to the report of the Stirrup club, which is published in full in another column of The Herald.

Mr. Kaplan takes a running jump on the members of the club individually and collectively and challenges them to "produce the goods."

"An open letter to the people of Duluth:

"The Stirrup club, which is of very recent and doubtful origin, and which pretends to have been organized to save the morality of the people of this city, and which numbers in its freak membership lawyers in the pay of big capital and lawyers without a client—ace, real estate speculators who have the itchy palm with the desire to unload upon a credulous public, mining stock promoters and a number of other business parasites, but have not one bona fide wage-worker in its rank of membership, have gone on record that I am 'unsafe' and 'without qualification for any office.'

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to produce the 'goods' that will show that I am not morally and in every other way as capable, as honorable, as upright, as well-intentioned, to look after the best interests of the people of Duluth as any other candidate for the position, and more qualified than some.

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to controvert my contention that if I am elected to the mayoralty that I would not use my every endeavor to in every way better the living and working conditions of the wage workers of this city. I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to disprove my contention that in every city, town and village where men of my political faith have been elected to executive office that they have not fulfilled their obligations honestly and efficiently and economically and to the best interests of the commonweal.

"I here and now challenge this club, individually and collectively, to arrange a symposium between the mayoralty candidates that they have indorsed and myself, such meeting to be held in some large hall in this city, time to be equally divided.

"I here any now pledge myself to withdraw from the race if I cannot at such meeting prove myself to be the one and only candidate for mayor that is pledged to an out-and-out working class program, which essentially would have the tendency to build up and develop the city morally, physically and geographically, if backed up by men elected as commissioner associates that will stand with me in my endeavors. Should the Stirrup club decline to make such arrangements, I will take it for granted that bias and class prejudice rather than common sense and justice guided this club in their conclusions.

"MORRIS KAPLAN."

BERGER WILL SPEAK FOR THE SOCIALISTS.

Victor Berger, former congressman from Milwaukee, will make one speech for the Socialist candidates in Duluth, speaking at the Armory Sunday afternoon, March 30.

The Socialist candidates have arranged the following meetings for the remainder of the campaign: Sunday afternoon, Maccabee hall, New Duluth; Monday evening, 1627 London road and 431 East Fourth street; Tuesday evening, Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street and Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street; Wednesday evening, 822 Mesaba avenue; Thursday evening, 104 West Second street and Polish Independent church, Third avenue east and Fifth street; Friday evening, Victor hall, West Duluth; Sunday afternoon, Armory with Victor L. Berger as speaker; Sunday, 8 p. m., Forester's hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, Jewish meeting; Monday evening, March 31, Tovarlia hall, 138 Lake avenue south.

LARSEN

Gets Down to Hard Facts!

Does Not Believe in Generalities; Tells Some Definite Reforms He Advocates.

Duluth, Minn., March 22, 1913.

To the Public:—

All candidates thus far, who have advanced any platform, agree upon the necessity of enforcing existing laws and ordinances, and seem ready to answer Yes to all questions propounded that tend towards making these laws and ordinances more strict than ever; all of which is to be commended. None, thus far, however, have advanced any original ideas as to other phases of city government, except public ownership and economy. They all agree that strict economy should be practiced, but do not say how they propose to accomplish same.

In addition to my stand in favor of public ownership of all public utilities at the earliest possible date, I wish to submit two measures which I know will be of great economy not only to the taxpayer but the city at large; viz, the collection of garbage and the abatement of smoke.

I am prepared to formulate a smoke ordinance that will enforce itself by less cost of fuel, and at the same time do away with smoke. This I have done at the schools, and the same can be done with any other plant. This ordinance would be so framed as to compel plant owners to furnish the city department with plans of their plant and furnaces. The City Government should assist the plant owner to solve the problem, rather than try to compel him to do something which he does not know how to do, and when he can see where fuel can be saved, there will be no trouble in enforcing the ordinance; and thousands of dollars will be saved that are now wasted by damage to buildings, stocks of goods, clothing, books, etc.

Next in importance comes the collection and disposal of the garbage. This can be made self-sustaining, and more—it can be made to pay the city a handsome revenue, by converting dry garbage into steam to run street lights and rock drills, and rock crusher for cutting West Superior street through the Point of Rocks. The garbage that is too wet to burn can be composed and sold as fertilizer for lawns, gardens, etc., at a good profit. Thus the city can be cleaned of smoke and garbage, with profit to some, without any great burden upon anyone, and with a great blessing to all.

Yours for a clean city in every respect.

CULLUM PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO CLUB

Says They Indorsed Men Who Did Not Deserve It.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Stirrup club has indorsed a number of good men. They have also indorsed men who have openly declared for violation of the law; they have indorsed men who have openly declared for segregation; they have indorsed men who will not commit themselves on this point; they have indorsed men who are flirting with the saloon vote; they have indorsed men for mayor who opposed this form of government a short time ago; they have indorsed men who would be untrustworthy, a fact known to many members of the Stirrup club; they have left unmentioned men of good character.

They say I am running on my record alone, which is not true, but if they are going to pose as public mentors and are capable of judging, they ought also to condemn my record if they believe it to be bad. Yours,

M. B. CULLUM.

MANY BALLOTS WILL BE VOID

Citizen Wants Candidates to Explain New System of Voting.

The fact that straw votes show an unusual number of spoiled ballots and the questions asked of the city clerk, candidates and the newspapers indicate that there is still a great amount of uncertainty about the provisons of the preferential system of voting.

A man interested in the election made the suggestion this morning that all candidates, or at least one candidate speaking at each meeting, include in his talk an explanation of the ballot and the rules for voting.

It is variously estimated that the number of void ballots on election day will run from 15 to 30 per cent, an unusually large number. However, the new voting system is an unfamiliar one and unless the voters are thoroughly instructed they are likely to make serious mistakes.

WILL FIX RESPONSIBILITY FOR UNSIGHTLY STREETS

Roderick Murchison, secretary of the board of public works, who is a candidate for commissioner for the short term, declares that he can fix the responsibility for unsightly condition of the streets.

Mr. Murchison says that under the old charter as well as under the new the departments could form a working arrangement that would prevent unsightly results from excavations. He says that the board of public works and the water and light department had such a working arrangement.

He says:

"You will perhaps inquire why, if it was such as easy matter, no system was adopted that would insure proper work. Nearly ten years ago, during one of the periodical outbursts against the management of this work, I prepared in detail a plan under which all such work should be done by an organization within the department. It was a simple matter to arrange, but, of course, I could do nothing further than place it in the hands of the officials authorized to act.

"As to the practicability of the plan, I will say that if I were authorized to do so, I would centralize responsibility for excavations in streets inside of a month. I would do it in accordance with the plan prepared ten years ago, and I should be quite willing to be held personally responsible for the character and management of the work."

McEWEN COMPLETES HIS ORGANIZATION.

At a meeting of W. E. McEwen's supporters at Kalamazoo hall last evening, the organization of his campaign committee was completed. Charles A. McEwen, the candidate's brother, was chosen campaign manager and an executive committee consisting of the chairmen of the ward committees was chosen. The ward chairmen will appoint precinct workers, three to each precinct.

Mr. McEwen made a short talk in which he outlined the grounds of his campaign.

Mr. McEwen will speak at the following places next week:

Monday evening, Duluth Heights fire hall.

Tuesday evening, open meeting of carpenters' union at Moose hall, 221 West First street, W. E. McEwen, Alex Kennedy and representative of Municipal Ownership league to speak.

Wednesday evening, Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

Thursday evening, West Duluth.

Friday evening, Moose hall, McEwen, Kennedy and representative of Municipal Ownership league to speak.

SEVERAL CAMPAIGN MEETINGS SCHEDULED.

Several campaign meetings are scheduled for tonight. The candidates are busy fixing up their dates for next week and the final days of the campaign will keep the voters busy keeping a line on campaign utterances and activities.

D. H. Day will speak tonight at the Lakeside town hall at 8 o'clock. He will explain the preferential system of voting and make a plea for the election of candidates favorable to municipal ownership.

M. B. Cullum will speak tonight at Oneota hall, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fifth street. "Efficiency" will be the subject.

W. I. Prince will hold a conference with his workers at his headquarters in the Torrey building tonight, and will make a talk outlining his stand on issues.

P. E. Dowling will speak tomorrow evening at the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street.

W. I. Prince will speak Monday evening before the Jewish society at Coffin's academy, Lake avenue north and First street.

Another Straw Vote.

A straw vote was taken at the barber shop of R. P. Jentoft, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street this week, and the result was reported this morning. The results show strong sentiment for West end candidates.

For mayor, the total of the first, second and third choice votes follows: Fay, 54; McEwen, 37; Silberstein, 37; Prince, 34; Day, 27; Cullum, 2; Getchell, 18; Kaplan, 15; Dowling, 13; Nesbitt, 7.

For long term commissioner, the total of the three votes is: Preston, 99; Voss, 7; Merritt, 67; McCormick, 43; Armstead, 41; Phillips, 22; Graff, 17; Towne, 16; Wesenberg, 14; Dunphy, 8; Smith, 6.

In the short term vote, Stevens led with 81 for his total. Bernard had 37, Kennedy 32, Wheeler 29, Hicken 23 and Cumming, Hoar and Olson 22 each. The other votes were badly scattered.

"SPIKE" MOST ENTHUSIASTIC

Says Virginia Has Best Bunch of Fans He Ever Saw.

"Spike" Shannon, the recently appointed manager of the Virginia team of the new Northern league, was in Duluth for a few hours today, en route from Virginia to Minneapolis. Shannon has a large list of prospective players he is going to try out. Upon his arrival at Minneapolis it is his intention to select the spot where the Queen City bunch will do the training for the opening of the season.

One of the most famous players in the history of the game, playing in the outfield for the Giants alongside of Mike Donlin and Cy Seymour, Shannon should prove one of the most successful managers in the new league. He knows the game from the beginning to the end and has always been regarded as one of the headiest players in the game.

"While it is somewhat early for me to predict anything regarding the team that is going to represent Virginia, I believe we are going to be in the race from the very start of the season," said Shannon. "If we are in the hunt from the start it is my opinion that we will draw the best of any team in the league. There is a population of 60,000 to draw from up there, and during all my experience in baseball I have never seen a more enthusiastic bunch of fans.

"Virginia is in the baseball market for the very best. The business men of that city are solidly behind the team and we are going to make an awfully earnest effort to haul down the bunting the first year we are in organized baseball."

Manager Shannon left on the early afternoon train for the Twin Cities. He will return to the range possibly some time during the coming week, when all of the arrangements will be completed regarding the spring training trip and other details incident to the start of the players to the training camp.

MAY EMBARRASS NEW YORK CLUB

Lipton May Show Members Up as Poor Sportsmen.

New York, March 22.—The reconsideration which the Royal Ulster Yacht club has asked the New York Yacht club to make of its refusal to accept the Lipton challenge for the American cup may place the New York club in an embarrassing corner. It is indicated that Sir Thomas will eliminate any condition from his challenge but challenging with a 75-footer he will enter a race, if it is possible to obtain one, against any challenger from sixty to ninety feet in length, as provided in the deed of gift of the America's cup.

Yachtsmen expressed the opinion today that if this proposition was made the New York club would be forced to accept the challenge and if a ninety foot boat was used as the defender, the race would be so much of a farce that American yachtsmen would be held up to ridicule. It was reported today that the New York club might reply to the Royal Ulster club as early as Monday next, although the regular meeting of the club is not scheduled until Thursday.

"LEFTY" DAVIS HAS SIGNED WITH WINONA.

According to the announcement received from Minneapolis "Lefty" Davis has been signed as the manager of the Winona Northern league team. It is stated that the veteran outfielder of the Pittsburg and New York teams signed his contract last evening and will immediately take charge of the work of signing a fast bunch of players. As Davis is well acquainted with the baseball talent in this part of the country and is accounted an excellent judge of the playing ability of a performer, it is generally believed that he will give the city beautiful one of the best teams in the league.

WILL REVIVE SPORT OF BOWLING ON GREEN

It is expected that "bowling on the green" sport will be revived in Duluth this year.

This was started last summer, but as it was a new game then to most people, it did not develop to any great extent. During the coming season it is expected that the fine, old sport which has just been introduced in Duluth will not only be resumed from last year, but will be developed. There are already two greens in Duluth and it is believed that this coming summer there will be many more, for the game took hold, particularly in the Woodland district.

MAY LOCATE FACTORY HERE

George Tierney of Minneapolis has placed on exhibition at Duluth the model of a new style of furnace, designed to solve the smoke nuisance and cheapen the cost of heating. Mr. Tierney is a member of the Minneapolis firm of Smith & Tierney, holders of the patent of the new style of heater, which has been invented by the other member of the firm, A. P. Smith.

A roughly made model, but one that illustrates the plan on which the new furnace works, is on exhibition at the shop of Burrell & Harmon at 308 East Superior street. It was at the request of Mr. Harmon that the model was brought to Duluth. Smith & Tierney are seeking to get men of capital interested in building a factory somewhere for the manufacture of the new kind of heaters.

It is claimed that the new furnace is not only a heater but also a consumer of gas and soot to such an extent that no dense black smoke ever issues from the chimney. It is maintained that this furnace produces as much heat from a ton of soft coal as an ordinary furnace will from a ton of hard coal, and that a single firing can be made to last from thirty-six to forty hours.

The principal on which the furnace works is simple. The fire is fed with air from above, instead of below, and the fire-pot has its vent below, instead of above. Thus any gas or soot that happen to arise from the fire cannot find an outlet into the chimney without being drawn down by the downward draught through the fire itself and thus are perfectly consumed. There is perfect combustion and no dense black smoke can go out from the fire-pot through the vents that are below the main part of the fire itself.

An attempt is being made to interest the Duluth Commercial club in the new device. Mr. Harmon this morning asked as many members of the club as he could reach to go to the shop this afternoon to inspect the furnace and this afternoon quite a gathering assembled there for this purpose.

Mr. Tierney has been in the city working on the project since last Thursday. He will leave for Minneapolis tomorrow morning.

TRAFFIC MEN ON ANXIOUS SEAT

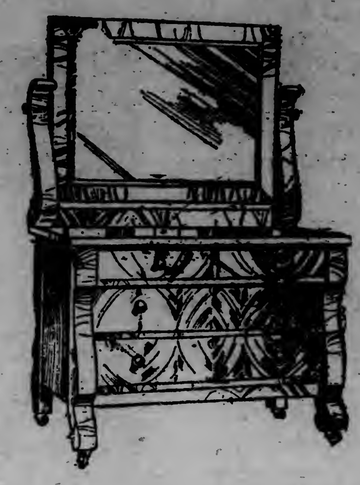
The railroads entering Duluth are waiting as anxiously for the opening of navigation as are the vessel men. That is when the big shipping season begins and the lake-and-rail business will start. Every freight manager of railroads entering here is expecting an immense season. Said one this morning:

"We fear that the season will be late and if so it means a much greater rush for us than is usually the case. We all expect a season for 1913 that will out-class all previous ones and because everything points that way and for the further reason that we know that much business is held at the lower lake ports for transportation by water this way, and other business where we will take it on our cars for distribution throughout the Northwest, we are anxious to see the lakes open up. Otherwise it is going to crowd a lot of business into a short space of time and that is what we fervently hope can be avoided. We already know of numerous large contracts for movement which will require capacity and the sooner this starts the better for all concerned. But I fear that we will have to wait until at least April 15 before we hear that the Soo is open."

PUBLISHERS WILL MOVE TO DULUTH

The Tyomies Publishing company, which has heretofore operated from Hancock, Mich., will move its plant to Duluth and issue its publications from this city. Superior mailing facilities and the fact that Duluth is the center of development, which is bringing many Finnish people to this section of the country, are the reasons for the change.



The company has purchased a site on the corner of Sixth avenue west and Second street and will soon begin the erection of a building costing about $30,000. The equipment will be worth $40,000.

The company issues a daily paper with a circulation of about 15,000, a bi-weekly comic paper and it will issue a farm and home monthly after establishing here. All of its publications will be in the Finnish language.

The company has been in correspondence for some time with Dr. B. M. Rastall, secretary of the industrial bureau of the Commercial club, and matters are now in such shape that he made the announcement of the plans.

In 1911 steam and electric railroads of the United States used 11,041,000 crosslies.

NEED MORE SPACE IN POSTOFFICE

Congressman Miller Working to Secure Needed Appropriation.

Postmaster A. F. Cook says that he has not heard in several weeks from Congressman Miller regarding the attempt the congressman is making to obtain for Duluth a new postoffice building. Mr. Cook has been in communication with the congressman for some time regarding this matter, and Mr. Miller will endeavor to obtain for the Duluth postoffice at least additional quarters, for the parcel post is forcing this and its growth is beginning to make things uncomfortable. Mr. Cook says that Congressman Miller is waiting to see what the extra session will do about increases of this kind all over the country.

WHY GAMBLE OR TAKE CHANCES?

Do not overlook the fact that the short term commissioners will play as important a part in the city government as the mayor or the long term men.

For two years the short term commissioners will have two votes which will count as heavily as the other three votes.

WM. L. BERNARD.

The record of William L. Bernard is an open book. The people know where he stands. His public career speaks for progressive principles and independence.

In voting for William L. Bernard for short term commissioner, the voters will KNOW they are getting a man of whose position and attitude on all matters of vital interest to Duluth no doubt exists.

STIRRUP CLUB MEMBERS REPORT ON CANDIDATES FOR CITY COMMISSION

Prepare Statement to Be Mailed to Every Voter in Duluth.

Contains Severe Arraignment of Several of the Candidates.

Report Based on Questions Asked Candidates and Their Records.

The Stirrup club, an organization of business and professional men who meet weekly for the discussion of public questions, has prepared an estimate of the candidates for the commission.

The members of the club claim that it is a fair estimate based on the present views and past records of the candidates. The views were obtained by writting letters to the candidates, submitting a list of questions, and by close scrutiny of the records of the men. The answers were considered by the club, reports were made on each candidate, and the estimate was drawn up for the consideration of the voters.

A copy of the report will be mailed to each voter in the city, and the members of the club hope to prevent the election of candidates whom they consider undesirable.

The report is published by The Herald tonight in full, without either the indorsement or disapproval of The Herald. It follows:

To the Citizens of Duluth:

Commission government is representative government. The efficiency and permanence of such government is determined by the character of the representatives. Duluth is about to choose her first commissioners. The selection of a first commission composed of men of heart, conscience and brains will establish here the principle that public office is a sacred trust to be fulfilled only by serving the common good, and will mark the way to our city's intended destiny.

To aid the people of Duluth in the coming election, the Stirrup club has thoroughly investigated the record of each of the candidates for the commission, and has in writting submitted to each the following questions, namely:

1. (a) "Are you in favor of municipal ownership of all public utilities?
   (b) "Will you use your best endeavors to at once establish by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant in the city of Duluth for municipal and commercial purposes?
   (c) "Will you use your best endeavors to establish municipal docks in the city of Duluth at the earliest possible time?
2. "Will you, if elected, use your best endeavors to pass and enforce an ordinance prohibiting the granting or renewing of a license to sell intoxicating liquors in any building in the city for a period of one year from the date of the conviction of any person for the violation of any liquor law or ordinance in such building?
3. "Are you in favor of the abolishment of the so-called red light or segregated district?
4. "Are you in favor of an eight-hour day for municipal work done for or by the city, at the current and usual wages prevailing at the time the work is performed?"

Forty-seven of the candidates returned written answers to these questions, and eleven failed to reply.

Based upon information gained from the written answers to our questions, and from the investigations which we have made, we beg to submit herewith the following information and recommendations:

Marcus B. Cullum, 2726 East Superior Street—
Formerly a dentist, now engaged in real estate business. Mayor of Duluth for three terms; was twice defeated for said office. Member of charter commission which framed new charter. Answering questions submitted, declares in favor of municipal ownership, and promises to use best endeavors to establish municipal electric light plant. Opposes ordinance penalizing buildings for liquor law violations, as suggested in question No. 2. Expresses doubt as to best method of handling vice, but does not oppose segregation. Favors eight-hour day. Stands on his record, which is so well known to the people of Duluth as to require no special comment.

David H. Day, 1231 East Superior Street—
Dentist; has not held public office; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership and law enforcement; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; makes no public statement on question of segregation; favors eight-hour day; was an active campaigner in municipal electric light plant bond issue; championed initiative, referendum and recall charter amendment; vigorously supported commission form of government; has written and spoken much on many questions of good government; we believe that he is qualified for the office which he seeks.

P. E. Dowling, 1839 Woodland Avenue—
Real estate dealer; has resided in Duluth for about three years; former mayor of Eveleth; former member of state legislature; has not answered questions submitted; while mayor of Eveleth allowed flagrant violations of liquor law and permitted disorderly houses to operate; claims saloons, commercialized vice and municipal ownership are not issues in this campaign; nothing in his platform or record qualifies him for the office which he seeks; his candidacy is indorsed by the Loyal Liberty Protective league hereinafter referred to.

Marcus L. Fay, 2105 East Superior Street—
Mine owner and real estate dealer; former mayor of Virginia, Minnesota; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership and law enforcement; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; on vice question, believes elimination of liquor would kill 75 per cent of the evil, and that the rest would die a natural death; while mayor of Virginia used vigorous means to enforce the liquor laws and to abolish disorderly houses; he has contributed generously to the support of all reform movements in this city; the character of the man, and his record warrant confidence in his qualifications for the office which he seeks.

William B. Getchell, 721 North Fifty-eighth Avenue West—
Real estate dealer; former alderman for three terms; was president of the city council; opposed new charter; answering questions, declares unequivocally in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; is opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day; made a consistent record as alderman in favor of law enforcement and municipal ownership; earned the title of "watch dog of the treasury" while in the city council; is thoroughly qualified for the office of mayor.

Morris Kaplan, 411 East Superior Street—
Merchant; opposed new charter; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice and eight-hour day; he is well known as a "chronic agitator"; his experience and training do not qualify him for administrative or executive work.

William E. McEwen, 2022 East Fifth Street—
Editor and publisher of the Labor World; former alderman; former state oil inspector; former state labor commissioner; member of charter commission; has been secretary of State Federation of Labor for many years; answering questions, declares unequivocally in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; favors eight-hour day; is in doubt as to policy to be pursued with reference to segregation of vice, but says: "I will strike at the evil from every angle, and will hit it wherever it bobs up its head"; has been a consistent advocate of municipal ownership in and out of office; has good record as alderman for law enforcement; organized initiative and referendum movement in Minnesota; his record, his experience and his native ability, peculiarly qualify him for the office of mayor.

Henry Nesbitt, 210 Thirteenth Avenue East—
Real estate dealer; formerly secretary to Mayor Hugo and credit man for Silberstein & Bondy company. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; fails to declare in favor of penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation.

W. I. Prince, 2101 East First Street—
Banker; former cashier of City National bank of Duluth; former mayor of Bessemer, Mich. Answering questions, says he favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur, only as last resort; opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day. His stand on municipal ownership is unsatisfactory; his first declaration, made on the day prior to his filing for mayor, was that he favored the making of a new contract with Duluth-Edison Electric company. Thereafter he published his platform, wherein he says:

"I am in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities and other acquisitions by the city as the public necessity requires."

Later public sentiment became insistent on municipal ownership. He secured a campaign manager. Then Mr. Prince published his amended platform, wherein he took a third position, as follows:

"I am in favor of municipal ownership of the electric lighting system, and of any other utility for the public ownership of which the people may declare, and that I will, if elected, carry out the will of the people as already expressed at the polls."

His first statement was unguarded and evidently expressed his honest conviction. His second was his platform written for political purposes, and was cleverly conditioned upon the requirements of "public necessity." His third appears to be a reluctant acquiesence in municipal ownership. His fourth contained in his answer to our questions, and up to the time of the making of this report, his latest statement seems to be a forced surrender to this principle made necessary by the developments of the campaign. The Loyal Liberty Protective league, an association composed of the brewers, saloonkeepers and bartenders of Duluth, at a meeting held at Eagles' hall, Friday afternoon, March 14, indorsed Mr. Prince as its first choice for mayor. It is generally understood and we believe that he is the Duluth-Edison candidate. Mr. Prince is able, intelligent and is considered a man of integrity. However, his position on municipal ownership and his political supporters make him the most dangerous candidate in the field.

Bernard Silberstein, 31 West Second Street—
Merchant; former member of park board; member of library board. He is energetic and is a substantial business man. He has contributed liberally of his time and money to charity and charitable institutions. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposed to penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; condemned Mayor Hugo for attempting to close saloons and to prohibit gambling; joined in protest to Mayor Haven against abolishing red light district; was one of a committee who asked Judge Cutting to suspend the sentence of Nellie Blaine, a St. Croix avenue resort-keeper, convicted of selling liquor without a license; appeared in city council in the fall of 1911 to protest against the call of a special election for the municipal electric light plant bond issue. Is supported by those who favor a wide-open town. He is the second choice of the Loyal Liberty Protective league, the organization hereinabove referred to. He is a dangerous candidate and should be defeated.

For Commissioner---Long Term.

John T. Armstead, Fifty-first Avenue East and Loudon Road—
Laundry proprietor. Has not held public office. Voted against bond issue in 1912. Active open shop advocate. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership. Strongly favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur. Says he will make honest effort for absolute suppression of vice. Favors eight-hour day. Has expressed preference for department of public safety if elected commissioner. His rugged integrity inspires confidence that if elected he will carry out his promises; is well equipped for the office of commissioner.

John T. Dunphy, 519 East Fifth Street—
Real estate dealer; has not held public office. Answering questions declares for municipal ownership; in favor of penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation; favors eight-hour day; is supported by the Loyal Liberty Protective league.

Carroll F. Graff, 1601 East First Street—
Real estate dealer; has not held public office. Answering questions declares unequivocally for municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; was treasurer of Municipal Ownership League during campaign for bond issue; active in supporting initiative, referendum and recall charter amendment; worked for commission form of government; has high ideals, splendid ability and thorough appreciation of the opportunities and responsibilities of public service.

William S. McCormick, 1002 East Third Street—
Comptroller of city of Duluth for thirteen years. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation, but says: "If elected commissioner I shall use my best efforts to eliminate the social evil." Favors eight-hour day; has good administrative record; has sincere desire to please everyone, which causes him to be vacillating and inconsistent on important public questions which demand consistency and firmness.

Leonidas Merritt, 115 South Fifty-sixth Avenue West—
Mine owner; former member of state legislature; a member of park board. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; takes strong stand on suppression of vice; favors eight-hour day; a man of integrity and large experience.

P. G. Phillips, 618 North Fifty-sixth Avenue West—
Merchant; member of present city council; opposed new charter. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on the question of segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has good record in city council on municipal ownership and law enforcement; his consistent record in the city council commends him.

James W. Preston, 2509 West Second Street—
Contractor; former member of board of public works. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes proposed ordinance for penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has been a successful contractor; made a good record as member of board of public works; is supported by the Loyal Liberty Protective league.

Chan Smith, 2011 West Fourth Street—
Manager of Zenith Building Loan association; has not held public office; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes proposed ordinance for penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day. (Reported as withdrawn from race.)

W. E. Towne, 820 East Sixth Street—
Printer; has not held public office; answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; is not opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Frederick J. Voss, 110 South Fourteenth Avenue East—
Has been city treasurer for twenty-four years; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; favors eight-hour day; rendered valuable services to city during hard times, and probably did more than any other man to preserve the city's credit; was for municipal ownership from the beginning of the "gas and water fight"; a very valuable public servant.

J. C. Wesenberg, 4518 Dodge Street—
Publisher Duluth Skandinav; has not held public office; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposed to segregation and favors eight-hour day.

For Commissioner---Short Term.

W. B. Ardouin, 513 Second Avenue East—
Real estate dealer; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Adolph M. Balfany, 101 South Twentieth Avenue East—
Cigar manufacturer; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has no special qualifications for the office of commissioner.

William L. Bernard, 212 Exeter Street—
Teamster; alderman from Seventh ward for two terms; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; in city council has made splendid record on municipal ownership and law enforcement; voted consistently against extension of patrol limits; level-headed, conscientious and a faithful public servant.

Edward Blackwood, 5201 Ramsey Street—
Plumber; has not held public office; answering questions, strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has an intelligent grasp of moral and economic questions.

J. Scott Cash, 424 North Sixteenth Avenue East—
Surveyor; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; opposes ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation, but declares for law enforcement; favors eight-hour day.

John Cashin, 5 North Fifty-seventh Avenue West—
Lumber dealer. Has not held office. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Edwin R. Cobb, 115 East Winona Street—
Secretary of builders' exchange; member of board of education. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day. A man of character and integrity.

Joseph W. Cumming, 2732 West Second Street—
Grocer; former county commissioner. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day. As a county commissioner, consistently favored the liquor interests.

H. P. Curren, 2007 Minnesota Avenue—
Laundry proprietor; alderman from Fourth ward for two terms. Has failed to answer questions submitted. Record in city council on municipal ownership and saloon questions positively rotten. He is capable and cunning and shares with Hoar, the leadership of the "gang" in the present city council. He is a dangerous man, wholly unfit for the office of commissioner.

Thomas Dillon, 121 East Fifth Street—
Former member of board of public works. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; campaigned actively against the municipal electric light plant bond issue. He is not a factor in this campaign.

Everett N. Edes, 628 East First Street—
Stationary engineer. Has not held public office. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day. A man of integrity, but not a factor in this campaign.

James A. Farrell, 31 West Fifth Street—
Civil engineer; commonly known as "Bert" Farrell. For many years employed in the office of city engineer. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; opposes ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; fails to declare for eight-hour day; is acceptable to every special interest; is boosted by the Loyal Liberty Protective league. His candidacy is promoted chiefly by the crowd who oppose municipal ownership, although he declares in favor of the principle. He is a dangerous man and should be defeated.

M. Fitzgerald, 123 East Fifth Street—
Contractor. Has not held public office; has failed to answer questions submitted; is not a factor in this campaign.

Charles E. French, 2622 West Third Street—
Physician. Has frequently been convicted of gambling, in the municipal court. He is not a factor in the campaign.

Charles G. Futter, 623 North Fifty-seventh Avenue West—
Accountant; has not held public office; has failed to answer questions submitted; was active in campaign for new charter and was treasurer of campaign committee.

W. A. Hicken, 4027 Cooke Street—
Alderman from the First ward. Answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has made good record in city council on municipal ownership and law enforcement. Is a man of ability and experience. Would make a valuable commissioner.

Charles R. Hoar, 1522 West Superior Street—
Proprietor of the Globe hotel; alderman and president of city council. Has failed to answer questions submitted; was active advocate of extension of patrol limits in West end; record on municipal ownership and saloon question, bad; has consistently opposed all progressive measures in city government; shares with Curren the leadership of the "gang" in the present city council; is almost as bad as Curren.

John Hogan, Duluth Heights—
Painting contractor; alderman of Fifth ward for three terms. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has been a consistent and loyal supporter of municipal ownership; has fair record on saloon questions. Is a dependable and conscientious public servant.

Frank Jordan, 128 East Fifth Street—
Blacksmith; alderman Third ward; former president of city council; failed to answer questions submitted; consistently voted with saloon interests; opposed municipal ownership on every possible occasion. His record disqualifies him for the office of commissioner; has been associated with Hoar and Curren in the "gang"; should be defeated.

Alex Kennedy, 230 North Eighteenth Avenue West—
Carpenter; former alderman, Sixth ward; former member of the board of public works. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation and strict regulation of vice; favors eight-hour day. Has been an active supporter of municipal ownership for many years; invariably stood with law enforcement element in city council. He can be depended upon and has a sane and practical appreciation of the duties and privileges of a public servant.

W. E. Kern, 4800 West Sixth Street—
Contractor; former alderman. Failed to answer questions submitted; former agent of People's Brewing company.

W. H. Konkler, 418 West Fourth Street—
Chiropractor; has not held public office. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; favors eight-hour day. A persistent "office-seeker"; invariably supported by special interests. Is not a factor in this campaign.

L. A. Larsen, 3931 West Sixth Street—
Consulting mechanical engineer; former chief engineer of school district of Duluth; has not held public office. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day. He is able and conscientious.

John A. MacDonell, 309 West Fifth Street—
Vessel agent, alderman Fifth ward, two terms. Failed to answer questions submitted; record in city council notoriously bad on all questions. Is without ability and is a member of the "gang."

Neil B. Morrison, 10 East Second Street—
Insurance agent; former receiver, United States land office at Duluth. Answering questions favors municipal ownership; is not in favor of ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day.

STIRRUP CLUB MEMBERS REPORT ON CANDIDATES FOR CITY COMMISSION

Contains Severe Arraignment of Several of the Candidates.

Report Based on Questions Asked Candidates and Their Records.

The Stirrup club, an organization of business and professional men who meet weekly for the discussion of public questions, has prepared an estimate of the candidates for the commission.

The members of the club claim that it is a fair estimate based on the present views and past records of the candidates. The views were obtained by writing letters to the candidates, submitting a list of questions, and by close scrutiny of the records of the men. The answers were considered by the club, reports were made on each candidate, and the estimate was drawn up for the consideration of the voters.

A copy of the report will be mailed to each voter in the city, and the members of the club hope to prevent the election of candidates whom they consider undesirable.

The report is published by The Herald straight in full, without either the indorsement or disapproval of The Herald. It follows:

To the Citizens of Duluth:

Commission government is representative government. The efficiency and permanence of such government is determined by the character of the representatives. Duluth is about to choose her first commissioners. The selection of a first commission composed of men of heart, conscience and brains will establish here the principle that public office is a sacred trust to be fulfilled only by serving the common good, and will mark the way to our city's intended destiny.

To aid the people of Duluth in the coming election, the Stirrup club has thoroughly investigated the record of each of the candidates for the commission, and has in writing submitted to each the following questions, namely,

1. (a) "Are you in favor of municipal ownership of all public utilities?
   (b) "Will you use your best endeavors to at once establish by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant in the city of Duluth for municipal and commercial purposes?
   (c) "Will you use your best endeavors to establish municipal docks in the city of Duluth at the earliest possible time?
2. "Will you, if elected, use your best endeavors to pass and enforce an ordinance prohibiting the granting or renewing of a license to sell intoxicating liquors in any building in the city for a period of one year from the date of the conviction of any person for the violation of any liquor law or ordinance in such building?
3. "Are you in favor of the abolishment of the so-called red light or segregated district?
4. "Are you in favor of an eight-hour day for municipal work done for or by the city, at the current and usual wages prevailing at the time the work is performed?"

Forty-seven of the candidates returned written answers to these questions, and eleven failed to reply.

Based upon information gained from the written answers to our questions, and from the investigations which we have made, we beg to submit herewith the following information and recommendations:

Marcus D. Cullum, 2726 East Superior Street—

Formerly a dentist, now engaged in real estate business. Mayor of Duluth for three terms; was twice defeated for said office. Member of charter commission which framed new charter. Answering questions submitted, declares in favor of municipal ownership, and promises to use best endeavors to establish municipal electric light plant. Opposes ordinance penalizing buildings for liquor law violations, as suggested in question No. 2. Expresses doubt as to best method of handling vice, but does not oppose segregation. Favors eight-hour day. Stands on his record, which is so well known to the people of Duluth as to require no special comment.

David H. Day, 1231 East Superior Street—

Dentist; has not held public office; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership and law enforcement; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; makes no public statement on question of segregation; favors eight-hour day; was an active campaigner in municipal electric light plant bond issue; championed initiative, referendum and recall charter amendment; vigorously supported commission form of government; has written and spoken much on many questions of good government; we believe that he is qualified for the office which he seeks.

P. E. Dowling, 1839 Woodland Avenue—

Real estate dealer; has resided in Duluth for about three years; former mayor of Eveleth; former member of state legislature; has not answered questions submitted; while mayor of Eveleth allowed flagrant violations of liquor law and permitted disorderly houses to operate; claims saloons, commercialized vice and municipal ownership are not issues in this campaign; nothing in his platform or record qualifies him for the office which he seeks; his candidacy is indorsed by the Loyal Liberty Protective league hereinafter referred to.

Marcus L. Fay, 2105 East Superior Street—

Mine owner and real estate dealer; former mayor of Virginia, Minnesota; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership and law enforcement; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; on vice question, believes elimination of liquor would kill 75 per cent of the evil, and that the rest would die a natural death; while mayor of Virginia used vigorous means to enforce the liquor laws and to abolish disorderly houses; he has contributed generously to the support of all reform movements in this city; the character of the man, and his record warrant confidence in his qualifications for the office which he seeks.

William H. Getchell, 721 North Fifty-eighth Avenue West—

Real estate dealer; former alderman for three terms; was president of the city council; opposed new charter; answering questions, declares unequivocally in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; is opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day; made a consistent record as alderman in favor of law enforcement and municipal ownership; earned the title of "watch dog of the treasury" while in the city council; is thoroughly qualified for the office of mayor.

Morris Kaplan, 411 East Superior Street—

Merchant; opposed new charter; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice and eight-hour day; he is well known as a "chronic agitator"; his experience and training do not qualify him for administrative or executive work.

William E. McEwen, 2022 East Fifth Street—

Editor and publisher of the Labor World; former alderman; former state oil inspector; former state labor commissioner; member of charter commission; has been secretary of State Federation of Labor for many years; answering questions, declares unequivocally in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; is in doubt as to policy to be pursued with reference to segregation of vice, but says: "I will strike at the evil from every angle, and will hit it wherever it bobs up its head"; has been a consistent advocate of municipal ownership in and out of office; has good record as alderman for law enforcement; organized initiative and referendum movement in Minnesota; his record, his experience and his native ability, peculiarly qualify him for the office of mayor.

Henry Nesbitt, 210 Thirteenth Avenue East—

Real estate dealer; formerly secretary to Mayor Hugo and credit man for Silberstein & Bondy company. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; fails to declare in favor of penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation.

W. I. Prince, 2101 East First Street—

Banker; former cashier of City National bank of Duluth; former mayor of Bessemer, Mich. Answering questions, says he favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur, only as last resort; opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day. His stand on municipal ownership is unsatisfactory; his first declaration, made on the day prior to his filing for mayor, was that he favored the making of a new contract with Duluth-Edison Electric company. Thereafter he published his platform, wherein he says:

"I am in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities and other acquisitions by the city as the public necessity requires."

Later public sentiment became insistent on municipal ownership. He secured a campaign manager. Then Mr. Prince published his amended platform, wherein he took a third position, as follows:

"I am in favor of municipal ownership of the electric lighting system, and of any other utility for the public ownership of which the people may declare, and that I will, if elected, carry out the will of the people as already expressed at the polls."

His first statement was unguarded and evidently expressed his honest conviction. His second was his platform written for political purposes, and was cleverly conditioned upon the requirements of "public necessity." His third appears to be a reluctant acquiesence in municipal ownership. His fourth contained in his answer to our questions, and up to the time of the making of this report, his latest statement seems to be a forced surrender to this principle made necessary by the developments of the campaign. The Loyal Liberty Protective league, an association composed of the brewers, saloonkeepers and bartenders of Duluth, at a meeting held at Eagles' hall, Friday afternoon, March 14, indorsed Mr. Prince as its first choice for mayor. It is generally understood and we believe that he is the Duluth-Edison candidate. Mr. Prince is able, intelligent and is considered a man of integrity. However, his position on municipal ownership and his political supporters make him the most dangerous candidate in the field.

Bernard Silberstein, 31 West Second Street—

Merchant; former member of park board; member of library board. He is energetic and is a substantial business man. He has contributed liberally of his time and money to charity and charitable institutions. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposed to penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; condemned Mayor Hugo for attempting to close saloons and to prohibit gambling; joined in protest to Mayor Haven against abolishing red light district; was one of a committee who asked Judge Cutting to suspend the sentence of Nellie Blaine, a St. Croix avenue resort-keeper, convicted of selling liquor without a license; appeared in city council in the fall of 1911 to protest against the call of a special election for the municipal electric light plant bond issue. Is supported by those who favor a wide-open town. He is the second choice of the Loyal Liberty Protective league, the organization hereinabove referred to. He is a dangerous candidate and should be defeated.

For Commissioner---Long Term.

John T. Armstead, Fifty-first Avenue East and London Road—

Laundry proprietor. Has not held public office. Voted against bond issue in 1912. Active open shop advocate. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership. Strongly favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur. Says he will make honest effort for absolute suppression of vice. Favors eight-hour day. Has expressed preference for department of public safety if elected commissioner. His record for integrity inspires confidence that if elected he will carry out his promises; is well equipped for the office of commissioner.

John T. Dunphy, 519 East Fifth Street—

Real estate dealer; has not held public office. Answering questions declares for municipal ownership; in favor of penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation; favors eight-hour day; supported by the Loyal Liberty Protective league.

Carroll F. Graff, 1601 East First Street—

Real estate dealer; has not held public office. Answering questions declares unequivocally for municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; was treasurer of Municipal Ownership League during campaign for bond issue; active in supporting initiative, referendum and recall charter amendment; worked for commission form of government; has high ideals, splendid ability and thorough appreciation of the opportunities and responsibilities of public service.

William S. McCormick, 1002 East Third Street—

Comptroller of city of Duluth for thirteen years. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings where liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation, but says: "If elected commissioner I shall use my best efforts to eliminate the social evil." Favors eight-hour day; has good administrative record; has sincere desire to please everyone, which causes him to be vacillating and inconsistent on important public questions which demand consistency and firmness.

Leonidas Merritt, 115 South Fifty-sixth Avenue West—

Mine owner; former member of state legislature; a member of park board; Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; takes strong stand on suppression of vice; favors eight-hour day; a man of integrity and large experience.

P. G. Phillips, 618 North Fifty-sixth Avenue West—

Merchant; member of present city council; opposed new charter. Answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on the question of segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has good record in city council on municipal ownership and law enforcement; his consistent record in the city council commends him.

James W. Preston, 2509 West Second Street—

Contractor; former member of board of public works. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes proposed ordinance for penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has been a successful contractor; made a good record as member of board of public works; is supported by the Loyal Liberty Protective league.

Chas Smith, 2011 West Fourth Street—

Manager of Zenith Building Loan association; has not held public office; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes proposed ordinance for penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has been a successful contractor; made a good record as member of board of public works; is supported by the Loyal Liberty Protective league. (Reported as withdrawn from race.)

W. E. Towne, 820 East Sixth Street—

Printer; has not held public office; answering questions declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; is not opposed to segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Frederick J. Voss, 110 South Fourteenth Avenue East—

Has been city treasurer for twenty-four years; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; favors eight-hour day; rendered valuable services to city during hard times, and probably did more than any other man to preserve the city's credit; was for municipal ownership from the beginning of the "gas and water fight"; a very valuable public servant.

J. C. Wesenberg, 4518 Dodge Street—

Publisher Duluth Skandinav; has not held public office; answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposed to segregation and favors eight-hour day.

For Commissioner---Short Term.

W. B. Ardouin, 513 Second Avenue East—

Real estate dealer; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Adolph M. Balfany, 101 South Twentieth Avenue East—

Cigar manufacturer; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has no special qualifications for the office of commissioner.

William L. Bernard, 212 Exeter Street—

Teamster; alderman from Seventh ward for two terms; answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; in city council has made splendid record on municipal ownership and law enforcement; voted consistently against extension of patrol limits; level-headed, conscientious and a faithful public servant.

Edward Blackwood, 5201 Ramsey Street—

Plumber; has not held public office; answering questions, strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day; has an intelligent grasp of moral and economic questions.

J. Scott Cash, 424 North Sixteenth Avenue East—

Surveyor; has not held public office; answering questions, favors municipal ownership; opposes ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; takes no stand on segregation, but declares for law enforcement; favors eight-hour day.

John Cashin, 5 North Fifty-seventh Avenue West—

Lumber dealer. Has not held office. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day.

Edwin R. Cobb, 115 East Winona Street—

Secretary of builders' exchange; member of board of education. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day. A man of character and integrity.

Joseph W. Cumming, 2732 West Second Street—

Grocer; former county commissioner. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; opposes penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation of vice; favors eight-hour day. As a county commissioner, consistently favored the liquor interests.

H. P. Curren, 2007 Minnesota Avenue—

Laundry proprietor; alderman from Fourth ward for two terms. Has failed to answer questions submitted. Record in city council on municipal ownership and saloon questions positively rotten. He is capable and cunning and shares with Hoar, the leadership of the "gang" in the present city council. He is a dangerous man, wholly unfit for the office of commissioner.

Thomas Dillon, 121 East Fifth Street—

Former member of board of public works. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; campaigned actively against the municipal electric light plant bond issue. He is not a factor in this campaign.

Everett N. Edes, 926 East First Street—

Stationary engineer. Has not held public office. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation and favors eight-hour day. A man of integrity, but not a factor in this campaign.

James A. Farrell, 31 West Fifth Street—

Civil engineer; commonly known as "Bert" Farrell. For many years employed in the office of city engineer. Answering questions, favors municipal ownership; opposes ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation; fails to declare for eight-hour day; is acceptable to every special interest; is boosted by the Loyal Liberty Protective league. His candidacy is promoted chiefly by the crowd who oppose municipal ownership, although he declares in favor of the principle. He is a dangerous man and should be defeated.

M. Fitzgerald, 123 East Fifth Street—

Contractor. Has not held public office; has failed to answer questions submitted; is not a factor in this campaign.

Charles E. French, 2622 West Third Street—

Physician. Has frequently been convicted of gambling, in the municipal court. He is not a factor in the campaign.

Alderman from the First ward. Answering questions, declares strongly in favor of municipal ownership; favors ordinance penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has made good record in city council on municipal ownership and law enforcement. Is a man of ability and experience. Would make a valuable commissioner.

Charles R. Hoar, 1522 West Superior Street—

Proprietor of the Globe hotel; alderman and president of city council. Has failed to answer questions submitted; was active advocate of extension of patrol limits in West end; record on municipal ownership and saloon question, bad; has consistently opposed all progressive measures in city government; shares with Curren the leadership of the "gang" in the present city council; is almost as bad as Curren.

John Hogan, Duluth Heights—

Painting contractor; alderman of Fifth ward for three terms. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; opposes segregation; favors eight-hour day; has been a consistent and loyal supporter of municipal ownership; has fair record on saloon questions. Is a dependable and conscientious public servant.

Frank Jordan, 128 East Fifth Street—

Blacksmith; alderman Third ward; former president of city council; failed to answer questions submitted; consistently voted with saloon interests; opposed municipal ownership on every possible occasion. His record disqualifies him for the office of commissioner; has been associated with Hoar and Curren in the "gang"; should be defeated.

Alex Kennedy, 230 North Eighteenth Avenue West—

Carpenter; former alderman, Sixth ward; former member of the board of public works. Answering questions, declares in favor of municipal ownership; favors penalizing buildings wherein liquor law violations occur; favors segregation and strict regulation of vice; favors eight-hour day. Has been an active supporter of municipal ownership for many years; invariably stood with law enforcement element in city council. He can be depended upon and has a sane and practical appreciation of the duties and privileges of a public servant.

W. E. Kern, 4800 West Sixth Street—

Contractor; former alderman. Failed to answer questions submitted; former agent of People's Brewing company.

W. H. Konkler, 418 West Fourth Street—

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

CANDIDATES ON HILLSIDE

Many Aspirants for Places on Commission Give Their Views.

Declare for Municipal Ownership, Law Enforcement and Business Methods.

Four candidates for mayor, two for long-term commissioner, six for short-term commissioner and two for municipal judge addressed the members of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school last evening.

A good crowd attended the meeting and listened intently to the speakers. A. J. Anderson, vice president of the club, presided. The program included a talk on the new housing ordinance, but on account of the number of candidates anxious to be heard, the matter was put over until the next meeting.

W. I. Prince was the first mayoralty candidate to plead his case. Mr. Prince read his platform, commenting on each plank as he went along. He started with the premise that all citizens and all candidates are Duluthians, interested in the welfare of the city, and that they would continue to be Duluthians, regardless of the outcome of the election. He said men may differ as to the best methods of advancing the interests of the city, but all are agreed on the object in view.

"It is not only to the public that an injustice is done when the liquor laws are not enforced, but it is to the liquor dealers themselves, for those who are unable to steal the privileges of extending the hours of doing business are being discriminated against," he said.

Mr. Prince declared that a city should arrive at municipal ownership of all utilities used in common as rapidly as possible. He said such questions should be submitted to the voters, and when they have spoken, as they have already spoken in regard to the electric lighting plant, their will must govern.

"Knocking" Must Be Stopped.

B. Silberstein, in opening his talk, said that he was a plain business man and wanted to give the city a business administration. He said there is no choice in regard to the laws on the statute books; that they must be enforced. He said the social evil must be dealt with in the best possible way, with the co-operation of all the citizens. The principal reason for the purchase of the electric lighting plant is to get it out of politics, he said, in order that the people may choose their officers without interference.

"I do not mean that we should pay $2,500,000 or $1,000,000 if the plant is worth only $500,000," he said. "We should pay the real value of the plant, without bonuses."

"Knocking" must be stopped, Mr. Silberstein said, and the visitor to Duluth given the "glad hand" by Duluth people. He said taxes are too high, and as a property owner he is interested in the reduction of the taxes. He spoke of the park system and his twenty years of service on the park board.

"I don't care for the salary connected with the office of mayor," said Mr. Silberstein. "I would be better satisfied if there were no salary attached. I want to do something for the city where I have lived so long in which I am so greatly interested."

He said he believes in high wages for city employes and good working conditions in order that the best service may be obtained.

"Government on Wheels."

W. E. McEwen, also a candidate for mayor, advocated a "government on wheels."

"I don't believe all the meetings of the commission should be held at the city hall," said Mr. McEwen. "If I am elected I will advocate that the commissioners hold frequent meetings with this club and the other clubs of similar nature in order that we may get your views at first hand and then that we should report to you the reasons for our action on your requests.

"The only danger in a commission form of government is that it may become too highly centralized, that it may become an aristocratic form of government as distinguished from a democratic government. That is something we must avoid and we must have a care that the men selected have their hearts with the people."

Mr. McEwen recalled his action in the council when the Great Northern Power company's franchise was granted, in which he made an unsuccessful effort to have included in the franchise a provision that power should be furnished the city at 15 per cent less than to other consumers. He said he had in view the acquisition of the electric lighting plant by the city.

Mr. McEwen said that the reduction of the tax rate is not so important as the equalization of valuation and the stoppage of leaks. He said the city has heretofore had no interlocking of departments and no team work. He said that the city property has not been kept in proper repair and that it has consequently deteriorated much more rapidly than would have been the case if it had been given proper attention.

"I would be ashamed of myself if in the first year I could not save the city $25,000," he said. "I don't mean that the tax rate would be reduced, but that the outlying districts would receive some of the benefits of government which have been denied them in the past."

Use of Incinerator.

Mr. McEwen said he was one of the first advocates of municipal garbage collection and still believes in it. He advocated the use of the city incinerator to generate steam for the destruction of the point of rocks.

He told of an effort made when he was in the council to have vacated the streets and avenues in a submerged tract on Garfield avenue. He said he made a motion at that time that the streets running from the shore out be reserved to the city, and that has been the established policy of the council since. He advocated a bureau of municipal research in order that the city might have information on the work of other cities and be prepared to avoid the pitfalls revealed by the experience of others.

"It will take just as much money as before to run this city under commission government, but there are ways of raising the money so as to relieve the burden on the congested districts," said Mr. McEwen. "There are seventy-five miles of road through unplatted land within the corporate limits of the city. There is much platted land that is not adequately valued. I own two lots at Pond du Lac. I paid $125 for each, yet they are each valued at $1 for purposes of taxation. That is a small matter, but there are other people who own hundreds of such vacant lots and they are escaping their just taxation as well as I. I believe the commission should sit as a tax commission all the year around to equalize property valuations."

Mr. McEwen said that he is in favor of the immediate acquisition of the electric lighting plant. "Other candidates are saying that the question has already been settled by the people," he said. "I say that there is a big fight ahead. The Duluth Edison Electric company will die hard. Why, if old Henry Truelsen had taken the milk and water attitude some of these candidates take, we would still be paying $1.90 for gas instead of 75 cents." Mr. McEwen said that $150,000 or $200,000 a year now being paid by the Duluth Edison company on watered stock can be saved to the people of Duluth by municipal ownership of the system.

In opening his talk, Mr. Cullum called attention to the fact that he was the first man to advocate the use of the school houses for such meetings as that being held. He said he proposed the commission form of government three years ago and worked hard for its adoption.

"Small Town Mayors."

"While some of the candidates are telling you what they propose to do, I can tell you what I have done that you may judge of what I can do in the future," he said. "Some little town mayors from outside are now trying to tell us how to govern a big city. My record—good or bad as you regard it—was made before some of those little town mayors came here. You wouldn't employ a man to drive a horse unless he had driven some kind of a horse before. You would not turn your business over to a man who didn't know anything about it. I know every department of your city and considor myself capable of handling any department.

"The government of a city is not a business proposition simply. There is just as much need of a moralist and a humanitarian as there is for a man who can count the cash. The average business man knows less about running a city than you men hear. A president of a bank is just as capable of running a city as I am of running his bank. A man from a drygoods store is just as capable of running a city as I am of running his store."

"When I first went into office I frankly confess I was more concerned as to how a saloon ran than as to how long it ran," he said. "The people demand law enforcement and they shall have it if I am elected. I have made no deals with the saloon men and will make no deals. They will have to obey the law—all of them. The hotel or cafe has no right to sell liquor after hours, thus creating a discrimination against the man who is forced to obey the law."

Other candidates who spoke were Leonidas Merritt and John T. Dunphy, candidates for the long term. L. A. Larson, A. M. Balfany, John Hogan, W. H. Konkler, Fred Tischer and O. G. Olson, short term candidates; N. H. Wilson and W. H. Gurnee, candidates for assistant municipal judge.

FOURTEEN SPEAK AT ONEOTA CLUB

Fourteen candidates spoke last evening at a meeting of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at the Merritt school.

Dr. D. H. Day, W. B. Getchell and Morris Kaplan, candidates for mayor, gave short talks in which they outlined their position on public questions.

J. T. Armstead, Carroll Graff and J. C. Wesenberg, long term candidates, emphasized the need of rigid and impartial law enforcement.

W. L. Bernard, L. A. Larson, Nell B. Morrison, O. G. Olson, C. E. Roe, W. H. Smallwood and Bert N. Wheeler were the short term candidates to give talks, and Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant municipal judge, also spoke.

"The paramount issue in the present campaign has become municipal ownership, and most especially and immediately the municipal ownership of the electric light plant," said Mr. Bernard. The point is whether or not the commission will take over the plant of the Duluth-Edison company for the city at a fair price, or erect a competing plant to furnish electric light and power to the citizens of Duluth.

"Needless to reiterate that I unqualifiedly favor municipal ownership of the electric light plant, whether the acquisition be by purchase of the Duluth-Edison company or the construction of a competing plant.

"But allow me to state here and now that the city of Duluth will never acquire an electric lighting plant if such a calamity—for the Duluth-Edison company, with its hundreds of thousands of dollars of watered stock on which we are paying interest and dividends—can be prevented by the Duluth-Edison Electric company.

"The Duluth-Edison Electric company will use every resource at its command to block this clearly expressed will of the people of Duluth, when by a decisive majority they voted to issue $700,000 of bonds for the specific purpose of acquiring an electric lighting plant. Their resources are more far-reaching, more insidious and more powerful than most of us realize. They extend into unsuspected places and they move in devious ways and they crawl out from dark and hidden nooks when the powers that sit behind the bulwarks, out of sight, pull the strings."

MUST NOT DRINK WHILE RUNNING CARS

Men employed by the street car company can't be on the job and drink intoxicating liquor at the same time.

Three conductors and four motormen were reported to have been discharged yesterday because they were in saloons during working hours.

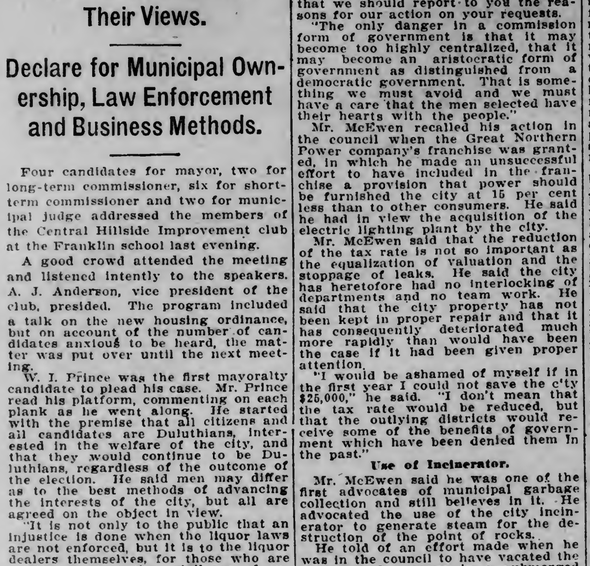
Supt. Moore confirmed the report that some men had been discharged because they could not keep away from licensed refreshment parlors while working and declared that the company will not allow that rule to be broken.

CANNED FOODS ARE STAPLE FOODS

Abundant Supply---Moderate Price.

The introduction of labor-saving machines in place of the old slow-going hand methods has greatly reduced the expense of canning and has increased the supply of canned food enormously.

A hundred and fifty workers will put up from 120,000 to 160,000 cans per day of the so-called No. 2 size cans.



Fruits and vegetables which used to be grown in patches or orchards are today grown by the hundreds of acres and all safely preserved in season at a moderate cost. The canned foods have become the great winter staples.

Devine May Be Secretary.

Minot, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. M. Devine of this city, former governor, probably will be appointed secretary of the North Dakota normal board of control, a position carrying a salary of $2,000 a year under a new law passed by the legislature this winter. Mr. Devine was appointed to membership on the board by Governor Hanna, and it is understood that he is in line for the secretaryship now held by F. A. Willson of Bathgate.

North Dakota Press Meet.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—June 20 and 21 are the dates picked by the executive committee of the North Dakota Press association for the annual meeting which will this year be held in Grand Forks.

The Most Modern Homes Use Electrical Appliances

Even homes enjoying the advantages of Electric Light have not reached the highest point of domestic efficiency, unless they are equipped with one or more of the handy electrical household appliances. Besides a saving of time and labor, tasks are performed better and with an indescribable feeling of satisfaction.

Lessen the Household Labors

An Electric Vacuum Cleaner cleans thoroughly and quickly. It does not stir up the germ-laden dust as a broom does, and it avoids the back-breaking labor of sweeping. An Electric Sewing Machine Motor allows you to do a great deal more work than you can accomplish on a foot-power machine—saves time and strength as well. You owe it to yourself to investigate.

CUYUNA

THE FASTEST GROWING TOWN ON MINNESOTA'S NEWEST IRON RANGE

Investors in Cuyuna real estate now will make profits equally as great as were made by early buyers in Virginia, Hibbing, Chisholm and Eveleth, on the Mesaba iron range.

The Kennedy mine at Cuyuna is employing 300 men and will increase that number to 500 with the opening of the shipping season. The Cuyuna-Duluth Iron Company will shortly begin shaft-sinking at its big ore body right alongside of Cuyuna on the east. The E. J. Longyear Company has proved up a large ore body just south of Cuyuna.

From Cuyuna the Soo Line will build spurs to the Iron Mountain and other mines just as soon as the frost is out of the ground. The Northern Pacific has surveyed the line and will build four miles into Cuyuna from the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine, which has been shipping all winter from its high-grade iron and manganese mine. With the mining and railroad construction work, it will be a very busy year at Cuyuna.

Cuyuna Has More Than 1,200 Population and Is Growing Faster Than Any Other Town in Northern Minnesota

Cuyuna will be the largest city on the Cuyuna iron range, where more than 500,000,000 tons of iron ore has already been proved up, 100,000,000 tons within one mile of Cuyuna. The range had one shipping mine, the Kennedy at Cuyuna, in 1911; three shipping mines last year, and this year a dozen mines will be shipping from the Cuyuna range, most of them close to Cuyuna. That is why Cuyuna will have a wonderful growth during the next year.

Cuyuna has paved sidewalks and electric lights. It has its own pure spring water delivered through mains all over the city. Cuyuna has sewers, handsome residence streets, a fine schoolhouse, hospital and a brick bank building. Cuyuna is as different as possible from the average mining town. It stands on an eminence and is splendidly drained. The site of the city is level.

People who invested in Mesaba range cities when they were the size of Cuyuna made fortunes. People who buy in Cuyuna now will reap profits just as large. Do not delay. Buy now and reap the advantage of rising values that will accompany the opening of new mines at Cuyuna.

CUMMINGS AT LIBERTY

A. D. Cumming of the West end, who was recently taken back to Winnipeg, Man., to face a charge of perjury, has been freed by the magistrate before whom his case was heard. It was claimed that an affidavit filed by Mr. Cumming in the matter of the estate of a deceased brother represented that Mr. Cumming was the sole living relative of the dead man, when at the same time there were several other brothers.

When the hearing came up Mr. Cumming produced affidavits showing that the charge of perjury was brought against him without material foundation. It is claimed that the charge grew out of an error made by a clerk in the office of the Duluth attorney, who drew up the affidavit of admin's tration, and that Mr. Cumming signed the document without reading it over.

A Winnipeg newspaper says of the case:

"A. D. Cumming, who was arrested several weeks ago on a charge of perjury, in Duluth, Minn., and brought back to Winnipeg to face trial, was discharged yesterday afternoon by C. H. Forrester, J. P., who sat yesterday afternoon to dispose of several cases which had accumulated in the provincial police court. The crown withdrew the charge on the ground of lack of evidence. Cumming was arrested in Duluth in connection with his handling of his deceased brother's estate at Carman. It was then stated he had represented himself to be the sole living relative, when, as a matter of fact, there were several others. It was stated in court yesterday that the clerk in the [illegible] lawyer's office where Cumming made his affidavit, had made several errors in this affidavit, which Cumming had signed without reading. He himself had never stated that he was the sole living relative. An affidavit sworn to by this clerk to this effect was produced yesterday, and in view of this Mr. Forrester discharged the prisoner when the crown withdrew the charge."

KING CONSTANTINE TAKES THE OATH

Athens, March 22.—King Constantine of Greece, took the constitutional oath of office in the chamber of deputies today under auspicious circumstances in the presence of the highest officials of the state and the entire parliament.

The metropolitan of Athens, who was surrounded by the members of the holy synod in full canonicals, offered prayer and then read aloud the oath which the king repeated in a firm voice. The king then signed the oath and all the cabinet ministers and the metropolitan countersigned it amid the hearty cheers of the deputies.

A salute of 101 guns was fired when the royal procession left the palace for the chamber of deputies. Brilliant weather had brought out great crowds who cheered the king on his way and the military bands stationed at intervals played the national anthem.

The king will start for Saloniki tonight.

WOULD FILL ALL DIPLOMATIC POSTS

President Wilson to Try to Do So Before Special Session of Congress.

Washington, March 22.—President Wilson is making an effort to fill the more important diplomatic posts before the extra session of congress begins so that he may otherwise devote his energies when the time for legislation arrives.

The president is desirous of filling the American embassy at London as quickly as possible and is said to be in hopes that Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard, would accept, though there were intimations among some of Dr. Eliot's friends that he might decline.

George W. Guthrie, former mayor of Pittsburg and a Democratic state chairman in Pennsylvania, has been chosen to be ambassador to Mexico, but it is likely that an announcement will be deferred until the state department formulates its policy with regard to the recognition of the Huerta government. It is certain, however, that the resignation of Henry Lane Wilson, the present ambassador to Mexico which has been submitted, will be accepted.

That Prof. Henry Burchard Fine of Princeton university, can be ambassador to Germany if he chooses, was learned from callers at the White House today.

Prof. J. W. Jenks of Cornell university, was a White House caller yesterday. He has been very much interested in the selection of John R. Mott of Montclair, N. J., the Y. M. C. A. leader to be minister to China, and is said to be urging Mr. Mott on behalf of the president to accept the post.

For the ambassadorship to Italy, Austria, Brazil, Russia, Turkey and Japan, no definite selections have been made, though Justice James W. Gerard of New York; Augustus Thomas, Thomas Nelson Page, Seth Low and William Chase Osborne are still being prominently mentioned in this connection.

It is likely that John W. Garrett will continue as minister to Argentine and Maurice Francis Egan as minister to Denmark.

Joseph A. Willard of Virginia; Thomas H. Birch of New Jersey, and Frederick C. Penfield of New York are also regarded as certain to be ministers in the foreign service.

HUNDREDS ATTEMPT TO RECOVER GOODS.

New York, March 22.—Three thousand persons, many of whom had been there since daylight, fought to gain entrance to the pawnbroker shop of Martin Simon & Son yesterday when the doors, which had been closed since the shop was robbed of $250,000 worth of property last Sunday, were opened to admit holders of pawn tickets. The store was kept open until 4 o'clock when only 200 ticket holders had been able to gain admittance. About three-quarters of them recovered their property. The rest found that their valuables were among the stolen loot. Some of them, including several women with babies in their arms, came out weeping.

PANAMA TRIP AN AID TO RECRUITERS

Ten young men have taken examinations for entrance to the navy and it is expected that most of them will pass, according to Chief Quartermaster J. Erikson, in charge of the local recruiting station. He says that many men are now enlisting in the navy as they will be assigned to ships which will pass through the Panama canal when it is opened. He also said that until April 15 men will be assigned to the west coast, as the government will take advantage of the colonist rates which will be in effect until that date.

BOOST FOR DULUTH

We are taught that self-preservation is the first law of nature. It is perfectly natural that one should preserve and protect his home, but how many realize that every dollar out of town to the merchant or manufacturer in the larger cities is, so to speak, "a shingle taken off his own roof?" The merchant, the farmer and the individual citizen are all dependent upon each other.

Buying From Foreign Concerns a Menace to Your Own Home!

Every time you fail in allegiance to home industries you strike a blow against your own permanent success. As the home merchant and manufacturer enlarge their business and plant just so surely does the city extend greater chances for success and growth to all its citizens. If on no higher grounds than that of self-preservation, let us all pull together for the success of all Duluth firms.

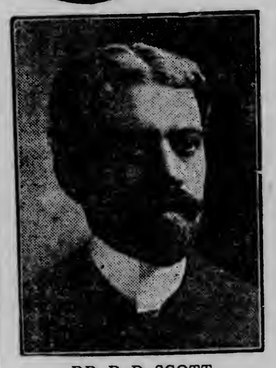
Window Ventilation.

(Concluded.)



Sanitary engineers are much interested in the subject of ventilation, but mostly from the standpoint of the installation of mechanically perfect and expensive ventilating systems. All of these systems are, however, faulty from the point of view of the hygienist, because based on the exploded idea that the carbonic acid content of air was the chief danger, and that air containing 20 per cent oxygen and less than 8 in 10,000 of carbonic acid was always healthy air, no matter what the other physical or chemical conditions were.

The studies of Leonard Hill in England, and Rosenall in this country, have, however, revolutionized our ideas as to what constitutes healthy air, and we know that efficient ventilation cannot be well maintained by any of these cumbersome systems unless they are supplemented with occasional blowing out through windows and doors. The derivation of the word window would lead us to believe that our forefathers had the right idea of what windows were for; in reality ventilators, or openings for the admission of wind. This original function has been largely lost sight of, and now they are too often looked upon as only for the admission of light. In yesterday's paper it was said that window ventilation was accessible to all classes of people and could be adapted to all kinds of heating apparatus. That it can also be made comfortable even in the coldest weather, by the use of intelligence and a few simple devices, may not appear possible to many people, but such is the fact.

It has been suggested that laws should be passed to make adequate window ventilation of boarding and rooming houses, hotels, etc., compulsory, but such laws would only be dead letters so long as the public is indifferent to this vital question of pure air. Even as late as the seventeenth century in England there was a tax levied on windows, and this was not finally abolished until 1851; so it will be seen we have come a long way in the last half century toward better ideas of hygienic living, and should not be impatient when we still find people who believe that foul and comfortable air is preferable to fresh, though sometimes chilly, pure air. The effort of the sanitarian and hygienist must be to overcome the prejudice against fresh air by devising means to make it comfortable as well as pure. In this country, no direct tax on fresh air would be tolerated for a minute, but, nevertheless, the man or woman who is forced to live in rooming houses, finds it a most difficult matter to obtain quarters where an adequate window ventilation is permitted. To insist on the privilege of an open window is, however, a duty every one owes to his own health, and it will be found to pay good dividends on any slight extra cost which may be demanded by the landlady.

To make window ventilation comfortable, it is only necessary that the incoming air be deflected upward on entering, so that it becomes slightly warmed before striking the room occupants. There are many devices to carry out this principle, but perhaps the simplest is just about as efficient as the more costly. Place a small board, two or three inches wide, under the lower sash and this makes the opening between upper and lower sashes sufficiently large to admit a large amount of air to the upper portion of the room. Foul air can be best drawn off through a transom over an opposite door, or a window open slightly at the top. Such an arrangement will provide adequate ventilation that at the same time should be comfortable. Where steam heat is used it is probably better to draw in the fresh air over or through a radiator placed beneath the window, for in this way the fresh air is thoroughly warmed and diffuses throughout the entire room.

The regulation of temperature and relative humidity is nearly as important as ventilation, and every room should be supplied with a reliable thermometer, and occasionally tested with a hygrometer. The temperature for bedrooms should on no occasion be above 50 degs., and for sleeping hours it is better if below 40. The relative humidity is best in the neighborhood of 50 per cent, although if above 40 and below 75 it is within the limits of health.

DR. R. D. SCOTT.

The Health of London School Children

Only in the last few years has the law required every child attending an elementary school to be physically examined on entering and leaving, and therefore, statistics on the health of school children in England are only now available. About a million and a half of children are examined annually. The report of Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the board of education for 1911 has just been issued. It shows the condition of 186,652 children in thirteen counties and sixteen urban areas and is far from satisfactory. Only in one urban area did the percentage of good nutrition reach 45 and from this figure it ranged down as low as 3.8. Of 200,000 children examined in London more than half were found to be defective and over 78,000 were recommended for treatment. The malnutrition is due in the great majority of cases to ignorance of the relative value of foodstuffs and the means of using them economically and only in the minority to poverty. About 0.5 per cent of the children are feeble-minded and of these about one-seventh are of such low grade as to be uneducable. A summary of the report appears in the London letter in a recent number of the Journal of the American Medical association.

Questions and Answers.

Preventing Tuberculosis.

F. E. writes: We have a strong healthy boy of two years, whom I would like to bring up so as to avoid tuberculosis. There have been deaths from this disease in the families of both parents, but I am beginning to understand that it is not necessarily an hereditary disease. Any suggestions you can give me will be thankfully accepted.

REPLY.

You have the right idea. Start early and success is likely to follow. Tuberculosis in a family only shows that there has been exposure to infection, but with early and persistent training, this susceptibility may be entirely eradicated.

See that your boy has always more than his share of fresh air. Bring him up to endure slight hardships without complaint, train him to be a "true sport;" that is, a manly fighter but an uncomplaining loser. Have him live the greater part of the time outdoors and as he becomes older encourage him in all manner of outdoor sport. Practice and preach the gospel of the open window yourself, so that when your boy grows up he will think no other way right but the hygienic way. It would help you much to carefully study the literature of the present on the only known cure for tuberculosis; that is, the open-air-good-food cure, practiced, at all our sanitaria.

Laxative Fruits.

M. B. V. inquires: Are there any fruits which are especially good as laxatives?

REPLY

All fruits are beneficial. Grapes, oranges, figs, apples and pears are excellent. Among the dried fruits, prunes, raisins and figs are the best, apples and apricots probably not so good.

WILL SPEND ALL HIS INCOME

President Poincare of France Will End Seven-Year Term Without Savings and Earn Living as a Lawyer.

Paris, March 22.—President Poincare has made up his mind to spend, as fast as he receives it, every penny of his presidential income of $240,000 a year. Then, at the end of his seven-year term he will return without savings to earning his living as a lawyer. A total income during the term of office of nearly $1,700,000 has given opportunity to previous French presidents to lay aside a snug sum against the time when they retire to private life, but even this commendable thrift does not enter into the plans of the new president of the French republic.

M. Poincare expressed this determination to be lavish in his expenditures to a lawyer friend a few days ago. His friend thought this was rather unwise, and pointed out to the president that his private means were not large.

"What will you do, if you don't save anything, when you are no longer president?" he asked.

"Do?" answered M. Poincare, "why, work, of course. Mr. Taft is going to become a professor at Yale when he leaves the White House; why should not I put on my advocate's gown again?"

Have Many Decorations.

Although French presidents only appear with the sash of the Legion of Honor in public, they could, if they wished, display as many variegated ribbons, stars and crosses as any hereditary monarch in the world.

Of living ex-presidents, M. Loubet holds the record; he has no less than thirty-three grand ribbons and grand crosses, as against twenty-eight for his successor, M. Falliéres. M. Loubet alone among ex-presidents has the Golden Fleece of Spain; the Lion of the Netherlands; the Lion of Norway; the Imtiaz of Turkey; the Liberator of Venezuela; the Star of Ethiopia; the Order of Daniel I of Montenegro; the Golden Lion of Luxemburg; the Redemption of Liberia, and the Order of the Blood of Tunis. M. Falliéres holds exclusively the Grand Cordons of St. Stephen; of Charles III; of Christ of Portugal, of St. Olaf; of the Nicham-Iftikhar, and of the Order of Carol I of Roumania.

Nationality of Columbus.

The questions of the nationality of Christopher Columbus, and where he was born, continue to prove an inexhaustible subject of discussion for historians and philologists.

The latest contribution to the debate comes from a French writer, Henri Schoen, who brings forward a number of new arguments in support of the tradition that Christopher Columbus was born at Calvi, in Corsica. This tradition is, of course, in direct contradiction to the theory that the discoverer of America was of Genoese birth, and it is also contrary to the views of such learned Spaniards as de la Riega and the marquis de Dos Fuentes, who maintain that Columbus, or Colon, according to the Spanish form of the name, was in reality a native of Galicia, in Spain, a fact which he always concealed with the object of hiding his Jewish origin.

The Spanish investigators, while arguing against the claims of the Italians for Genoa, join hands with them in attacking the theories of Schoen. The French writer basis his arguments on certain names and other details that appear in the narrative of Columbus. In this recital, which is written in the purest of Spanish, one party sees Galician and the other Genoese reminiscences, while Schoen finds support for his Corsican theory. He points out, for instance, that Columbus refers to fishes called "toninas," a word equally unknown in Italy and Spain, but of everyday use in Corsica. To this the Spanish philologist, Mariano de Cavia, replies that, on the contrary, the word "tonina" is generally used by Spanish seafaring folk to designate either the fresh, tunny fish or the dolphin. By employing this word in the text of his narrative Columbus was not going outside that language, and the consequent inference of his Corsican origin only becomes one more proof of his Spanish birth.

Home For Aged Cab Driver.

Old Mathieu, aged 70, the driver of one of the ramshackle cabs of Paris, and his horse Manon, as old relatively for a horse as he is for a man, are to spend the rest of their days in "clover."

Mathieu came out of the cabman's retreat a few days ago to find a stranger stroking his horse's nose. The gentleman explained that he recognized in Manon the horse he used to ride when serving in a cavalry regiment.

"I was very fond of him," said he, "and I would like him to end his days on my place in the country." He offered to buy the horse.

"I would as soon sell my wife if I had one," said the cabman. "No other creature loves me, so far as I know, and I have no other companion. No, I do not think there is enough money in Paris to buy Manon."

The stranger in the end offered the cabman a home on his estate for both himself and his horse. Mathieu accepted gratefully, and now they are both in Gascony.

Zone of Silence.

Prof. Quervain of Zurich has made a curious discovery in the realm of sound transmission that may explain a hitherto incomprehensible incident of history.

Dynamite in large quantities has been used in the construction of the railroad to the top of the Jungfrau, a mountain nearly 14,000 feet high in the Bernese Alps. The professor observed that the sound of the dynamite explosions was heard distinctly for a distance of thirty miles. Then, between thirty miles and forty-four miles, the explosions were absolutely inaudible, only to be heard again beyond the forty-four mile zone.

The professor is not yet able to determine the cause of this "zone of silence," but he makes the interesting suggestion that a similar zone at Liegnitz, in Prussia, where Frederick the Great defeated the Austrians in 1760, may account for the persistence with which the Austrian general, Count von Daun, declared he never heard the sound of cannonading, in spite of the fact that the roar of the Prussian artillery was heard distinctly by men further from the battlefield than was the Austrian commander. Failing to hear the Prussian guns, von Daun did not go to the aid of Gen. Laudon, whose command might have been saved by his presence.

CANNING FOOD A GREAT NATIONAL INDUSTRY

The Federal census report for 1909 places a value of over $50,000,000 upon the canned vegetable output of American packers, and a total value of over $80,000,000 on the annual product of vegetables, fruits, canned fish and oysters.

The great staples are tomatoes, corn, peas, beans, asparagus, pumpkin and sweet potatoes, peaches, apples, apricots, pears, berries and cherries, and salmon, sardines and oysters.

The industry is growing rapidly, new lines are being taken on and the public is vitally interested because of their widespread and increasing use. The public should know the truth about the industry, and should get the facts from responsible, well-informed canners.

SICK MEN!

WE WILL CURE YOU

Longest Established, Most Successful and Reliable Specialist in Diseases of Men.

Are you getting grief? Easily irritated, and is your skin looking sallow?

You may have no pain, but you are sick just the same. There are people who bear the mark of suffering right on their face, if you permit disease to stay with you it will make you weak, despondent and drain your system of that vitality which makes you strong, healthy, and vigorous. If any bad habit has got the best of you and you find it hard, yes, impossible, to shake it off let us help you. Disease weakens the body and will power. We will heal your disease and help you to a clean and healthy manhood.

We make no misleading statements nor false promises when you consult us and allow us to examine your condition; we will tell the true condition of your state of health. WE ARE NO NEWCOMERS, BUT HAVE BEEN HERE FOR OVER TWENTY YEARS. WE DON'T TREAT EVERYBODY, BUT MEN ALONE. We have devoted our lives and labor to the specialty of men's diseases alone. Why experiment with others who are not specialists? Why not get the best of help when you are sick, weak, nervous and broken down in health?

Duluth has seen many doctors, and after they had taken all the money they could get, they left Duluth forever. They have made big promises, but cured no one.

The methods of the Progressive Medical association, however, have been straight, honest, scientific, and that is why they have prospered. Our offices are crowded every day from 9 in the morning till 8 in the evening, and Sundays from 10 to 1. Any sick man who seriously desires to find his way back to health again is always welcomed to a free consultation.

STOMACH TROUBLES

Are the causes of many diseases. It often is the cause of poisons, which will cause RHEUMATISM and many other diseases.

To relieve this habit, men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, and relief is only temporary. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fullness in your abdomen, you may know that your intestines are diseased and they can not perform the work of digestion.

Bad Blood Will Cause Varicose Veins

Will weaken the system and predispose it to Piles. We cure all acute as well as chronic diseases of men. Nervous Debility, unnatural discharges, Contagious Blood Poison, Swollen and Varicose Veins, as well as diseases peculiar to the sex of men. We cure your disease for we have studied in the best universities here and in the old country. We are well professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. Offices at corner Superior street and Lake avenue, Duluth.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT

Trinity English Lutheran Congregation Will Erect Edifice This Year.

Site Is Obtained at Twenty-Seventh Avenue West and Third Street.

The congregation of the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church will erect a church building this summer at the northwest corner of Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street.

The building committee of the church has already taken an option on the corner and building plans are now being made by a local architect. It is expected to award the contract some time this spring and to have the building finished the latter part of the fall.

The church will cost in the neighborhood of $6,000, while a parsonage to be erected at the rear of the edifice will cost about $4,500. The auditorium of the church will seat 300 people. There will be clubrooms, parlors and pastor's study in the basement of the church.

The Trinity church was organized here last fall by its present pastor, Rev. F. O. L. Hanson, who came here later from Omaha to take charge of the pastorate. There are about 125 members in the church at present, with a Sunday school of 150 scholors.

REVIVAL SERVICES COME TO A CLOSE

The revival meetings at all the local churches will come to a close with the Easter Sunday services tomorrow.

The meetings have been held for the past two or three weeks and have all been well attended, according to the various pastors.

Rev. J. M. Nervig of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, has been conducting revival meetings this week, with the assistance of Rev. J. A. Stenberg of the First Lutheran church. Rev. J. C. Reinertson of Our Savior's church and Rev. B. L. Opdahl of the Bethel Norwegian Lutheran church.

Rev. W. Grant Fritz of the Garfield Avenue chapel, 820 Garfield avenue, will tomorrow evening bring to a close the first revival he has conducted at the local church. The meetings have been held every evening this week.

There will be no meeting at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, this evening, Rev. J. A. McGaughey, the pastor, concluding his revival tomorrow evening. He will preach on "The Resurrection Day."

Rev. W. E. Harmann of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, conducted a three-hour service yesterday afternoon and a baptismal service at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Rev. Ray Hunt of Deer Park, Wis., left for his home yesterday after conducting revival meetings at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, for the past two weeks. Rev. Edward Erickson, the pastor, preached yesterday. There will be no meeting this evening, but the revival will come to a close with the Easter services tomorrow.

Similar revivals at the Grace M. E. church, Bethany Swedish Lutheran church and the St. Paul's Lutheran church will all come to a close tomorrow. No meetings will be held at the churches this evening.

CHILD DIES DURING NIGHT

To awaken and find that their infant child had died during the night, was the sad experience of Mr. and Mrs. Stans Graczyk, 2801 West Twelfth street, this morning. The child, who was a girl of 6 weeks, named Mary, had been in good health, according to all appearances, up to the moment her mother put her to sleep last evening. Notice of the mysterious death was sent to the coroner without delay.

SURPRISED ON SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peterson, 2125 West Tenth street, were surprised by a party of friends last evening in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in games and music, after which a luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were presented with many gifts. The following were present: Messrs. and Mesdames E. Hanson, W. Petterson, Jackson, J. Wick, John Borgman, A. Anderson, Ellingson, Hendrickson, A. Petterson, A. P. Lund, John Olson and Misses Enga Hemmess, Marguerite Hendrikson, Esther Peterson and Lulu Peterson.

Will Hold Debate.

The Young People's Union of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold a debate at its meeting next week, on "Resolved, That the Senior Deacon Plays a More Important Part in the Church Than the Sunday School Superintendent." The arrangements for the debate were made at the regular meeting of the union last evening.

Will Talk on Candidates.

Rev. Ray Hunt will give an address this evening on "Who's Who in the Two-Year Class," at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. In his address, Rev. Mr. Hunt will discuss all the candidates for the short term commissionerships. Remarks will also be made by Bert Wheeler and Carroll Graff.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Phillips of Neenah, Wis., left yesterday for their home after spending the past month with West end relatives.

Rev. J. Beckstrom of Deer Park, Wis., who has been conducting revival meetings at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, left yesterday for his home. He was a guest of Rev. Edward Erickson during his stay in the city.

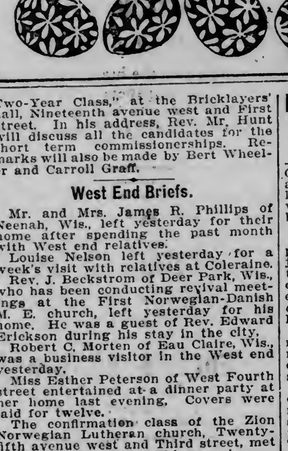
Miss Esther Peterson of West Fourth street entertained at a dinner party at her home last evening. Covers were laid for twelve.

The confirmation class of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, met in the church parlors this morning.

Mrs. Ina McKenzie, who is teaching this year at Biwabik, is spending the Easter holidays with her parents at 620 North Twenty-fourth avenue west.

Your system and blood needs a thorough Spring cleaning, purifying. Holister's R. M. Tea will do it. Lion drug store.



FIRE ON THE WATER FRONT

Spectacular Blaze Destroys Two-Story Frame Building.

The two-story frame building occupied by the Northwestern Scrap Iron & Metal company at the foot of Sixth avenue west was destroyed by fire of unknown origin about 10:30 o'clock last night.

The old structure burned like tinder, the flames shooting high into the air and lighting the sky with a red glow which was visible for miles, attracting a large crowd to the bay front.

The blaze was discovered by Berger Nelson, watchman for the Barnett & Record company, whose building is but a short distance away. Carnivals from headquarters and No. 3 station responded. The hydrant at Railroad street was frozen but hose was strung from Michigan street and the flames were soon under control. The loss is not heavy.

MISS HAZEL GILSO, Violinist and Soloist.

Tilton E. Lewis, manager of the New St. Louis hotel, has arranged a treat for Duluth music lovers for Easter Sunday, having secured the services of Miss Hazel Gilso, violinist and soloist. Mr. A. L. Beiner, pianist and Miss Clara Wolfer, singer. These three noted New York artists on their way to California have consented to stay over Easter Sunday in Duluth and will give an Easter concert in the Woodland cafe tomorrow evening, 6 to 8 o'clock.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE BY STORM

Ohio, Cincinnati, Omaha, Kansas City and Minneapolis to Milwaukee and Duluth. The Associated Press leased wire to Peoria was routed via Pittsburg and St. Louis.

More Than Seventy Killed.

More than seventy persons are reported killed and hundreds were injured, some mortally, by a storm of tornadic intensity which raged over central, western, southern and parts of eastern states yesterday. Property damage will run well into the millions.

Definite information accounts for more than seventy persons dead, with reports from points temporarily cut off from wire communication by the storm adding hourly to the list.

Reports from Alabama show the loss of life was heaviest in that state, the number of dead there being already sixty, with additional fatalities reported but not confirmed. Two towns, Thomasville and Lower Peach Tree, practically were wiped out. Two are dead in Indiana, two in Tennessee, three in Ohio, two in New York, one in Michigan and one in Louisiana.

Over 100 Injured.

Accompanying the death lists are estimates of injured totalling more than 100, with additions coming in at brief intervals.

Coming up out of the southwest early on Friday morning, just as spring was ushered in, the storm swept with startling suddenness, diagonally across the country from Northern Texas to Western Pennsylvania and New York, bisecting the Mississippi valley, and moving northeastward across the Ohio into the Great Lakes region.

Shifting winds of great violence, accompanied in various sections by snow, sleet and hail, characterized the storm, easily the most destructive of the year, and rarely equalled in the extent of its sweep and damage.

Buildings toppled before the blow in nearly a dozen states, and death lay along in its wake.

The property loss was great all along the storm's track. Besides demolishing or unroofing buildings and felling trees the high winds, rain, hail and sleet did serious damage to early crops, according to reports from some of the affected sections. Estimates of damage to property from Indiana and Michigan alone aggregate $2,000,000, about evenly divided between the two states.

Early reports of losses ranging from $25,000 to $500,000 or more from sections of the storm region, indicated that the total would reach large figures. Wires fell in all directions before the blow.

SAW ALL THE WAR HE WANTED TO

Brother of Duluth Man Writes of Fighting in Mexico.

Joseph J. Robinson, a local lawyer, has just received a letter from his brother, Louis Robinson, an electrical engineer, located at Mexico city, where he has been for some years. The epistle is dated March 10 and reads in part as follows:

"Everything is all right now. I don't care to see any more war for some time to come. I expect to get away from here by June or July without fail. I saw more dead people in one day than I care to see again in my life. There were about 5,000 killed and cannon balls were flying all over town, and went into the house where I staid. One of them went through the room adjacent to mine in less time than it takes to tell it. The machine guns were going day and night and we could not sleep for the noise. I will send you some pictures so you can tell just what it was like. I had a close call the very first day the trouble commenced. I was near the Y. M. C. A. with a friend of mine when they commenced shooting and you can judge we made ourselves scarce."

Veto Does Not Affect.

Fargo, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of Fargo are not kicking a great deal because Governor Hanna vetoed the increased high school appropriation. Fargo has a high assessed valuation and would have been compelled to pay about $1.50 in high school taxes for each $1 it got back. Other cities similary situated would have suffered.

PICTURE SHOW AT ST. LOUIS

Novel Pictorial Exposition of Duluth and Northern Minnesota.

A pictorial exposition of Duluth and Northern Minnesota will be opened in the large lobby of the New St. Louis hotel, in the heart of Duluth, on Monday morning and will be continued for several weeks. The pictorial exposition will be mounted on large stands, or billboards, in front of and surrounding the big old-fashioned fireplace. It will be free to everybody and has been located so as to attract the women as well as the men.

Included in the exposition will be panoramic and other photographs showing Duluth's manufactories and wholesale houses, scenes in the city's beautiful parks and residence streets, along the waterfront and elsewhere. Summer and winter sports will be depicted in recent photographs. Included in these pictures are ski jumping, tobogganing, curling, hockey and trotting races on the ice. A picture of the very latest "scooter" will be on view, showing a combination of flying machine, automobile and sled.

One of the most striking pictures that will be shown is a panoramic photograph taken at night of Duluth's last water carnival, a scene Venetian and delightful. Other photographs will show summer sports, including rowing races, pretty girls in canoe races, sail boat races and motor boat races. A fine view of Duluth's grand harbor will be had in the panoramic photograph taken from the Boulevard drive, with the city in the foreground, then the harbor, the ship canal, Minnesota Point and, finally, a few miles of Lake Superior. None of these pictures will show snow except the photographs of winter sports.

Another section of the exposition will be devoted to Northern Minnesota farm scenes, including six splendid panoramic photographs taken for the state immigration department. These panoramics depict Northern Minnesota farms that will be a revelation to the people who seldom or never leave Duluth and who have no conception of the farm development stretching over hundreds of miles on all sides tributary to the city, and which will help the growth of Duluth as much as the great Minnesota steel plant. How many Duluth people know that Northern Minnesota is raising seed corn for Iowa farmers? These farm pictures are interesting and instructive. They show the finest country that lies outdoors, all of which not many years from now will be one of the finest dairy and general farming sections of the United States and the most profitable to settlers.

Other pictures will be shown. All of the pictures appearing in this exhibition and many more which have not yet been taken will appear in the greatest issue ever made of a Minnesota newspaper, the Duluth, the City of Industry number of The Duluth Herald, out May 26. Not only will this be the greatest newspaper ever sent out of Minnesota—for it will be mailed all over the country—but it will be the best and most profusely illustrated. This splendid number will be principally pictures, with just sufficient reading matter to explain the pictures. It is a new departure in special numbers and will attract attention to Duluth and Northern Minnesota in all parts of the United States. It will be by all odds the best advertising this city has ever had. You will concede that these statements are not overdrawn when you see it.

The purpose of The Duluth Herald in holding this pictorial exposition is to acquaint everybody in Duluth with the picture contents of Duluth, the City of Industry, so that they will know they are getting more than their money's worth when they order copies of the number in advance to send broadcast to relatives and friends. More than 20,000 extra copies of this great number have been ordered already. The state immigration department will mail 6,000 copies and the Northern Minnesota Development association 5,000 copies to people who already have their eyes turned to Northern Minnesota. Other circulation plans will result in the number reaching thousands of other prospective settlers in Northern Minnesota. This is only one phase of the good work that will be accomplished by the Duluth, the City of Industry number.

Scenes in Duluth's busiest sections will not be photographed until smiling spring is here and the new commission government has made Superior street look like a thoroughfare in Spotless Town. Nor will the mining pictures appear in the pictorial exposition until later. The last pictures to be shown will be Gallagher's masterly panoramics of the steel plant and a magnificent new panoramic picture of Duluth, which will be taken in May, just in time to make half-tone engravings and put the number to press.

Some idea of the enormous circulation of this great number may be had from the fact that a circulation of more than 100,000 is anticipated and that it will be necessary to put every section except the news part of The Duluth Herald to press eight days before the date of publication. That is why all orders for extra copies must reach The Duluth Herald office not later than May 18. The price for extra copies—5 cents—will hardly cover the cost of paper and press work, not to mention the thousands of dollars it is costing to prepare Duluth, the City of Industry for publication.

WANTS $3,100 FROM MODERN WOODMEN

John Ostrom Claims He Fell Into Excavation for Building.

A jury was drawn in district court this morning to try a personal injury action which John A. Ostrom has against Duluth Camp No. 2341, Modern Woodmen of America, and Jacobson Bros., contractors. The plaintiff is suing for $3,100 damages.

Ostrom claims that while he was returning home from his work about 6:30 on the evening of Nov. 23 last, he stumbled over an obstruction on the sidewalk of the east side of Twenty-first avenue west and fell fourteen feet into an excavation which Jacobson Bros., contractors, had made for the new building put up last fall for the West end camp of the Modern Woodmen.

Ostrom alleges that in the fall he sustained a broken collar bone, a dislocated left shoulder and other injuries, incapacitating him for work for some time. Before the accident he claims that he was a strong, healthy and able-bodied man, aged 35. He charges negligence on the part of the contractors and owners of the building.

John Jenswold, Jr., is his attorney. Andrew Nelson is in court for the Modern Woodmen and Howard T. Abbott is appearing for Jacobson Bros. Owing to the holiday in district court on Good Friday, the case was started today. It is the first instance that a jury case has been called for trial on Saturday for several years. Usually the last day of the week is set aside for special term hearings only and juries are excused from court attendance.

"APPLE MAN" BEHIND THE BARS

Man Who Victimized Duluthians Sentenced to Two Years.

Many Duluth housewives will be interested to know that one A. R. Johnson, who some time ago collected orders from them for apples, which he never delivered, has fallen into the clutches of the law at Grand Rapids, Mich. He and an associate, according to a dispatch from Minneapolis, have been convicted of fraud, having taken orders for fruit in that city, and afterwards failed to deliver it. Johnson has been sentenced to two years in prison and Wright to five.

Johnson had an office in St. Paul. He received $2,000 from sales and shipped one car of inferior apples. Wright received $5,000 in cash and did not ship an apple, according to post-office inspectors.

THE EASTER MESSAGE.

Tomorrow Christian people throughout the world will celebrate the feature of their faith that distinguishes it more than any other one thing from the faiths of other religions.

Man's first conception of deity was that of a power that could and would crush him if he disobeyed its commands, whether or not he knew of those commands. Then there grew up a conception that included the promise of reward for righteousness, but that conception was, for many, many years, confined to a belief in immediate reward or none at all. The promise, even as it was held out to ancient Israel, was of a land that should be the heritage of the descendants of the faithful. Beyond material good or the knowledge of material good for generations yet unborn there was nothing to inspire to right living.

But with the teachings of Christ another view was opened to those who were willing to accept His teachings—a view that does not end with time, nor with life on this earth, but that extends throughout eternity and is open to the eyes of all who will accept its promise.

This is the message of Easter—that there is a hope beyond the sorrow and disappointment of this life. We have many symbols of that hope, the most beautiful of all being the recurrent birth of the flowers, the purest and sweetest of which are chosen to represent especially the teaching that there is a life to come in which all shall be purity and sweetness to those who strive to fit themselves for such surroundings.

It is a beautiful lesson, but it is more than that. It is an inspiration to every man and woman, for were this that we see and experience all there is to be of life, there would be lacking the incentive to seek that development of spirit that lifts one above the sordidness and the care of the present. But Christ brought to all mankind the hope of a better life to come, in that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. And He sealed that promise by rising from the tomb in the glory of the new life of which He taught.

This is the message of Easter, the message of a tomorrow that shall be more wonderful than we can even dream. It is one that thrills the Christian world, and brings to every man and every woman and every little child that understands the sorrow of parting from loved ones, the assurance that death is but a step to the new and better life, but the putting on of immortality.

Maine has passed a public utilities law. Everybody's enacting it.

THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Postmaster General Burleson proposes to find out what is wrong with the postoffice department, or whether anything is. He has announced his intention of having a thorough investigation, not only into the department finances, but into the way in which the work has been and is being done. He wants to make certain whether the announced surplusage of money from that department is a real surplusage or only a paper one. And if it is a real one, he intends to find out whether it exists at the cost of good service or good conditions in the service.

There have been many complaints about the postal service in the last three years, especially as regards the mail work. Organizations of railway postoffice clerks have protested against the conditions they were obliged to undergo, and the hours of service imposed upon them. And patrons in various parts of the country have supplemented these complaints with charges of delayed mails and inefficiency in the handling of mail matter.

Then there was the recurring charge by Former Postmaster General Hitchcock that the second class matter imposed a burden on the service that was far from equalized by the postage paid on such matter. As a solution of this difficulty the plan of sending magazines by freight was tried, and some of the bigger metropolitan newspapers showed that they were not using the mails in their short-haul business, but were sending their papers by express or on private newspaper trains, so that the burden on the mails from that source was not as great as at first appeared.

All this Postmaster General Burleson proposes to clear up. The sooner that can be accomplished, the better. The postoffice is the people's business organization, and the quality of its service touches practically every person in the country. Perhaps there has been an over-tendency toward niggardliness in some features of its management. Or perhaps the reports of poor service have been unwarranted, or at least exaggerated.

A thorough airing will be good for all concerned, and under the policy of publicity adopted by the Wilson administration a thorough airing is to be expected. Postmaster General Burleson's proposal is a good one. The investigation can do no harm, and may result in general good, possibly even to the extent of the introduction of a 1-cent letter rate.

Now Tennessee reports a lynching. Wonder if they got the right victim?

THE NON-PARTISAN ELECTION BILL.

The non-partisan county officers bill has run against some snags in the house committee. As the bill passed the senate it not only included county officers, but was extended to cover members of the legislature. That was unexpected, and it was not thought likely that so radical a provision would be accepted by the house.

But neither was it expected that the house members would eliminate the provisions as to county officers, as has been done by the house committee. As the bill stands at present it simply provides for official standing for the Bull Moose party and for a change in the date of the primary election.

The Herald believes that it will be a serious mistake if the non-partisanship of county officers is not included in the bill. There is no reason why a man's affiliations with national or even with state party organizations should enter into his candidacy for a county office. In fact, about the only plea made for retaining party lines in the county elections is that the old plan strengthens party organizations.

That is not a valid reason in the face of the unquestionable gains to public service that would grow out of making the county officers non-partisan. The senate saw fit to adopt the non-partisan provision as applied to all county officers, and the house should do the same.

The bill has been reported to the house in the new form, but it should be changed before passage. The house has claimed, and so far has shown, that it is progressive. To pass this bill in its present form would be to repudiate that title of progressiveness, and this the house cannot afford to do.

The snowcapped hills show a singular lack of Easter spirit. They ought to have discarded their winter lids by this time.

OUR POLICY TOWARD CHINA.

President Wilson has set the United States right before the world on the Chinese question, though he has done nothing more than apply to that matter the same principles of fair play and justice that marked his administration as governor of New Jersey. He has given the financial interests and the world at large to understand that Uncle Sam is not going to help browbeat the new republic into selling its financial and administrative liberty to any coalition of money powers.

It has long been pretty generally understood that the larger and more powerful nations were on the lookout for an excuse to grab some of China's territory. The overthrow of the Manchu rule and the effort to establish a republic in that country seems to have been regarded by European nations as the probable means to opening the way for such action. Consequently, when the new government found itself in need of money and sought to borrow the necessary sum, it was at once confronted with conditions that the Pekin authorities felt they could not accept without betraying their fellow countrymen.

In the course of the negotiations the American financiers were brought into the affair, apparently, as far as can be judged from outward appearances, with the idea of keeping the Washington government from spoiling the game by early recognition of the new Chinese government, or by other action not in accord with the plans of the European nations. This theory has recently been given stronger color by England's demand that China admit the $50,000,000 worth of opium taken to her shores by English traders, and which it is sought to introduce into Chinese markets over the protest of Pekin.

Under the Taft administration the United States government gave at least tacit consent to the financial program of the Europeans. President Wilson has given notice that Washington cannot be looked to for help in carrying out that program; that the United States will not be a party to intrigues that look to the making of China into a prey for selfish interests, national or commercial, instead of an accepted member of the brotherhood of nations.

Only one step remains to complete the process of assurance, and that is recognition of the government that has brought peace and republicanism in what was the oldest empire in the world. That such recognition will be offered soon there can be little doubt, in view of what has already been done. And in the mean time President Wilson has saved the name of the United States from being added to the list of the international loan sharks.

Next time President Wilson wants to promulgate a policy maybe he will remember the feelings of Huntington Wilson, and consult all the assistants in every department before he becomes so rash as to speak.

THE MOVIES AGAIN.

Atlanta furnishes the latest example of the remarkable popularity of the movies. Last Sunday nine moving picture houses in that city gave their first Sunday afternoon performances, and the total attendance at the performances, according to the Atlanta Constitution, was 44,106. The performances were not the ordinary moving picture exhibitions, for in deference to the day, all pictures shown were educational in character, and all music played was either religious or classical. Further, admission was free, but it is asserted that 80 per cent of those who attended dropped coins of valuations varying from 10 cents to $1 in the plates at the doors.

Evidence is continually coming from all parts of the country of the astonishing popularity of the moving picture show. There is no other medium of instruction or amusement today that is so comprehensive in its appeal to the people. Which but serves to justify the close watch that is being maintained over the character of the pictures that are shown.

There is no means of ascertaining accurately the number of people who see the various films that are thrown on the screens in all parts of the country, but it must be enormous. The voluntary board of censorship that is continually culling out the absolutely objectionable pictures is doing a work that affects the whole country, and the good results of which can hardly be estimated.

HOMES FOR THE BIRDS.

Some Michigan men are advocating that certain islands in the Great Lakes be set apart as homes for the birds. The plan is not wanting in merit. It is proposed that these bits of land be set apart as places of refuge for the feathered folks, and that they be allowed to live and breed there undisturbed by human interference. That these places be, in fact, converted into and recognized as preserves for the everyday varieties of songsters, just as certain countries have set apart designated areas as preserves for fast-disappearing varieties of game fowl.

But what a comment it is on our conduct as rational human beings, that there should be any excuse for advocating such a plan. Why should it be necessary to give the birds such protection as this? Are we in fact inclined to the destruction of bird life to such an extent that we are not to be trusted to have them among us?

Many societies for the protection of birds have been formed, and have done excellent work along that line. All the available forms of publicity have been employed to teach the value of birds to the farmer and to the city dweller. And if no other kind of appeal will reach the people, let them think for a moment what kind of a place the city would be without the chirping and twittering and singing of the small creatures.

Be good to the birds. Do not drive them away by cruelty or by allowing others to be cruel to them. There is growing up throughout the country a movement to see that they are fed near the homes of the people. Join in that movement, and throw out a few crumbs to the little fellows. The setting aside of homes for them may be all right, but it is distinctly to our advantage to keep them with us. If we drive them away it will be to our own disadvantage and will cut just that much off our own enjoyment of life.

At least the Easter hat question will be safely out of the way by the time election comes around.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

It is interesting, in view of the popular turning against the militant suffragettes in England, to compare the status of their cause in that country and in the United States, where there has been no such upheaval of disorderliness as has broken out in the "tight little island." In England the women have made such advances that the suffrage question was accepted as one of the points to be brought up sooner or later for decision by the government party in parliament. When the government determined to let that question drop for the time being and dispose first of other matters that seemed more pressing the women set about a wholesale and wanton destruction of property, and now their cause is more in disfavor there than ever before.

In the United States the policy of votes for women is steadily growing in favor. Even in our national congress, which never before deigned to recognize the existence of such a demand, the women's plea has been listened to, though not acted upon. While among the states the idea is gaining ground year by year. The Madison, Wis., State Journal gives the following statement as to the status of equal suffrage in this country:

It was granted in Wyoming in 1869, in Colorado in 1893, in Idaho and Utah in 1896, in Washington in 1910, in California in 1911 and in Arizona, Kansas and Oregon in 1912.

It will be made an issue before the people of the state of Michigan in the present year; before the people of Nevada this year or next; and in 1914 it will come before the voters of Montana and North and South Dakota.

It has passed one session of the legislature and must pass another in Iowa, New Jersey and New York, and has met with favorable but not final action in Maine, Missouri and Pennsylvania.

In Minnesota—but "we won't discuss that."

The movement for woman suffrage is growing and growing fast. Sooner or later it will come up for decision in every state in the Union, and it may even get before congress before that time, and so be submitted as an amendment to the national Constitution before some of the states have acted upon it. In any case, the prospects are that the women of the United States will attain the ballot before their more enthusiastic and less reticent British sisters do.

When you ask a man to name the members of the cabinet and he starts out by saying "Bryan," don't let him stop there. You'll be able to catch him later on.

BUM ACTORS.

Did you ever see a vaudeville act, especially a "song and dance turn," in which the girl didn't smile and smile and keep on smiling? It's big odds you never did, and it's almost as big odds that you never will. Did you ever stop to figure out why? Well, it's just because you wouldn't like it if she didn't smile, you and the rest of the audience.

It isn't always easy to conjure up that smile. Sometimes the lights are not worked right—though you don't realize that. Sometimes the music is played too fast or too slowly—though you don't realize that. And sometimes the house isn't as responsive as it might be, and the chill gets across the footlights and strikes clear down into the vitals of the one who is doing the "turn," and makes her wonder what's the matter, and if the trouble is with her or what it is that's wrong. And it's a serious proposition, too, for if her act doesn't "get across" it means that she will have trouble about getting work for the next season, or perhaps she may not even be allowed to finish out the present one.

But in the face of all that she smiles, and keeps smiling. And you say to your neighbor that she's pleasant looking, anyway, and you may remember her for that if you forget everything else about her.

Now just think about that, next time you see a performance. And also think about it the next time you find yourself in a position where the lights aren't handled just as you would like to have them, or when the music to which you must keep time is too fast or too slow to suit you. Imagine yourself on a vaudeville stage, and see if you can keep up the smile and make yourself known and liked for cheerfulness.

The folks who see you may not know about the failure of the lighting effects, or the difficulty you have in keeping time to the throbbing rhythm of the day's work. All they will know is that you failed to make good with the smile. And knowing that, they will be apt to set you down mentally as a bum actor, but one who might have "got away with it if it hadn't been for that face." Rose Stahl as "The Chorus Lady" had a line in which she said that "it isn't the dancing that's hard—it's the smile." Very often in life itself it's the smile that's hard. But even at that, the smile is worth while. It pays, not only in hard cash, but in friendships and all personal associations. And the man or woman who can't make it go is very apt to be set down as a "bum actor."

Candidates are a good deal like the thermometer—they find it necessary to go to one extreme or the other in order to get much attention.

WILSON FAVORS THE BUDGET PLAN.

President Wilson has let it be understood that he is in favor of the adoption of the budget plan in the handling of national appropriations. This is good news. The plan was strongly urged by President Taft in the closing days of his administration, and it found much favor throughout the country. The indorsement by President Wilson of the same reform may be taken as proof that the subject is not to be dropped, but is to be brought before the new congress, with the strong probability that it will be put into practice.

The handling of national finances is most decidedly not a party matter. One of our greatest mistakes has been the haphazard way in which we have allowed our finances to be managed. The Sixty-second congress added to a long list of extravagances that could have been curbed and undoubtedly would have been curbed had the budget plan been in force. With President Wilson in favor of the adoption of that system and with the country as strongly in favor of it as it appears to be, there is good reason to expect that the present administration will see this long-needed reformation accomplished.

Years ago some Filipinos honored Mr. Bryan by giving him the title of "datto." Now of course they will hope to reap a reward. Perhaps we have been under-estimating the political sagacity of the Filipinos.

St. Paul complains that under the new customs arrangement "Duluth becomes the principal port of Minnesota." Becomes, neighbor? No, no! It always was the principal port. What you mean is that now you have got to admit it.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THANKS THE DULUTH STREET CAR COMPANY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

With your permission I want to use the Open Court to thank the Duluth Street Railway company for the installation of the new power plant and the giving of additional power to the Woodland and Hunter's Park cars. With the new arrangement it is now possible to read on the cars on the entire trip from downtown to the suburbs, instead of only while the cars were on Superior street. Furthermore, the high horse power cars are able now to make the trip to Woodland in much less time than they did before. It is a big improvement in the service, and I can assure the company that every person who lives on those lines appreciates it.

Now for a suggestion: If the company wants to make us happier yet, why not inaugurate an express service on the Woodland and Hunter's Park lines, at least during the rush hours? Under the present conditions a person living in either of those suburbs must often pass up a car on that line if he waits for it at Lake avenue or farther east, though by the time it gets to Twenty-fourth avenue east there is plenty of room in it for a dozen or more passengers. This is because so many East end people use those cars. It means that the man or woman living at Woodland must wait ten or twenty minutes longer for a car in which there is even comfortable standing room. If the company would mark these suburban cars "express" and order that they shall not stop to let people off west of Twenty-fourth avenue east, that would make the service available for any East end people who are willing to disembark at that avenue, and at the same time would insure opacity in the cars for those who are going beyond that point.

Within the last year there have been sixty families added to the population of Woodland. This means greater congestion on that line, a condition that could be greatly remedied by the giving of the "express" service. Such an arrangement would also save much time by elliminating many stops that now have to be made while passengers for the East end worm their way out of crowded suburban cars. These passengers are already provided with a service in the East end cars, and their use of the suburban cars hampers the service for those living at the outlying points.

A WOODLAND PASSENGER.

Duluth, March 21.

HEAVES A BRICK IN THIS DIRECTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Eva Moran, alias Trixie Williams, was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon of having stolen $25 from one Edward Jarvi. She got $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. Eva, or Trixie, is an inmate of a St. Croix avenue resort and took Jarvi's money when he went there yesterday afternoon."

We do not know whether this is a fair sample of Duluth municipal "justice," but it does not coincide with the opinions of a considerable portion of the right living people up here.

In the first place the lady (?) was evidently a self-confessed inmate of a house of ill fame and made no showing of extenuating circumstances to merit such mercy from the court which allowed her to return to her vocation of prostitution and robbery upon payment of $40.

No doubt, however, this will be a lesson that "Miss Trixie-Eva-Moran-Williams-God knows what else" will long remember; as she quit $15 loser by the transaction and will know enough to steal sufficient the next time to at least pay her fine.

Saving the Pins.

New York Press: A pin broke the other day when a high officer in a big corporation here was trying to put several papers together. He picked the little sticker up, found that it served his purpose just as well, although an eighth of an inch of it was gone. A little rapid figuring, a call to the pin manufacturers, and soon it was found that several hundred dollars a year would be saved if that concern used pins a little bit shorter than those it had been using. The following week the shorter pins began to arrive, and the economical officer felt he was doing a great favor to the shareholders by keeping down expenses.

A Revised Version.

Judge: "Who can tell me the Golden Text?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

Johnnie's hand went up eagerly. "He that humpeth himself shall be exalted!" he repeated triumphantly.

Easter Fifty Years Ago

Washington Gladden, D. D., LL. D., in Woman's Home Companion.

It is a little more than fifty years ago that I, as a young minister of a suburban church, was invited to preach one Sunday morning in April at the Broadway Tabernacle church, then standing at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-fourth street in New York city. It happened to be Easter Sunday, as I knew; and although almost no notice of the day was taken at that time by the non-Episcopal Protestant churches, it had been my custom to preach an Easter sermon, and I ventured to bring one with me for that service. There were no Easter flowers, and there was no Easter music. I doubt if it had occurred to the minister or to any member of the congregation that it was Easter Sunday. I thought it prudent, therefore, to make a virtual apology for preaching a sermon on the resurrection, saying that while we, as the children of the Puritans, had little to do with sacred days, it might not be unfitting for us, on the day when many Christians were celebrating the resurrection of our Lord, to turn our thoughts in that direction.

After the sermon my good and great friend, then pastor of that church, had just one word of commendation, and that referred to the sentence in which I said that we, as Congregationalists, had little use for sacred days. "I am glad," he said, "that you emphasized that fact." The incident will illustrate the change which has taken place in the attitude toward the Easter festival of the Protestant churches during the last half century. It is now the day of the Christian year most generally observed in all the churches.

The message of the Easter day to you and me and to all men—what is it? In what words shall we phrase it? We might get some idea of the message from the conduct of those who hear it.

See that man sitting solitary and dejected within his home. There is a knock at the door, and a messenger enters. Now he is delivering his message. The downcast look has gone from the face of the listener; he is all attention; watch him. He springs to his feet; his hands smite each other with a ringing blow; his face is all ablaze with joyful emotion; his voice is pitched in a high key; his movements are full of energy. You have not heard a word that the messenger has spoken, but you know that he must have brought a joyful message.

So if you look into the face of humanity on Easter day, and listen to its accents, and watch its movements, wherever the message of Easter has been spoken, you know that it is joyful news, good tidings. The pealing bells, the jubilant songs, the churches and the homes bright with the flowers of spring, the festive garments, the whole costume and utterance of Christendom show that the word has been spoken is a word of cheer, a word of hope, a summons to rejoicing. Is not this, in itself, a great achievement? To fill the heart of the world with a great hope and an unselfish joy, is not that a great good? That Jesus the Christ has done all this for the world no man can deny.

There is reason in this rejoicing. It is the truth that Easter tells that makes the whole earth glad. What is this truth? It is the truth that there is life beyond the grave. To the perfect man there is no death, and in every man there is a spiritual principle over which death has no power. This has been the unquenchable hope of mankind in all the ages and the resurrection of Christ gives to this hope a great confirmation.

"Why," cries the great apostle, "should it be thought a thing incredible that God should raise the dead?" It seems to me the most natural thing in the world, provided that Nature is the outcome of a loving Will. Why should not the gracious Providence who watches over the world and guides its destinies in the track of righteousness, fling into the dark of time this spark of light divine to kindle hope in the hearts of his children? It was in the darkest hour of history that this star arose; it was when the Greek and Roman civilizations were falling to pieces through their own corruption, and the pagan mythologies had lost their hold on the human intellect; when skepticism and despair were almost universal. Surely, if there is a good Father in heaven, and if it is true that He has life for His children beyond the grave, and if this is the very truth for lack of which they are sinking into despair, He will find some way of revealing it to them. Thus the story of Easter day appears to me sublimely probable.

What old Hakluyt tells us about friends greeting each other with happy faces on Easter morning, telling each other the Lord is risen indeed, and embracing each other in the love that springs from a common gladness—this tells the whole story of Easter. Life is the heart of it, joy is the bloom of it, love is the fruit of it.

A Sol-Disant Recipe.

Baltimore Star: "Dear, will you please follow directions while I read the recipe?" said Mrs. Walbrook to her obedient husband.

He took the pan while she read aloud:

First you mix a beaten batter,
Then you take an earthen platter,
Bat the batter in the platter
Without clamor, clash or clatter.
Stir it gently while you scatter
Milk and sugar till the batter
In the platter grows much fatter.
Pour it in a dish that's flatter
Than the first and earthen platter—
Tin will do; it doesn't matter
So the fatter batter's flatter—
Then—
Gently lifting up the latter
Flatter batter, pour the batter
With a percolating patter
In the former earthen platter
Without clatter, clash or splatter.
Now—
Once again in latter platter
Scatter fatter flatter batter—
"Catch your wife and throw it at her," were the last words of Marmion, for the poor man was dead.

A Billion Matches a Day.

Chicago Tribune: In the United States alone some billion matches a day are burned, in spite of all the electricity in use and in addition to all the gas and cigar lighters.

These matches burned in a day amount to over two carloads of the best timber and weigh 50,000 pounds. Some twenty-five tall trees have to be cut to produce this huge pile. If only twenty-four hours' consumption could be placed end to end they would extend about 30,000 miles, more than the distance around the world.

Many of our matches are imported from Sweden and Norway and even Austria. Most of them are "safety" matches.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

An Easter Salutation.

Christians of the Greek church on Easter morning greet each other with the words, "The Lord is risen." The customary answer is: "He is risen indeed." Beautiful salutations surely! It is fitting that the great event the day commemorates be made a subject of universal felicitation.

So gracious a custom is worthy of emulation. What sublimer hope do we cherish than that emphasized by the day of resurrection? The glory of it should surely be reflected in radiant faces and joyful speech.

Of old in the gray dawn the risen Lord met the two Marys with the salutation, "All hail!" It was the challenge of a conqueror and the greeting of a friend. It sounded the keynote of gladness and triumph with which Easter should be celebrated to the end of time.

Into this high and hopeful mood the day should lead us. Since it last dawned many of the sons of men have known prostrating bereavement. They have come from God's acre dazed and crushed. They have found life straightened and impoverished through lost companionships. Few there be who have lived in any world of noble friendships but must yearn for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still.

We need to dwell with that immortal hope of which the day bears witness. After a thousand Easters have come and gone since that first one our common thought of death is still essentially pagan. Men talk and act as though life ended in the cemetery, as though the blessed dead were captives of the grave.

In his "Blue Bird," Maeterlinck has a scene that in itself is an Easter sermon. The children Tyltyl and Mityl come to the graveyard. The little girl asks timorously, "Do the dead live here?" "Are these slabs doors to their houses?" And then in terror she begins to cry while her brother tries to comfort her.

As they stand there a transformation occurs. The crosses begin to totter, the mounds open, the slabs lift. The somber place begins to change before their eyes into a fairy garden full of loveliness and fragrance.

Dew sparkles, flowers bloom out in riot of color, wind murmurs in the trees. Bees hum and birds awake to fill the place with their songs of sunshine and of life.

Puzzled, the children look about for some traces of graves or those who live in them. "Where are the dead?" they ask. And then at length the truth dawns upon them, a truth the saddened heart of humanity needs to remember—the cemetery is empty after all. "Why, there are no dead!" the children exclaim.

It is just that that Easter is teaching us.

Life is real, life is earnest
And the grave is not its goal.
Dust thou art, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul.

The symbol of this day is not a black clod but the lily lifting its white beauty from out of the clod. Easter speaks of life, not death. Wherefore, Sursum Corda—lift up your hearts. Hear the salutation of Him who could not be held by the sepulcher in Joseph's garden and for us all brought life and immortality to light.

"That'd be pretence," answered Willie.

NO PIKER BLOOD IN BRODIE

—By C. L. SHERMAN

A FOOL IN CONGRESS

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A shrewd English observer of their day expressed this opinion: "For a long time the British parliament was a dialogue between Charles James Fox and William Pitt the Younger." And for more than a decade after Appomattox the American congress was a theater where Northerner and Southerner, Yank and Reb, told the world what bad opinion each had of the other. Some years before the war, down in Barren county, Ky., Capt. John Lambert, a "Baron Bradwardine" -of-a-man, was cast in suit at law in a quarter sessions court involving some forty shillings and costs of the action. Interrupting the business of the court and violating its dignity, our old "Peverell of the Peak," starting for the door, gave this invitation to his adversary: "Come out here, Motley, come out here, I want to tell you how mean you are." And so, for some fifteen years after the war, North and South felt it a patriotic duty to tell each other how mean they were.

The chiefest excellence of your Northern statesman was a vocabulary voluminous and vociferous enough to depict treason in hideous colors and make it revoltingly odious, and all occasions were mete for that sort of eloquence. Rebuke of treason was forever in order, forever opportune. There was no closed season for traitor.

For example, Ben Butler and John A. Bingham were both superlatively loyal and "like Hector brave" in a campaign under the folds of the glorious old bloody shirt. Each disliked the other with the malice of the devil himself, and one day there came the inevitable clash. Bingham asserted that Butler lived in a bottle and was fed with a spoon, in allusion to Gen. Grant's report of the operations against Richmond and the accusation that Bingham, as judge advocate of a military commission, had hanged an innocent woman, Mrs. Surratt. Then Bingham, a fiery, impetuous, mercurial and dramatic orator, took the floor and began to wave the bloody shirt, denouncing "the causeless and wicked rebellion," set on foot by traitors whom a too magnanimous government had spared after they had drenched the land with patriot blood and seamed it over with the graves of nameless patriot dead.

Old Butler had a contempt for that sort of eloquence, and deep in his heart, if he had one, which is almighty doubtful, he despised the bloody shirt, and now when Bingham was astride an oratorical rainbow, butting his head against metaphorical stars, Butler brought him to earth in a disastrous anti-climax by roaring from his seat, "I always did love to hear Bingham make that speech."

Thus, for many years, our political quarrels were like those between Orangeman and Ribbonman. How did Grattan describe the condition? "In a clime soft as a mother's smile, on a soil fruitful as God's love, the Irish peasant mourns." That is what the bloody shirt did for that splendid race. And an Irish wit put it this way:

"Och, Dublin's city, there's no doubtin',
Bates any city on the say;
'Tis there you'll hear O'Connell spoutin',
And Lady Morgan making tay.
For 'tis the capital of the finest nation,
Wid charming peasantry and fruitful sod,
Fightin' like divils for conciliation,
An' hatin' each other for love of God."

That is what the bloody shirt would have done for us had not our people hissed it off the flagstaff. There never yet has been the government to conform to Plato's dream, though there will be: "We may endeavor to persuade our fellow-citizens; but it is not lawful to force them even to that which is best for them."

Benjamin K. Focht is a member of congress from Pennsylvania and he is the only bloody shirter left on the national stage. Mr. Focht is in a rage because the South does not send about two scores of negroes to congress to aid him in his mighty intellectual and patriotic labors of solonism. At a banquet held in honor of Abraham Lincoln in this town the other night this gentleman demanded an enforcement of the Fourteenth amendment. Of course this man is utterly and defiantly ignorant of Abraham Lincoln's views on the race question. If Focht had ever read the debate with Douglas he would know that the Great Emancipator was as much opposed to the political equality of the races as Douglas was, or Tillman is. It is true that a while before his lamentable death he speculated that some of the negro soldiers, who discovered the requisite intelligence and stability of character, might be intrusted with the ballot, but the fact is that Lincoln dreamed of the deportation and colonization of the negro. And that is the purpose to which President Grant hoped to put San Domingo, when he sought to acquire that island.

But the Fourteenth amendment, so far as it touches the enfranchisement of the negro, is as dead as the Fifteenth amendment. For years the G. O. P. backed and filled on this question. Had either Force bill—that of Ben Butler in 1873 or that of Cabot Lodge in 1890—become a law, the South would have preferred the bayonet, and to enforce either would have required the sword. The strong common sense of the North, the great patriotic heart of that section, saw the situation as it was. The North looked on the bayonet at the South with horror, a menace to herself, and politically speaking, there is less hope for the negro at the North than there is at the South. There every day when a white convict, just out of the penitentiary, could not have beaten Fred Douglas overwhelmingly for congress in any district of any Northern state, regardless of his party politics.

Following are some of the passages from the report of this here Mr. Focht's speech he stupidly thought eulogistic of Lincoln:

He charged Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederacy, with being an "arch-traitor and conspirator." He declared that the people of the North would not defend the proposed statue of Robert E. Lee in Statuary hall, because he was "a soldier and a gentleman," but that they will never permit a statue of Jefferson Davis on a bridge between the District and Arlington.

How that would have brought the house down forty years ago! He said it in rebuke of Republican Minority Leader Mann, who a few days earlier had expressed himself as favorable to an appropriation by congress of a sum to erect a memorial at Richmond in honor of Jefferson Davis.

And this from the last of his tribe, whose mission is to foment and nourish sectional malice:

"We know," said Mr. Focht, "that the armies of the Union went out simply to put down treason, and that it was in no way a war between the states."

There is the spirit that stoned Stephen, broiled Lawrence, enkindled the fagots Calvin employed to vindicate heaven and confound perdition. It sounded the awful tocsin of Bartholomew's bloody eve, and whetted the cruel dagger of Glencoe's horrible night. It invokes the donjon, the block, the rack, the stake. It has made 10,000 hells on earth and would forever postpone the ecstatic dream of the Prophet of God—Isaiah liv:4.

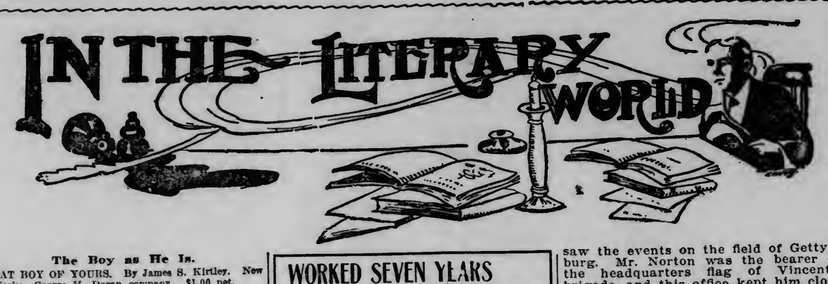
You wonder how this man got to congress? Fools are like the English the Black Prince led to Spain depicted by a cultured son of Italy:

"You will find them everywhere—except in Heaven."

AN ARMORED DINOSAUR IN THE U. S. NATIONAL MUSEUM

Washington, March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new exhibit of exceptional interest in the new building for the National museum is that of a skeleton of an armored dinosaur, or extinct gigantic reptile, scientifically termed Stegosaurus stenops Marsh. This fossil monster is of the Jurassic age and was found near Canyon City, Col., by M. P. Felch in 1885. Since that date it has been the subject of much study by paleontologists and for this reason has remained for a long time unexhibited to the public. Now, however, the various parts hav been assembled under the direction of C. W. Gilmore and placed in the relative positions in which they were originally found.

The fossil skeleton is about twenty feet in length and weighs about a ton. It is quite complete, nearly every bone in place, and in this respect is the most valuable specimen of its kind in the world. Not only the bones, but the armored points and pads are plainly to be seen, as well as many of the wonderful plate-like spines which adorned the back. Nearly all of these plates are present in this specimen while in other instances only a few have been recovered. Strangely enough, this great lizard-like monster of the remote past evidently met his end in some violent manner, for its bones were discovered lying in a position which shows that the animal was on its back when it became covered with sand and earth in which fossilization has preserved its bones. As it is mounted in this position, views of the back and upper parts are to be seen only by the aid of mirrors cleverly arranged below it to show these points of the frame structure.



This newly mounted dinosaur is one of many specimens belonging to the C. C. Marsh collection, transferred to the museum some years ago by the United States geological survey.

From a restoration of this same species of reptile, which stands on another platform, one can get an idea of its probable appearance in life. The Stegosaurs, or plated lizards, are among the most singular of all animals. Even in the strange group of dinosaurs, they are exceptionally odd. Their bodies were long and tapering, beginning at a small, actually diminutive, head, swelling to a rather thick middle, and again growing smaller toward the long, conical tail, which looked like a combination of those of a kangaroo and lizard. Their forelegs were short, and added to their kangaroo appearance. They were armored by horny patches and buttons, set into a very thick skin, giving the appearance of an old-fashioned nail-studded door. The tails were armed on either side near the tops, with large spines which varied in length from several inches to nearly three feet. It can be easily understood that when swung by a tail ten feet in length these spines could inflict terrible wounds on any animal which ventured within reach. A further defensive armor extended from the head to the tail, in the shape of a series of large, thin, sharp-edged plates, arranged vertically in rows, causing the back to resemble huge crosscut saw-blades. When it is realized that these plates rose from the back to the height of two feet in some cases, that they were firmly imbedded in the beast's tough skin, and that they were covered with a growth of horn, making them still longer, it may be imagined what a forbidding and warlike appearance these Stegosaurs presented. It is hard to believe that they lived on grass and plants alone, although the form of their teeth indicates that such was the case.

They were probably of a low order of intelligence, as they have extremely small brains. Doubtless they only possessed sufficient sense to enable them to walk about, eat and sleep. It is for this reason, perhaps, that they were so well protected. Not being in the least clever or even wise enough to protect themselves, they were encased in a suit of armor calculated to make their enemies, if they had any, very cautious about attacking them.

In a paper of the Smithsonian report for 1901, on "Dinosaurs, or Terrible Lizards," F. A. Lucas has given an excellent account of these monsters, including the Stegosaurus, and they are also well depicted by several artists and scientists. The Smithsonian report mentioned is now out of print, but can be found in most public libraries.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

The Boy as He Is.

THAT BOY OF YOURS. By James S. Kirtley. New York: George H. Doran company. $1.00 net.

A great book for fathers. Also for mothers, guardians, relatives and teachers.

Do you understand your boy? Do you get his point of view of things and are you able to understand the problems that come to him during his boyhood? If you do you will thoroughly enjoy these thirty-one chapters about him. And if you don't understand him, you will come nearer to doing so after reading this book than you ever did before, even to the lonely little chap who told his mother: "I wish I was two puppies so I could play together."

There is nothing technical in the book. It is all in plain, simple, everyday English, and it is all written from the standpoint of the boy himself. To give an adequate idea of the scope of its contents is difficult, except to say that it seems to cover everything in the boy's life. The various chapters deal consecutively with the following subjects related to the boy himself.

His table of contents; his body; his appetite; his curiosity; his power of imitation; his imagination; his past and future; his life and epochs; his sports; his employments; his possessions; his spare time; his looks; his gang; his chums; his heroes; his sweethearts; forming his habits; cultivating his will; being his own man; the boy problem; organizing boys; his motives; his failings; his punishments; his troubles; three perils (dealing especially with the approach and transition of the period of adolescence); his home; his room; his father; his brother and sister; his reading; his teacher; his long apprenticeship; his college life; his vocation, and his religion.

There may be somewhere—parents who would not be better parents if they were to read this book, but that is doubtful. It would be vastly better for the rising generation and for society at large if every parent could be compelled to read this book and think over it.

For the Parents of Boys.

TRAINING THE BOY. By William A. McKeever. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50 net.

Though he begins his book with criticism of the states that "appropriate $200,000 to be used in fighting a fruit-tree blight while at the same time the cigaretto blight is withering the youth of the same state," up 200,000 boys in the state does not address his words to the authorities, but to the parents. Nor does he pose as a reformer so much as an instructor.

His belief is that the boy should receive an all-around training. That every part of his being should be developed. That the only way to enable him to get the most out of life is to make it possible for him to appreciate all sorts of activities. And to this end he takes up the multiplicity of problems that come to parents and tells his ideas of how they ought to be solved.

That Mr. McKeever understands boys no man can doubt after reading even a few pages of his book. That he understands the parents' side of the various problems is equally apparent, and he manages to show how sympathetic relation between these two views, so often regarded as being diametrically opposed to each other. He starts with the days before school life begins; takes the youngster through the public schools, through his vacation periods, and through everything else that the growing American youngster has to encounter in the course of his development, clear up to the preparation for marriage and parenthood.

The book is invaluable as a study for parents. It will clear up many puzzling questions, and will help to an understanding of much that, being misunderstood, has added gray hairs to the heads of fond parents and others.

Animal Stories.

THE FEET OF THE FURTIVE. By Charles G. D. Roberts, author of "Kings in Exile," "Neighbors Unknown," etc. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.35 net.

Anybody who has read others of Charles G. D. Roberts' stories of animal life needs no assurance that these additions to the large collections of his nature tales are interesting. Mr. Roberts has the knack of getting as much fascination out of the interests and doings of the wild creatures as the best novelists can arouse in the lives and doings of their heroes and heroines. In "The Feet of the Furtive" he tells of the bear that followed a human being to safety from the flames of a forest fire, and he also gives us bits of life among the lynxes, wolves, chipmunks, fish, moose and other wild things. The stories are fascinating alike for young people and old, and constitute nature studies that are absorbed without the realization that one is learning anything.

A New World Atlas.

NEW FAMILY ATLAS OF THE WORLD. Published by Rand, McNally & Co., Chicago. $1.00 net.

The Rand, McNally & Co. atlases are too well known to need introduction as a class. In this new family atlas are included late maps of all the states and the countries of the world; graphic diagrams showing the tariff history of the United States; brief biographies of the most prominent men in American history; the text of the Constitution and its amendments; tables showing areas and distribution of population in the United States and the railroad mileage; and last, but by no means least, a complete tabulation of the 1910 census, including all incorporated towns and boroughs, with the population of each and also of each state and county. The volume is of convenient size for family use, and is of the greatest value as a handy reference book for readers of modern history or of the daily newspapers.

For Hem-Fever Sufferers.

THE HOME POULTRY BOOK. By E. I. Farrington. New York: McBride, Nast & Co. $1.00 net.

If you want to start a poultry farm this book will be of little or no help to you. It isn't meant for that kind of ambition. It is meant for the amateur—the decided amateur—who only wants to keep a few fowls so that he can know for a certainty that he is eating eggs that belong in the same generation as himself. It tells what breeds of hens lay the best and what are best qualified to make satisfactory adornment for the table when one tires of their egg-laying and care. It tells how to build a chicken house and what to feed the birds and when. And it tells how to meet the multiple perplexities that grow out of the presence of vermin and other pests that come to the keeper of a few birds. Ducks and geese find a place in the book, as well as chickens. In fact, about everything that it is necessary for the raw beginner to know is told him in this book.

Good for Idle Moments.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY. By A. W. Macy, author of "Short-Cut Philosophy." New York: The Cosmopolitan Press: $1.00 net.

As a small volume to be picked up in idle moments and glanced over with a mind free for entertainment and possible gleaning of interesting information, this could hardly be beaten. It tells of all manner of odd incidents in American and other history, including accounts of presidents "who played hookey," the last battle on English soil, practical jokes of various sorts that made their perpetrators famous, some queer bits of political life and all manner of other odd incidents. An interesting chapter is a brief statement of the work of the First Minnesota at Gettysburg. A well-compiled index makes the book available for reference purposes.

The Church Indicted.

SOCIAL RELIGION, an Interpretation of Christianity in Terms of Modern Life. By Scott Nearing, Ph D. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.00 net.

The church, according to Dr. Nearing, is failing to accomplish the purpose of the coming of Jesus Christ. He bases this charge on the conditions of modern life that have grown up in spite of the work of the church, and since he points to evidence he points to the haggard man, the motherless girl, the factory child, and other features of life that we hear of often, but seldom appreciate.

There is need, says the writer, of a Social Religion—a system based on two faiths, the one in God, the other in men. But he adds the requirement that "it is not enough that we believe; we must do." He therefore explains the practice of Social Religion as embracing the three points: Clean living, social service and social justice.

It is a sordid and fearful picture that Dr. Nearing draws of the conditions under which a part of the people of our country are forced to live. He writes convincingly and along lines that are attracting attention the country over today. But he goes far beyond most of those who call attention to these conditions by offering what he believes is a solution of the greatest evils of American life.

At Gettysburg.

Here is the story of one of the most famous portions of the decisive battle of the Civil war, told by one who saw the events on the field of Gettysburg. Mr. Norton was the bearer of the headquarters flag of Vincent's brigade, and this office kept him close to the brigade commander throughout the engagement. Hence his story of the battle so far as that brigade was involved is that of a man who was in exceptionally good position to understand the significance of various movements and to know what was being done and the purpose of each move. In addition to his own story, Mr. Norton includes in his book the official reports of both the Union and Confederate officers, besides quoting freely from historians who have described the high tide of the three-day conflict at Gettysburg. There are also hitherto unpublished letters by Gen. Warren and members of his staff in which the writers tell of this part of the engagement.

Mr. Norton's book will be of value to historians and students of history, both on account of his personal description of the battle and because it constitutes a careful compilation of literature on that subject. It is peculiarly appropriate that it should be published while the preparations are under way for the great reunion of the Northern and Southern soldiers who fought at Gettysburg.

WORKED SEVEN YEARS ON MARK TWAIN'S LIFE

ALBERT BIGELOW PAINE

Albert Bigelow Paine has told now he came to write his biography of Mark Twain. It was at the Players' club, at a dinner given in honor of the humorist, that he spoke to his table neighbor of what an inspiration Mark Twain had been to him since boyhood. "You should write his life," was the suggestion. This idea, which at first seemed only a pleasantry, grew in Mr. Paine's mind until when he visited Mark Twain he ventured a hope that he might some day write a book about him. The long silence which followed seemed ominous, then came unexpectedly the words: "When would you like to begin? Let's begin while we are in the humor."

Her First Novel.

Miss Noyes evidently took to heart the often repeated assertion that publishers are on the lookout for something "different." She made sure of that when she conceived the character of Mark, and she kept to that principle when she developed the outcome of her plot. The conclusion strikes one as being a bit forced, but no doubt the author recognized the impression as a possibility and sought to prepare for it. Perhaps in some respects Mark is natural enough, but it could have made the book more worth reading if Mark's character had been developed to a different conclusion.

Mark himself stands as practically, if not entirely, unique in literature. He is an Australian, suddenly introduced into high society in London, to which he brings a lack of sophistication and a fortune, together with the prospect of being a marquis. His most prominent characteristic, aside from an appearance conventionally like a Greek god, is a frankness in thought and conversation that impresses all who meet him either as a strange kind of inspiration or as an intolerable mannerism. He tenderly sympathizes with an American divorcee upon the loss of her husband, and expresses unbounded mystification the lady herself at the fact that she and her daughter bear different names. He tells none of the little conventional "white lies" that figure so largely in the fabric of social intercourse, and indeed bluntly declines a social invitation given him by Lady Mordaunt, explaining that he prefers to stay at home and read a most marvelous book in which he has become inordinately interested. Pressed to tell the name of the book, he says:

"It's called 'Ivanhoe,' and it's by a man named Scott. Have you read it?"

He is amazed and delighted to find that others have read the book also, and knows of the author. And his lack of knowledge in this respect is but an index to similar qualifications that go to make up the character of this remarkable Australian, who falls in love with a Boston girl in spite of the machinations of a British adventuress.

The style in which the book is written is exceptional for a first novel. There are weak spots, notably in the dialogue, but this is only to be expected in an initial work. But there are other places in which the author shows unexpected power, and her sympathy with her characters never flags. Her appreciation of situations is keen, and she makes good use of the crises that mark the story. Whether "Mark" attains any great success or not, it is to be hoped that Miss Noyes will be moved to essay further adventures into the field of popular writing. Perhaps she would do well to strive less for the unusual and let the world see her skill in handling more commonplace plots.

Romance of India.

THE DAUGHTER OF BRAHMA. By I. A. R. Wylie. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.30 net.

"The Daughter of Brahma," by a distinguished English author, is a romance of innermost India that is intense and gripping. And yet it is more than a romance. It is a powerful exposition of the subtle and fundamental antagonism existing between the East and the West—a noble effort to bridge the gulf that separates them. There is a strange hero, a strange heroine and a strange love story. The plot is strong and striking, covering a wide range of years in which the life of the hero is shown from early childhood, through education and marriage—indeed to the brink of a second marriage. India, with its weird native practices and superstitious unbelief, half-hidden in the murky veil of fraud and mysticism, fanatical, bloodthirsty, temperamental; England, with its stern possibilities, brutal certainties, cold reserve, skeptical hypocrisy and daring assertiveness, towering, tiger-like and threatening—these Miss Wylie portrays in bold antithesis in her book. It is a big book—a powerful story.

Charmingly Idyllic.

Tucked away in sweet-scented lavender, like grandma's first party dress—every bit as far behind the times and every bit as picturesque, too—lay the little village of Skyo on the Kentucky shore of the beautiful Ohio. There was no society scandal to roil its peaceful stream of life. Thrilling romances did not interrupt the spontaneity and rhythm with which affairs moved happily along. Convention and custom ruled in the community and convention and custom did not counte-nance love affairs. But one day the heart of Hyppolite Pac revolted. Hyppolite fell in love with Eve Mulligan and dared to let all know of it. Whereupon the "old beaux" with beards and maids with ringlets in the parish took up their old courtships where they had been discontinued years before and defied the wrath of their ancient elders by sitting arm in arm for tintypes. The story of the romance renaissance in Skye is told by Mr. Allen in this charmingly idyllic novel.

A Mystery Story.

More mysterious, more desperate, more baffling, more intense, more realistic and probable than any other mystery story she has ever written is "The Case of Jennie Brice," the latest novel from the pen of Mary Roberts Rinehart. The scenes are laid in Pittsburg, Mrs. Rinehart's home, and in a manner that is strikingly vivid she pictures the conditions that existed there during the memorable flood of 1907. The sudden unaccountable disappearance of a prominent actress is the nucleus about which the story develops. From the first one finds the tale absorbing and as the pages turn, interest deepens until it holds one in a vise. A startling case of mistaken identity; a network of circumstances pointing to the guilt of the actress' husband; a chain of evidence by which he establishes a substantial alibi; clues galore indicating a score of other possibilities; a striking jury trial; a strange love plot—all these go to make "The Case of Jennie Brice" intensely urgent and mystifying. A delightful love story is also unfolded as the man-hunt progresses.

Psychic Phenomena.

A STEP ON THE STAIR. By Octave Thanet. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company.

This is a story of a doctor who had a theory of radium in sarcoma and was on the eve, he thought, of completing his big discovery. Then he met with an accident that brought him to death's door—he says he did die and was let out—he came back from the dead to finish his job. While in the unconscious state he saw his mother, who had died years before, and talked with her. She was in a state of existence that, she said, was not the last—"this is but a step on the stair; we leave it as we left the life below; but joyfully and not in fear, for each step is higher on the stair." And then the heavenly vision ended, and he came to life or regained consciousness. Here is what Octave Thanet, the author of the story, herself says about it: "A Step on the Stair" wrote itself—slowly and, in a certain way, painfully, for I fussed a year about it and didn't want to write it; but it would be written! I am not a believer in any psychic phenomena; I never had any queer things happen to me. But I had to write that story. I don't know whether I believe in the things it tells, I didn't before I wrote it—nor had its basic idea concerning many other worlds in the future and of our ignorance of the inhabitants of these other worlds, ever occurred to me until I—or something, wrote that tale."

Among the Magazines.

What makes a successful woman's magazine? Pictorial Review for April is the answer. A beautiful cover design is by the famous artist Vinea. Then a song for Easter time, entitled "Let Joyous Peace Reign Everywhere," music by A. G. Robyn, words by Charles E. Summers. The editorial, "Teach Your Child the Value of Money," is a most unique handling of the subject, and a strong plea to make your boy or girl a thrifty spender, and not a spendthrift. The following four short stories are unusually good, each one containing a punch that immediately grips the reader's interest and makes him or her sorry when the end has come. They are "For the Good of the Party," by Holworthy Hall, illustrations by Will Grefe; "A Casual Courtship," by Mariel Brady, illustrations by Lester Ralph; "A Stranger in the House," by Courtney Ryley Cooper, illustrated by Mary Lane McMillan; "Love's Windows," by Anna S. Ellis, illustrations by A. S. Learned.

Sports Afield is ever surprisingly full or interest, and the issue for February seems to approximate perfection as a sportsman's magazine. It is one of the few publications which can specialize without narrowness—be all that its patrons ask and a great deal more. "The Real Southern Mountaineer," by William Perry Brown, could profitably be read by authors whose world-renown is based upon imaginary and misleading descriptions of life in the mild-southern Appalachians. "Christmas week in Central America" is the sort of paper one might expect to find in Harper's or Scribner's, and the current instalment of S. D. Barnes' wartimes serial takes its principal characters safely through an indoor scrimmage with swarming bushwhackers—the shiver and thrill of it pictured to the reader with crisp, forceful penstrokes worthy of Dumas or Conan Doyle.

The feature article of Popular Mechanics Magazine for April from which the handsome cover design is taken, gives an authoritative list of the "Fortunes in Prizes Waiting to Be Won." The list includes both American and foreign prize offers, and the prize sums range from a few hundreds to hundreds of thousands of dollars. The first of a series of articles on "The Battle for Safe Water Supplies," by Dr. Allan McLaughlin of the United States public health service appears. The writer declares that "safe water is worth all we ever pay for it," and that "this cost is so reasonable that there is no excuse for any city's failure to supply safe water 365 days of the year." "Seal Catching on the Newfoundland Ice Floes" is described in a well illustrated article by M. F. Powness, towering, tiger-like and threatening—these Miss Wylie portrays in bold antithesis in her book. It is a big book—a powerful story.

Charmingly Idyllic.

Tucked away in sweet-scented lavender, like grandma's first party dress—every bit as far behind the times and every bit as picturesque, too—lay the little village of Skyo on the Kentucky shore of the beautiful Ohio. There was no society scandal to roil its peaceful stream of life. Thrilling romances did not interrupt the spontaneity and rhythm with which affairs moved happily along. Convention and custom ruled in the community and convention and custom did not counte-shown side by side in sixteen of the large pages of Harper's Bazar for April which is the spring fashion number. The number opens with a personal experience article, "The Confessions of a Climber," in which the wife tells of the ruin and subsequent rehabilitation of a young couple who sought social position at any cost. Two stories are "Soul Hunger" and "Partners." The art in this April bazar, beginning with the cover, which is a strong reminder of Kate Greenaway's best work, includes "The Angel at the Tomb," a full page by Devitt Welsh, and a page wood engraving from Able Barber Stephen's "Playing the Zither." Martha Bensley Bruere and Robert Bruere, together with several of the wives themselves, contribute "After the Revolt," which shows the awakening of the farmer's wife all over the country. "Why I Prefer My Business Life" is another personal experience story, as well as the new instalment of "The Glory of Opportunity," in which Anna Tjomland's struggle for a career takes her to a great university, where she works her way through. Helen Louise Johnson reveals more of the beauties of living on the budget plan in "The Gospel of the New Housekeeping." Among the many practical articles is one by Marianna Wheeler, former superintendent of the New York Babies' hospital, in "What to Do When Baby Cries."

If you happen to be of a jealous disposition, the cover on our sad and solemn contemporary, Life, will particularly appeal to you this week. It is the outside of the Fashion number, in which styles for ladies are pleasantly satirized; more, perhaps, by innuendo than otherwise. There is a particularly interesting center page cartoon by Wildhack, being a tribute to Mrs. Grundy. Life's Fashion Reform league claims the credit for originating American styles for American women, of the whole it is a very interesting issue.

The Keramic studio for March has for its colored study a bunch of "Wild Asters," soft and rich in coloring. Other studies and designs suitable for almost any article in china painting, will appeal to the most fastidious tastes. The California flowers, of which there are many, both in naturalistic and conventional, will attract the eye of those looking for something new. The March number does not confine its attention wholly to California flowers, as there are other very interesting designs.

A "snapshot" of the canal zone from a social worker's point of view forms one of the interesting features of the current magazine number of The Survey. Contributed by Dr. Edward T. Devine, fresh from a week's observations on the Isthmus, the article deals with civic and social problems which in other accounts of the big undertaking have been overshadowed by its impressive engineering aspects. The human story of Gary—its wholesale provision for community life and that life itself surging in to cut its own channel for expression—is told by Graham Romeyn Taylor in his fifth article dealing with "Satellite Cities." The inadequate planning, the turbulent politics, the splendid schools, the wretched "shacks" of the immigrant workmen, and other phases of the place as a community receive thoroughgoing attention.

In the issue of Harper's Weekly for March 15 appears an article by Kenyon Cox entitled "The 'Modern Spirit in Art." Other articles in this issue are: "Hawking With the Adwan Arabs," by William Coffin; "Seeing Mon," by Cromwell Childe; "Where Bergson Stands," by Charles Johnston; "England's Suffrage War," by Sydney Brooks; "The Book of the Week," by F. M. Colby. This issue contains the usual editorials, fiction, illustrated sections of current events, cartoons, drama, finance, and humor features.

DULUTH'S FIRST COMMISSION

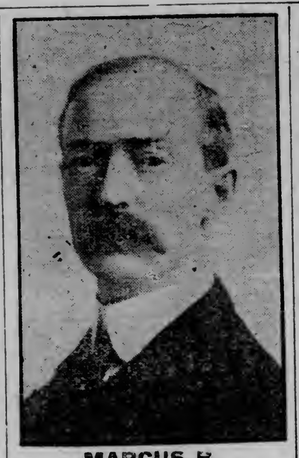
Large Field of Candidates Enter the Race For Election Under the New Charter. Voters Will Choose Five Men to Govern City on April 1st.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENTS—Amount to be paid, $10.00 by each candidate represented on this page.

W. A. HICKEN

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

I respectfully solicit your vote, preferring first choice, but will be pleased to receive second or "other choices" as you may decide. Vote all your choices.



WILLIAM E. McEWEN

William E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, was born in Duluth, beginning life as a newsboy on The Herald.

He has made good in every public office he has held. He is a man of action and does things. He wants to tackle a big job such as member of the new city commission. If elected, he will make it his business to look for city leaks and stop them.

Mr. McEwen, when a member of the common council, introduced the first resolution calling for an estimate of the cost of building an electric lighting plant. He has been for municipal ownership all his life. He stands for it uncompromisingly. Your vote on election day will be appreciated.

MARCUS B. CULLUM

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

I shall be diligent and faithful in the smaller matters, progressive and responsive in the larger matters.

That is efficiency.

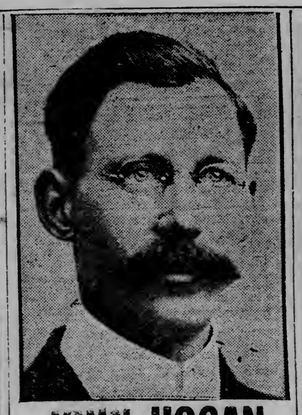
MARCUS B. CULLUM.

VOTE FOR OTTO WOELFFER, —FOR— COMMISSIONER

SHORT TERM

Otto Woelffer, who is a candidate for commissioner, short term, can be classed as one of Duluth's old timers. Since coming to Duluth, 33 years ago, he has won a host of friends by his quiet, unassuming personality, also by his honesty and integrity, for which everyone that knows him can vouch. Mr. Woelffer was born in Jefferson county, Wis., in 1855; leaving there with his parents for Minnesota at the age of 12. He moved to Duluth in the year of 1880. Mr. Woelffer is a member of Duluth Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F., also Duluth Lodge, No. 10, A. O. U. W. Though he has never before taken an active part in politics, he has nevertheless been a keen observer of municipal government, and his friends confidentially predict that in the event of his election, April 1st, he will be a just and capable man to sit on Duluth's first commission board.

MARTIN J. MURRAY



CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

I was born April 19, 1876, at Minneapolis, Minn. Came to Duluth twenty years ago. I served as secretary of the Federated Trades and Labor Assembly during 1894, 1895 and 1896; was also an active worker in labor matters in the '90's. I also served as a private in Co. C, Fourteenth Minnesota Volunteers during the Spanish-American war. I was employed as clerk in the City Water and Light Dept. for 10 years and was appointed chief clerk 1909.

My residence is West Duluth and this is my fourth term as secretary of the West Duluth Commercial club.

If elected, I will guarantee to give the city and its people the best of service and administration, so far as it lies in my power, that any one could do and ask your support at the polls April 1 on a better basis or code of principle is doubtful. On these I believe I can sufficiently ask at least your attention; and I ask your votes.

MARTIN J. MURRAY.

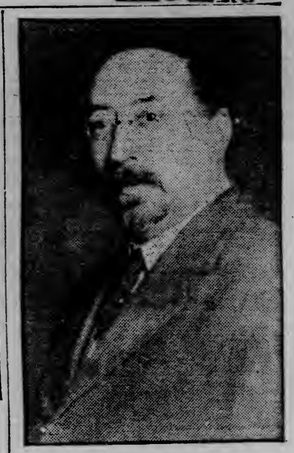
JOHN HOGAN

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

I was born in Norway 48 years ago and have been a resident of Duluth since 1893. I have been engaged in the painting and decorating business, located for the last five years in John Hogan & Co.'s building, No. 22 East First street.

I have represented the Fifth ward in the City Council for five years and my record, I believe, is generally well known to the majority of voters.

I have always stood for, and I shall continue to stand for economy and efficiency in city government, adequate protection of the people's interest in the city's dealings with public service corporations, or concerns asking special privileges.



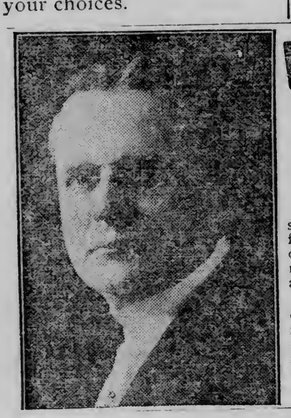
I am unqualifiedly in favor of immediate acquirement through the most practical way of a Municipal Electric Light Plant, both for municipal and commercial purposes, and City Ownership of all public utilities as soon as practical.

I believe in an eight-hour work day, both in public and private work.

I shall stand for impartial enforcement of all laws without fear or favors to any one.

I am in sympathy with, and will support, all movements which tend to protect health and morals, such as systematic collection of garbage, public bathhouses, workfarm, detention homes, etc.

I STAND FOR A CLEANER, BETTER AND GREATER DULUTH.



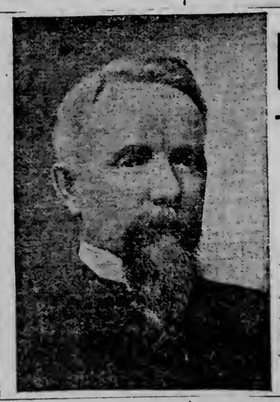
J. C. MYRON

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

Born and educated in Scotland. Has lived in Minnesota since 1880, twenty years with the Great Northern railway, from clerk to assistant general storekeeper and timber and tie agent. Five years superintendent of J. T. McMillan's pork packing establishment in St. Paul. Balance of the time, eight years to date in Duluth in timber business, later as railroad and mining car representative and since September, 1912, city assessor.

I have never dabbled in politics and know nothing about it and assure the public that I have entered the race for commissioner absolutely untrammeled by any party whatsoever.

I propose to show, if elected, that there is one man at least who cannot be swerved from doing his duty faithfully and honestly.



WM. S. McCORMICK

Comptroller of City of Duluth since March 1, 1899. First Vice President of National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers.

I am absolutely in favor of the municipal ownership of an electric lighting plant, an eight-hour day for municipal work, the acquirement of municipal docks, the elimination of the social evil in the business and residence portions of the city, and the absolutely impartial enforcement of the liquor laws.

So many issues have been presented that the main object in adopting the Commission Form of government, that of having the affairs of the city conducted on modern business methods, may in a measure be lost sight of. As commissioner I will work in the spirit of the charter, and endeavor at all times to act in the best interests of all the people.

MARCUS L. FAY

—FOR MAYOR—

THE GANG IS IN THE SADDLE!

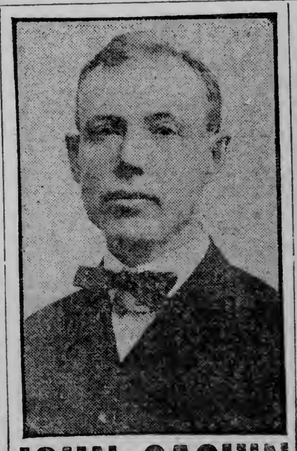
The breweries and some saloons that they control, tin-horns, grafters and all others who profit by vice or violation of the laws are united. They aim to capture the whole commission. Will you stand with them or JOIN WITH ME FOR A CLEAN AND HONEST GOVERNMENT?

FRED J. VOSS

COMMISSIONER—LONG TERM

I am a candidate for the Long Term Commissionership under the new commission form of government, and I respectfully request the support of the voters of Duluth.

On Jan. 18, 1887, I became treasurer of Duluth when it was then only a village. I have held the office of treasurer continuously since then. During those twenty-six years I have tried to transact the business of my office economically, faithfully and efficiently; to do everything in my power to make the city's credit gilt-edged; and to keep Duluth's finances in such a shape that any taxpayer or voter may get whatever information he desires about them, at any time he wants it. I believe that these twenty-six years of experience have given me the opportunity that no other man has had, to become equipped to serve the city on the new commission. I have tried to make my job as treasurer a profession. I know I have served the city honestly and faithfully in the past, and I believe I have served it efficiently. If elected I promise the voters that my service in the future will be just as honest, just as faithful, and more efficient if I can make it so.

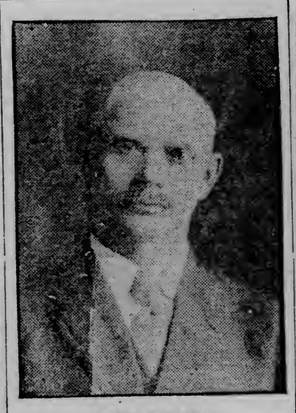


LEONIDAS MERRITT

FOR COMMISSIONER (LONG TERM)

Stands for Municipal Ownership and Strict Law Enforcement.

Has taken an active and lifelong interest in the welfare of Duluth, and respectfully asks the voters' support.

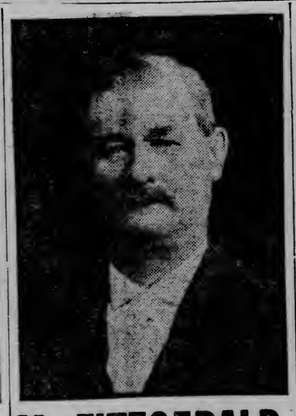


JOHN CASHIN

FOR CITY COMMISSIONER

TWO-YEAR TERM

33 Years a Resident of Duluth. Your Vote Will Elect Me.



Voters may vote for one first choice candidate for mayor, and must mark their ballots for first choice for two commissioners for two years, and two commissioners for four years, voting for four candidates for first choice as above, otherwise ballots will not be counted. You are also entitled to vote for the same number of second choice candidates, and as many third choice candidates as there are other names on the ballot.

FRANK JORDAN

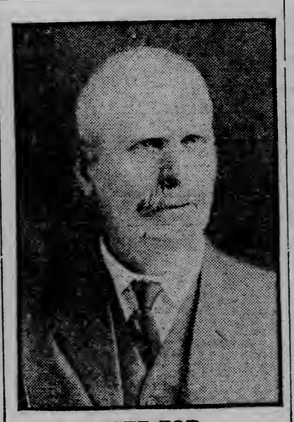
FOR COMMISSIONER SHORT TERM

I am a candidate for city commissioner for the short term. I have been a resident of Duluth for twenty-six years, during all of which time I have been a property holder. Seven years' service in the council as alderman for the Third ward, with two terms as president of the council, have given me a knowledge of the problems of the city and the methods of dealing with them. I have always taken an interest in the welfare of the city and I stand for progress in municipal affairs. I believe in a good, clean administration, and I will do my best to make Duluth a well-governed city if I am elected.

M. FITZGERALD,

CANDIDATE EOR

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM



I take this opportunity of asking your support at the election, to be held April 1st next.

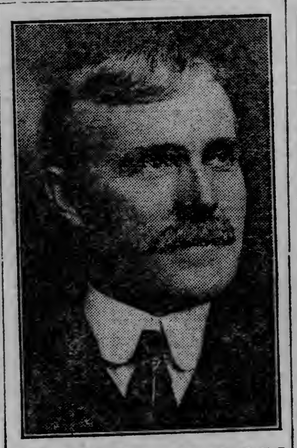
I have been a resident of Duluth for the past 26 years and have been on public improvements and in the contracting business all that time.

I am a property holder and have been a taxpayer for the past 24 years; I know much of the needs of the city's improvements.

I am in favor of good roads; good, clean streets, municipal ownership and strict enforcement of the laws, and if elected, I will endeavor to carry out to the best of my ability and work for the interests of the people and the taxpayers, giving justice and equal rights to all.

M. FITZGERALD.

VOTE FOR JAMES W. PRESTON



FOR COMMISSIONER LONG TERM

To the Voters of Duluth:

I have been nominated for the office of Commissioner for the long term and my acceptance has been filed. If a majority of your members desire to elect me to the position I have been nominated for—believing that I am qualified to fill the position—I solicit your vote on April 1, 1913.

Use your second and third choices as that is your privilege.

JAMES W. PRESTON.
Candidate for long-term commissioner.

OLOF G. OLSON

CANDIDATE FOR SHORT TERM COMMISSIONER

If elected, I shall take a great deal of pleasure in co-working with the commission for legislation that will make Duluth a better city to live in. I believe in a lower and more equitable rate of taxation.

I am for impartial law enforcement, with no favoritism to anyone.

My record as a member of the Board of Public Works for the last nine years clearly shows fair and square dealing to the taxpayers as well as to the city in general.

I ask for your kind support.

OLOF G. OLSON.

FRED TISCHER

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

My platform in brief I wish to set before the people; it will consist chiefly of the following topics: Honesty, economy, cleanliness, a uniform and impartial business system "of the people, by the people and for the people."

I was born in Duluth and have lived here forty-two years.

I am in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities and would take immediate steps in the most careful and precautious manner to obtain same.

I would enforce the laws in every direction, force down the illegal liquor dealers, and see that the licensed places obeyed the laws.

I am in favor of any legal plan that can be utilized in ousting social evil and vice, but am well aware that this means hard work and will take time.

I am by no means a mud mixer, and only ask clean, legal support.

I am in favor of equal rights for the people, be they rich or poor. I don't want to take from any man that which legally belongs to him, and don't want to give to any man that which belongs to others.

If elected, you can feel assured I will be a man that every one can approach on any business pertaining to city affairs, and that I will pay strict attention to my work and see that the people will receive equal attention.

Respectfully,

FREDERICK TISCHER,
612 Twentieth Avenue East.

JOHN T. ARMSTEAD

COMMISSIONER

FOR LONG TERM

Pledged to work at all times for the best interests of Duluth and to carry out the will of the people.

CARROLL F. GRAFF

CANDIDATE FOR

COMMISSIONER

(LONG TERM)

I have lived in Duluth thirty odd years—

Long enough to know something of the city's needs and to be devoted to its welfare.

If elected, below are a few of the things to which I pledge my support:

1. The ownership and operation of a municipal electric lighting plant for municipal and commercial purposes, by the most practical method, just as soon as the same can be accomplished.
2. Municipal Docks.
3. The strict and absolutely impartial enforcement of the Liquor Laws.
4. The abolishment of the so-called "Red Light," or Segregated District.

I do not believe the city is justified in countenancing or licensing vice in any form.

5. An eight-hour day for municipal work done for or by the city at the current and usual wages prevailing at the time the work is performed.

CARROLL F. GRAFF.

NEIL B. MORRISON

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

Says that if he is elected he will do all in his power to give the city a good, clean, moral and business administration; giving everyone a fair deal.

We spend an immense amount of money on street improvements, public parks, police department, fire department, health department and water and light department.

Are we getting value for this large amount of money spent each year? If not, we should. If he is elected he will do all in his power to see that the city gets one hundred cents worth of efficiency for every dollar spent.

He is in favor of the strict enforcement of the saloon and liquor law.

He is in favor of municipal ownership of all public utilities.

He is in favor of an eight-hour day for all work done for or by the city, but he expects every employe of the city to give the same efficient service to the city that they would to any other corporation, firm or individual. He will expect them to be on their job eight hours a day.

VOTE FOR NEIL B. MORRISON for Commissioner for Short Term.

JAMES A. FARRELL

("BERT")

Candidate For

COMMISSIONER

SHORT TERM

I was born and raised in Duluth. I have an intimate knowledge of the needs of the city, furthered by 20 years' in the office of the city engineer. My duties took me to all parts of the city. I am no man's man; I am no interests' man. If I am elected to the commission, I will go into office with free hands to do the people's work, subject to the people's will.

JAMES A. FARRELL.
("Bert")

W. I. PRINCE

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

The following are some of the principles for which I stand:

If elected mayor, in co-operation with the other members of the commission, I shall strive to see that the following principles are carried out in the administration of city affairs:

I stand for obedience to law along all lines.

Among others, dealers in intoxicating liquors must conform strictly to the above rules. They should ask nothing else. All, however, must be treated alike and no favoritism shown. The patrol limits should not be extended.

The social evil must be dealt with in a determined and vigorous manner and, as far as possible, suppressed. There should be no segregation of vice.

The cost of living in this city should be reduced. At times, the municipal authorities, acting together or with other organizations, may do much along such lines when the individual can do nothing. I shall welcome such an opportunity.

If elected I will use my best endeavors to at once establish by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant in the city of Duluth for municipal and commercial purposes.

All matters of regulation of public utilities by franchise or contract should be submitted to the voters for their consideration by the referendum and their decision must govern and must be followed. This applies to both the past and the future.

Public service corporations should be treated fairly, but they must be active in giving still better service and in extending their lines of operation wherever such extension becomes reasonably necessary.

In all fields there must be fair treatment and prudent and economical business management combined with a thoroughness in all lines of constructive work.

There should be an enlightened, forward outlook. Duluth is a city of promise. Its public officials, assisted by the citizens generally, should strive to realize the best. This includes material prosperity, and still more, the higher welfare in every way of those who make this city their home.

—VOTE FOR—

JOSEPH WM. CUMMING

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

SHORT TERM

To the Voters of the City of Duluth:

In asking for your support at the polls April 1st, I beg leave to state I have lived in the city of Duluth for the past 28 years, 25 of which have been in the West end. I have been in business for myself with the exception of six years that I worked for the Duluth Street Railway as conductor and three years as steward of the Steamer Dixon. Previous to going into the retail grocery business, in which I am now engaged at 2732 West Second street, I conducted a retail oil and gasoline wagon, supplying my customers from house to house. I have always taken an interest in city affairs, although never held office. I have held the office of county commissioner for the Third district (Sixth and Seventh wards) for four years, and believe I learned considerable to fit one for a position such as offered as city commissioner. If elected, I will endeavor to give the city a clean business administration. Respectfully,

JOSEPH WM. CUMMING.

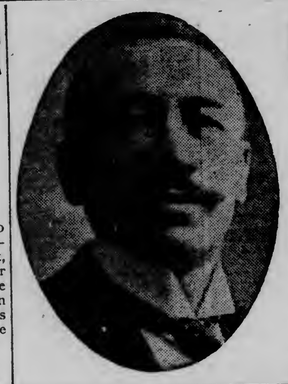
H. P. CURREN

COMMISSIONER

FOR SHORT TERM

I ask that you give me your support at the coming city election April 1st. I have been an active worker in trying to build up the city's welfare. I have served you as an alderman in the Fourth ward for two terms, representing the people and taxpayers. I have always tried my very best to make a clean and better Duluth, and I will strive harder, if elected, to see that at all times a fair and square deal is given to all. I have been in business for the past 20 years, and my record, as far as looking after the welfare of the public, and my business ability, I will leave that to you. All I ask is that you mark X in same line as my name is on the ballot for H. P. CURREN.

DR. W. H. KONKLER



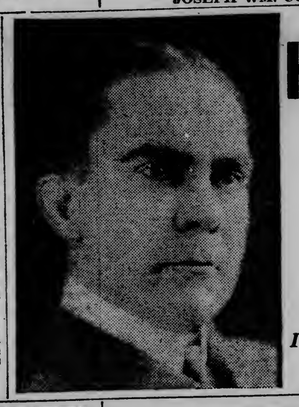
—FOR—

COMMISSIONER

(SHORT TERM)

People are no longer satisfied to have the say-so of public servants gone by. Therefore, the candidates, who are elected to run your city government, should be of the best quality and to show their superiority, be able to demonstrate to the inquisitive public that they are capable of putting our city on the map as a city that will be a model one for others to follow. Therefore, let our WATCHWORD be PROGRESS and vote for the best men.

DR. W. H. KONKLER.



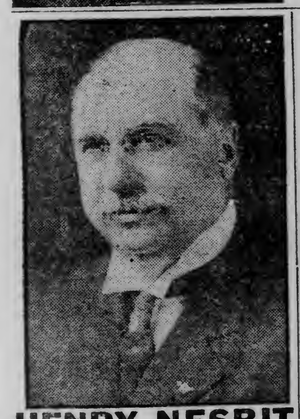
BERNARD SILBERSTEIN

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Mr. Silberstein enjoys the distinction of being the pioneer merchant of Duluth, having come to this city in 1870. Since then he has always been prominent in the city's activities and has given 22 years service to the city on the park and library boards, without remuneration.

Mr. Silberstein stands for a strictly business administration, based upon economy with efficiency, a lower tax rate, lower cost of living, establishment of public markets, public gymnasiums and social centers, parks, playgrounds, and highways, and eight-hour day for work done for or on behalf of the city, the ownership of a municipal electric plant, and a clean, moral and safe city.

Under the new charter he will have ample opportunity to carry out these principles, as in all likelihood the mayor will be assigned to the department of public affairs, which department has supervision over parks, playgrounds, public welfare and things pertaining to public affairs in general.



HENRY J. MULLIN

COMMISSIONER

(SHORT TERM)

I Stand For a Clean, Efficient, Business Administration.

HENRY NESBIT

FOR MAYOR.

If elected Mayor of the City of Duluth I herewith pledge myself in favor of the following propositions:

1. I will use my utmost endeavors to conduct the City's affairs in an efficient, business-like and economical manner;
2. I am in favor of a strict and impartial enforcement of all laws as they are written; this includes laws respecting the sale of intoxicating liquors.
3. I am in favor of keeping our boys and girls off the streets nights and from frequenting questionable places at any time. I believe this can be done with proper police regulation.
4. I am in favor of public ownership of all public utilities and, if elected, will use my best efforts to at once secure by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant for the City of Duluth.
5. I am in favor of the City acquiring municipal docks for the use of the general public.
6. I am in favor of the abolishing of the so-called red light or segregated district and am in favor of increasing our police force, if necessary, in order to reduce the evil to a minmum in all parts of the city.
7. I am in favor of establishing public markets in the City of Duluth so that the farmer and consumer may be brought closer together to their mutual benefit.
8. I am in favor of an eight-hour day for municipal work done for and by the City at the current and usual wages prevailing at the time the work is performed.

DAVID H. DAY

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

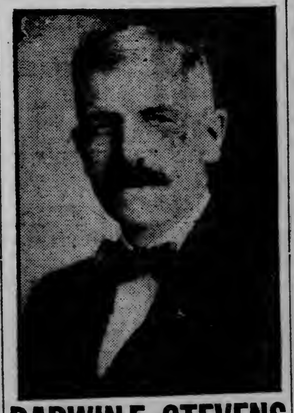
In order to make sure of the election of a mayor and four good commissioners, men who are REAL municipal ownership men, I am going to devote a portion of my time at all my public meetings to an illustrated description of the preferential system of voting, which will be used at the coming election.

If the voters wish to elect men who will represent them, and not men who will represent some corporation, they MUST learn to use this new system of voting intelligently.



RODERICK MURCHISON

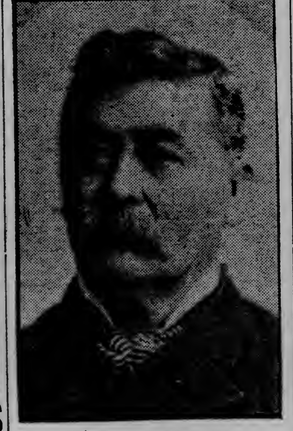
COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM

To the Voters of Duluth:

I have been nominated for the office of commissioner for the short term, and my acceptance has been filed. If a majority of your number desires to promote me to heavier responsibilities and higher duties by an election at the polls, I will give you the same quality of personal service in the future as I have in the past.

RODERICK MURCHISON.

DARWIN E. STEVENS



CANDIDATE FOR

SHORT TERM COMMISSIONER,

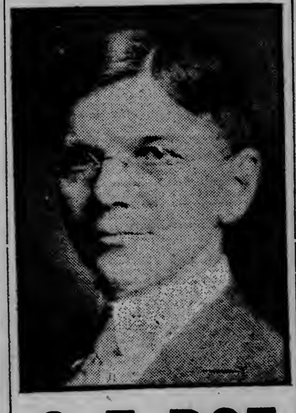
ITEMS OF INTEREST TO THE PUBLIC:

1st. Lived in Duluth for 43 years.
2nd. Owned and operated a fleet of tug boats twenty-nine years.
3rd. Elected to City Council seventeen years ago and foremost in placing Pumping Station in present location.
4th. Served four years on City Health Board.
5th. Served nine years on the Board of Education, seven of which were as chairman of finance committee.
6th. During past twenty-nine years given municipal affairs and business my earnest attention.
7th. Worked hard for adoption of New Charter and much interested in its success.
8th. Am not in favor of violating present ordinance by posting of Candidates' pictures promiscuously throughout the city.

DARWIN E. STEVENS.

WILLIAM H. SMALLWOOD

COMMISSIONER FOR SHORT TERM



To the Voters of Duluth:

On the eve of an election a candidate is too apt to answer "Yes" to any question where such answer will increase the chances of his election.

The more promises a candidate makes before election the less he may be expected to fulfill any of them after election. One who is too ready to say "Yes" before election is not likely to be very strong on saying "No" after the election. It is more important to have a public officer who can say "No" than one who can say "Yes."

I stand on the general promise that if elected, I will faithfully support the reforms provided for in our new city charter and will, to the best of my ability, strive to uphold and improve the credit, good reputation and general welfare of Duluth.

IN HONOR OF G. J. MALLORY

Secretary's Rinks Win From Treasurer's Adherents By 69 to 32.

If the ice at the Western Curling club is in good condition next Tuesday evening, the members will hold a bonspiel in honor of the birthday anniversary of George J. Mallory, the oldest member of the club.

Mr. Mallory will be 60 years old next Tuesday and the special post-season bonspiel is to be a testimonial of the local members. Ten rinks will be played, five on each side, and the total score counted to decide the winner. Mr. Mallory will give the winning side a box of cigars.

Mr. Mallory was one of the organizers of the local club ten years ago, and has always taken an active interest in it ever since. He was president of the club two years ago.

Last evening the post-season contest between the Secretary's and Treasurer's rinks came to a close, with the former winning by the score of 69 to 32. Holland and Judson both won their games. The score follows:

Secretary—		Treasurer—
Wade	18	Ellis	6
Zauft	14	Keyes	13
Wieland	6	Mallory	11
Holland	13	Simpson	5
Judson	18	Olson	7
Total	69	Total	32

This evening five teams from the local club will journey to Superior for practice games. The invitation was extended by the Superior club yesterday and a large delegation of members will accompany the curlers. Members of the club will also be allowed the use of the skating ice.

C. P. Craig Urges West Duluth Club to Take Up Plan.

A park, extending from New Duluth to Thomson along the St. Louis river, is proposed by C. P. Craig in a communication, which was read at the West Duluth Commercial club meeting last evening.

The project was at once taken up by the club and the following committee was appointed to investigate the advisability of establishing the park: L. A. Barnes, chairman; H. H. Phelps and E. J. Zauft.

In his communication, Mr. Craig explains the many advantages of such a park, which would mean the parking of the entire river front from New Duluth to Thomson. Several small dock landings and a large pavilion could be erected by the park board and the park made into a most popular playground for motor boat owners and residents of the various suburbs in the western end of the city.

The committee was instructed to make its report as early as possible.

M. J. Murray, secretary of the club, was instructed to send a letter of congratulation to Senator James P. Boyle, who took such a prominent part in the fight for the reapportionment bill.

It was announced that a meeting of the banquet committee would be held this evening. Andrew Myles, chairman, will preside.

SAMPLE BALLOTS ARE ON EXHIBITION.

Thomas Olafson, who had charge of the campaign to explain the preferential voting plan, is of the opinion that there are hundreds of voters in the city who do not yet know exactly how to vote the first, second and third choices.

To enable all the voters to properly understand the system, so that no ballot will be declared void at the election April 1, Mr. Olafson stated this morning sample marked ballots have been prepared and are now on display in his office at 5417 Ramsey street and at W. B. Getchell's office, 319 Central avenue.

SEVEN NEW CHURCHES

Plans Being Made for Buildings in West Duluth and Vicinity.

Largest Edifice Will Be Erected By New Duluth Catholics.

Seven new churches will be built this year in West Duluth and the western suburbs.

Plans have already been made by the local congregations for the erection of these churches and it is expected that active construction will start on a majority of them as soon as the weather will permit.

Of the churches to be erected the largest will be the New Duluth Catholic church at New Duluth, the site for which has already been purchased. It is planned to have the structure finished by next fall. Rev. John Begley, who is now conducting the services at the Kulascewicz hall, will be in charge of the new church. The structure will be of brick and modern throughout.

The congregation of the Swedish Mission church will erect its new church building on the site of the present edifice at Fifty-ninth avenue west and Greene street. The church will front fifty feet on Greene street. E. C. Gilluson is drawing the plans for the building. The structure will cost about $5,000. Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom, pastor of the church, is in charge of the plans.

The Proctor M. E. church will erect a $5,000 edifice this summer, according to the present plans of the congregation. Rev. R. W. Wilcox, who took charge of the pastorate last fall, is chairman of the building committee. The auditorium will seat 200 people.

New Church at Proctor.

Christ's Episcopal church at Proctor will also erect a new church building this year. The congregation was organized about a year ago and the membership has so increased that a church building has been necessary. Meetings are now held at the Odd Fellows' hall and are in charge of Rev. W. E. Hartmann of the St. Peter's Episcopal church. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Plans for either the erection of a new church or a complete remodeling of the present structure are now being made by the congregation of the Holy Apostle's Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Ellinor street. In all probability a new edifice will be erected at a cost of $5,000. Rev. Wilfrid of the St. John's Episcopal church at Lakeside, who is in charge of the local pastorate, is arranging for the construction of a new building.

Rev. J. A. Krantz of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church has received the plans for the new Swedish Lutheran church to be erected this summer at Midway. The building will cost $8,000 and is to be of brick. The plans provide for an auditorium to seat 400 people. Rev. Dr. Krantz is also pastor of the Midway church.

The Congregational church at Fond du Lac will be erected some time this year, according to Rev. Allen Clark, its pastor, who is also in charge of the Plymouth Congregational church. The building plans have not yet been made but the construction of a church building is being considered by the members of the congregation. The church was organized last fall.

Lamere Funeral.

NAVAL MILITIA ENJOYS LUNCH

Celebrates Close of a Most Successful Recruiting Contest.

The second division of the Minnesota naval militia held a "Dutch lunch" in their clubrooms at the Armory last evening to celebrate the close of the recruiting contest and the enlistment of twenty-five new recruits.

The side led by Gunner's Mate E. J. Blanchard won the contest with fifteen new men to their credit. After the lunch, E. J. Blanchard acting as toastmaster, short talks were given by William Elder, Thomas Johnson, William Swain, Robert Paine, John Brophy and others. All of these talks showed much interest and enthusiasm in the naval militia. In a short talk given by Lieut. R. T. Hugo, commanding the division, he said that in his five years' experience in the naval militia, he had never seen the interest and enthusiasm at such a high pitch.

The prospective cruise of the Gopher to Put-in-Bay to witness the Perry centennial celebration and the fall cruise through the Panama canal aboard one of the battleships with the navy squadron, are proving of great interest to the young men of Duluth and the vacancies are being readily filled.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

"Red" Griffin has "cashed in" his last checks.

He died last night while driving in a closed carriage from the railroad station at Shakopee to a private sanitarium three miles from the town, death being due to apoplexy.

"Red" Griffin was known to all the gamblers and throughout the underworld of the Northwest. For twenty-seven years he made his home in St. Paul and acquired the soubriquet of "King of the Saintly City Gamblers," and the smaller Twin has been noted for harboring more than a few of the professional devotees of the goddess of chance.

For some time he had been ailing with what was diagnosed as nervousness and heart trouble. The physician at the sanitarium pronounced apoplexy as the cause of death.

"Red" started his career in the northern part of the state. He played Duluth and the iron range country and occasionally the settlements along the north shore. That was in the early days, when the lumbering industry was at its height and mining in its infancy. The lumberjacks would come in with rolls of greenbacks and in the summer the men from the lakes kept the pot boiling, while all the time "Red" was willing to sit into any game in which real money was the stakes.

Griffin was credited with knowing every professional criminal of account in the Northwest. The police of the Twin Cities state no other man had a wider acquaintance among the element which exists by warring with society than "Red" Griffin. He was known to several members of the Duluth force and was friendly with many members of the force in St. Paul. He was not a stranger to the bluecoats of Minneapolis, but he seldom went to the Mill City. It is said that for years he never set foot inside the corporate limits of Minneapolis.

With Griffin in the closed carriage at the time of his death were L. R. Thian, former county attorney of Hennepin county and candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor of Minneapolis last year, and Norman King, captain of detectives in Minneapolis under the administration of Dr. A. A. Ames. King now runs a private detective agency in Minneapolis and has been in Duluth occasionally in the last few years, though not very recently. John O'Connor, former chief of police of St. Paul, said that he was sorry to hear of Griffin's death. "His wife is ill and his daughter is an invalid," added O'Connor, "and under the circumstances I prefer not to discuss his record."

During all the years that "Red" Griffin was known as a gambler he never stood trial on any charge more serious than a misdemeanor and was never indicted by a grand jury.

For a time Griffin ran a gambling house and a theater in Ashland, Wis. The theater burned and Griffin's wife lost her life in the fire. There was a police investigation and Griffin was held for a time, but was released. In St. Paul he ran several gambling establishments, was in the saloon and hotel business and finally bought the Savoy hotel on Minnesota street. Two years ago he disposed of the Savoy and went into the jewelry business.

Griffin had been a patient at the sanitarium at Shakopee for two months. Wednesday he went to the Twin Cities to visit his store. He was returning to the institution when he passed away in the carriage in which he was going back to the sanitarium.

Patrolmen Oscar Olson, Riedel, Dinkel and Kreiger surrounded Dunlap's saloon at 619 West Superior street at 1 o'clock this morning, blocking both front and back exits. Making their way inside they arrested Mike Shea, the bartender, on a charge of keeping open out of hours, and sent Louise and Nellie Mushall into headquarters at the same time. The sisters, waitresses in a nearby restaurant, forfeited $25 bail, each, when their names were called in police court this morning. Shea pleaded guilty to keeping open in violation of the state law and paid a fine of $100. The officers reported that they found nine men in the place in addition to the two waitresses.

ROMANCE IN POLICE STATION

Superior Police Lieutenant Claims Former Social Worker as Bride.

A romance which had its inception in the city hall at Superior three years ago, in which a police officer was won over by the charms of a prominent woman social worker, culminated today in the issuing of a marriage license to John A. Kelley and Florence S. Two, both of Superior.

Mr. Kelley is lieutenant of the Superior police department and his bride-to-be was formerly secretary of the Superior public welfare board, which has offices in the city hall building. The marriage will come in the nature of a surprise to friends of both, who have, however, entertained some suspicions in that direction.

Lieut. Kelley intended to have a little surprise for his friends in Superior, so he stole quietly over to Duluth this morning and got his matrimonial permit from the clerk of the district court here.

Miss Two is now on her way here from Chicago, or at least that is what he told the marriage license clerk.

Lieut. Kelley, up to three years ago, was secretary of the police department for a number of years. He has also held other public offices, having served one term as city clerk. He succeeded Darwin Scoon as lieutenant.

Miss Two, his intended bride, is a social worker of some prominence and of several years' standing. She was made secretary of the Superior public welfare board, when that organization came into being about three years ago. She resigned the first of the year to go to Chicago, where she has been engaged in the same work in a larger field.

HEARING GOES OVER TO MONDAY

Only One Member of House Grain Probe Committee Present.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only one member of the house grain probe committee, C. M. Bendixen, the chairman, was present at the time set for the hearing today on the work of the railroad and warehouse commission and the state grain inspection and state weighing departments under it. C. E. Elmquist of the commission said that several weeks had been spent preparing statistics on grain weighing and inspection work, and he thought the full committee ought to be present when he explained the figures. It was agreed to adjourn until Monday at 10 o'clock.

The committee will spend Tuesday and Wednesday hearing country elevator men, whom John Lind, attorney for the commission men, has asked to testify. James Manahan, attorney for the committee, said that he wants to close up the hearings as soon as possible, as he wants to be in Washington April 1, to attend the hearings before the interstate commerce commission on the proposed express rates.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.
Inserted by Marcus B. Cullum in behalf of himself, candidate for mayor. Amount to be paid, $16.80.

MY RECORD IS OPEN BEFORE YOU

In 1899 I was elected to the city council from the First ward; the telephone franchise was up that year, and I helped put in it the clauses protecting public interests.

In 1904 you elected me mayor under the old charter; you honored me again in 1906 and 1910.

Let us recall some of the things that were done in my several terms by my efforts or with my assistance.

Public service corporations were charged with their proper duties. The Street Railway Company was induced to put on large cars; its taxes were increased to double their previous amount.

The Soo was admitted, with clauses in its franchise by which for the first time a railroad company agreed to pay assessments for improvements; making a firm precedent for others.

Public Ownership was advanced.

Members were appointed to the water and light board who were in sympathy with that purpose. A city attorney was chosen who was an enthusiast for it.

Negotiations were opened for public docks; favorable action was obtained on the lease of the state dock to the city.

Laws were enforced;

Not perfectly; they have not been under any administration. I drew the reins tighter the first year I served than it had been before; I held saloons and disorderly places more strictly to the law at the end of my term than at the beginning. I told you over and over you should have stricter enforcement the minute you provided the means for it.

Parks were enlarged and play grounds established.

Bonds were put through for park extensions; East End Park was bought from Northern Pacific on favorable terms; one-half the amount raised by subscription.

In the strikes of 1907 order was preserved, fair play was maintained, and the city's mediation was accepted.

In 1910 a revaluation of the tax roll was accomplished on a basis of permanent equality.

The municipal plant was increased.

The incinerator was established.

In all these things I had my part; some of them you will recognize as my work. The Commission Form of Government was my hobby, even to trying to work myself out of a job for it. The Welfare Board was more than a hobby.

Not a perfect record. I can make a better one.

ON THE IRON RANGES

BOND DEAL IS HALTED

Injunction Proceedings Are Started to Prevent Virginia Selling Its Bonds.

Virginia, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A suit was filed in district court here this morning entitled Joseph Backus vs. The City of Virginia, the Councilmen, Mayor, Clerk and Treasurer, to show cause why an injunction should not be issued restraining the city from signing, sealing, issuing or putting into circulation the issue of $450,000 of the water and light bonds, or from in any manner carrying out the contract made with Bilger, Mosser & Willaman of Chicago to purchase the bonds.

The bill of complaint says the Bolger, Mosser & Willaman bid is not included as an exhibit attached to the complaint for the reason that the bid was willfully, wrongfully, unlawfully and fraudulently taken from the possession of the city clerk and from the records of the office of the city clerk by Bert Fesler of Duluth, special city attorney.

Bid Less Than Par.

The complaint states that the city charter and state law require that bonds be sold at par and accrued interest whereas Bolger, Mosser & Willaman's bid was at par but the contract calls for an allowance of $6,750 below par.

It is contended the city has no right to pay any sum to the purchaser for attorney fees or other purposes. Copies were served on the aldermen and other officials and several citizens.

City Attorney D. D. Morgan states the suit is an attempt to prevent consummation of the deal for the water and light plant, also says the action may delay the taking over of the plant and require the city to readvertise for bids.

There is considerable excitement over the coup of the opponents of municipal ownership to the stop sale of the bonds. A temporary injunction was issued and a hearing set for the opening day of court, April 1.

Howard, Alleged Short Change Artist, Has Given Hibbing Slip.

Hibbing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Howard, alias H. A. Bud, did not appear in municipal court to answer to a charge of petit larceny lodged against him, and cheerfully forfeited $10 cash bail put up Monday. Chief of Police Wring states that one of the smoothest crooks that has visited the iron range in months has been able to put one across on the local authorities. Wring was not present in court when Howard was admitted to cash bail or about the station when he was released. When he learned that Howard was at large an hour after the proceedings he set the whole force busy in an effort to pick him up, but Howard had disappeared.

Howard was arrested last Saturday by Chief Wring while endeavoring to work the "short change" game in Thouin's hardware store.

Howard is said to have worked a similar game in Virginia, Eveleth and Aurora. He is believed to be the man who is wanted in several Northwestern Canada towns for working confidence games of various kinds and Chief Wring is sure he is one of the slickest crooks in the country.

HIBBING MAN HAS MINNESOTA PEARLS.

Hibbing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota grown pearls are being exhibited by H. G. Burnham. Mr. Burnham returned the first of the week from a visit to his old home at Austin, Minn. While there he bought from an uncle two pearls, the former had purchased from a local pearl fisher. They were found in the Cedar river and for their size are among the most handsome ever brought here. One is a pear-shaped white pearl, the other is round with a lavender tint. Both are perfect gems. They were taken from the shells of riffleback claims found in the Cedar river and are valued at $250 each by Mr. Burnham.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

All the Time. Face Mass of Sores. Could Not Sleep At Night. In Misery. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment 3 Weeks and Was Cured.

1245 Bridge St., Indianapolis, Ind.—"I feel that I must write and tell what Cuticura Soap and Ointment have done for me. The eczema first broke out in pimples all over my face and itched and burned all the time. My face was a mass of sores. I could not sleep at night and was in misery all of the time. I tried everything I heard of but was not helped any. At last I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for some. I only used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for about three weeks and was cured. Now my skin is as clear as it can be." (Signed) Miss Willa Fields, Apr. 8, 1912.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES

2428 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with blackheads and pimples for over a year. I had them on my forehead and chin. They were rather large and came to a head and were very disfiguring indeed. I used most everything without help until I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me entirely." (Signed) Miss Irene Brignole, Apr. 16, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

RANGE TROLLEY LEAGUE MEETING

Virginia, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Heradd.)—The Range Trolley league which will be made up of teams from Virginia, Eveleth Chisholm, Hibbing, Gilbert and Biwabik, is now assured and a meeting for the purpose of adopting by-laws will be held at the office of H. S. Newton, manager of the interurban line Sunday afternoon.

The schedule will also be considered. The games will be arranged chiefly for Saturdays and Sundays, and the schedule will be drafted so as not to conflict with the games in Virginia of the home team in the Northern league. Virginia will be represented in the trolley league by the team of the Mohami club which has played fast baseball for several years.

Eveleth Gets Into Game.

Eveleth, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of baseball fans was held here today for the purpose of having Eveleth well represented in the Range Trolley league. John Glode was elected president and Louis Anderson, secretary. Delegates will attend the range baseball meeting at Virginia tomorrow. It is planned to raise $300 by local subscription to start with and more money as needed. The baseball park will be improved. It is planned to have about six home players on the team and some outside catchers and pitchers.

WANT CLOTHING FOR AFFLICTED

Chisholm Seeks Wearing Apparel for Scarlet Fever Patients.

Chisholm, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—To provide suitable clothing for families of the poor who are now in quarantine at the detention hospital a call has been made to the public to look over their wardrobe and see what articles of wearing apparel they can spare and to cause the same to be turned over to the hospital.

The nurses employed there have shown a willingness to sort it over and to distribute it to best advantage and during any spare moments they may have they will put the clothing in wearable condition and have it in readiness for the poor families when they are ready to be discharged from the hospital. There are four patients already in the detention hospital and preparations have been made to accommodate fifteen if necessary. In an emergency forty cases could be taken care of at one time but it is unlikely that the full capacity of the building will ever be used, the epidemic having been checked. A few straggling cases, the after effect of the epidemic, is all that is expected to occur hereafter.

PLAN FINE SERVICE.

Virginia Episcopal Church Will Properly Observe Easter Sunday.

Virginia, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Special services will be given at the St. Paul's Episcopal church Sunday, and an elaborate musical program will be rendered.

The morning services will commence at 10:30 o'clock and a cordial invitation is issued to all Masons to attend with their friends.

The musical program in the morning will be as follows:

Processional hymn, 110, "Come Ye Faithful;" communion hymn, 235, "Shepherd of Souls;" Kyrie, communion office by Rev. Palin Saxby; Gloria Tibi and Laus Tibi; Credo; announcements; solo, "Gloria" by Buzzipecco, sung by Prof. George C. Jensen; hymn 112, "Jesus Christ is Risen Today;" sermon; offertory anthem, "Who Are These That Are Arrayed in White Robes?" by J. Stainer, chorus; presentation of offering; Sursum Corda; Sanctus; Benedictus Qui Venit; Agnus Dei; hymn, 222, "Jesu to Thy Tabis Led;" Gloria in Excelsis; Nunc Dimittis; Seven Fold, Amen; recessional hymn, 113, "Christ Is Risen."

Another special service will be held in the afternoon at which a similar program will be given, the chorus anthem will be the Sanctus from St. Cecilia Mass by Gounod.

PLAN CATCHY MUSIC.

Chisholm Boosters' Smoker Will Be Some Lively Affair.

Chisholm, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the features of the Boosters' smoker to be given next Tuesday evening in Bergeron's hall in honor of the old and new council and village officers will be the music by the orchestra and the singing of Peter Medure of the Monroe location.

His effort will be a marvelously beautiful gondola song entitled "My Aminola." Among the many catchy airs to be rendered by the orchestra will be "National Emblem," "Oh, You Kid," "Dixie," "Turkish Towl," "Your Hair Is Nice and Curly," "One of the Dirty Dozen" and "The Intoxicating Rag," while the titles to some of the speeches suggest the tone of the entertainment. One local orator will take as his subject, "Jingle, Jingle, Jingle," another "A Scotch Story," a masterpiece entitled "Water, Water, All Around, But Not a Drop to Drink," will be delivered by a well known temperance orator. Then come "Crooked Roads," "Fiddlesticks" and stories by the pick of the bunch, etc. Over 250 tickets have been sold up to date and the demand for pasteboards of admission exceeds anything that has ever been heard of in the village. Demands for tickets for good fellows of Hibbing, Buhl, Virginia, Kinney and Spina have been received.

BOVEY PERSONALS.

A large number of local people attended the play given in the village hall in Coleraine March 17, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. L. E. Knight of Superior returned to her home after a few days' visit with friends in town.

E. Chucker is in Minneapolis visiting friends.

Mrs. Fred Bentz will entertain the five hundred club Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Applegate returned after a visit with friends in Chisholm and other range towns.

EVELETH WOMAN CIRCLES GLOBE

Mrs. J. C. Poole Back From Long Trip, Bringing Chinese Woman Missionary.

Eveleth, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth is today entertaining a missionary from far-off China in Miss Matie Sutton, who has been spreading the gospel among the slant-eyed heathen on the other side of the world. Miss Sutton is a sister of Mrs. J. C. Poole and accompanied the latter home from a trip around the world, arriving here yesterday. Mrs. Poole left here last September with her other sister, Miss Cora Sutton, of the Moorhead normal, and they sailed from San Francisco, visiting Japan, the Philippines, China, India and so on back to Europe and New York. In China they visited their sister, Miss Matie Sutton, who took a leave of absence from missionary work and returned home with them. The Chinese missionary tells an interesting story of the awakening of China and the great possibilities of the once benighted country.

INSPECTS COMPANIES.

Regular Army Man Praises Splendid Armory at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maj. Albert Johnson, U. S. A., last night inspected Company F, Third regiment, M. N. G., in the new armory and was loud in his praise of the appearance of the men, their equipment and their splendid armory, which he pronounced one of the finest in the West. Forty-six men turned out and made a fine appearance.

Thursday night Maj. Johnson inspected Company M of the same regiment at Hibbing and was also favorably impressed.

HIBBING GREENHOUSE.

Plant Owned By Village Opened and Very Popular.

Hibbing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing's new municipal greenhouse was thrown open for public inspection Thursday and Park Superintendent Wolf reports that between 75 and 100 visited the plant despite the unfavorable weather. This was a surprise to all who saw it was quite evident and Mr. Wolfe will have many visitors on all the visiting days hereafter. The greenhouse is now at its best. Within two weeks more if weather conditions are favorable the work of transplanting the perennials and plants will begin. Many flowers are now in bloom.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB TO VISIT VIRGINIA.

Virginia, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Glee club from the University of Minnesota will give an entertainment in the Roosevelt auditorium next Wednesday evening. Arrangements have been made for a reception for the visiting students after the program. They are brought here by the Virginia high school and the Range Alumni association.

EVELETHIAN'S HOUSE BURNED AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The one-story cottage, 913 South Seventh street, owned by Joseph Bolde of Eveleth, and occupied by Jacob Goldberg, shoemaker, was burned to the ground Friday. Mr. Goldberg and family were at the moving picture show at the time. It is thought that an overheated stove caused the fire. The house, which was just about to be sold to a Brainerd man, the money being in the bank pending the examination of title, was valued at about $1,200 and carried about $700 insurance. Goldberg lost his piano, clothes, furniture, in fact all his possessions.

TOWER IS PLEASED.

Tower, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Commercial club are pleased over the announcement of the passage of the bill by the house empowering county commissioners to improve waterways in St. Louis county.

If this becomes a law it will mean the dredging of East Two rivers at this place as far up as the D. & I. R. depot.

EVELETH MASONS WILL ATTEND CHURCH EASTER

Eveleth, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of Eveleth Lodge No. 239, A. F. & A. M., will attend Easter services at the Episcopal church at 10:30 Sunday morning, meeting at their hall and marching in a body to the church. Rev. Mr. Carswell will preach a special Easter sermon, and there will be fine music. The members will meet at the lodge room at 10 a. m. to march to the church.

Five Took Examination.

Hibbing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Forest Ranger Nelson conducted an examination at the township office Friday for applicants for positions on the state forest patrol. There are five applicants as follows: Paul F. Hampel of Hibbing, E. J. Eckman of Bovey, Joseph McVeigh of Grand Rapids, F. D. Ford of Coleraine, J. H. Nellimark of Embarrass and William C. Shook of Grand Rapids.

Sure Way to Remove Freckles and Eruptions

(From Fashion Record)

Some women have skin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. March winds usually play havoc with skins of that kind. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drugstore, apply this before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire cuticle is removed in this way in about a week, with all its defects. No bleach could so completely remove every freckle or blemish. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½-pt. witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective.

CHISHOLM WILL VOTE.

Chisholm, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board has called a special school election for Monday evening, March 31, to learn the wishes of the voters on the proposition of issuing $210,000 bonds for a new high school.

The school board has been put to great inconvenience in providing accommodation for the large number of school children seeking educational advantages, renting rooms and making shift in the basements of the buildings already constructed.

Seven Will Be Confirmed.

Hibbing, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A class of seven will be confirmed in the Swedish Lutheran church at the Easter services tomorrow, Rev. J. B. A. Idstrom officiating. They are Ethel Irene Deborah Beckstrom, Maria Josephine Mattson, Agnes Eugenia Hedberg, Anna Maria Rian, Jennie Amelia Lower, John Rian, Carl Anshelm Henrikson. The confirmation sermon will be at 10 o'clock.

Tower Men Lose Sister.

Tower, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph, Peter and Andrew Pearson have received news of the death of their sister, Mrs. Sophia Benson, which occurred recently at her home in Titusville, Pa., following an attack of paralysis. Mrs. Benson was well known in Tower.

Caught in Duluth.

Tower, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. J. Hockley, who had been around here several days, was arrested recently in Duluth and brought back on the charge of having passed a forged check.

For Sale.

House, lot and barn; must be sold at once. For particulars apply Gust Nystrand, Keewatin, Minn.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT NOTES

In the field meet held for the intermediates Thursday evening, Mandy Rosenburg carried off first place, Norman Sweeney second and Earl Shaw third. This morning a large number of the members attended the roller skating party at the Auditorium rink. In the game tournament Mandy Rosenburg won on the cue roquet and Roy Lonegren in the pool.

• • •

The annual reunion of camp members took place last evening. After dinner there was a stereopticon display of scenes at Camp Miller. All the members were very enthusiastic over the prospect of being at the new camp site at Sturgeon lake this year. Plans are being drawn for the clubhouse which will be 60 feet long by 50 feet wide, with a big fireplace at one end, together with an office and business office.

• • •

Yesterday morning the program opened with a Good Friday breakfast at 8:30, after which there was a short talk on the meaning of Good Friday. A large number attended. Special stunts at the swimming pool was the program for 10 o'clock. At 3 o'clock last evening there was a jackknife party. Each boy brought a piece of wood and a jackknife. A prize was offered the boy who whittled the best article.

• • •

Today closes the special program which has been going on all week and the regular schedule of events will go into force on Monday.

• • •

The mystery that has baffled the members of the boys' department for the past week was solved when an announcement was made that a Hustler club would start Monday, March 24, and last six weeks, closing May 8, the night before the annual banquet. To become a hustler a boy must receive ninety points, which will entitle him to an official boys' department emblem, which will be presented the night of the annual banquet. The boy who receives the most points will receive a gold medal, the boy with the second largest number a silver medal, and the third a bronze medal. Nine teams have already organized and more will be organized. The team winning the largest number of points will be guests of honor at the banquet and one of their number will be elected to attend Camp Miller for one week with all expenses paid. The following is the list of things required in order to become a hustler:

One point for attending the regular gymnasium class; one point for attending Sunday school (anywhere); one point for attending church (anywhere); four points for the boys' department Sunday afternoon meeting; ten points for doing a stunt at popular entertainments; five points for winning first place in game tournaments; ten points for memorizing the Smile song; ten points for getting a new member; ten points for selling ten tickets for entertainments; two points for reading a suggested book; three points for three broad jumps 18 feet, boys over 15 years 20 feet; three points for broad jump 6 feet 4 inches, boys over 15 years 6 feet 11 inches; three points for high jump 3 feet 10 inches, boys over 15 years 4 feet 2 inches; three points for swim 60 feet, 12 seconds, boys over 15 years, 10 seconds; three points for long dive 28 feet, boys over 15 years 32 feet.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. SUNDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Generally fair weather tonight and Sunday; lowest temperature tonight about zero or slightly below on the iron ranges and 5 deg. to 10 deg. above zero at Duluth-Superior; warmer Sunday.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m. seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 80° and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

The mercury was down to zero last night, but today is a beautiful day and if the weather man will repeat tomorrow, he will find ascending to him the thanks of the multitude. Of course it isn't a time for the wearing of light spring raiment, but even beautiful winter weather is welcome.

The sun rose this morning at 6:07 and it will set at 6:22 this evening, giving twelve hours and sixteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm centered Friday morning over Southern Michigan moved rapidly eastward to the North Atlantic coast. This disturbance caused rain or snow in all sections east of the Mississippi river and brisk to high westerly winds in the Lake region and North Atlantic states, Buffalo reporting a maximum velocity of seventy-six miles from the west as occurring last night. Colder weather prevails over the Lake region and Central valley states in connection with the high pressure overlying the Ohio valley. The disturbance centered over Nevada and Utah is causing warmer weather in most sections west of the Mississippi river. This rise in temperature will be felt at the Head of the Lakes during Sunday."

Chicago, March 22.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending 7 p. m. Sunday.

Wisconsin—Fair weather tonight, Sunday unsettled and warmer weather.

Minnesota—Generally fair weather tonight and Sunday; warmer Sunday and in the western portion tonight.

North and South Dakota—Local snows tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Local snows tonight and Sunday; warmer tonight.

Shippers' forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero to about 10 deg. above in North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and Northwestern Wisconsin.

SYLVIA PANKHURST WINS HUNGER STRIKE

Refuses to Eat While in Prison and Is Finally Released.

London, March 22. — Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, yesterday won her liberty from Holloway prison by means of a "hunger strike." She won her release on the ground that further confinement would endanger her life.

Miss Pankhurst, who is the daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militants, was sentenced on Feb. 18 to two months' imprisonment for engaging in a window-smashing campaign in the East end of London. At the same time Miss Zelie Emerson of Jackson, Mich., received a like sentence for the same offense.

Immediately she was placed in prison Miss Pankhurst went on a hunger strike and the prison authorities resorted to feeding her forcibly by means of a tube.

Last Tuesday, a month after her commitment, Miss Pankhurst wrote a letter from the jail to her mother. She said that twice daily five or six wardresses and two doctors pried open her mouth with a steel gag and pressed a tube into her stomach.

M'COMBS DECLINES AMBASSADORSHIP

Chairman of Democratic National Committee Will Not Go to France.

Washington, March 22.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the National Democratic committee last night issued the statement announcing that he had declined to become ambassador to France.

The statement follows:

"Today I communicated to the president my final decision as to the very great honor he has done me in tendering me the ambassadorship of France with assurance of my profoundest appreciation. No public position within his gift could be more attractive to me personally. In view of its very great dignity and importance, I have naturally weighed the matter with much care.

"After reconsidering the tender, the same motives as were in my mind before have impelled me to decline. The acceptance of the post would involve greater sacrifices than I should make. I do not feel that I can afford to leave my life work—the practice of the law. I feel compelled to devote myself to my personal affairs and at the same time, I will lend any assistance in my power that will contribute to the success of the Democratic administration and the Democratic party."

Mr. McCombs had seen the president twice during the day and tonight was in conference with Secretary Tumulty at the executive offices until nearly midnight, when he returned to his hotel and issued the statement.

USES BASEBALL AS ILLUSTRATION

Evangelist Preaches on "Heroes" at the First Christian Church.

Evangelist Robert Whiston, who is conducting meetings at the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street, preached last night on "Heroes," illustrating his sermon with the game of baseball.

A large and appreciative audience listened to the lecture-sermon. He said in part:

"Usually I preach on the theory that you know what is right but have simply neglected to do it, but tonight I am going to assume that you really believe your moral righteousness is sufficient to save you from hell. If you go to hell you will have to climb over every sermon I preach. Every time you hear the Gospel you are compelled to choose between Christ and the devil. Christianity involves morality but morality of itself does not involve Christianity. A man may reform and be decent and still not be a Christian.

"The devil has a bullring in the noses of lots of people leading them around, and the ring he uses the most is that of morality. Morality is all right to live by, but a poor thing to die by. No man has standing with God unless he is a Christian. A man isn't lost because he is a sinner but because he rejects Christ. The only way to God and heaven is through Christ."

The evangelist's baseball illustration was dramatically rendered, and especially his climax, "when the umpire cries: 'Your out,' you are out and there is no further appeal. When the umpire of souls cries: 'Your out' in the judgment, there is no appeal from his decision. You are lost, lost." There will be no meeting tonight, but Easter Sunday there will be rallies in every department. At 10 a. m. Whiston will speak to the Bible school on "Voyages." At 11 he will speak on "The Old Love" and at 8 his theme will be "The Wind and the Whirlwind." Special music will be rendered. There will be seating for 500.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"Broadway Jones."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

"BROADWAY JONES" AT THE LYCEUM

Entertaining Cohan Play Is Well Presented By Capable Company.

"I am going to buy Brooklyn and close it up," says young "Broadway" Jones when he receives word that his wealthy uncle has died and left him a chewing gum factory for which the chewing gum trust offered to pay $1,200,000 in cash. That was "Broadway's" first idea.

"Let's go and get an orange ice-cream soda also," were Broadway's last words just as the curtain fell, and after he had met "The girl" and decided to keep the chewing gum factory running and save the little town of Jonesville from utter ruin.

Those two "lines" tell the story of "Broadway Jones" in a nutshell. "Broadway" spent five years and $250,000 trying to incinerate the street after which he was named. When he was "broke" he proceeded to get engaged to a wealthy and aged widow with the hope of recuperating his fortunes paying his debts and perhaps starting on another attempt to "burn up" New York. The play opens with matters in this condition. Then comes the telegram announcing the rich uncle's death. "Broadway" starts for Jonesville with the idea of selling out the chewing gum factory at once, taking the money, paying his debts, cancelling his engagement with the widow, and then "buying Brooklyn to close it up." But when he went to Jonesville his plans were suddenly changed. "The girl" describes to him the conditions which will result if he sells out to the trust. The trust sought only the name of the Jones gum, and planned to close the plant and manufacture the gum elsewhere. That meant ruin to the town. Jones reconsiders, fights the trust, marries the girl, and he and his friend settle down to enjoy orange ice-cream sodas instead of the vintages of the White Way.

There is nothing very subtle about the humor; no problem to worry the audience; and nothing approaching the objectionable. It is a good, clean, lively "show" with laughs scattered all through it, and a rather healthy moral pointed. The lines are bright and full of the Cohanesque attributes, but there is a pleasing absence of the usual slang. It is not a musical comedy as many people supposed because of the name of Cohan, but is a comedy drama of much the same type as "The Fortune Hunter" and "Get Rick Quick Wallingford," and fully as entertaining as either.

The company is a capable one, the chief honors going to Ralph Morgan in the title role, and to John Webster who plays the part of Robert Wallace, his friend. The two men are nicely contrasted in personality, "Broadway" being a rather pale, modest youth with an utter ignorance of the value of money or business methods, while his friend is a type of the clean cut young New York business man, self possessed and aggressive. The contrast was nicely brought out by the two actors, and the audience grew so enthusiastic over their work that Mr. Morgan was forced to make a curtain speech after the third act. He gave Mr. Cohan's favorite "my father thanks you, my sister thanks you," etc.

The parts of the two young women are rather colorless, but Miss Grace Morrissey and Miss Edith Luckett got all there was out of them. The old Judge Spottswood of Frederick Maynard and the Rankin of George Schaefer were two excellent character bits. Daniel Burns as Sam Spottswood also deserves more than passing mention for a well done "bit."

"Broadway Jones" will be repeated this afternoon and tonight.

STOPS "MOVIE" PANIC.

Calmness of Moving Picture Machine Operator Prevents Wild Exodus.

Langdon, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—When several moving picture films took fire in a local moving picture house, the calmness of the operator prevented a panic. The cage containing the lantern and operator is fireproof, and when the fire started, he was able to get out of the box, closing the door behind him.

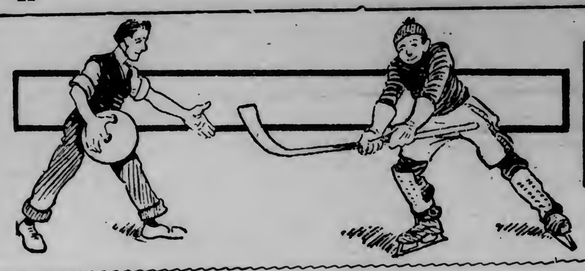
The operator then told the audience that there was a fire in the house, advising them against rushing for the exits, and in a few moments the place was empty. No damage resulted from the fire except to the lantern.

ANGLICAN PRELATE CALLED BY DEATH.

Word has been received of the death in California of Archdeacon E. S. W. Pentreath of Vancouver, B. C. He was a resident of Winnipeg for many years, where he was rector of Christ church up to $18.95. He then came to the Duluth diocese and was stationed for a time at Brainerd, going thence to British Columbia. Since 1897 he has been archdeacon of Columbia and superintendent of missions for the diocese of New Westminster. His name was on several occasions mentioned for high honors in the Anglican church. He was 67 years of age.

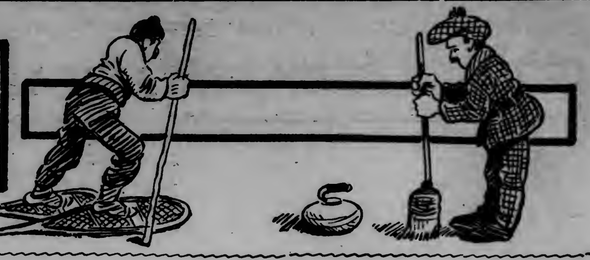
WILL RAISE $500,000 FOR TRAINING SCHOOL.

B. C. Wade, general secretary of the Duluth Young Men's Christian association, has been chosen one of the members of the general executive committee of the national movement known as "Team Work," which is a co-operative movement of the association chiefly served by the Institute and Training School of Young Men's Christian Associations, to secure an adequate equipment for the school in Chicago. For the purpose of improving the equipment of this school it is planned to raise $500,000. Half of that sum is to be raised in the city of Chicago itself.



The other members of the general executive committee are: Lyman L. Pierce, chairman, Pittsburg; K. A. Shumaker and Frank H. Burt, Chicago; A. G. Studer, Detroit; S. W. McGill, Nashville; Philemon Bevis, St. Louis, and A. H. Lichty, Columbus.

Alexanders' Band Up-to-Date.



Alexander, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Alexander's Rag Time Band" is the designation already given the musical organization formed here. The instruments have arrived and the recruits, under the direction of Prof. O'Brien are practicing twice each week.

Coming to Duluth.

Brainerd, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special coach bearing forty or more delegates will leave Wednesday next to attend the state Sunday school convention at Duluth.

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

DURING the week that is passing we have wearily witnessed the explosion of a "Bomb" and have heralded the news of the matching of the world's champion heavyweight wrestler to do mat battle with George Lurich. Bombardier Wells was the person most injured in the explosion, while it might be stated that Gunboat Smith furnished the fuse.

This long and lank Wells person presents the example of the boxer. If, in times of war the government should see fit to equip some of the ocean greyhounds with guns and send them out to do battle, it is not in the least to be supposed that the officers of the navy would expect these boats to carry on a battery exchange at close range with those terrible dreadnaughts.

Just so long as the Bombardier remained at long distance and was content to box with the man carrying heavier guns, the going was nice and lovely, looking at the match purely from the side of the invader. But when the Pacific coast tar got in close and turned loose a fusillade of full-armed swings, the glass jaw and somewhat frail body of the Britisher failed to stand the gruelling.

Since the memorable night at New Orleans when John L. Sullivan was vanquished by the youth of lightning speed, James J. Corbett, there has been grave discussion of the relative merits of the boxer and the fighter. So long as Corbett ruled as the champion of the world the adherents of the boxing school crowed long and lustily. But when Robert Jennings Fitzsimmons rammed that solar plexus punch into the ramparts of the Corbett midsection, the advocates of the slugging school again came to the fore.

This Smith, if we gather the dope correctly, is a slugger of the sturdy order of Tom Sharkey, and it will be an interesting observation to follow the rough and ready ring progress of this protege of the boxing schools of the United States men of war.

TO A GREAT many of us the announcement that Frank Gotch was coming out and take one more whirl at the game, was a distinct surprise. Great as an exponent of the Greco-Roman style of wrestling, which puts a premium upon strength, as it forbids the use of holds below the waist, the huge European has not shown that he is anywhere near an adept at the more modern game of catch-as-catch-can wrestling, which to the American followers of the sport has proved by far the more attractive form of wrestling.

To the writer the picture of the Frank Gotch that strode like a lion on to the mat upon the afternoon he so decisively showed the waiting world that he was the master of George Hackenschmidt, will always remain one of ideal perfection.

Suntanned by the winds that swept over the prairies of Iowa, his muscles rippling under the clear, brown skin; lithe, one might almost say, though he packed 215 pounds on his wonderful frame, marvellously quick for a large man and as alert as the grazing gazelle of the forest, the Frank A. Gotch of that Labor day was truly one of the greatest athletes this old mundane sphere has ever gazed upon, and the world is centuries old.

But the years are exacting, like the nemesis of sin. Whether the great Iowa wrestler of today is the Gotch of old, is, as Kipling says, another story. But if the mayor of Humboldt is anywhere near right he should prove the master of the giant from the other side, for catch-as-catch-can wrestling is a form of athletics where agility, knowledge of leverage and time, and the brain are the greatest elements of success.

ONE of the interesting announcements made during the week is that of the possibility of a meeting between Pal Brown and Joe Mandot, the bout to be staged at Butte, Mont.

There is no definite assurance that the contest will take place. Terms have been wired by the Butte club to the manager of the little French Baker boy; but somehow this chap from the French market district of New Orleans has ever held out for a heavy guarantee and this fact may militate against the chances of the match being made.

A contest with Mandot will prove the golden opportunity that the Chisholm boy has long awaited. It will afford him the chance of showing his goods under the magnifying rays of the national calcium, and should smiling victory reward the efforts of the little range battler, the door latch that hangs at the pugilistic houses of Rivers, Ritchie, Wolgast et al, will be out to the iron ore scrapper.

DURING the week that is in the passing, one of the greatest wrestling cards has been cinched for Duluth. Perhaps no city in the country, large or small, has witnessed more first class grappling contests during the year than the Zenith city. When it can be honestly stated that the battle, for battle it will be in the fullest sense of the word, between Willoughby and Yokel promises to eclipse all of the others in speed and fierceness of struggle, the fans can gain some idea of what contest holds out.

THE present week saw the end of curling. She was one great season. Never in the history of the club has the game gained so many followers or so great a popularity as has been the case during the past few months. New converts have been made and the old followers of the roaring stanes have felt anew the old enthusiasm. Who couldn't enjoy the sport under conditions so inviting?

Hockey will also probably end with the passing of this chapter of the winter sport season. As in the case of curling this game has enjoyed its greatest vogue. Staid citizens, dignified matrons and stern heads of some of our most conservative corporations have become enthralled with the sport.

Persons whom you couldn't imagine for the world doing anything in the least bordering upon the impulsive, let loose, "warmed up," so to speak, and were seen to shout and gesticulate wildly and with joyful abandon.

Hockey took the town firmly by the lapel and dragging it into a corner held a heart to heart convincing talk with it.

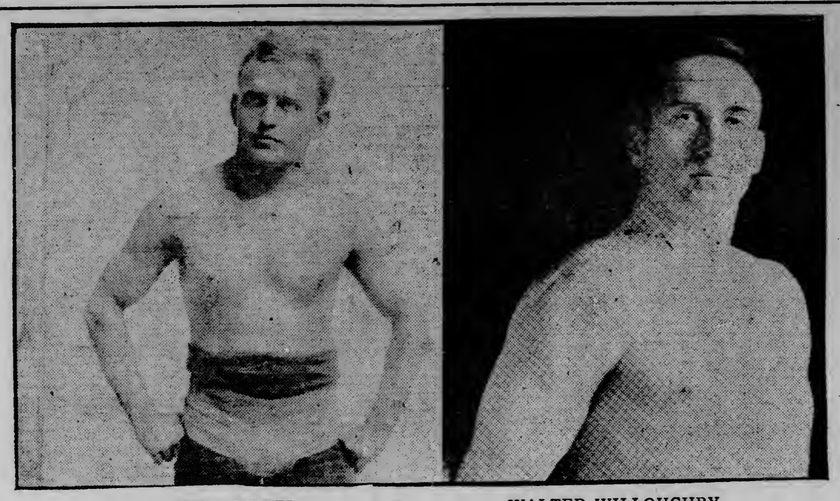
ONE MUST speak of the placing of the Duluth Baseball association upon an even firmer foundation than has been the case during the past years—years that were lean and hard to bear. H. A. Blume has given of money and time unselfishly to the support of the game. Together with Dr. J. A. McCuen he has borne the burden of supporting baseball here in parlous times, one might say, and it is well to chronicle with the events of the passing show of the week the election of Mr. Blume to the head of the local association.



It is also well to add that with the stepping out from the head of the club of Dr. McCuen, one of the most enthusiastic, unselfish and most thorough fans in the history of the game here or elsewhere passes from the direct head of the Duluth club. The genial doctor is not out of the game; not by any means: but time is money, and the honorable J. A. McCuen passed the reins over and took a more modest seat.

Let it be said that every member of the board of directors, every stockholder and every man present at the meeting stood and thanked the passing president for his devoted services to the game here. Dr. J. A. McCuen has proved the latter day Moses of the grand old pastime in these perilous parts.

TWO FAMOUS RIVALS

MIKE YOKEL. WALTER WILLOUGHBY.

PITTSBURG PIRATES THE MOST SERIOUS OBSTACLE TO THE GIANTS

New York, March 22.—The most serious obstacle in the path of John J. McGraw to a third consecutive pennant appears to be Fred Clarke and his husky Buccaneers. The Giant manager and the sporting world at large—with the possible exception of some few fanatic fans, players, grandstand managers of magnates who hibernate in the Windy City, have expressed such an opinion repeatedly. "Clarke is the only man I fear. The Cubs will be contenders, but Pittsburg is the club we have to beat."

McGraw has his heart set upon winning the 1913 bunting, for then he will have achieved a run of uninterrupted successes, the equal of his two great competitors. Both Clarke and Chance have nailed three straight flags. Clarke began his record run in 1901 and ended in 1903, the season Jimmy Collins' celebrated Boston Americans annexed the world's series from the Corsairs through the most sensational finish which was ever shown. Boston won five victories (it was the best five out of nine that season) after being in the hole three to one. Frank Chance and his Cubs hung up three straight pennants and two world's series in 1906-07-08. McGraw hopes to achieve equal pennant honors this year, for he has two straight and easy successes behind him and a team which appears the class of the field.

Back in 1904 McGraw started a run that threatened Clarke's record. Pennants in 1904 and 1905 were supplemented by a world's series from the Athletics the latter season. New York started out in 1906 top-heavy favorites in the National league. But that season the mighty Chance, in his first managerial trial with the famous Cubs, reeled off 116 victories, the greatest showing in professional baseball since it had become a national institution. Luck played into Chance's hands at the expense of McGraw, who finished as low as fourth for the only time of his wonderful career. Mathewson suffered an attack of diphtheria, Bresnahan was seriously injured by a pitched ball, Mike Donlin's leg was broken and many other number of provoking injuries and illnesses developed to thwart the ambitions of McGraw.

So the Giant leader stands today where he left off in 1905.

Only he is in much better position to weather the combined attack of his adversaries. Then his champion array was comprised of fast failing veterans; now he has the youngest and speediest collection of athletes known to the game. Then he had to buck both Chance and Clarke. Now only the wonderful commander of the Corsairs remains. Chance has gone over to the New York stronghold of the American league, leaving Johnny Evers, his successor in Chicago, a team that is but the shadow of the one-time Cub invincibles.

Let us investigate, then, the worthy foeman of McGrew, Fred Clarke, the Kansas ranchman. He has completed his thirteenth year at the helm of the Pirate craft, and in the past campaigns shower far more consistent form than even the Polo grounds champions. In thirteen years Clarke amassed four pennants, four second places and a tie for another, three thirds and one fourth. Clarke took charge of Pittsburg in 1902 and finished second. The next year he tore loose and ripped the organization all to pieces, returning three straight winners. McGraw's star then began the ascendant, and the great general of Smoketown was forced into a back seat for a spell. In the nine years since Pittsburg and Boston battled for the first world's pennant under the prevailing organized baseball government, Fred Clarke has won only one pennant. That fell to him in 1909, when he showed his most successful season by winning 110 victories. That year also he beat Detroit after a very hard fight of seven engagements for the forld's championship. But in all that time Fred Clarke was never disgraced. Only once did he finish as poorly as last among the first four clubs.

Chance to Front.

When it appeared as if Fred Clarke had designs upon organizing a pennant "trust" among Hans Wagner and his other pals there arose a mighty McGraw to check the presumption. And when in town McGraw began to aspire along similar lines, Frank Chance sprang into prominence.

Thus came into being the "Great Three," which proved an ideal combination for the parent major body. Each of the three checkmated the others so that the balance of power kept wavering about. Honors passed back and forth constantly, as it were, with no one city "bagging" the laurels, and all three—New York, Chicago and Pittsburg—were very much in the limelight at all times.

Of the three great National league managers, Clarke, on account of his length of service, must be awarded the palm, though both McGraw and Chance have shown better averages in shorter experiences. In thirteen years Clarke has won 1,201 and lost 732 games for a grand avrage of .621. No other big manager has won a thousand games. McGraw is closest with 956 victories for ten years. Opposed to the winnings are 559 defeats, which produce a record of .632. In seven years Chance has won 714 and lost but 356 developing the wonderful average speed of .667. In other words, he won two out of every three games played.

In one way it is very much to be regretted that Frank Chance was forced to discontinue his labors with the Cubs. It would have been interesting, indeed, to see him shoot away at Clarke's record for twelve years. Chance may do greater things in New York than he did in Chicago, but the way of direct comparison to the abilities of his two erstwhile respected contemporaries will have been lost.

It seems safe to say, however, that it is very doubtful if any league will ever boast again three such wonderful managers as Fred Clarke, John McGraw and Frank Chance. They have won more games than any trio of any time. In an aggregate of thirty seasons the "Big Three" bagged 2,871 victories out of 4,518 played, showing a total percentage of approximately .640. They have registered considerably over three victories out of every five starts. It will be interesting to note the duel between McGraw and Clarke now that the common rival, Frank Chance, has looked upon new fields of conquest.

RITCHIE'S MOST FEARED RIVAL IS JOSE RIVERS

Ring Career of Mexican Has Been Brilliant and His Progress Meteoric Since He Took Up the Fighting Game.

Philadelphia, March 22.—Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, is the latest sensation to arise in the pugilistic spotlight. His recent knockout of one of New York's best "33" pounders, Knockout Brown says the North American, stamps him as one of the most dangerous men now after the crown that adorns the head of Willie Ritchie.

The fight critics who have seen him in action say that he has a better chance of defeating Willie Ritchie for the lightweight title than any other man in the world, excepting, probably Packey McFarland.

Rivers is not yet 21 years old. He has been in the fight game for three years and in that time he has met some of the best men now before the public. He fought Ad Wolgast to a standstill before the Michigan fighter lost his title to Willie Ritchie, but was knocked out by Ad in the thirteenth round.

In this fight Rivers proved that he is an aggressive lad by carrying the fight to Wolgast all through the bout, and in the thirteenth round, the one in which he was stopped, he dropped Wolgast, having him in a bad way, and it looked as if he would stop the Michigander, but the latter, after being felled, arose and cried that he had been fouled. The referee then awarded the fight to Ad. It went down in the record books as a knockout against Rivers, but many spectators disputed the decision.

Lost Only Three Fights.

In all he has lost only three fights since entering the game, the knockout by Wolgast and a knockout by featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane in sixteen rounds and a twenty-round decision to Joe Mandot of New Orleans. In the bout with Kilbane he was forced to weaken himself to make the weight demanded by Kilbane, and therefore was a victim to one of Johnny's deadly right-hand punches. But in the bout with Mandot he asserted that he was not in the best of condition. He met Joe later and gave the "Fighting Butcher Boy" a sound licking in twenty rounds.

Jose was born on March 19, 1892. He is of Spanish-American parents. He fought several bouts in and around San Francisco before the promoters became aware that he was of very promising material.

His first big fight was with Danny Webster in California on Jan. 14, at Vernon. After fighting twelve furious rounds, Joe finally put Danny to sleep in the middle of the thirteenth. He next met and defeated Johnny Kilbane in twenty rounds. He then won from Tommy Dixon on a foul in six rounds.

Knocks Out Coster.

After this bout he met Joe Coster, the hard-hitting Italian lad from Brooklyn on July 4, 1911. Joe put the Eastern fighter out in the thirteenth round. In his next battle he was knocked out by Johnny Kilbane. He met George Kirkwood of St. Louis and knocked him out in the eighth round. He then drew with Frankie Conley in twenty rounds.

These boys put up such a hard bout that they were rematched to fight again, the bout took place on New Year's day of 1913, and Joe put the knockout blow over in the eleventh round.

In his next engagement he knocked out Jack White, the hard-hitting lad from Chicago, in the twelfth round. He then met Wolgast and Mandot in the two bouts mentioned above, and after a short rest he came East.

When he arrived here he was matched with Leach Cross in a 10-round bout in New York. Rivers gave Leach a had beating, and all but knocked him out. In the last round he had Cross hanging on. Had the bout gone a few minutes more it is doubtful if the New York boy could have stood up under the terrific punching of the Mexican "wildcat," the name by which he is known in all fight circles of the country. After staying around New York for a while he was matched to meet a New Orleans fighter named Frankie Russell, a lad who gave Bat Nelson a hard battle shortly before.

While he was in the South training, Joe received word that his father was dying, so he canceled all enaggements and went back to his home in Los Angeles, where he arrived shortly before his father passed away.

He took a short rest and was then matched to meet "Kayo" Brown. The New York boxing scribes were loud in their praises for the Brown youngster and were pitying "poor little Rivers." The result of this bout and the surprise of the sharps over the Mexican's victory is well known.

Joe will leave shortly for the East, where he has a number of fights in view. It is expected that he will meet some good lightweights in this city when he reaches this part of the country. He has been matched to meet Leach Cross again in New York early in April.

MIKE YOKEL IS GENEROUS

Gehring Only Wrestler Who Beat Mellen Man at His Weight.

Walter Willoughby, former champion middleweight wrestler of the world, and at the present time holder of the medal of the Empire Athletic club of Chicago as the champion of the world at 160 pounds, is scheduled to arrive here Monday and will immediately go into training at the Lakeside Athletic association's gymnasium.

If Mike Yokel defeats Willoughby in the coming contest he will be the first middleweight outside of Henry Gehring to turn the trick. Gehring defeated Willoughby something like a year and a half ago and since that time has persistently refused to give Willoughby a chance to regain his lost laurels.

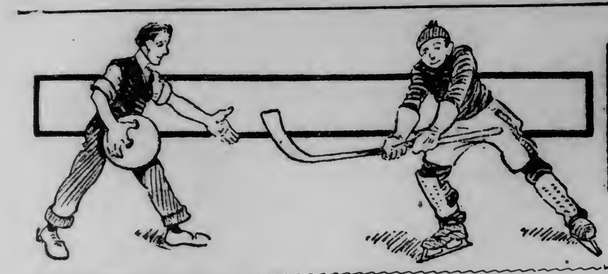
The contest between Willoughby and Gehring was wrestled at the weight of 158 ringside, a poundage that Willoughby has admitted time and time again, weakens him, and it has been the plaint of the Mellen wrestler that it was the low weight and not the superiority of Gehring, that brought about his first defeat for the title.

"The greatest wrestler at his weight that this country has ever seen," is what Ed. W. Smith, the famous Chicago wrestling authority, said of Willoughby the evening he won the Empire Athletic club medal for the world's championship at 160 pounds, which title is held by Willoughby today.

During his career Walter Willoughby has defeated Charley Kaiser, one of the greatest middleweight wrestlers this country ever produced, and also won in straight falls from the famous Ed. Atherton. Al Ackerman, at one time thought to be the greatest middleweight in the United States, was also defeated by Willoughby. There are hosts of other wrestlers of less note who went down to defeat before the skill of the Mellen man.

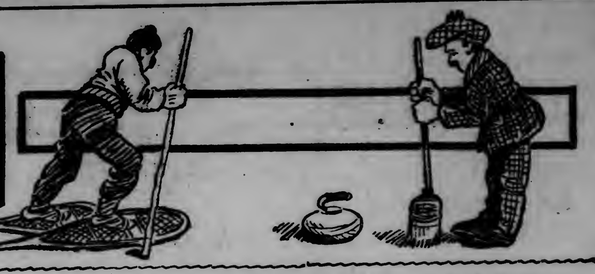
In addition to these victories, Willoughby won a handicap match from Frank Gotch and Fred Beell. Jem Parr, the famous English heavyweight, who was unable to throw Willoughby, who at that time weighed but 150 pounds, in two hours of actual wrestling time. Willoughby decisively defeated John Perrelli, the Italian heavyweight, in straight falls, and this while he weighed slightly over the 150-pound mark.

Twice before this Yokel and Willoughby were matched. The first contest was set for Cleveland and then called off. The second was set for Salt Lake City, but at the last minute Yokel's manager had the contest postponed. Though Willoughby has chased both Gehring and Yokel during the past eighteen months or more this is the first time he has been able to realize his ambitions in regard to meeting the great Salt Lake City wrestler.



Should Willoughby be defeated here, he will have no possible excuse to offer, as Yokel has conceded weight to the Mellen man, something that no other middleweight in the world would ever agree to do.

Schedule of W.-I. League.



Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—After a five-hour confab the officials of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, in meeting here yesterday, decided upon a 126-game schedule. The season will open on April 30 and close Sept. 7, but where the opening games and others will be played has not yet been decided.

FROM CHILD OF WOODS AND FORESTS BENDER HAS GROWN TO GREAT PITCHER

In the northern part of Minnesota, by the waters of the great Mississippi, just about where it gathers strength by reason of many tributaries and forms into a mighty stream, is the little village of Brainerd—or was little thirty years ago.

Brainerd is the chief town and capital of Crow Wing county. In the aforesaid Crow Wing county, and near the village of Brainerd, just about thirty years ago, was born a little Indian, with the pure blood of a great race of the Algonquins coursing through his little veins. Although of the great family of Algonquins, his parents were of the tribe of Chippewas.

In order to identify this small Red man when he would be turned loose in the wide, wide world, he was named Charles Albert; a name more befitting a child of the forest. So Charles Albert Bender, the now famous hurler of the Philadelphia Americans, comes of pure blooded Indian stock. From his toes up, Charles Albert is strictly a Red man in everything but name and occupation.

Bender didn't get much of a chance to contract many of the habits of his people. At the early age of 7 he was bundled off to the Indian school at Carlisle, leaving the glories of Crow Wing county and the great river for the effete and languorous East. What headway C. Albert made in his classes, history does not state. But the fact soon cropped out that young Bender showed decided symptoms of athletic ability.

Symptoms of Greatness.

In 1902 he matriculated with honors in baseball and football, going to Dickinson college in 1902 to complete his education. About that period Bender began to show real skill in pitching a baseball. With the Harrisburg Athletic club, the latter part of 1902, he performed so brilliantly in the pitcher's position that Manager Mack of the Athletics looked him up. Reports came thick and fast to the ears of Mr. McGillicuddy that young Indian Bender had all the earmarks of a phenomenon; that he could pitch a curve that was amazing in its gyrations, and consorted to the plate with terrific speed. At that, Bender didn't build up any sensational record as an amateur, but Connie Mack saw and considered several likely points about this Indian lad.

The fact that he stretched heavenward several inches above the ordinary mortal impressed the hero of Hartford. Likewise he noted the exceedingly long arm, and Charles Alberts' bland smile. That smile of Bender's is a delusion and a snare. Any hurler in his first year in polite society that hits twenty-six innocent batsmen a good sound whack with a baseball that traveled plateward at cannon-ball speed, and does it smilingly, must be a villain of the deepest dye.

In 1903, down in St. Louis one day, the chief and Bobby Wallace had some words about a collision at the plate, the tall Indian being the victim. Next time up to bat Bender hit the little Scot a resounding swat in the ribs with the ball. This act set the Scotch blood of Wallace boiling. He wanted to lick the "big" chief right then and there. Players interfered, so no blood was shed. Bobby remarked afterwards: "It wasn't the act of hitting me that riled me up, but 'twas the grin Bender wore that set me wild."

One lovely day in the fall of 1905, this tall young Indian from the banks of the Mississippi was hurling a game of baseball for the championship of the world, before a crowd of 25,000 fanatics, on the famed Polo grounds of the greatest metropolis in the land. His teammates had suffered defeat in the first contest of that great series, which had a very depressing effect on the Athletics in general. This fact, and the fact that they were to meet the enemy on their own grounds made the outlook rather gloomy.

Primitive Spirit Triumphs.

Right at that moment did Bender show qualities that afterwards and all through his career proved the greatest asset and value to his manager and team. To perform brilliantly under pressure was inborn of this child of the forest. His ability to produce the best that was in him at the crucial moment he proved in that memorable game.

A most picturesque looking figure was this aborigine when he strode out before that great throng and took his position on the mound. He was a giant, towering above the rest of his teammates like a great lone pine among birches.

With smoking speed and his ever-present smile, Charles Albert Bender pitched the most impressive game of his life. The New York Giants had men on bases several times during the contest, but Bender was there with the ability to strike out a batter when a hit meant something. A shutout game, four hits and nine fanned batsmen was the result of that afternoon's work. His marvelous hurling in that contest gave his team a new lease. It put them on an even footing with the Giants.

In the spring of 1903 Bender began operations in the big league, fresh from the amateur ranks, with scarcely any schooling in major league tactics. In his first full game, against the New York Highlanders, April 27, with the foxy C. Griffith opposing him, he scored a clean shut out, with the Yanks getting four singles. That game gave the chief a rating. Before the season was half over, he had passed muster, and after his first season was a qualified success.

Bender's Remarkable Record.

A truly remarkable record has this man Bender made in baseball. As an iron man he doesn't shine, or pretend to. A strictly one-a-week edition is Mr. Bender in the pitching game; but he certainly delivers when he takes his place on the firing line.

Perhaps no pitcher in the business has clearly demonstrated the ability to deliver under greater pressure than has Chief Bender. When the outcome of a game means the winning of a series, or the holding of a position, Manager Mack grooms the big North American for the event. For ten years he has been the manager's best bet.

Did Bender possess the strength and stamina of Walsh or McGinnity, lone handed he could have cinched a few more pennants for Philadelphia. This was clearly demonstrated in his game against Detroit in Sept. 13, 1909. Manager Mack wanted to beat Detroit. To stop the Tigers on that date and follow with a few victories would mean first place.

Bender was the selection. Before 35,000 people this child of the forest performed his part to the letter. By his magnificent hurling he blanked the Tigers, allowing three singles and striking out nine men. Most teams would have stayed licked after a beating like that, but Jennings' gang came up smiling. Bender didn't pitch again for eight days. This shows that the great hurler can produce quality, but not quantity.

On May 12, 1910, Bender pitched his famous no-hit game against Cleveland. One slip—a base on balls—marred it from going on record as one of the few perfect games in baseball history. On July 22, 1910, he framed up a really greater performance, although it didn't show on the face of it as did his game on May 12. Cleveland again figured as the opposing team. It was a remarkable pitching duel between the two skyscrapers of the diamond, Falkenburg vs. Bender, going fifteen innings to a 1-to-1 finish. In eleven innings of the game the chief retired the Blues in order.

Few Loose Games.

Dating from his first game pitched in 1908 and up until his last game in 1910 —72 games in all—Bender was touched up for the double number in base hits on only on four occasions. In one-half of his games, the chief held the opposition to six hits or less—generally less.

While not posing as a strike-out artist, C. Albert is strong in that respect, averaging five men a game during his entire career. His highest number of victims in a single game was when he caused a bakers' dozen of the Sox to swipe madly and wildly at his elusive curves and blinding speed.

Bender, in 1907, made a try for the consecutive win record. He had a nice string of twelve to his credit, when along came that famous band of hitless wonders, the Sox, and in a 1 to 0 affair squelched the chief's aspirations in that direction.

A most popular player is this noble son of the forest, and a highly interesting figure in the game. Chief Bender is a real ballplayer, and plays the game in every department in a very impressive manner. As a batter he is always well up in the batting column. He is regarded as a dangerous man with the stick. Only in base-running is the great hurler weak. It wouldn't require an adding machine to sum total the grand aggregate of bases the chief has pilfered, something less than a dozen in 300 games.

Bender's complete record is a truly remarkable one. It lacks in quantity when compared to other great and famous hurlers of the game, but will compare in quality with the marvelous ones.

BASEBALL MOVES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

A large number of major league players have been traded to other clubs or released to the minors, since the close of last season, and several well-known stars will be missed from their former teams when the gong rings for the opening of the 1913 season.

A list of the players traded, together with the players sent to the minors, and those who have been in the big show before and are now coming back for another trial follows:

DULUTH BOWLERS TO ROLL AT MINNEAPOLIS.

The Adams, El Roi Tans, Duluths, Aerials, Wolds and Kelleys will send teams to the International bowling tourney which is being rolled at Minneapolis at the present time. The Duluth teams are to leave this evening and all of the local bowlers are confident of making a good showing in the various events in which they will contest.

Zbyszko vs. Peters.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—Plans for a finish match between Stanislaus Zbyszko and Theodore Peters, St. Paul, practically are completed. According to a message from the Pole's manager, he is mailing a local plumber $250 as a guarantee that Zbyszko will appear if an agreement can be reached. It is planned to hold the match here March 28.

KELLEYS TO PLACE STRONG TEAM IN LOCAL FIELD

Star Players Will Be Gathered for Semi-Professional Aggregation---Inter-City League Will Be Organized.

According to the arrangements that are being made at the present time, the Kelley Hardware store is to place in the field one of the strongest semi-professional baseball teams that has ever been organized in Duluth.

Joe Linder, captain of the Duluth Curling club's hockey team, is slated to manage the team, according to the announcement made today. Joe is some baseball player as well as an expert at the game of hockey, and it is believed that he will hold down one of the infield positions.

Arnie Olson, also a crack hockey player and one of the best shortstops in the city, will probably be in the line-up, while Opland, a former Copper country star, is another of the prospective members of the aggregation.

Leo Dressen may also be with the team. Dressen is the Luverne, Minn., star pitcher who has been trying to get a trial with the White Sox and he is said to be one of the real pitching sensations of the Southern part of the state.

Blaski, a local star who has a penchant for hitting the ball out of the lot, is another player the management of the team is going after. Big Blaski played only two games last year and in those two contests he registered four home runs.

According to the announcement of the early season plans for the Kelleys, the team will play the crack semi-professional teams of this part of the state. In the event of the aggregation being as successful as the management hopes at the present time, it is quite probable that some of the best teams in the state will be brought here for games.

Along the baseball line came another announcement in the shape of a meeting of those interested in the organization of the Duluth-Superior league.

The meeting is scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. for next Tuesday evening, when it is expected that representatives of the various teams at the Head of the Lakes will be present to assist in the completing of plans for the starting of the league.

It is believed that this contemplated organization will be stronger than any of the former inter-city leagues, as already some of the strongest of the teams of Duluth and Superior have stated their willingness to come in.

HAL CHASE NOT REALLY NEW TO THE SECOND BASE

New York, March 22.—Hal Chase's ambition to become a star second baseman is causing a lot of discussion among local fans. The majority of them seem to be of the opinion that the Highlanders will be stronger with both Chase and Chance in the line-up, while others do not seem to be able to get it under their hat why the best first baseman in the game should dabble with a position with which he is unfamiliar, says the Press.

"Shortstop" received a letter last week from a fan who takes that view and he says: "If Chance must get in the game, why does he not try his hand at second and let Chase stay on first, where he belongs? Chase says he can play second, but does anybody know he can? Has he ever proved that he can play second?"

In answer to this letter, "Shortstop" wishes to say that Chase is not a novice at second base, as he played that position off and on during the seasons of 1911 and 1912. Most fans seem to have forgotten that, but at the tail end of 1911 Prince Hal played a stretch of games at second and left Jack Knight in charge of first.

Shifted By Wolverton.

Last season, when the team was going at its worst, Chase also tried his hand at second, while Stump and Sterrett were the first basemen. When Chase was taken sick in Washington about July 4, he was playing second base and might have continued there indefinitely but for his illness.

Wolverton was criticized at the time for trying to convert Chase into a second baseman, though the criticism was unjust, as Harry's team was so shot to pieces that Wolverton, in desperation, scrambled his team about daily in a vain effort to win games. Gardner, Simmons, Stump, Hartzell, Sterrett and even Ford were playing at second before Wolverton tried to plug the weak spot by using Chase on the midway satchel.

When Chase played second base on the Hilltop in 1911, he seemed to make all plays which the average second baseman takes care of, though he did not look like a star at the position the way he does at first. Of course, at that time Chase was really new to the position, and the Highlanders were going so bad that no one cared much what they did.

Boosted By Collins.

However, Hal seemed to show something new to second base play in other cities. Connie Mack, the brainy tactician of the Athletics, is a great admirer of Chase and is interested in the argument as to whether Hal would be a success as a second baseman.

"I am inclined to agree with Frank Chance that Chase will make a great second baseman," said Connie, shortly before his team left Philadelphia for San Antonio. "We saw Chase play second here and the boys marveled at the manner in which he was able to get balls driven over second. Eddie Collins was particularly interested in Chase's second base play, and Eddie was of the opinion that if Hal made a study of the position he would become as adept at playing second as he now is at playing first."

From the reports being sent up from Bermuda, Hal is playing second base in a way that will make some of the star second basemen of the American league turn green with envy next season. There is little use in telling about Chase's remarkable fielding hands. His remarkable quickness with his hand is the secret of his ability to retrieve poorly-thrown balls which the average first baseman has no chance to get. Chase's fielding hands, as well as his quick brain, should be of valuable assistance to him in overcoming the difficulties of his new position.

Where Chance Belongs.

As to the argument that if Chance wants to get into the game, why not let him try his hand at second, that is all bosh. Chance is a first baseman, and is no longer a youngster, and no longer has the speed which once made him one of the most feared base runners in the game.

It would be folly for Chance to attempt to play any other position than first base this late in his career. He may not be the star at first that Chase was, nor the star he was once himself, but tho peerless leader should still have several years of pretty good ball playing in him. He will steady the New York infield, and his big bat should drive in many a run. With Chase at second, the Highlander infield should be better taken care of than it has been in years.

OPPOSITE RESULTS.

Chicago Beaten By Los Angeles and Wins From San Francisco.

Los Angeles, March 22.—Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Americans by a narrow margin yesterday. White, who pitched five innings for Chicago, allowed only three hits, but Smith, the Southern league recruit, was more vulnerable, and after Los Angeles had tied the score in the eighth he was taken out of the box. Lange fared no better, two long hits bringing in the winning run with two men down. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	3	11	3

Batteries — Tosser, Driscoll and Brooks, Hoffman; White, Smith, Lange and Easterly.

San Francisco, March 22.—Except in one inning Douglas had the San Francisco coast leaguers at his mercy yesterday and Chicago won. Bodie made a home run and a two-base hit. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago, No. 2	6	9	1
San Francisco	3	6	0

Batteries—Douglas and Gossett; Henley, Arlett and Depulve.

OPPONENT ARRESTED.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 22.—Tommy Lavelle, a local lightweight boxer, died here yesterday morning as the result of a blow he received in a boxing bout before the Tariff club Thursday night, his skull being fractured.

George Adamson, Lavelle's opponent in the boxing bout, and A. C. Evans, alleged to have arranged the match, were arrested to await the action of the coroner's inquest.

Northwestern Beats Yale.

Chicago, March 22.—Yale swimmers lost to Northwestern university in their dual meet here last night by 27 to 22. Yale won its only victory in the relay, setting a new intercollegiate record of 2:25. Kenneth Huszagh of Northwestern, holder of the world's championship at 40 yards, won the 40-yards, 100-yards and 200-yards swims with his teams, with Roberts of Yale second in each. The plunge and 100 yards breast stroke also were won by Northwestern.

Minneapolis Bowling Scores.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 22.—Henry Clayton and Martin Luger of St. Paul rolled into first place in the doubles at the International Bowling tournament here yesterday afternoon by making a total score of 1,215. The previous high score was 1,161, made by Sash and Reimer of Minneapolis. Other scores were: George Stokke and J. M. Smith, St. Paul, 1,132; William Jahnke and Joseph Grimm, St. Paul, 1,120; J. Smelzer and C. Sandblom, St. Paul, 1,102.

MANY TALK TO FRENCH CLUB

Twenty - Five Candidates Speak to West End Organization.

W. I. Prince Vigorously Denies He Is Candidate of Interests.

The French Naturalization club at a meeting at the St. Jean Baptiste hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, last evening heard an unusual volume of campaign oratory. Twenty-five candidates for the city commission outlined their views on questions before the city.

W. I. Prince, candidate for mayor, declared for law enforcement and for the suppression of the social evil.

"I am charged with being a candidate of the interests, the thugs, thieves and all the bad elements of the city," said Mr. Prince. "I am also charged with having moved out of the city and coming back to enter this campaign. I deny both charges. I defy any man to prove that I am fettered by any man or any special interest, and the 500 or more good citizens who petitioned me to become a candidate can hardly be classed with the thugs and thieves."

Dr. D. H. Day declared that if he is elected he will work for the elimination of the Duluth-Edison Electric company from politics. He said he has been a municipal ownership fighter for twenty years and he is still fighting for the principle.

P. E. Dowling said the real issue of the campaign is the growth and prosperity of the city. He said while the politicians have been crying law enforcement and the suppression of the social evil, the big issues have been neglected.

Marcus L. Fay declared for law enforcement, municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant, an eight-hour day for city work and the improvement of the street by city labor instead of by contract.

C. E. Roe, Bert N. Wheeler, J. C. Wesenberg and Carroll F. Graff declared for law enforcement, the suppression of the social evil and municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant.

"It has been said that I am a candidate of the interests," said James A. Farrell. "It is a falsehood. I am not tied to any interest, and if I am elected, I will give all a square deal."

Henry J. Mullin, short-term candidate, talked briefly on his platform and said a business administration for the city is the main issue of the campaign.

Other speakers were: Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant municipal judge at West Duluth; W. H. Gurnee, who also seeks that position; John Brown, candidate for special judge of the municipal court; Frank Jordan, John A. MacDonell, J. Scott Cash, W. H. Smallwood, Roy Hood, who represented Leonidas Merritt; Joseph W. Cumming, Charles G. French, W. L. Bernard, D. E. Stevens, W. E. McEwen, Morris Kaplan and Bernard Silberstein.

MAKES ATTACK ON W. E. M'EWEN

W. E. Towne Says Labor Leader Is Traitor to the Cause.

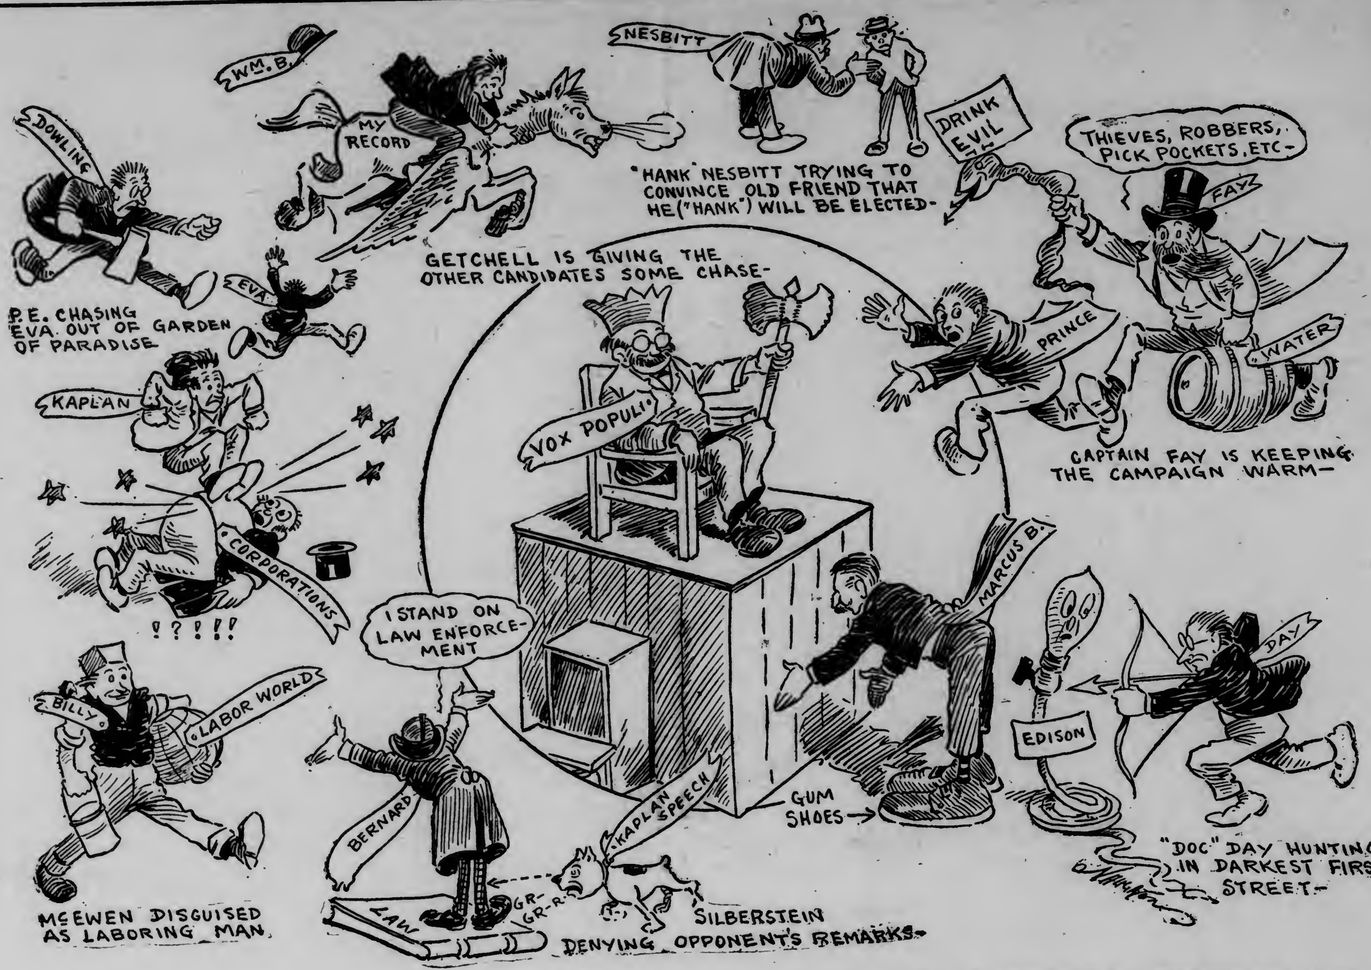
At the meeting at Lakeside hall last night W. E. Towne, Socialist candidate for the long term, lambasted W. E. McEwen, declaring him a traitor to labor.

He asserted that at the last national election McEwen stated in the presence of witnesses who could be produced that he now agrees that the laboring man belongs in the Socialist party and that he has decided to join the party and will take the stump in behalf of Kaplan for congress. An Armory meeting was arranged at which McEwen was to speak; when the day of the meeting arrived McEwen did not appear and spoke at a Democratic meeting.

McEwen, Towne claimed, only supported the compensation law to gain notoriety. "McEwen knows just as well as we do that the new law is inferior to the old system of getting compensation." Under the old law the heirs could obtain $7,500 where $3,000 is the limit under the new law. Two years was the time limit to bring suit for injuries under the old law while ninety days is proposed by the new statute.

"It is an outrage and a disgrace for a man who occupies a high position in the labor movement to entirely ignore labor in his platform. Not in one of his many utterances in the press has McEwen seen fit to say what he proposes to do for the working class, for the union man and for unionism. He does not come out for labor for fear that he may lose the support of 'Big Business.'"

Ed T. Harris and Ed Blackwood, candidate for the short term, were the other speakers.



Two and three meetings a day will be held next week to reach every voter. Sunday afternoon Morris Kaplan and Ed Blackwood will speak at New Duluth, Maccabee hall. Monday night they will be at 1627 London road and at 431 East Fourth street, Tuesday night at Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street and at Bricklayers' hall. Two Polish meetings will be held, one Scandinavian and one Jewish.

KING—Halt! What mild-mannered man is this, who slippeth to my palace, with feet encased in soft galoshes, and doth approach my throne as silently as night descends on Gaul?

MARCUS B.—I am he, my lord, who through three campaigns didst serve thee. In the old days when civil wars didst shake our city, three times I led the Democratic hosts, and thrice did victory perch upon our flag. Thrice did the swarming hosts of opposition camps hurl themselves against our walls, and thrice did they fall back before the solid ranks of Democratic votes, beaten and dismayed.

And then there came another leader, who, with brandished steel, which smoked with bloody execution, rallied the scattered forces of the opposition in one last mad dash against the battlements, and, fighting fiercely, we were driven back step by step, until we yielded, and the rout was utter. He did strip me of my vestments and assume my powers, but now with peace once more restored, old factions joined, and a new and brighter era dawning, I come to seek your favor. I promise thee contented people. And there comes to me a vision of a race devoted to the healthy sports of outdoor life. I see the argosies of commerce unload their freight upon the city docks. I plead efficiency, your grace. I pledge to thee a task well done, the evil forces of our city curbed, a city lighted brightly as the day with current which it owns itself, and dryness seeking vain relief, when twilight settles down upon the land.

THE KING—Soft and fairly spoken, Marcus B. I will attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

DAVID H.—A citizen, my lord, who craves your ear.

KING—Methinks I know thy face. Ere this you have bended o'er my prostrate form, while seeking cavities where none I knew there were, and giving me relief, but can you plug the gaping holes that make the body politic like unto the sieve wherewith we sift the flour for our daily sustenance. Speak, and plead your cause.

DAVID H.—One plea, I make, and one alone, oh king! Hidden in its First street cave there lives a beast, which has sucked the life-blood from our city. With bloody maw, reeking horrible, it feeds upon the young and tender pocketbooks of our brave men. So withered and emaciated grow our men, they look not like inhabitants of the earth, and yet are on it, while the beast fattens and grows yet more fat upon the yellow lucre lifted from their jeans. Until this beast is throttled, oh, my king, naught but utter desolation can prevail. I pledge thee that I, like my doughty little namesake, who put Goliath on the blink, will go forth against this beast and strive with it, and throttle it with these good hands which oft have deftly tinkered with your royal molars.

KING—Soft and fairly spoken, David H. I will attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

PATRICK ELLARD—The people's friend, your grace.

KING—Ah, Patrick Ellard, greetings. Full oft do I remember when, in legislative halls, I heard the dulcet drippings from your Irish tongue fall softly on the ear, or heard again, when you were taking up the lance against the greed of corporations, the fierce onslaughts of your fiery voice hurled against the walls, echo and re-echo through the halls and corridors until it died away in silence. Speak, Sir Patrick, and plead your cause.

PATRICK E.—I am one, my lord, whom the vile blows and buffets of our greedy corporations have so incensed that I am reckless what I do to bring them to their senses. For the corporations are abroad upon the land and their ways are filled with rapine.

That fair order, the Commercial club, once served as model for the mighty world, and presaged a time when its members, true and tried, would strike the shackles from the arms of our fair city, and free her from the loathsome clutch of corporations, great and small. Then came the shameful institution called the industrial bureau, and others following fast, till the loathsome opposite of all my heart had destined did prevail, and rivets by the score were driven in the shackles which bound fast the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas to the ball and chain which bore the label of the trusts. This betrayal of their trust unsolders all that goodly company of men destined to free our city from the loathsome clutch of money power. I pledge thee, oh, your grace, to be the Moses who will lead the residents of our fair town from out the noisome swamp of corporation influence, unto the broad and smiling plains where true democracy shall rule, and bounteous prosperity shall smile upon the youthful giant whose limbs are stretched across the smiling waters of the greatest, grandest lake beneath the starry flag of our fair land.

KING—Fair spoken, Patrick E. I will attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

KING—Thou art also known to me as one who comes from the North, where iron is found beneath the grass roots. And let me say I do not hold thy dough against thee. Even William Jennings, peerless leader of the common herd, has taken to himself a cart which goes without the aid of horses, and in the soft and sunny Southern olimes seeks ease and rest beneath the shimmering palms. So speak and plead your case.

MARCUS L.—The instruments of darkness, my lord, oft tell us truths to win us with honest trifles and betray us in deepest consequence. Snatched from beneath the very altar of the church the forces of evil here within our town have grabbed a man, an honest, straight, upstanding man, whose face has many times looked into ours across the counter where he took and safely guarded the contents of our pocketbooks. His eyes meet ours, and his face is clean, but the flapping tails upon his coat are dragging in the mire. If good, why does he yield to their suggestions that he turn the city over to their hands to do with it as they will, connect the breweries with the water mains and leave the faucets turned on until the cock's crow doth greet the plodding toiler of the gas house gang? The horrid image of these evil men doth unfix my hair, and make my seated heart knock at my ribs against the use of nature. My thoughts shake so my single state of man that function is smothered in surmise and nothing is but what is not. I pledge thee, oh my king, that I will strip this mired coat from off that princely back, and send its owner back to the counting house where he may live in honest and sanitary grandeur.

KING—Fairly spoke, Marcus L. I will attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

KING—I know thee, sir. Full oft within our council halls have I heard your dulcet voice upraised to plead the latest cause that agitates the people of our Western suburb and shakes our city's rock foundations from the steel plant to the point of rocks. Speak and plead your cause.

WILLIAM B.—A simple man am I, my lord, and unversed in public speaking. The only forum that I know, our West Duluth Commercial club, has many orators, tried and true, whose voice is ever raised against the perils to our body politic. To these I leave discussion. I'll close the dens of vice, clamp fast the lid, beard the fierce beast of First street, of whom you heard my comrade David speak but recently—in fact, full oft have I ere this hurled the shaft beneath the fifth rib of this grinning beast and drawn it forth red with blood, and lastly, oh your grace, I'll stand a faithful guardian o'er the city's treasure's chest, and any dollar that goes forth from there will feel the fierce compression of my hand until the eagle screams, for taxes in this man's town are too blamed high, as full often I have said when seated in the city's legislative halls.

KING—Fairly spoken, William. I will attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

MORRIS K.—A workingman, your grace; soft-handed, but a workingman, whose heart is with the proletariat as much as that of any horny-handed son of toil.

KING—Speak, sir, and tell what physic you prescribe for a tonic to our body politic.

MORRIS K.—Throw physic to the dogs. I'll none of it. I would find her disease and purge it to a sound, a pristine health. What rhubarb senna or what purgative drug would scour the vice from our city's system? I'll put on my armor, take my staff and force all lazy parasites to labor for their daily bread. I'll cheapen coal, remove the cause of vice by cutting out the cancer known as poverty, which is eating at the foundations of our moral sense.

KING—Fairly spoken, Morris. I'll attend to your case hereafter. Who comes here?

WILLIAM E.—A plumber who quit plumbing, oh, your grace, to grab a pen and wield it for the workingman.

KING—Ah, Billy, I know thee well. Plead your cause.

WILLIAM E.—A boon, your grace, a boon. Strike from off the records the words of David H., who has gone before. I put the "pub" in public, the "own" in ownership, and the "L" in league. I hurled the first brick that raised a lump upon the head of the First street beast. I drove a knife between the ribs of corporations' dragons before my rivals here e'en asked the price of cutlery. I took a gun and wandered through our town, hunting for public service corporations before my rivals even knew that powder had such uses. I'll take this First street beast and flop it on its back. I'll peg it down and gag it and remove its heart, which I'll present upon an incandescent platter to the officers of the Stirrup club.

KING—Fairly spoken, William. I'll attend your case hereafter. What befezzed citizen approaches?

HENRY N.—A pilgrim who has crossed the sands, your grace.

KING—I know you well. Full often in the olden days you served as the seive through which was sifted only what should reach the ears of that worthy citizen and former governor, Trevanion W. Speak, and plead your cause.

HENRY N.—I am that man of whom you speak, your grace. For years I was the buffer between Trevanion and the office seekers, the disgruntled and those who sought his ear for purposes dark and devious. I learned the art of governing in a practical school. I learned the city's needs at first hand. Later I studied business beneath a master's hand and learned efficiency and office methods. Later yet I followed a post graduate course in business through the sale of real estate. I will enforce the law, put method in the city's government, economize and close guard your city's funds, and also hurl a brick when comes the proper time toward the First street den.

KING—Fairly spoken, Henry N. I will deal with your case hereafter. Who comes here?

WILLIAM J.—A plain business man, your grace, turned politician, and one who finds that more things are written in the politician's book than this world dreams of. Foul whisperings are abroad. Until today I stood before the world and faced it, and knew nothing of the mire that decorated the nether segment of my garments. And now behold I hear my coattails are flapping in the mire. My hands are clean, your grace, my coattails undefiled, but dodging neatly moulded chunks of dust and H2-O is getting on my nerves. I've promised to enforce the laws. What further can they ask? I've made my attitude toward the beast that makes its home on First street very clear. What further can they do? I studied business in a first-class school. I promise to apply those rules I learned to our fair city's public matters, and there I stand, your grace.

KING—Fairly spoken, William. I'll attend your case hereafter. Who comes here?

BERNARD S.—A merchant, your grace, and an honest one.

KING—I know you well. You kept my parks for many a year and charged me nothing for it. Plead your cause.

BERNARD S.—I come not to curry favor, oh, your grace. Here in your good city for two score years or more, I've made my fight. I've dealt fairly with your people, and they with me. And now I've passed the meridian of my days, although old age has not yet laid its hands on me. I see a chance to serve your people in a more important post than the one I've held. I care not for the wage. I kicked not at the lack of salary connected with the job of gardener to your grace, and that absolves me from the charge of selfish office-seeking. I've studied business, and I know its ins and outs. I come prepared to offer you the benefit of that training. I will enforce your laws and pledge myself to go out against the beast that dwells on First street.

KING—Fairly spoken, Bernard S. I'll attend your case hereafter. And now candidates, one and all, my decision is withheld. On April 2, in the columns of The Herald, that fireside companion in the homes of all my people, that defender of the public good, I will announce my verdict. Until then, fare you well.

Exeunt omnes,

J. E. R.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Inserted by Adolph M. Balfany, in behalf of himself, candidate for Short Term Commissioner. Amount to be paid, $8.96.

Adolph M. Balfany
Candidate for
COMMISSIONER
Two-Year Term.

A United Commercial Traveler for twenty years.
A resident of Duluth for fifteen years.
A member of Zenith Council, No. 40.
Born at Preston, Minn., in 1873.

Assuring you that I am thoroughly competent to discharge the duties of commissioner in the new city government, without fear or favor to any one, I respectfully submit my platform as follows:

Strict enforcement of the liquor laws, with no favoritism to any one.
A square deal to all, rich and poor alike and to the small and large interests.
Equality in taxation.
Just recognition of claims from all parts of our city.
Municipal ownership of public utilities.
Close attention to the demands of our citizens.
Encouraging new industries to locate in Duluth, believing that there is ample room for many new enterprises in our city.
Eight hours for city employes.
Ability and honesty as qualifications for appointments to any position in the city government.
My best efforts for anything that will bring Duluth to the front as one of the best governed cities in America.
Will appreciate your kind support.

ADOLPH M. BALFANY,
Candidate for Commissioner, Short Term.

PUTTING BILLY WISE

Brother-to-Brother Letters By Johnny Wise.

Dear Bill: The campaign is drawing to a close, William, and the skyrockets are bursting with greater frequency. Candidates and organizations are using bombs, banners and brickbats in addition to sundry and various other devices to attract attention. Election is a week from next Tuesday, and the coming week promises to be a sad one for the poor downtrodden voter. Even I, hardened as I am as to political excitement, am inclined to take to the cyclone cellar to escape the importunities that come from all sides.

On the whole the campaign hasn't been a bad one thus far for the voters, for the candidates have confined themselves to scrapping among themselves. However, they have been approaching nearer and nearer to the voting body, as the people generally awakened to the fact that election was approaching, and next week voters, ward heelers, friends of candidates and candidates themselves will be swung into a whirlpool of political activity.

Here and there, one sees large gobs of mud flying through the air in the direction of candidates—and everybody in the vicinity dodges. When the throwing of mud begins, everybody indulges usually, and it is often the worse for those who start the slinging. I don't like to see a mudslinging campaign, and it may be that a majority of the candidates are wise enough to avoid it.

The Municipal Ownership league, the Stirrup club, the Inter-Church council, the Ministerial association, the Public Ownership party, the Loyal Liberty Protective league, and several other nameless organizations are in the thick of this fight. It was alleged that under the commission plan, political organizations would be destroyed and every man would have to shift for himself in going before the voters. It was a pleasing bit of fiction, Bill. There are as many organizations in this fight as there ever were in any municipal campaign in Duluth, and perhaps more.

The Loyal Liberty Protective league, that organization of sterling citizens who believe that the liquor laws should not be enforced too rigorously, is badly split. They are divided on several candidates for each office and no man can go around with the self-satisfying knowledge that a large block of votes is coming his way without effort on his part. It's a condition the boys who usually swing that vote are not tickled to death with, but they can do nothing but join in the split as their inclinations may direct.

Is municipal ownership an issue in the campaign? One wouldn't say so to hear the candidates speak and to read their platforms. Every last one of them from the most promising candidate for mayor to the rankest also-ran in the two-year term list is for municipal ownership, first, last and all the time since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. The Municipal Ownership leaguers, who are the real authorities on the public ownership of utilities, say that municipal ownership is the great issue of the campaign, but it's pretty hard for the voter to find out who is against it.

Some of the candidates have weakly thrown up the sponge in fact, and others have tossed it up in effect by abandoning their campaigns. Some names will go on the ballot and the men who bear the names will probably not vote for themselves. It clutters the thing up pretty badly, but I believe some of the candidates filed in response to that inner craving that exists in every man to see his own name in print. It isn't everybody that could get his name in print on an election ballot in the old days, but now there's nothing to prevent any man having his monaker printed in capitals of uniform size with other names of more or less prominent cite.

I'll be glad when the thing is over, Bill. There are too many candidates, too much fuss and too much flub-dub. Hypocrisy, greed and selfishness never made a hit with me and all three are around with jangling bells attached when there is a political campaign in progress. I have a deep and abiding faith in the intelligence of the average voter of Duluth, and I believe when the campaign is over we will be able to settle back, with five good men in the commissioners' chairs, to enjoy the best form of government ever devised for a city. Yours,

JOHNNY.

KAPLAN TELLS WHAT HE PLANS TO DO

To the Editor of The Herald:

This campaign will in many respects prove itself to be one of the most momentous in the annals of municipal elections—not merely of this city, but in the United States.

We have adopted a charter that is very drastic in many of its provisions. There is more power conferred on the men who will be chosen by the people at the coming election to rule the affairs of this city than many persons dream.

These powers can be used beneficially or detrimentally—all depending upon the viewpoint and class interest of the men elected. I am of those who not merely believe, but know that there are conflicting class interests existing here as in every other city where the master and servant relation exists in shops and stores. I know that harmony, therefore, is not possible between employer and employe, nor between landlord and tenant—other than a passive understanding as to terms and conditions

It is my purpose, therefore—if elected—to use every honorable endeavor to bring about better civic and moral conditions, by exercising such powers as will be allotted me to initiate and install a municipal food department, a municipal loan department, a municipal employment department, a municipal lodging house (not the sham affair that is being mentioned), the equalization of water rates, open schools as social centers and provide lectures and entertainments and also install motion picture machines for such uses in buildings thus utilized, minimize the degrading and abhorrent effects of the social evil by segregating the women engaged in this traffic to some uninhabited section of the city and prosecuting all those who make profit from the vocation of these unfortunates, also making every endeavor to provide honorable employment for the unfortunate women who, after having been pressed into this social hell, cannot of their own volition again rehabilitate themselves.

I shall also make it my personal business to see that all taxable property shall be taxed, which will have the effect of bringing down the average annual tax rate to all, as the petty property owner would find himself required to pay less, whereas the large property owners would have to pay their just proportion of taxes.

I shall also use my every endeavor to hurry along the establishment of a municipally-owned and operated electric lighting plant, but I am not of those who believe that this is the most important question before us for solution. I fully realize—as others also should—that in many sections of the city there are many wage earners who are living in houses where only kerosene lamps are used, and these people are more interested in lower food prices than in changed electric lighting ownership, which to them means very little.

We should all strive for a better city, a healthier city, and more beautiful surroundings that will enable the many to share in some of the pleasures that now, due to economic causes, are realized only by the very few. I shall permit not hate but reason to guide my actions as a public official. All my time and every hour will be placed at the service of the citizenship of this city.

My policy will be one of constructive effort and management worthy of emulation elsewhere and everywhere by those who sincerely have at heart the common good.

MORRIS KAPLAN.

FORMER EMPLOYE HAS BOUQUET FOR SILBERSTEIN

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly allow me space for a few lines in your most valuable paper, concerning one mentioned for mayor of our city, Bernard Silberstein. It really gave me great pleasure to read the words of praise from H. C. Helm, in your paper recently, and I wish to state from experience, in working for Mr. Silberstein in his establishment for several years, that I have never met a more true and noble gentleman, and more so in deeds, than words. When a merchant can treat his employes as equals, what would he not do for our beautiful city, were he elected, and given the power to execute his valuable wisdom and guardianship over many, instead of the few, who know and appreciate the character and true worth of such an unselfish citizen, loved and respected for the many good deeds and kind words to all whose privilege it has been to come in contact with him? Words cannot express my praise, but if elected, I am sure you will all soon recognize in him the right man for such a responsible position. Thanking you in advance, I am very respectfully yours,

A FORMER EMPLOYE.
(of S. & B. Co.)

Duluth, March 21.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY. (2)

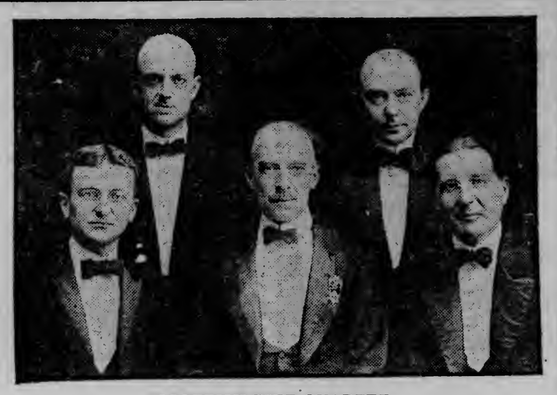
Gebauer will give the second lecture in his course on the drama on "Paolo and Francesca" at the Unitarian church at 8 p. m.

SATURDAY—President's day of the Saturday club with a social afternoon at the library clubroom; Student's frolic of the Matinee Musicale at the Endion M. E. church parlors at 3:30 o'clock followed by a tea; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mershon will entertain at bridge in the evening at their home, 1730 East Superior street.



The release which Easter brings to the social quietude of Lent is already noticeable in the numerous events planned for next week. Club and social affairs have filled the calendar for the week to overflowing and several events of unusual importance and interest are scheduled for the week.

Lectures and club meetings have marked the chief interest of the past week with a number of St. Patrick's day affairs on Monday, adding the entertaining features. A lecture on Minnesota laws by Mrs. Irene C. Buell on Monday at an open meeting of the Twentieth Century club, and Rev. George R. Gebauer's lecture last evening on "Parsifal" at the Unitarian church were two of the treats of the week.

The leaving of Miss Amy Oliver on Tuesday for her home was the occasion of genuine regret throughout her wide circle of friends. Miss Oliver had been in Duluth as society editor of the News Tribune for two years, and during that time has gained a wide acquaintance among club and social circles and she has been prominent in club work of various sorts. At the social meeting of the Twentieth Century club Monday evening, Mrs. J. H. Crowley, president of the club, made a pretty little speech voicing the regret of the club members at her departure, which was enthusiastically applauded.

Miss Oliver left on account of ill health, and she will spend several months with her parents in St. Paul and she plans to travel in the West during the summer.

Weddings

Miss Rena M. Thomson, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Thomson, was married this morning to Will A. Coughlin, formerly of Duluth and now of Portland, Or. The marriage took place at the residence of Dr. Robert E. Yost of the First Presbyterian church. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin will leave for their home in Portland. Miss Thomson has been employed for some time at Dworshak's studio and is quite well known in the city. Mr. Coughlin is also well known here. He resided in Duluth from childhood up to about six years ago when he moved to Portland and engaged in the insurance business there. He has been visiting in Duluth for several months.

Engagements

The engagement of Miss A. E. Hawkes of Spring Valley, Minn., to W. C. Robinson of this city has been announced.

Events Planned

The First division, Minnesota Naval Militia, will give its annual Easter ball on Monday evening, March 24, at the Armory. The signal squad, under the direction of the signal quartermaster, has decorated the hall with signal flags and bunting. The sailors' annual dance has always been a popular affair and a large attendance is expected. The Flaaten orchestra will furnish the music.

Duluth council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans, will entertain at a dancing party Monday evening. The regular business session will be held from 8 to 9 o'clock and the officers are particularly requested to be prompt that the business and initiation of candidates may be finished in time. A good program of music will be played for the dancing.

On April 7 it is planed to give a burlesque program on the recent convention held in St. Paul, at which members of the St. Paul and Minneapolis councils and Alpha council of Duluth will be specially invited guests.

Mrs. Carl Schau of 422½ East Fifth street will entertain at cards Wednesday afternoon of next week. Five hundred will be played at five tables.

Friday evening, April 4, has been chosen as the date for the two plays, "A Proposal Under Difficulties" and "The Flying Wedge" by John Kendrick, which will be put on by members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church at the assembly hall of the Young Men's Christian association, under the direction of Miss Agnes Johnson.

Some special features of entertainment are being planned for the evening which will be given between the two little one-act plays and which will add a good deal to the amusement of the evening.

Leo's Spring Session in Dancing and Aesthetics

Commences Tuesday, March 25 at 7:30 p. m., for ladies and gentlemen; Wednesday, March 26, at 4 p. m. for children, misses and masters. Private lessons by appointment; office hours, 2 to 5 p. m. Old Masonic Temple building.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Prescribing a Remedy for the Spring Fever.

With the official approach of spring—whether the weather bears it out or not—most of us will begin to be thinking of the spring fever, which produces that tired and languid feeling. Perhaps it is a sort of fever, or perhaps it is the last vestige of the Nomad in us that gives us uneasiness and unrest and the desire to travel. Whatever it is, and however much people may make jokes about it, there is no doubt that most of us experience a feeling of lassitude in the spring that is as difficult to overcome as it is to explain.

A rake, a shovel, a few packets of seed and a little plot of ground is the best cure for spring fever that I know of, provided they are taken properly. Take the rake and the shovel out each day in the morning air and the bright sunshine and spade and rake the ground. Don't be afraid of the dirt. Get right down on your knees and make the little flower beds, sow the seed and pat the fine earth over them with your bare hands.

That is all there is in the cure. Get back to Mother Earth for an hour or so each day. Put on an old skirt and a small hat that will allow the sunshine to get to your face and neck and shoulders, and get out into the flower beds and the vegetable garden and you will be astonished how you enjoy it—if you've never done it before. If you have, this advice probably will be superfluous.

Lots of fresh air and sunlight, and a mind unclouded by the ordinary worries of your daily routine of life is what is going to cure spring fever. It is the little garden plots, the little flower beds and the window boxes over which you labor that are going to serve the triple purpose of getting you out into the invigorating air, taking you away from hardwood floors and papered walls, and occupying your mind with something restful.

See how dirty you can get your hands, how freckled or tanned you can get your nose, and how full of fresh air you can get your lungs in the process of preparing the ground, sowing the seed and tending the growing plants and flowers. Then, the first thing you know you will be wondering where you got those bright eyes and rosy cheeks and that elastic step and that good digestion and that miraculous ability to sleep like an infant.

Yes, indeed. Try my recipe—one rake, one shovel, a packet of seed and a plot of ground, taken in their proper relations. I will guarantee it to do just what I promise for it.

The Forming of a Figure

is the precious task entrusted to the young girl's earliest corsets. What kind of a woman shall she be five years hence—erect and buoyant, with a figure that lends grace to any gown, or ill-poised, undeveloped, and dowdy? It's a question depending chiefly on the corset she wears now.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets cannot be imitated any more than the beauty of the natural figure can, because every tiniest part is designed and constructed to aid nature in the moulding of perfect figures. Right poise at fifteen means the full beauty of womanhood at twenty.

Warner's Rust Proof

Introduce the young girl to Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets—not only the best shape, but the best-wearing.

Gebauer will give the second lecture in his course on the drama on "Paolo and Francesca" at the Unitarian church at 8 p. m.

SATURDAY—President's day of the Saturday club with a social afternoon at the library clubroom; Student's frolic of the Matinee Musicale at the Endion M. E. church parlors at 3:30 o'clock followed by a tea; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Merrion will entertain at bridge in the evening at their home, 1730 East Superior street.

The release which Easter brings to the social quietude of Lent is already noticeable in the numerous events planned for next week. Club and social affairs have filled the calendar for the week to overflowing and several events of unusual importance and interest are scheduled for the week.

Lectures and club meetings have marked the chief interest of the past week with a number of St. Patrick's day affairs on Monday, adding the outstanding features. A lecture on Minnesota laws by Mrs. Irene C. Buell on Monday at an open meeting of the Twentieth Century club, and Rev. George R. Gebauer's lecture last evening on "Parsifal" at the Unitarian church were two of the treats of the week.

The leaving of Miss Amy Oliver on Tuesday for her home was the occasion of genuine regret throughout her wide circle of friends. Miss Oliver had been in Duluth as society editor of the News Tribune for two years, and during that time has gained a wide acquaintance among club and social circles and she has been prominent in club work of various sorts. At the social meeting of the Twentieth Century club Monday evening, Mrs. J. H. Crowley, president of the club, made a pretty little speech voicing the regret of the club members at her departure, which was enthusiastically applauded.

Miss Oliver left on account of ill health, and she will spend several months with her parents in St. Paul and she plans to travel in the West during the summer.

Weddings

Miss Rena M. Thomson, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Thomson, was married this morning to Will A. Coughlin, formerly of Duluth and now of Portland, Or. The marriage took place at the residence of Dr. Robert E. Yost of the First Presbyterian church. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin will leave for their home in Portland. Miss Thomson has been employed for some time at Dworshak's studio and is quite well known in the city. Mr. Coughlin is also well known here. He resided in Duluth from childhood up to about six years ago when he moved to Portland and engaged in the insurance business there. He has been visiting in Duluth for several months.

Engagements

The engagement of Miss A. E. Hawkes of Spring Valley, Minn., to W. C. Robinson of this city has been announced.

Events Planned

The First division, Minnesota Naval Militia, will give its annual Easter ball on Monday evening, March 24, at the Armory. The signal squad, under the direction of the signal quartermaster, has decorated the hall with signal flags and bunting. The sailors' annual dance has always been a popular affair and a large attendance is expected. The Finaten orchestra will furnish the music.

Duluth council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans, will entertain at a dancing party Monday evening. The regular business session will be held from 8 to 9 o'clock and the officers are particularly requested to be present that the business and initiation of candidates may be finished in time. A good program of music will be played for the dancing.

On April 7 it is planned to give a burlesque program on the recent convention held in St. Paul, at which members of the St. Paul and Minneapolis councils and Aloha council of Duluth will be specially invited guests.

Mrs. Carl Schau of 4224 East Fifth street will entertain at cards Wednesday afternoon of next week. Five hundred will be played at five tables.

Friday evening, April 4, has been chosen as the date for the two plays, "A Proposal Under Difficulties" and "The Flying Wedge" by John Kendrick, which will be put on by members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church at the assembly hall of the Young Men's Christian association, under the direction of Miss Agnes Johnson.

Some special features of entertainment are being planned for the evening which will be given between the two little one-act plays and which will add a good deal to the amusement of the evening.

Leo's Spring Session in Dancing and Aesthetics
Commences Tuesday, March 25 at 7:30 p. m., for ladies and gentlemen; Wednesday, March 26, at 4 p. m. for children, misses and masters. Private lessons by appointment; office hours, 2 to 5 p. m. Old Masonic Temple building.

The Forming of a Figure
is the precious task entrusted to the young girl's earliest corsets. What kind of a woman shall she be five years hence—erect and buoyant, with a figure that lends grace to any gown, or ill-poised, undeveloped, and dowdy? It's a question depending chiefly on the corset she wears now.
Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets cannot be imitated any more than the beauty of the natural figure can, because every tiniest part is designed and constructed to aid nature in the moulding of perfect figures. Right poise at fifteen means the full beauty of womanhood at twenty.

By PEGGY PEABODY

With the official approach of spring—whether the weather bears it out or not—most of us will begin to be thinking of the spring fever, which produces that tired and languid feeling. Perhaps it is a sort of fever, or perhaps it is the last vestige of the Nomad in us that gives us uneasiness and unrest and the desire to travel. Whatever it is, and however much people may make jokes about it, there is no doubt that most of us experience a feeling of lassitude in the spring that is as difficult to overcome as it is to explain.

A rake, a shovel, a few packets of seed and a little plot of ground is the best cure for spring fever that I know of, provided they are taken properly. Take the rake and the shovel out each day in the morning air and the bright sunshine and spade and rake the ground. Don't be afraid of the dirt. Get right down on your knees and make the little flower beds, sow the seed and pat the fine earth over them with your bare hands.

That is all there is in the cure. Get back to Mother Earth for an hour or so each day. Put on an old skirt and a small hat that will allow the sunshine to get to your face and neck and shoulders, and get out into the flower beds and the vegetable garden and you will be astonished how you enjoy it—if you've never done it before. If you have, this advice probably will be superfluous.

Lots of fresh air and sunlight, and a mind unclouded by the ordinary worries of your daily routine of life is what is going to cure spring fever. It is the little garden plots, the little flower beds and the window boxes over which you labor that are going to serve the triple purpose of getting you out into the invigorating air, taking you away from hardwood floors and papered walls, and occupying your mind with something restful.

See how dirty you can get your hands, how freckled or tanned you can get your nose, and how full of fresh air you can get your lungs in the process of preparing the ground, sowing the seed and tending the growing plants and flowers. Then, the first thing you know you will be wondering where you got those bright eyes and rosy cheeks and that elastic step and that good digestion and that miraculous ability to sleep like an infant.

Yes, indeed. Try my recipe—one rake, one shovel, a packet of seed and a plot of ground, taken in their proper relations. I will guarantee it to do just what I promise for it.

MINNESOTA GLEE CLUB WHICH WILL GIVE CONCERT HERE FOR BENEFIT OF SMITH SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The University of Minnesota Glee club will give a concert Monday evening at the Central high school for the benefit of the Smith memorial scholarship fund.

The chorus numbers twenty-one young men, all of whom are the possessors of excellent voices and the pick of the singers at the state university. Most of the members sing also in the Apollo club of Minneapolis and St. Paul, which is considered one of the best of its kind in the country. The glee club is now ranked with the similar clubs of Yale, Harvard and Oberlin colleges.

In addition to the regular program Monday evening, several solos will be rendered by Mrs. Carlyle Scott, violinist, wife of the director, and Ernest Golden, pianist and accompanist for the club. The club quartet will also render several selections.

The concert in the high school auditorium will be followed by an informal reception and dance for the members of the club in the school hall. The entire arrangements are in charge of the following committee of the Northern Minnesota Alumni association: Laird Goodman, chairman; Fred Buck, George Suffell, Hans B. Haroldson and A. B. Kapplin.

a number of boys from the cathedral choir who will give illustrations of the Gregorian chant used so often in the music of De Bussey. The singers will be Ambrose Jones, John Higgins, Gerald Zellman, Francis O'Donnell, Walter Maher, Donald McKeevra, John McKenzie and Frank Schulte.

Talks on Art.

A special meeting of the Twentieth Century club will be held on Thursday afternoon at the library club room when Miss Jessie M. Thomson will give a lecture talk on "Pottery." Miss Thomson spent last summer in Europe where she gained a wealth of knowledge of this form of art and she will exhibit examples of the different potteries.

In connection with this talk on potteries, Mrs. A. B. Hilton will give a review of Louise Calver Hall's recently published book "Hand Woven Coverlets," containing wide knowledge of life and the customs in the South and both of these talks promise to be of exceptional interest.

This meeting is open to all members of the club and their friends.

Drama Class.

The regular study meeting of the Modern Drama class of the club will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock prompt at the hall of Trinity pro-cathedral. Miss Frances Earhart will repeat her talk on Arthur Schnitzler and the reading of his play, "Light o' Love" will be completed.

Annual Meeting.

The annual business meeting of the Twentieth Century club will be held on Monday afternoon, March 31 at the library club room at 2:30 o'clock. Reports of all the departments and the officers will be given and officers for next year will be elected at this time.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Easter Monday Program Will Be Given at Church.

THE Easter Monday program of the Matinee Musicale will be given at the Endion M. E. church next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a delightful program of organ and vocal numbers has been arranged by Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Dworshak and Miss Florence Hyland.

The ensemble numbers will be sung by a quartet composed of Miss Hyland, soprano; Miss Alice Mae Brown, contralto; Leon Cooley, tenor and Harry Gearhart, bass.

Mrs. Mark Baldwin who has not been heard by the club this year will sing Stevenson's "Light" and in her number the club is anticipating a treat.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers, organist and George Suffel, baritone will also appear.

The program as arranged follows:

"First Movement from Symphony Romane" ..... Widor
Faith Helen Rogers.
"Light" ..... Stevenson
Mrs. Mark Baldwin.
"Magnificat, Nunc Dimittis" ..... Lemare
Florence Hyland, soprona; Alice Mae Brown, contralto; Leon Cooley, tenor; Harry Gearhart, bass.
"Last Spring" ..... Grieg
"Finale of First Symphony" ..... Vierne
Faith Helen Rogers.
"Blessed Is He" ..... Woodman
George Suffel.
"Unto Him That Loved Us" ..... Stevenson
"Behold, Ye Despisers" ..... Parker
Florence Hyland, soprano; Alice Mae Brown, contralto; Leon Cooley, tenor; Harry Gearhart, bass.

Accompanists, Miss Carlotta Simonds and Miss Faith Helen Rogers.

Preceding the program the board of directors will hold its last meeting of the year at 1:30 o'clock when all business of the club year will be settled upon and the treasurer's accounts closed.

Following the program all active members are requested to remain to the annual meeting of the active body when the report of the nominating committee on officers for next year will be given, and nominations will be accepted from the floor for all offices.

STUDENTS' FROLIC WILL BE HELD BY MATINEE MUSICALE

MISS KATHERINE MacLEAN.

ONE of the special events of next week will be the annual students' frolic of the Matinee Musicale, which will be held Saturday afternoon at the parlors of the Endion M. E. church at 3:30 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Lachmund and Mrs. Stephen H. Jones. The members of the program are being kept a surprise, but those who have gained a hint of what is planned promise the affair will be a fun-fest worth while.

A special feature of the program will be Scotch music by Piper Norman MacLean and some Scotch dances by his daughter, little Miss Katherine MacLean.

Master John Magie, in a Russian dance, and a classical Grecian dance by Misses Charlene Bagley and Agnes Alexander, will also be special attractions on the program, and the rest of the stunts will not be divulged until the afternoon of the frolic. Prof. Leo, who has put on so many dances, has arranged the dancing numbers.

After the program tea will be served and all associate and active members of the Matinee Musicale are invited to share in the fun of the afternoon. The student members will be admitted upon presentation of their membership tickets, and a small charge will be made to others attending.

A partial list of the student members who will take part in the program consists of: Misses Alice Cowen, Cordelia Collins, Dorothy Crosby, Eugenie Le Richeux, Marion Dight, Mary Winton, Elizabeth Horr, Virginia Harrison, Marie Christenson, Marguerite McDonald, Madeline Miller, Loretta O'Gorman, Elfva Smith, Lelia Sparks, Maud Matteson, May Bradbury and Esther Gomberg.

Saturday Club.

MEMBERS of the Saturday club will celebrate "President's day" next Saturday afternoon with a special social afternoon at the club rooms of the library. Rev. George R. Gebauer will give a talk on Walt Whitman, and a musical program is being arranged for the afternoon by Mrs. Nell B. Morrison. After the program an informal social hour will be occupied with the serving of tea by the following members of the social committee: Mrs. L. E. Paddock, Mrs. M. Kelley, Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst, Mrs. W. G. La Rue, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle and Mrs. R. E. Denfeld.

APRIL FOOL CONCERT.

Membership Privilege Program Is Planned for the Y. W. C. A.

AN April fool entertainment is being arranged by Mrs. Stephen H. Jones and Miss Lelia Sparks, members of the social committee of the Young Women's Christian association, for Tuesday evening, April 1, at the association building, and a surprise program will be given at that time. Several special features are planned and girls at the building will assist during the social hour which will follow.

This entertainment will be one of the series of "membership privilege entertainments" of the season and members will be admitted upon presentation of their membership tickets and others will be charged a small fee.

W. C. T. U. BANQUET.

Three Branches Will Unite for Dinner Tuesday Evening.

A BANQUET planned by the three branches of the Women's Christian Temperance union of the city, the West Duluth, Central and Scandinavian branches, for next Tuesday evening, at the First M. E. church, will be one of the chief events of next week. Mrs. Joseph Cochrane will preside as toastmistress and a program of toasts has been arranged.

The complete program follows:

Piano solo ..... Mrs. L. H. Merritt.
Invocation ..... Rev. J. A. McGaughey.
"Our Work" ..... Mrs. Alfred Jaques.
"The Legal Standpoint" ..... Judge Windom.

"Trying to Do With Hands Tied" .... Dr. Mary McCoy.
"The City—As a Woman Sees It" .... Mrs. A. B. Stewert.
Solo—"Battle Hymn of the Republic" Mrs. Daniels.
Chorus by the Audience.
"The Moral Issue" ..... Rev. Swaney Nelson.

The reception committee follows: Mesdames Joseph Cochran, C. R. Keyes, J. T. Culbertson, H. Bevier, Ella Robinson, E. Gustafson, T. B. Jones, L. W. Linder.

The hostesses are: Mesdames Culbertson, Ida Merritt, Helen Stuart, B. H. Smith, Seglem, Ives, Bevier, H. H. Phelps, David Adams, Morterud, Swenson, A. R. Bennett.

TALKS ON "PARSIFAL."

Wagner's Famous Opera Is the Subject of a Lecture.

RICHARD WAGNER'S famous opera, "Parsifal," was the subject of a lecture delivered last evening at the First Unitarian church, Eighteenth avenue east and First street, by the pastor, Rev. George R. Gebauer.

The program included not only the lecture itself, but several selections from the opera, which were played from time to time, by Miss Isabel Pearson, organist, the selections being suited to the various parts of the lecture that they followed. Rev. Gebauer laid special emphasis on the thought that Wagner, though himself not a Catholic, nor even a regular church attendant, was thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the story of "Parsifal" and made use of the Catholic symbols and figures to bring out the sentiment that pure, true, virtuous love heals the wounds that result from an attraction that is merely sensuous.

Last night's lecture was the first of a series of six literary addresses scheduled to be given by the pastor on the six successive Friday evenings, beginning on March 21. The subject of the lecture to be delivered next Friday evening is "Paulo and Francesca."

SPRING FESTIVAL.

United Glee Clubs of Duluth Will Be Heard in Concert.

A SPRING festival of music will be given on Sunday afternoon, April 20, at the Lyceum theater, by the United Male chorus of Duluth. This body is a federation of the Svea Glee club, the Orpheus Singing society, the Duluth Male chorus and other local singing organizations.

The program of the festival will be largely a reproduction of the great singing festival held in Duluth in July, 1912, by the American Union of Swedish Singers. The clubs, however, will give many new compositions which have never been rendered in Duluth before. These societies are rehearsing every week. The united chorus itself will hold a rehearsal tomorrow at the Svea Glee hall, 1818 West Superior street, at 10 a. m. The chorus includes in all about 125 voices. It is under the direction of Charles Helmer, who has been selected as director-in-chief.

Mr. Helmer is at present the director of the Svea Glee club. He has held this post with great success for the past seven years.

W. A. Anderson, a well-known musician of Duluth, has been elected director of the Orpheus Singing society. He is building up a strong chorus, which it is thought, will be one of the best at the great festival to be held by the American Union of Swedish Singers at Minneapolis in 1914.

The Duluth Male chorus is a new organization with a large membership, and is doing splendid work under the direction of Sigurd Mostenan.

The coming spring music festival at Duluth is to be given for the benefit of the fund of the festival that was held at Duluth last summer by the American Union of Swedish Singers. That festival left a deficit of $400. It is hoped that the proceeds of the concert at the Lyceum next month will be sufficient to pay off this deficit.

The officers in charge of the coming concert are: Chairman, Paul Essin; secretary, Victor Carlson; treasurer, Charles Johnson; committee members, Charles Forsell, J. A. Wallin, Charles Johnson, C. W. Linstrom, Binnold Johnson, Gust Melander, Gust Westman and Mr. Holmstrom.

MASS MEETING.

W. C. T. U. Will Read Answers of Candidates to Their Questions.

A GENERAL mass meeting for all men and women interested in the outcome of the present political campaign has been arranged for Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Young Women's Christian association building, Second avenue west and Second street by the West Duluth Branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union. Replies to a letter sent out by the union to the candidates for office asking their stand on several matters have been received from the office seekers. These replies will be read and discussed at this meeting Monday afternoon and all interested are urged to be present.

The questions asked by the union and indorsed by the Woman's Council, the Women's Society of the First M. E. church, the Y. W. C. A., and the Humane society follow:

"1—Do you believe in the strict enforcement of laws relating to the saloons and the sale of liquor?"

"2—Do you believe in the strict enforcement of laws relating to the social evil?"

"3—Do you believe in the segregation of vice?"

"4—Will you, if elected, enforce these laws as you do other laws relating to crime."

CANTATA A SUCCESS.

"The Crucifixion" Will Be Repeated at Pro-Cathedral.

STAINER'S sacred cantata, "The Crucifixion," which was given with so much success last Sunday afternoon at a special vesper service at Trinity pro-cathedral, under the direction of Miss Isabel Pearson, organist and choir director, will be repeated on Sunday afternoon, April 6, at the same church. Over 300 people were unable to be admitted to the church last Sunday, and this repetition is planned that all who were unable to get in before may have another chance to hear the number.

The choir of forty voices, assisted by George H. Madison, basso, and Dr. F. A. Amundson, tenor, sang every number of the big cantata with fine effect despite the fact that the accompaniments had to be played on a piano, the organ power being off that afternoon.

Music lovers who heard the cantata realized that it was a treat in the rendition given it and are anticipating its repetition.

CLUB NOTES.

Meetings of Importance for the Twentieth Century Members.

SEVERAL meetings of general interest and importance to members of the Twentieth Century club will be held next week.

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock the regular meeting of the executive board will be held in the library club room. As this is the last meeting before the annual business meeting of the club with election of officers all members are asked to make it a point to be present as all matters of business must be completed at that time.

Law Class.

The last meeting of the year of the parliamentary law class of the club will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the library club room for the last lesson in this subject and a leader of the class for next year will be chosen at this time.

Dramatic Afternoon.

The regular dramatic afternoon for this month for the members of the Modern Drama class of the club will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. G. A. St. Clair, 1125 East Superior street. Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker will give a talk on the Maeterlinck-De Bussey opera, "Pelicas and Melisande" and she will be assisted by

"LAW ENFORCEMENT."

W. C. T. U. Will Meet on Friday at Y. W. C. A.

The Central Women's Christian Temperance union will hold its regular meeting on Friday afternon of next week, instead of Thursday, as has been the custom, at the Young Women's Christian association at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Alfred Jaques will give a talk on "Law Enforcement."

At Lowell School.

A concert will be given on Friday evening, March 28, at the Lowell school, Duluth Heights, at 8 o'clock, for the pupils, their parents and friends, when the following program will be given.

Folk dances ..... Primary Pupils.
Vocal solo—Selected ..... Miss Anna Dion.
Reading ..... May Spencer.
Vocal solo—Imitations from Harry Lauder ..... John Gilbrath.
Vocal solo—Selected ..... Miss Loretta O'Gorman.
Moving pictures.....

Magbiah Club.

The Magbiah club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at Steinway hall instead of at the vestry rooms of the temple, as has been the custom. The program as arranged for the afternoon, follows:

Piano solo ..... Miss Rebecca Freimuth.
Violin solo ..... George Casmir.
Address ..... Dr. S. Gross.
Vocal solo ..... Miss Rosaline Bondy.
Reading ..... Miss Rachael Hammel.

Theosophical Society.

The Duluth Theosophical society will hold its regular business meeting next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Burgess block, 310 West First street. An open meeting for inquirers is held Sundays at 3 p. m. The weekly study class in theosophy will meet Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the lodge rooms, Burgess block. This class is open to all who are interested in the study of mind and self-control.

Church Concert.

The entertainment planned by the Young Women's Missionary Society of the Lester Park M. E. church for Friday evening of last week, which was postponed on account of the storm, will be given on Friday evening, March 28, at the church.

Scotch Party.

The Clan Stewart members and their families are planning an old-fashioned party for next Wednesday evening at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street. A program of Scotch songs and Highland music will be given followed by dancing.

Livingston Program.

Members of the Sunday school of the Lester Park M. E. church will give a Livingstone program tomorrow evening at the church at 7 o'clock.

The program follows: Chorus, "The Day of Resurrection," Sunday school; Scripture reading, Matt. xxvii, Supt. E. M. Thomas; Livingstone centenary prayer, Arloine Welsh; Song, "Easter Praise," primary department; Easter verses, Lucille McNally and John Callas; song, "Easter Lilles," Miss Mary Meyers' class; recitation, "Easter Morning," Regina Carr; chorus, "God Hath Sent His Angel," Sunday school; responsive Scripture reading, superintendent and school; recitation, "Spread the Light," Jesse Norton; chorus, "O God of Bethel," Sunday school; exercise, "David Livingstone," Mrs. E. Roman's and Miss Edna Gross' classes; recitation, "The Pathfinder," John Finn; recitation, "Droop Half Mast Colors," Emma Lieske; stories of Livingstone, Mrs. S. G. Smith's and Rev. C. R. Oaten's classes; chorus, "O Lord, With All Thy Vales of Green," Sunday school; exercise, "The Message," Miss Elizabeth Cox' class; chorus, "We've a Story to Tell," Sunday school; recitation, "Heirs of the Task," Esther Wood.

The students of the one-year elementary course began their practice teaching in the model school this semester. In the primary are: Phyllis Nesbitt and Mary Galob; in the third and fourth grades, Ella Olsen, Callista Coffey and Ida Johinson; in the fifth and sixth grades, Estelle Fitzgerald, Irene Campbell and Clara Folsom.

Miss Olive Scandling of Torrance hall spent the week's vacation as the guest of Miss Ina Pfautz.

Miss Ruth Ely, the librarian, and Miss Lucy Hart, the kindergarten supervisor, visited friends in Minneapolis last week.

Miss Ina Lund and Miss Alice McFadden, formerly students at the normal school, have returned to complete their courses.

Miss Katherine D. Post, for many years the Latin teacher of the school, returned at the beginning of this term from a several months' leave of absence. Miss Frances Loney of Superior, Wis., has been taking her place.

Miss Matilda Runsvold is spending the week end at her home in Two Harbors.

Miss Edith Canfield of Cloquet was unable to return to school this week on account of her mother's illness.

Miss Henrietta Peacha of Torrance hall left Friday to spend a few days with her parents in Cloquet.

The third issue of the Thallan paper appeared this week. It is the most ambitious yet produced and has proved decidedly popular. Much credit is due to the editorial staff, which consisted of Margaret Lewis, editor-in-chief; Ruth Young, staff artist; Ina Pfautz and Ethel Robertson, reporters. The current issue is dedicated to the faculty. Some of the best features are articles by Mr. Frazee and Mr. Van Cleef, several clever stories and jokes, and some excellent snapshots of the faculty, each named by the title of some popular song.

MISS IRENE CAMPBELL,
Who Will Play Stingo, the Landlord, in the Senior Class Play.

Miss Mary Jack spent last week in Eau Claire; Miss Margery Strong in Minneapolis; Miss Harrington in Ontonagon, Mich.; and Mr. Van Cleef in Chicago.

An informal dancing party was held Wednesday evening at Torrance hall in place of the regular house meeting.

Ruth Young, Estelle Fitzgerald, Ella Hawkinson and Victoria Hawkinson have been appointed stage managers for the senior play. George Stickles, one of last year's graduates, has offered his services as electrician.

President Bohannon and his family will spend the next few weeks as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn at the winter home of the latter in Tryon, N. C.

Miss Margaret Lewis, editor-in-chief of the current issue of the Thallan paper, entertained the members of the editorial staff and some of the Thalian officers at luncheon Monday during vacation. The day was spent in working on the paper. Those present were: Ina Pfautz, Ruth Young, Olive Scandling, Margaret Lewis and Louise Coe.

The "Senior Seven" gave a delightful spread Friday noon in the lunch room in honor of Miss Esther Olsen, Miss Sadie Saxine and Miss Janet Haley, who were visiting the school. The others present were: Ruth Young, Nora Hanson, Ruth Bjorge, Florence Olsen, Ina Pfautz, Bessie Warren, Charlotte Wohlen, Ruth Brown and Louise Coe.

There were a number of visitors at the school this week, partly owing to the fact that the public schools of the city are having vacation this week. Among the visitors have been: Florence Whipple, Mildred Miller, Esther Olsen, Sadie Savine, Marie Elliston, Lily Moe, Nora Gronseth, Lillian Gronseth, Miss Giles, Miss Jensen, Mrs. Hughes of Proctor, Signy Bergford of the Superior normal school, T. F. Phillips and E. P. Gibson of the science department of the Duluth Central high school, Mabelle Hawkinson of Virginia, Eureka Engberg of Superior, Adena Johnson of Virginia, Glory Myron, Agnes Hopkins, Frances Carlson, Vandla Engberg, Janet Haley, who is teaching at Aitkin, and Maude Grogan.

Easter Programs in the Duluth Churches

CHURCHES of Duluth have made elaborate preparations for the proper celebration tomorrow of the greatest day of the Christian year. Most of the churches have made a special feature of the music. This is invariably the case with the Catholic and Episcopal churches and churches of other denominations also have prepared magnificent Easter music programs.

The choir of the Sacred Heart cathedral (Catholic) is well known for the rare beauty of its Easter music. At the service on Sunday morning these singers will render a program prepared with the usual care and effort and there is no doubt that the result will be what those who attend the service have learned by experience and hearsay to expect. Solemn high mass will be celebrated by Bishop McGolrick at 10:30 a. m. The choir, consisting of twenty-five voices, will sing Hemmeral's mass in F. Thirty children of the St. James orphanage will sing the offertory, "Regina Coeli." The director of the choir is John Golch. Miss Theresa Lynn is the organist. Music will be furnished also by Flaaten's orchestra. The following eight soloists will participate in the program: Mrs. Leo A. Ball, Mrs. A. A. Deslauriers, Mrs. H. Carl, Miss Alice Sorrell, Miss May Lydon, J. S. Lyon, J. E. Foran and J. E. Coates.

Easter Programs in the Duluth Churches

CHURCHES of Duluth have made elaborate preparations for the proper celebration tomorrow of the greatest day of the Christian year. Most of the churches have made a special feature of the music. This is invariably the case with the Catholic and Episcopal churches and churches of other denominations also have prepared magnificent Easter music programs.

The choir of the Sacred Heart cathedral (catholic) is well known for the rare beauty of its Easter music. At the service on Sunday morning these singers will render a program prepared with the usual care and effort and there is no doubt that the result will be what those who attend the service have learned by experience and rearsay to expect. Solemn high mass will be celebrated by Bishop McGolrick at 10:30 a. m. The choir, consisting of twenty-five voices, will sing Remondi's mass in F. Thirty children of the St. James orphanage will sing the offertory, "Regina Coeli." The director of the choir is John Golch. Miss Theresa Lynn is the organist. Music will be furnished also by Flaaten's orchestra. The following eight soloists will participate in the program: Mrs. Leo A. Ball, Mrs. A. A. Deslauriers, Mrs. B. Carl, Miss Alice Sorrell, Miss May Lydon, J. S. Lyon, J. E. Foran and J. E. Coates.

On Tuesday the festival of the annunciation, with holy communion, will take place at 10:30 a. m.

The Easter music at St. Paul's church will as usual be of a high order of excellence. Besides the ensemble work of the full choir, there will be solos and duets rendered by Miss Bradshaw, Miss Reynolds, A. R. Burquist and C. O. Applehagen. At the evening service at 7:30 o'clock, in addition to Easter carols by the choir and Sunday school, there will be a solo by Miss Reynolds, an anthem by the choir, and two selections by the famous Scottish Rite quartet, who will sing Sullivan's "Lost Chord," and, as an encore, "Immortality," by Handel.

TRIBUTE TO WOMANHOOD

Pastor Decries Conditions Which Take Women Out of Home.

Eulogizing women as God's handmaiden and the high priestess of life since the world began, Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits of the Temple Emanuel, preached a most forceful sermon last evening on "The Feast of Purim, a Tribute to Womanhood."

In his sermon Dr. Lefkovits decried the present surroundings of woman and the many who are constantly leaving the work destined for them by God.

Dr. Lefkovits said in part:

"The festival of Purim is a religious tribute to exalted womanhood—personified by Queen Esther

STAGELAND

At the Lyceum

The season's greatest musical comedy triumph, "A Modern Eve," which Mort H. Singer imported from Berlin, where it has been the reigning success for more than two years, will be the attraction at the Lyceum tomorrow matinee and night and Monday and Tuesday nights. Since its premiere presentation in Chicago, where it ran for 50 nights, its clever book, brilliant scenes, pure, sweet atmosphere, rich humor and alluring tunes have been welcomed by the public as a genuine relief from the average musical offering. The spontaneous success of "A Modern Eve" has only been equaled in the past decade by "The Merry Widow." Because of the many clever numbers requiring girl ensembles, the large beauty chorus attracts more than ordinary interest in "A Modern Eve." It is particularly effective in the several snappy dance numbers. The ragging tune of the year, "Goodbye Everybody," a waltz song, by Jean Gilbert, collaborated with Victor Hollaender on the music of "A Modern Eve," heads the list of song hits, among the others being "Rita, My Margarita," "Hello, Sweetheart," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?" and "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight." The company numbers sixty people, and a special orchestra is carried.

May Robson, who has won a definite position in her profession and earned a recognition from the public and the press for her excellent portrayal of eccentric characters, has in colaboration with C. T. Dazey written her new starring vehicle, "A Night Out," and will give a pretentious production of the play at the Lyceum next Friday and Saturday matinee and night. The story and the action of the piece are entirely different from "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," but offer a greater and more fitting opportunity for Miss Robson's clever acting. The motive of the comedy is to illustrate in part the phrases of hereditary influences—not seriously, but in full measure, for Miss Robson's genius for characterization and humor. The narrative of the play deals with two young men—grandsons of Mrs. Woodbury, who is affectionately called "Granmum." Paul and Jack, respectively, are not the verdant and diffident provincials as regarded by their mother, who insists upon their being home by 10 p. m. The reverse of opinions is the fact that the boys are quite familiar with the whirl and sway of New York. This knowledge does not lessen their affectionate regard for the advice and opinion of Granmum, who is rather sensitive in her love for them, and naturally curious to know of the attraction that, like a magnet, draws them so frequently to the city. Ever indulgent and inquisitive, concerning the pranks of youth of the twentieth century, she resolves upon seeing for herself the propriety of the places they visit. She discovers them quite attractive, but suffers from an unexpected adventure. From this episode follows in natural sequence and development a number of very funny complications, and the irresistible humor of "Granmum." The question of heredity also enters into the theme of the play, and brings about a close union, a greater love, forming the serious picture, relieved by the brightness of the humor. The working out of the story in detail offers opportunity for much that is witty—a vast amount of wisdom and considerable pathos. Miss Robson is equal to the task, and fully competent to meet all requirements of the rather difficult role in which laughter, mingled with tears, is quite frequent. The interest is heart interest; the humor genuine—the pathos real and human, and every situation the result of logical reasoning.

Miss Adelaide Thurston, who appears in Duluth on March 31 and April 1 and 2, claims this city as her home, and for a number of years was a school teacher here before venturing into theatricals.

Since bidding farewell to Duluth she has scored an individual success in a number of plays, which has made her name a household word from Maine to California.

Perhaps her greatest triumph was scored as Lady Babbie, in "The Little Minister," when after succeeding Maude Adams in the titular role, she ably upheld the traditions that Charles Frohman's winsome star had associated with the role. In fact, Miss Thurston has been termed by dramatic critics the Maude Adams of the Northwest.

After playing Lady Babbie she has since appeared in a number of plays, such as "At Cozy Corners," "The Triumph of Betty," "Polly Primrose," "The Girl Out Yonder," "The Woman's Hour," "Miss Ananias" and "Contrary Mary."

Her present vehicle is a comedy, "The Love Affair," and Miss Thurston believes it affords the best medium for the display of her art that she has had.

The play is by Frederick Paulding and is said to afford a splendid opportunity to display Miss Thurston's talents.

In honor of her appearance in this city a number of well known society people have already arranged for theater parties.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," as it has been dramatized by Eugene Walter, is a true and thrilling story of the mountains of Virginia, presented in the purity of its sentiment, the uplift of its moral, the poetry of its romance, as the million and odd readers remember June and her primitive ways. The story of romantic love is not exaggerated. Neither does the actress who portrays the role of the delightful mountain character accentuate it unnecessarily, but presents rather the rustic simplicity of the mountaineer's daughter as she sits alone beneath the lonely pine, awed by the sobs and sighs that come from its branches as they vibrate in the mountain breeze, and being roused to the verge of passion only when she realizes that the dense ignorance of her kinfolk has attributed baser motives to the tremendous love she bears Jack Hale. Eugene Walter never wrote a better play; it is presented by a most capable company and is an unusually fine production. The play comes here to the Lyceum for four days early in April.

"The Rosary," as presented by Rowland and Clifford, is repeating with as much success as the play had in its debut. It will be seen at the Lyceum soon with a cast including Harry Terry, Jean Ward, Addie Dougherty, Helen McCabe, Roy Laidlaw, Douglas Lawrence, George Tripp, Jack Stevens and others.

The theme of the play concerns a man and a woman happily married. They are surrounded with every luxury of wealth and happiness. But the husband is an unbeliever, an atheist without faith of any kind. There is a jarring note in the household harmony. No one notices it until a friend of the husband comes, Father Brian Kelly, a priest of the modern world with a deep insight into human nature and a divine love for his fellowman. And when trouble comes, when the home is wrecked, and husband and wife are brought down to the depths of suffering agony, it is the priest who restores both into the sunlight of hope and love.

In addition to the famous little English comedienne, Alice Lloyd, who comes as the star of Werba & Luescher's much-praised production of "The Rose Maid," the long cast bristles with the names of many near-stars who are familiar to the theatergoers across the water, several of whom Miss Lloyd has been often associated with previously.

Among them are Leopold Stark, Harley Knoles, Arthur Clough, one of the best known of light opera tenors in England, H. Tyler Brooks, Daisy McNaughton, Bessie Hyams, besides the lively quartet of former Tivoli dancers from London who were brought across from England by Werba & Luescher when "The Rose Maid" was taken over by them for the use of Alice Lloyd as a starring vehicle under its original name of "Boy or Girl." In addition to these the cast includes Ivan Ruddisill, the musical director, who was formerly connected with the Metropolitan Grand Opera house of New York, and Juliette Lange, who are of Russian birth; Jeannette Bageard, a French player, now well known in America, and Ida Van Tine of Danish parentage.

William H. Crane will be seen here soon in his comedy success, "The Senator Keeps House," with which he made a real hit during a run of four months at the Garrick theater in New York city last season. The piece is a typical Crane offering and caught on from the first night that it was brought out. It is especially a happy choice for this tour, as it is to set Mr. Crane forth amidst congenial surroundings for what promises to be his most notable season upon the stage. A contributory factor is the announcement that the tour marks the fiftieth year that Mr. Crane has been upon the stage, and his visit will be commemorative of that event. Martha Morton, who wrote several of Mr. Crane's greatest successes in past seasons, contributed "The Senator Keeps House" to his repertoire. Joseph Brooks, perhaps the best known producing manager in America, will direct the tour. The sentiment that prompts his interest in the engagement dates back to the time when Brooks was beginning to develop as a theatrical factor and directed the first starring tour of the then but little known comedian. It was under his skilled guidance that Crane grew into such stellar prominence and gave him his assured position of the present time, and it was most natural that the two and it was most natural that the two partners and friends would be mutually interested in this splendid undertaking.

Elsewhere the cities have agreed that the spectacular revival of Balfe's "The Bohemian Girl," as it is now being presented by the Abern Opera company, marks the beginning of a new era in the presentations of standard grand operas in this country. So stupendious is this offering that company, scenery and a variety of animals, including a score of horses employed in it, require a special train for their transportation. "The Bohemian Girl" is among the early bookings here.

CARRIE REYNOLDS,
At the Orpheum Next Week.

MISS JESSIE BUSLEY,
Prominent Dramatic Star Who Will Headline Next Week's Orpheum Bill.

SCENES FROM "A NIGHT OUT."
May Robson's Latest Starring Vehicle, Which Will Be Seen at the Lyceum Next Friday and Saturday.

At the Orpheum

One of the most delightful comediennes of the American stage will be the headliner for the coming week of vaudeville at the Orpheum theater, when Miss Jessie Busley will be seen in a new vaudeville playlet, "Miss 318." The sketch is from the pen of Rupert Hughes, the author of that brilliant success "Excuse Me," and in this sketch which Mr. Hughes has written from a short story he has most vividly presented a cross section of department store life. A bargain day in a department store is the time Mr. Hughes has chosen for his sketch and as the slangy, very human and independent and really adorable Lisette Mooney Miss Busley has as good an opportunity as any afforded her in her career.

Miss Busley has had a most interesting stage experience. Her only visit to Duluth was as the heroine Nance Olden in "In the Bishop's Carriage" and Dulutnians who saw her in that performance well remember the brilliant, dashing, irresistible little thief that she was. Most of Miss Busley's experience has been in New York productions and little of her career has been spent in touring the country. She was a member of the original New Theater company, which did such brilliant work and Miss Busley received her share of honors in the assemblage of artists that was organized for the productions of the New Theater company. The sketch which Miss Busley has chosen for her vaudeville debut promises as great an opportunity for her as anything she has yet done. The cities in which "Miss 318" has been given have been unanimous in their approval.

"The Magazine Man and the Lady" is the manner in which T. Ray Barnes and Bessie Crawford have announced their act for this season and it is said to be a most delightful act, full of music, pretty gowns, much clever comedy work and a gay dash and sprightliness that makes the two performers and their work immensely popular with their audiences. Mr. Barnes is a clever comedian and Miss Crawford adds a grace and daintiness that makes the act one of the most popular of the season.

The darky with his sense of humor his singing and dancing never ceases to be a popular person with vaudeville patrons and Dave Kramer and George Morton, who were not born that way, become blackface comedians for as laughable a fifteen minutes as the most laughter loving could desire. The peculiarities of the negro have been realized perfectly by these entertainers and the laughable features have been amplified and emphasized until a most amusing and entertaining act has resulted. In addition to the comedy feature both members of the team sing and dance in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Carrie Reynolds, who will come to the Orpheum next week has been described by an enthusiastic critic as a "blond, pretty and vivacious vaudeville star with the voice of a prima donna and the personality of a soubrette." Miss Reynolds has recently made her debut in vaudeville and her act of singing and dancing has won much favor. Miss Reynolds received her stage training in the regular operatic field. Miss Reynolds made her stage debut with the Castle Square Opera company under the management of Henry W. Savage. She followed this with an engagement with "Arizona" followed by a season with the then famous Tivoli Opera Company of San Francisco. Later she was in the support of Lillian Russell in "Lady Teazle" followed Edna May in the title role of "The School Girl" and for two seasons was the prima donna soubrette with the Rogers Brothers. Last season Miss Reynolds created the prima donna soubrette role in "The Rose of Panama." Her debut in vaudeville has been followed with most complimentary notices and she has already established herself as one of the favorite entertainers in her class.

Meehan's Canines, which will be shown at the Orpheum next week are a group of four-footed athletes that do some most surprising acts. A feature of the act is the leaping hounds which are truly remarkable.

Frank Gordon and Rose Kinley will be seen next week in a comedy talking eccentric dancing act. "In Toyland" is the name they have chosen for their act and the eccentric dancing and comedy features have made the act a popular one.

Gen. Pisano, an Italian sharpshooter, will bring an act called "Bombarding Tripoli" to the Orpheum next week. The feats presented by Gen. Pisano display remarkable marksmanship and marvelous accuracy.

The usual interesting moving pictures of world's events and the numbers by the Orpheum concert orchestra will complete the bill for the week. The bill will be presented every afternoon and evening beginning with Sunday matinee.

HILDA BURTON, MUL CLARK AND LEONA THOMPSON,
With "The Winning Widow" at the Empress the First Half of Next Week.

At the Empress

"The Winning Widow" will open a four days' engagement at the Empress theater, commencing Sunday matinee (tomorrow), March 23. An encyclopedia of adjectival praise has been bestowed upon the predecessors of the current years' "Winning Widow," in praise of its song hits, novelty of mirth, its feminine beauty and the personality of cast.

The book is in two acts and brilliantly illuminated scenes. Edward P. Moran furnished the book while the beautiful music and lyrics are the work of Seymour Furth and Edward P. Moran. The piece is staged by Thomas Grady, a producer of ability, under the personal direction of Max Spiegel. Fifty people are employed in this production. Prominent in the cast will be observed such celebrities as Mul Clark, William Marshall, Ben Turbott, Joe Freed and James Hunter who have the juvenile and light comedy parts. These two boys are both clever singers and dancers. Miss Lovey Marie Greene is the leading lady and prima-donna, a statuesque beauty and possesses a voice remarkable for its sweetness and quality. Leona Thompson, is styled the "Doll Comedienne." Flo Gillespie, a woman of striking personal appearance and a clever character actress with a fine singing voice. Besides, all this, "The Winning Widow" big beauty chorus of thirty singing and dancing girls. The scenic equipment is from the studio of Gates and Morange and the properties were built by Tom Creamer. The wardrobe is from the workshops of the famous costumer, Max and Mahieu.

of book and lyrics, the composer of its musical settings, the designers of its scenic investitures and costume embellishments, the director and maitre d'ballet down to the snug and elegantly fitting stage shoemaker who fits the twinkling tootsies of a chorus of twenty beauties that a Chicago critic characterized as a "seminary of loveliness," is claimed to be the work of master minds in their respective professions.

With handsome William Cushman in the title role, aided and abetted by beautiful Vivian Whitman as prima donna with Fritzi Scheff, Jack Franks, the tenor, and Louise St. Clair, one of the cleverest eccentric comediennes, one finds a cast of principals that promise a successful presentation of Mr. Cushman's latest work in this city.

A complete ensemble shows twenty-eight people, with Prof. Edward I. Perine as musical director. The musical comique is in two acts with beautiful settings by the artist, Thomas Moses. The costumes are by Schoultz and Hirch & Company. The show is staged personally by Mr. Cushman and the dancing novelties arranged by Harry A. Laubaugh.

Constance Skinner, in her review of "Honeymoon Trail," when it was produced at the La Salle theater, Chicago, writes as follows: "As I said before, there are a dozen or more fetching ensembles, and the whole performance moves with a verve and spirit that tingle the nerves and sweep you, laughing, on with it."

That is the reason why "Honeymoon Trail" played to big and enthusiastic audiences for 200 nights in Chicago, and is playing to the same kind of audiences wherever it goes. It is a girlly show, full of good comedy and catchy music, and affords an evening's entertainment that no theatergoer should miss. It will be the attraction at the Empress in the near future.

• • •

There is a mutiny scene on board the liner Lusitania in the first act of "Miss Nobody From Starland," in which the emigrants invade the first cabin deck. Recently, in an Indiana town, two energetic Italian supers were engaged to lead the enraged mob and they did so with such enthusiasm that the "gallant crew" of chorus boys were driven from the stage pell-mell, to the delight of the chorus girls and the disgust of the stage manager.

• • •

One of the tabloid successes is "A Stubborn Cinderella," a comedy with music. The company is now on tour, and will be offered at the Empress soon with an all-star cast including Richard Kent, the comedian. The company had a most sensational run in Chicago, with 465 consecutive performances at the Princess theater.

Dramatic critics have pronounced the play the most unique and the best musical comedy of the season. The play was written by Will R. Hough and Frank R. Adams, assisted by Joe E. Howard with the music.

"The Girl From Dublin" opens at Gary on March 17. This show it a tabloid version of the old comedy, "Muldoon's Picnic."

• • •

Minnie Palmer's "Along Broadway" opened at Hammond, Ind., on March 9.

• • •

"The Sunny Side of Broadway" carried two extra chorus girls for the Cort time.

• • •

Marx brothers, in "Mr. Green's Reception" opened in Nashville, Tenn., on March 10.

• • •

"Johnny Wise," is the new title of the tabloid which was formerly called "My Wife's Family."

• • •

Boyle Wolfolk returned to Chicago from New York, where he secured four new plays for tabloid production. They are: "The Mayor of Tokio," which will have John Carney in the lead; "Bright Eyes," with Thomas Whiffen; "The Tenderfoot," and the "Wizard of Oz."

• • •

Leon Moosey is expected in Chicago early this week to represent John Cort in the interest of tabloids playing his time. Mr. Moosey will make his Chicago headquarters in the offices of Boyle Wolfolk, (Inc.)

• • •

"The Time, Place and the Girl" played Pine Bluff, Ark., the last half of this week and reports excellent business.

• • •

There will not be a day's lay-off over the John Cort time for the tabloid shows. One-night stands will be booked to break the jumps, and in these towns, the tabs will be played in conjunction with the feature films, and thus, but one performance a night will be given.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Hedwig Reicher is to go into vaudeville. She is now rehearsing a sketch called "Countess Laura," which is to be her vehicle for the two-a-day.

• • •

The stories, "What Happened to Mary," have been dramatized by Owen Davis and produced on the road with Olive Wyndham in the title role. The piece is to be brought into New York next week.

• • •

E. J. Bowes, the husband of Margaret Illington, tried his hand at producing recently with "The Bridal Path." The undertaking was not very successful, and since the piece has closed for good he has gone to join his wife, who is still playing "Kindling."

• • •

Harry Askins is to produce a musical farce made out of Hoyt's old play, "A Texas Steer." Henry Blossom is writing the book and Ben Jerome the music. It will open the new La Salle theater in Chicago, which is expected to be ready next fall.

• • •

A tabloid version of "The Man From Home" is being prepared for a vaudeville presentation at an early date. Carl Stowe will be featured in the part that was played by William Hodge in the original production of the play. There will be eleven people in the cast. Three of the members of the cast will appear in the same roles they had in the play.

• • •

One result of the recent working arrangement between Klaw & Erlanger and the Shubert interests is that the Olympic theater in Chicago, will be eliminated from the first-class field. Several years ago Klaw & Erlanger assumed the joint management of the theater, which had been a vaudeville house, with Kohl & Castle. In about two weeks the former policy of vaudeville will be restored. Prices ranging from 10 to 30 cents will prevail. Also, moving pictures will be thrown in for good measure.

• • •

"The Lady From Oklahoma" was given in Chicago last week. It is a new play, the work of Elizabeth Jordan, editor of Harper's Bazar, and she was one of the first-night audience. "The Lady from Oklahoma" is a comedy, laid in New York and Washington. The "lady" is the wife of a Western senator, who undergoes a process of transformation from a hopeless-looking, frumpy little woman into a cultured, beautifully dressed and well-poised woman of the world. Jessie Boustelle heads the cast, which also includes Ruth Holt Boucicault, Paul McAllister, Teresa Michalena, Harriet Sterling, Helen Orr Daly, Bertha Mann, Alice Lindahl, Lillian Dixon, Jessie Robb, Frank Thomas, Walter Hitchcock, Walter Renfort and others.

• • •

Blanche Bates will have for her play one of the most substantial successes in the entire history of the St. James theater, London, when Charles Frohman sends her on tour in A. E. Mason's play, "The Witness for the Defense." This is a play written by Mr. Mason during his term as a member of parliament for a borough in the north of England.

• • •

Robert T. Haines has just closed a successful season in the New York vaudeville theaters in George Broadhurst's one-act play, "The Coward." Mr. Haines begins a tour of the Middle West, opening in Buffalo, tomorrow. Negotiations are now pending for a tour of England, beginning in June. Mrs. Haines, who made her stage debut with Mr. Haines last season, will continue as her husband's leading woman.

• • •

Hamilton Revelle, who retired temporarily from the cast of "Kismet" and was operated on for appendicitis in Roosevelt hospital, New York city, is expected to resume his role in a few days.

• • •

Still another series of classic revivals is announced for next season. Henriette Crosman will be seen in the fall in a repertoire of classic and standard comedies, including "The School for Scandal," "Madame Sans Gene," "As You Like It" and "Trilby."

• • •

W. Somerset Maugham, who lately returned to England, after three months' visit to America as Charles Frohman's guest, writes Mr. Frohman that he has completed his new farce, "The Middle of Next Week," and, in accordance with his arrangement with Mr. Frohman, the piece will first be done in London by Charles Hawtrey. With this manuscript sent to the stenographer Mr. Maugham has set to work upon the transcribing of his new Canadian play.

• • •

What would be a very long tour for the ordinary company or actress still stretches before "Peter Pan" and Maude Adams before Mr. Barrie's fantasy of eternal youth is temporarily laid aside, to be succeeded by another Barrie play. From Chicago Miss Adams and her company will proceed to the extreme West and Northwest, visiting the littlest as well as the biggest of cities until the end of July.

• • •

The success of "Auction Pinochle" has induced Adolph Philipp to organize a second company for touring purposes. The younger company will begin proceedings in Chicago late this month. Miss Hansi Holden, prima donna at the Metropole theater, Berlin, will sing the leading role.

• • •

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe contemplate adding either "Othello" or "Measure for Measure" to their repertoire for next season. Costume plates for the latter play are now being prepared in London and some models have been made for both pieces.

• • •

Cohan and Harris have signed a contract with Victor Moore whereby the latter is to star under their management next season in a new play by Mr. Cohan entitled "Kid Burns and the Four Hundred." This is really a continuation of the Kid Burns series in which Moore appeared first on Broadway under Cohan and Harris' direction. The earlier days in which he acted Kid Burns were "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" and "The Talk of New York."

• • •

Seymour Hicks has purchased the rights of "Broadway Jones" from George Cohan and will produce it in London in September. Both Hicks and his wife, Ellaline Terriss, will appear in the play. Mr. Hicks will act Cohan's role of Jones, and Miss Terriss will play the part of the secretary. It is Mr. Hick's intention to give a musical finish to the play by introducing in the last act a cabaret scene in which there will be singing and dancing.

• • •

"The Seventh Chord" is to have a production. It is scheduled for its premiere at Powers' theater, Chicago, late this month. The play is peculiar in that the cast consists of three women and one man, thus reversing the scheme employed in "The Climax." Mary Shaw will act one of the most important roles, Michelena and Dora De Philippe the remaining feminine roles. Cecil Ryan, an Australian baritone, recently in the Spring Maid company, is the lone man in the organization. J. C. Briel, who will be recalled for his "The Song of the Soul" in "The Climax," has composed the incidental music.

• • •

The date of the premiere of "A Man's Friends," at the Astor theater is Easter Monday. The play deals with love and politics and purports to shed fresh light on political corruption.

• • •

The Henry B. Harris estate is preparing for production "The Love Leash," a play by Edmund Breese and Anna Steese Richardson. It will be presented at the Columbia theater, Washington, next week. Grace Filkins is to be featured in a cast of noteworthy excellence. Others in the company are Frederick Truesdale, John Flood, Lee Kohlmar, Horace Mitchell, A. Moreno, Jennie Eustace and Ann Meredith. The official name of the producers is the New Era Producing company.

• • •

Francis Wilson will follow William Collier at the Forty-eighth street theater when the latter concludes his New York engagement one week from tonight. Mr. Wilson, who is appearing for the first time under John Cort's management, will present his latest comedy, "The Spiritualist." His company will include Edna Burns, Harriet Otis Dellenbaugh, Lola Fisher, Dorothy Gwynn, John Blair, Wright Kramer, George Irving, R. House Peters and F. S. Peck.

• • •

Forbes Robertson will open his farewell season at Drury Lane, London, on Saturday with "Hamlet." With this he will alternate "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" and "The Sacrament of Judas." Gertrude Elliott will appear in both these plays.

• • •

Laurette Taylor continues to attract capacity audiences to the Cort theater at every performance of J. Hartley Manners' charming comedy, "Peg o' My Heart." Oliver Morosco is quite satisfied his attraction will remain at the Cort all through the summer and into next season.

• • •

"The Iron Door," John Cort's production of Allan Davis' strong drama, will begin the second week of its engagement at the Chicago opera house tomorrow night. The cast includes Corliss Giles, Russ Whytal, Eugene O'Rourke, Douglas J. Wood, Leo Donnelly, Wayne Campbell, Frances Slosson, Ann Bradley and at least a dozen more.

• • •

Mrs. Leslie Carter starts the third week of her engagement at McVicker's theater, Chicago, tomorrow night, presenting "Camille." This will be the celebrated emotional actress' first appearance in the play in Chicago. Mrs. Carter's engagement at McVicker's is proving tremendously profitable to her manager, John Cort.

• • •

Chapine, the little French prima donna who was starred by John Cort in his production of Berte's Viennese operetta, "The Rose of Panama," last season and the fore part of this, is now on a tour of the West in an adaptation of a French play with music, entitled "Nobody's Darling," under the management of Paul Benedek.

Can't Help But Admire Babies

A woman's heart naturally responds to the charm and sweetness of a pretty child, and more so to-day than ever before since the advent of Mother's Friend.

This is a most wonderful external help to the muscles and tendons. It penetrates the tissues, makes them pliant to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion, so there is no longer a period of pain, discomfort, straining, nausea or other symptoms so often distressing during the anxious weeks of expectancy.

Mother's Friend prepares the system for the coming event, and its use brings comfort, rest and repose during the term. This has a most marked influence upon the baby, since it thus inherits a splendid growing system of nerves and digestive function.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables her to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany such an occasion. Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

You will find this splendid remedy on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle, and is highly recommended for the purpose. Write Bradfield Regulator Co., 134 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and they will mail you sealed, a very instructive book for expectant mothers.

LABOR CONDITIONS AND INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Social Justice and Industrial Betterment Through National Laws.

By ADELBERT MOOT,
Former President of New York State Bar Association.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

The stirring words of President Wilson's inaugural, pointed out the "human cost" of our industrial achievements and urged that "there can be no equality of opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with • • • sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves, are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency."

Can the national government, through its constitutional power to regulate interstate commerce, remedy the conditions the president describes? The first great decision of the supreme court construing that power broadly came in 1824. After hearing the argument of Daniel Webster the court denied the authority of New York state to grant exclusive navigation rights on the Hudson river to steamboats built under Fulton's patents.

Then came a long list of decisions holding that vessels, crews, bridges, railways, engines, cars, passengers, freight, rates, safety appliances, telegraph lines, hours of labor and employers' liability, are subject to national regulation where interstate commerce is involved.

Broad definition of "commerce" has been followed more recently by decisions that the power to "regulate" may cover the prohibition of evil. The law against interstate commerce and lottery tickets, by mail or otherwise, was upheld and now the Mann act prohibiting the importation of white slaves from one state to another, has been declared constitutional.

In upholding the employers' liability act the court quoted the significant language of Solicitor General Bowers that congress may legislate about the agents and instruments of interstate commerce and the conditions under which they work, whenever such legislation bears upon the reliability, promptness, economy, security or utility of the interstate commerce act.

What application shall we make of these settled rules of law, in dealing with the conditions brought so forcibly to our attention by President Wilson? The question presented is, shall we go to all the various state legislatures with model acts designed to regulate hours of labor, days of labor, places of labor, and compensation of injured employes, or to those who came after them, or, instead, shall we look to the national legislature for proper national legislation on these subjects? Shall we fritter away our time in piecemeal appeals to the various state legislatures for piece-meal legislation, however model its character, or, instead, shall we look to the national legislature for carefuly thought out and comprehensive legislation?

The great railways, steamship lines, and manufacturing and distributing corporations all do interstate business. Millions of men and women are engaged with the railways, the steamship lines, the steel companies, the wholesale stores, and the great manufacturing industries of the country. Many of these employes work twelve hours a day, and seven days a week, while many other worthy citizens find it difficult to get any work at all, so unevenly is work distributed. Women and children work hopelessly long days, and too many of them, while other women or children are unable to get any work, because of this unequal distribution. In many places, the working conditions are unsafe and unsanitary, while in others they are good.

Is it not plain that all these employers and these laborers should have some more uniform and just rule of law to govern their relations to each other and to their work? Should it not be possible to take all the model laws and from them frame a national act that will cover the permissible hours and days of labor for men, women and children, the permissible sanitary conditions for them, the permissible conditions for them as to safety, and that will prescribe what compensation shall be received by them in case of injury, or by those who come after them in case of their death?

Should it not be possible to prepare legislation definite and clear enough to enable the injured employe, or his widow or representative, easily to determine what their rights are in order that without the intervention of an insurance company or a lawyer, a fair settlement may be made with the employer? After giving a reasonable time in which to make such settlements, and providing that settlements brought about by fraud or unfairness shall be void, should not such legislation provide for a competent adjuster in each Federal district, appointed by the judge, who shall take proof as to the facts in case of dispute, and report to the court his opinion as to liability? If a lawyer or a claim agent is engaged, should not his compensation be subject to the action of the court, that the injustice of a 50 per cent contingent fee for merely making a settlement, or conducting an easy case, shall no longer be possible? If either party is dissatisfied with the report of the adjuster, upon filing exceptions to that report, should the party not have the right to come into the court and try the case out before court and jury in the usual manner?

If we had such a statute applying to all corporations substantially engaged in interstate commerce, and all such corporations were compelled to file within a reasonable time their written assent to its terms of liability, or be prohibited from engaging in interstate commerce, it is not difficult to believe that an immense amount of injustice and litigation could be avoided.

Would it not be better to have such simple legislation, laying stress on sanitary conditions and safety, reasonable hours of work, and reasonable compensation in case of injury or death, than it would be to have crude state insurance laws, that encourage malingering, enormously increase the expense of taxpayers for needless officials, and fail to put a premium upon the side of health and safety?

Doubtless such a statute cannot be drawn in a day. It would require the mature consideration of labor leaders and employers of labor and the most experienced and broad-minded counsel that each can bring to their consideration. There have been objections in the past, and there will be objections in the future, to any such legislation, because of states' rights.

Right or wrong, however, the Constitution of the United States, the decisions to which we have called attention, and the business conditions of today, have made it impossible properly to settle this broad question by appealing to first one state and then another. For a long period of years experienced and able lawyers have labored for uniform state legislation on matters so simple that it would seem easy to obtain it, and yet as the result of all these labors there are but a very few laws that are uniform in different states and usually these laws are to be found in but very few states.

In the welfare of the workers in interstate commerce, however, we have a matter of national concern, and it can be adequately dealt with only by national law. Upon no other basis can the employers or the employes be put on equal terms with each other everywhere in interstate commerce. If the relation of employers and employes to each other in interstate commerce is thus regulated by national law, the states, in self defense, will be compelled to adopt substantially the same regulations. It is only just and right that a subject of national importance and scope should be settled by national law, and it is doubtful if it will even be settled right by any legislation short of that.

WRITING IN CIPHER.

The Pathfinder: There are those who think that Shakespeare in his works made use of a cipher system, and that his language when unlocked by the proper key will reveal an inner meaning quite different from what appears on the outside, and prove that he was really Lord Bacon. There are also those who admire Browning very much and who discover oracular wisdom in his verse which he confesses he never intended to put there.

There is no doubt that wise men sometimes use language to conceal thought. Galileo, announcing to the world his discovery that the planet Venus has phases like the moon, dared not reveal this fact suddenly to the world, but concealed it in the form of a cryptogram in Latin. Many people believe that the Bible has a double meaning throughout, and that the language used is to be interpreted in a symbolic or internal sense as well as the superficial sense. The priests and priestesses of the old Greek shrines at Delphi and elsewhere, as we know, issued their pronouncements in ambiguous terms so that they could be capable of different meanings according to the views of the interpreter.

It has been said that sometimes our modern statesmen do not quite mean all they say, and that the logic which they employ in haranging the multitude is not the same that they use in shaping their own action. But let that pass. It is a diverting exercise, at least, to see how words can be twisted so as to have or appear to have two meanings. The following contribution along this line, from Dr. C. C. Fletcher, is particularly ingenious:

Ape Owe 'Em.

When fur stews can this sill leer I'm,
Toot rye tomb ache theme e'en ink Lear,
Youth inked wood bee but weight sting thyme;
Use eh, "Its imp lean on scents, shear."

Gnome attar; Anna lies align!
Nation mice lender verse says knot—
Fork rip tick poet real Ike mine,
How Aaron weal demesnes allot.

There will not be a day's lay-off over the John Cort time for the tabloid shows. One-night stands will be booked to break the jumps, and in these towns, the tabs will be played in conjunction with the feature films, and thus, but one performance a night will be given.

SCENES FROM THE MUSICAL COMEDY, "A MODERN EVE," AT THE LYCEUM EASTER SUNDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Hedwig Reicher is to go into vaudeville. She is now rehearsing a sketch called "Countess Laura," which is to be her vehicle for the two-a-day.

* * *

The stories, "What Happened to Mary," have been dramatized by Owen Davis and produced on the road with Olive Wyndham in the title role. The piece is to be brought into New York next week.

* * *

E. J. Rowes, the husband of Margaret Illington, tried his hand at producing recently with "The Bridal Path." The undertaking was not very successful, and since the piece has closed for good he has gone to join his wife, who is still playing "Kindling."

* * *

Harry Askins is to produce a musical farce made out of Hoyt's old play, "A Texas Steer." Henry Blossom is writing the book and Ben Jerome the music. It will open the new La Salle theater in Chicago, which is expected to be ready next fall.

* * *

A tabloid version of "The Man From Home" is being prepared for a vaudeville presentation at an early date. Carl Stowe will be featured in the part that was played by William Hodge in the original production of the play. There will be eleven people in the cast. Three of the members of the cast will appear in the same roles they had in the play.

One result of the recent working arrangement between Klaw & Erlanger and the Shubert interests is that the Olympic theater in Chicago, will be eliminated from the first-class field. Several years ago Klaw & Erlanger assumed the joint management of the theater, which had been a vaudeville house, with Kohl & Castle. In about two weeks the former policy of vaudeville will be restored. Prices ranging from 10 to 30 cents will prevail. Also, moving pictures will be thrown in for good measure.

"The Lady From Oklahoma" was given in Chicago last week. It is a new play, the work of Elizabeth Jordan, editor of Harper's Bazar, and she was one of the first-night audience. "The Lady from Oklahoma" is a comedy, laid in New York and Washington. The "lady" is the wife of a Western senator, who undergoes a process of transformation from a hopeless-looking, frumpy little woman into a cultured, beautifully dressed and well-poised woman of the world. Jessie Bonstelle heads the cast, which also includes Ruth Holt Boucicault, Paul McAllister, Teresa Michalena, Harriet Sterling, Helen Orr Daly, Bertha Mann, Alice Lindahl, Lillian Dixon, Jessie Robb, Frank Thomas, Walter Hitchcock, Walter Renfort and others.

* * *

Blanche Bates will have for her play one of the most substantial successes in the entire history of the St. James theater, London, when Charles Frohman sends her on tour in A. E. Mason's play, "The Witness for the Defense." This is a play written by Mr. Mason during his term as a member of parliament for a borough in the north of England.

* * *

Robert T. Haines has just closed a successful season in the New York vaudeville theaters in George Broadhurst's one-act play, "The Coward." Mr. Haines begins a tour of the Middle West, opening in Buffalo, tomorrow. Negotiations are now pending for a tour of England, beginning in June. Mrs. Haines, who made her stage debut with Mr. Haines last season, will continue as her husband's leading woman.

* * *

Hamilton Revelle, who retired temporarily from the cast of "Kismet" and was operated on for appendicitis in Roosevelt hospital, New York city, is expected to resume his role in a few days.

* * *

Still another series of classic revivals is announced for next season. Henrietta Crosman will be seen in the fall in a repertoire of classic and standard comedies, including "The School for Scandal," "Madame Sans Gene," "As You Like It" and "Trilby."

* * *

W. Somerset Maugham, who lately returned to England, after three months' visit to America as Charles Frohman's guest, writes Mr. Frohman that he has completed his new farce, "The Middle of Next Week," and, in accordance with his arrangement with Mr. Frohman, the piece will first be done in London by Charles Hawtrey. With this manuscript sent to the stenographer Mr. Maugham has set to work upon the transcribing of his new Canadian play.

* * *

What would be a very long tour for the ordinary company or actress still stretches before "Peter Pan" and Maude Adams before Mr. Barrie's fantasy of eternal youth is temporarily laid aside, to be succeeded by another Barrie play. From Chicago Miss Adams and her company will proceed to the extreme West and Northwest, visiting the littlest as well as the biggest of cities until the end of July.

* * *

The success of "Auction Pinochle" has induced Adolph Philipp to organize a second company for touring purposes. The younger company will begin proceedings in Chicago late this month. Miss Hansi Holden, prima donna at the Metropole theater, Berlin, will sing the leading role.

* * *

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe contemplate adding either "Othello" or "Measure for Measure" to their repertoire for next season. Costume plates for the latter play are now being prepared in London and some models have been made for both pieces.

* * *

Cohan and Harris have signed a contract with Victor Moore whereby the latter is to star under their management next season in a new play by Mr. Cohan entitled "Kid Burns and the Four Hundred." This is really a continuation of the Kid Burns series in which Moore appeared first on Broadway under Cohan and Harris' direction. The earlier days in which he acted Kid Burns were "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" and "The Talk of New York."

* * *

Seymour Hicks has purchased the rights of "Broadway Jones" from George Cohan and will produce it in London in September. Both Hicks and his wife, Ellaline Terriss, will appear in the play. Mr. Hicks will act Cohan's role of Jones, and Miss Terriss will play the part of the secretary. It is Mr. Hick's intention to give a musical finish to the play by introducing in the last act a cabaret scene in which there will be singing and dancing.

* * *

"The Seventh Chord" is to have a production. It is scheduled for its premiere at Powers' theater, Chicago, late this month. The play is peculiar in that the cast consists of three women and one man, thus reversing the scheme employed in "The Climax," Mary Shaw will act one of the most important roles, Michelena and Dora De Phillipe the remaining feminine roles. Cecil Ryan, an Australian baritone, recently in the Spring Maid company, is the lone man in the organization. J. C. Briel, who will be recalled for his "The Song of the Soul" in "The Climax," has composed the incidental music.

* * *

The date of the premiere of "A Man's Friends," at the Astor theater is Easter Monday. The play deals with love and politics and purports to shed fresh light on political corruption.

* * *

The Henry B. Harris estate is preparing for production "The Love Leash," a play by Edmund Breese and Anna Steese Richardson. It will be presented at the Columbia theater, Washington, next week. Grace Filkins is to be featured in a cast of noteworthy excellence. Others in the company are Frederick Truesdale, John Flood, Lee Kohlmar, Horace Mitchell, A. Moreno, Jennie Eustace and Ann Meredith. The official name of the producers is the New Era Producing company.

* * *

Francis Wilson will follow William Collier at the Forty-eighth street theater when the latter concludes his New York engagement one week from tonight. Mr. Wilson, who is appearing for the first time under John Cort's management, will present his latest comedy, "The Spiritualist." His company will include Edna Burns, Harriet Otis Dellenbaugh, Lola Fisher, Dorothy Gwynn, John Blair, Wright Kramer, George Irving, R. House Peters and F. S. Peck.

* * *

Forbes Robertson will open his farewell season at Drury Lane, London, on Saturday with "Hamlet." With this he will alternate "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" and "The Sacrament of Judas." Gertrude Elliott will appear in both these plays.

* * *

Laurette Taylor continues to attract capacity audiences to the Cort theater at every performance of J. Hartley Manners' charming comedy, "Peg o' My Heart." Oliver Morosco is quite satisfied his attraction will remain at the Cort all through the summer and into next season.

* * *

"The Iron Door," John Cort's production of Allan Davis' strong drama, will begin the second week of its engagement at the Chicago opera house tomorrow night. The cast includes Corliss Giles, Russ Whytal, Eugene O'Rourke, Douglas J. Wood, Leo Donnelly, Wayne Campbell, Frances Slosson, Ann Bradley and at least a dozen more.

* * *

Mrs. Leslie Carter starts the third week of her engagement at McVicker's theater, Chicago, tomorrow night, presenting "Camille." This will be the celebrated emotional actress' first appearance in this play in Chicago. Mrs. Carter's engagement at McVicker's is proving tremendously profitable to her manager, John Cort.

* * *

Chapine, the little French prima donna who was starred by John Cort in his production of Berte's Viennese operetta, "The Rose of Panama," last season and the early part of this, is now on a tour of the West in an adaptation of a French play with music, entitled "Nobody's Darling," under the management of Paul Benedek.

WRITING IN CIPHER.

The Pathfinder: There are those who think that Shakespeare in his works made use of a cipher system, and that his language when unlocked by the proper key will reveal an inner meaning quite different from what appears on the outside, and prove that he was really Lord Bacon. There are also those who admire Browning very much and who discover oracular wisdom in his verse which he confesses he never intended to put there.

There is no doubt that wise men sometimes use language to conceal thought. Galileo, announcing to the world his discovery that the planet Venus has phases like the moon, dared not reveal this fact suddenly to the world, but concealed it in the form of a cryptogram in Latin. Many people believe that the Bible has a double meaning throughout, and that the language used is to be interpreted in a symbolic or internal sense as well as the superficial sense. The priests and priestesses of the old Greek shrines at Delphi and elsewhere, as we know, issued their pronouncements in ambiguous terms so that they could be capable of different meanings according to the views of the interpreter.

It has been said that sometimes our modern statesmen do not quite mean all they say, and that the logic which they employ in haranging the multitude is not the same that they use in shaping their own action. But let that pass. It is a diverting exercise, at least, to see how words can be twisted so as to have or appear to have two meanings. The following contribution along this line, from Dr. C. C. Fletcher, is particularly ingenious:

Ape Owe 'Em.

When fur stews can this sill leer I'm,
Toot rye tomb ache theme e'en ink Lear.
Youth inked wood bee but weight sting thyme;
Use eh, "Its imp lean on scents, shear."

Gnome attar; Anna lies align!
Nation mice lender verse says knot—
Fork rip tick poet real like mine,
How Aaron weal demesnes allot.

LABOR CONDITIONS AND INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Social Justice and Industrial Betterment Through National Laws.

By ADELBERT MOOT.
Former President of New York State Bar Association.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

The stirring words of President Wilson's inaugural, pointed out the "human cost" of our industrial achievements and urged that "there can be no equality of opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with * * * sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves, are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency."

Can the national government, through its constitutional power to regulate interstate commerce, remedy the conditions the president describes? The first great decision of the supreme court construing that power broadly came in 1824. After hearing the argument of Daniel Webster the court denied the authority of New York state to grant exclusive navigation rights on the Hudson river to steamboats built under Fulton's patents.

Then came a long list of decisions holding that vessels, crews, bridges, railways, engines, cars, passengers, freight, rates, safety appliances, telegraph lines, hours of labor and employers' liability, are subject to national regulation where interstate commerce is involved.

Broad definition of "commerce" has been followed more recently by decisions that the power to "regulate" may cover the prohibition of evil. The law against interstate commerce and lottery tickets, by mail or otherwise, was upheld and now the Mann act prohibiting the importation of white slaves from one state to another, has been declared constitutional.

In upholding the employers' liability act the court quoted the significant language of Solicitor General Bowers that congress may legislate about the agents and instruments of interstate commerce and the conditions under which they work, whenever such legislation bears upon the reliability, promptness, economy, security or utility of the interstate commerce act.

What application shall we make of these settled rules of law, in dealing with the conditions brought so forcibly to our attention by President Wilson? The question presented is, shall we go to all the various state legislatures with model acts designed to regulate hours of labor, days of labor, places of labor, and compensation of injured employes, or to those who came after them, or, instead, shall we look to the national legislature for proper national legislation on these subjects? Shall we fritter away our time in piecemeal appeals to the various state legislatures for piece-meal legislation, however model its character, or, instead, shall we look to the national legislature for carefully thought out and comprehensive legislation?

The great railways, steamship lines, and manufacturing and distributing corporations all do interstate business. Millions of men and women are engaged with the railways, the steamship lines, the steel companies, the wholesale stores, and the great manufacturing industries of the country. Many of these employes work twelve hours a day, and seven days a week, while many other worthy citizens find it difficult to get any work at all, so unevenly is work distributed. Women and children work hopelessly long days, and too many of them, while other women or children are unable to get any work, because of this unequal distribution. In many places, the working conditions are unsafe and unsanitary, while in others they are good.

Is it not plain that all these employers and these laborers should have some more uniform and just rule of law to govern their relations to each other and to their work? Should it not be possible to take all the model laws and from them frame a national act that will cover the permissible hours and days of labor for men, women and children, the permissible sanitary conditions for them, the permissible conditions for them as to safety, and that will prescribe what compensation shall be received by them in case of injury, or by those who come after them in case of their death?

Should it not be possible to prepare legislation definite and clear enough to enable the injured employe, or his widow or representative, easily to determine what their rights are in order that without the intervention of an insurance company or a lawyer, a fair settlement may be made with the employer? After giving a reasonable time in which to make such settlements, and providing that settlements brought about by fraud or unfairness shall be void, should not such legislation provide for a competent adjuster in each Federal district, appointed by the judge, who shall take proof as to the facts in case of dispute, and report to the court his opinion as to liability? If a lawyer or a claim agent is engaged, should not his compensation be subject to the action of the court, that the injustice of a 50 per cent contingent fee for merely making a settlement, or conducting an easy case, shall no longer be possible? If either party is dissatisfied with the report of the adjuster, upon filing exceptions to that report, should the party not have the right to come into the court and try the case out before court and jury in the usual manner?

If we had such a statute applying to all corporations substantially engaged in interstate commerce, and all such corporations were compelled to file within a reasonable time their written assent to its terms of liability, or be prohibited from engaging in interstate commerce, it is not difficult to believe that an immense amount of injustice and litigation could be avoided.

Would it not be better to have such simple legislation, laying stress on sanitary conditions and safety, reasonable hours of work, and reasonable compensation in case of injury or death, than it would be to have crude state insurance laws, that encourage malingering, enormously increase the expense of taxpayers for needless officials, and fail to put a premium upon the side of health and safety?

Doubtless such a statute cannot be drawn in a day. It would require the mature consideration of labor leaders and employers of labor and the most experienced and broad-minded counsel that each can bring to their consideration. There have been objections in the past, and there will be objections in the future, to any such legislation, because of states' rights.

Right or wrong, however, the Constitution of the United States, the decisions to which we have called attention, and the business conditions of today, have made it impossible properly to settle this broad question by appealing to first one state and then another. For a long period of years experienced and able lawyers have labored for uniform state legislation on matters so simple that it would seem easy to obtain it, and yet as the result of all these labors there are but a very few laws that are uniform in different states and usually these laws are to be found in but very few states.

In the welfare of the workers in interstate commerce, however, we have a matter of national concern, and it can be adequately dealt with only by national law. Upon no other basis can the employers or the employes be put on equal terms with each other everywhere in interstate commerce. If the relation of employers and employes to each other in interstate commerce is thus regulated by national law, the states, in self defense, will be compelled to adopt substantially the same regulations. It is only just and right that a subject of national importance and scope should be settled by national law, and it is doubtful if it will even be settled right by any legislation short of that.

Can't Help But Admire Babies

A woman's heart naturally responds to the charm and sweetness of a pretty child, and more so to-day than ever before since the advent of Mother's Friend.

This is a most wonderful external help to the muscles and tendons. It penetrates the tissues, makes them pliant to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion, so there is no longer a period of pain, discomfort, straining, nausea or other symptoms so often distressing during the anxious weeks of expectancy.

Mother's Friend prepares the system for the coming event, and its use brings comfort, rest and repose during the term. This has a most marked influence upon the baby, since it thus inherits a splendid growing system of nerves and digestive function.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables her to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany such an occasion. Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

You will find this splendid remedy on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle, and is highly recommended for the purpose.

Write Bradfield Regulator Co., 134 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and they will mail you sealed, a very instructive book for expectant mothers.

CONSTIPATED, BILIOUS, HEADACHY, LIVER TORPID?—CASCARETS SURE

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, constipation, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight with Cascarets.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets sweeten and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that poisonous gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and constipation poison from the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10 cent box from any drug store will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bully and cheerful for months. Don't forget the children.

CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP.

WHEN YOU NEED TO STORE GOODS

When you intend leaving the city for a time—when your future plans are uncertain—when you contemplate changing your quarters and haven't decided just where to locate—when you have articles not in use and in the way—then is the time our furniture storage department can serve you best.

TWIN BROTHER AND SISTER CELEBRATE 79TH BIRTHDAY

Crookston, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twins, 79 years of age, Mrs. J. A. Irvin and Amos O. Berry, recently celebrated their birthday at the home of Mrs. W. R. Spence, daughter of Mrs. Irvin, with whom she makes her home. Both are hale and hearty for their age, Mrs. Irvin being specially rugged. Four generations were present, Mrs. Irvin, her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Spence, the latter's daughter, Mrs. Claude Carpenter, and her son, aged 7, George Smith, the latter by a former husband.

Amos O. Berry resides at Royalton, Minn., and is here on a short visit. He is a battle-scarred veteran, having with his brother Charley, served in the First Minnesota, while brother Charley and his father, Amos Berry, Sr., served in the Ninth Minnesota. He was the father of nine children, and has been a widower many years. Mr. Berry was born in Maine Feb. 24, 1834, and came West in June, 1850, when but 16 years of age, coming via the Erie canal and Great Lakes to Oshkosh, thence by stage to Fox lake, (Fort Winnebago) and thence to Portage City, Wis. From there he went to Grand Rapids, Wis., where he logged for a time with a six-ox team. He went from there to La Crosse via an old Indian trail, and took two rafts of hard pine logs down to St. Louis, a perilous trip in those days. He came back to St. Anthony Falls, then a place of but 200 inhabitants, in 1851, and rented Governor Ramsey's farm at Cottage Grove, and carried the mail from Port Douglas to St. Paul, where, he judges, there were about 100 people in 1852. The winter of '52 he logged and ran the first boom to St. Anthony Falls that winter, and continued with his logging operations till 1861.

Enlists Early in Civil War.

When war was declared he enlisted at Fort Snelling May 24, 1861, in the First Minnesota, and saw much fighting. Mr. Berry was mustered out in March, 1864, and logged in Minnesota till 1885. He now makes his home at Royalton. While the hardships of the war and pioneering in Minnesota have left their mark physically, mentally he is vigorous and despite his years, takes a deep interest in current affairs.

Among the relics of the war, he has a diary which he kept, and a copy of a Berryville, Va., Conservator of March 12, 1862, the first half of which had been printed before the town was captured, and the inside of which is published as "The First Minnesota," there having been three practical printers members of the regiment. He prizes this very highly as well as a copy of the Daily Citizen, published July 2, 1863, which is printed on wall paper.

FAKE TRIAL SERIOUS.

"Prisoner" Jumped Through a Window and Hasn't Been Seen Since.

Pittsburg Post: Sharon, Pa.—The sudden disappearance of John Agus from Sandy Lake has been explained. Agus, who disappeared two months ago, left a wife and several small children.

One of those said to be responsible for the sudden departure of Agus has told of certain facts on which an investigation is being based. There had been petty robberies and Agus was "arrested" one dark night by three men, who represented themselves as officers. He was kept in jail until daylight and then arraigned in an improvised courtroom in a barn on the outskirts of town, on a charge of chicken theft. A traveling man presided as "judge." A jury was drawn and a "trial" conducted.

Agus denied the charges, but the "judge" instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty. It was done and Agus was ordered hanged.

The report goes that a rope was thrown over a rafter and the prisoner was led toward it. The man impersonating the sheriff whispered to Agus to escape while the noose was being adjusted. It is said Agus plunged headfirst through a window. His family has not seen him since.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WIFE SLAYER IS CAPTURED

Milano Adolfo Arrested Near Remer for Uxoricide in Pennsylvania.

Says That He Killed Woman When Convinced She Was Unfaithful.

Bemidji, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Milano Mossie Adolfo spent a few hours in jail here yesterday while being taken to Walker after being arrested at Boy River, near Remer, Cass county, on the charge of killing his wife in Girard, Pa., where he formerly worked in a mine. At Walker he was turned over to an agent for the governor of Pennsylvania and taken East to stand trial for murder. He was arrested by Constable Wilson of Remer while working as a laborer for the Soo Line.

Is Confident of Acquittal.

Adolfo, in jail here, did not seem to be worried by his approacing trial, and seems confident that friends in the Pennsylvania town will help him to secure his liberty. According to his story, he returned to Girard a short time ago from a two months' visit in Italy, where he was born. During that time a fellow-worker at Girard, Luigi Zelli, was boarding at his home, and upon his return home Adolfo found the boarder in a compromising position with his wife. The enraged husband rushed for a gun, and while he was gone, Zelli left the house. Adolfo shot his wife and then escaped to Chicago, where he stayed several days before coming to Northern Minnesota.

VINCENT SPEAKS ABOUT FARM LIFE

University Head Addresses Social Circle Gathering Near Crookston.

Crookston, Minn. March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—President George Vincent of the state university was the principal speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Fairfax Andover Social circle held at the beautiful farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ingersoll. Mr. Vincent submitted ideas for a farm home.

President Vincent said he wanted the University of Minnesota to be of service to just such organizations, and that the hope of the country depended upon a solution of farm life problems as they were being solved by the club. He also said he was present to learn, and had learned, and would leave more confident than he had ever been that the university was to be in closer touch with the masses, and by extension work, lecture bureaus, etc., give to the people the practical service they had a right to expect. Mrs. Vincent gave a short address expressing her pleasure and interest in the work.

LARGER HOMESTEADS

Can Soon Be Taken Up in State of North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enlarged homesteads under the 320-acre act can be taken in North Dakota as soon as the department of the interior designates the land. United States Senator Gronna got this provision through at the last session, but it is not generally understood by residents of the state. This gives North Dakotans the same rights as those in Montana and South Dakota.

The better lands, except those on the Indian reservation, have already been taken in North Dakota. The remaining government holdings are in the rougher sections and the percentage of arable land has reached the stage where there is not a great deal of inducement to homesteaders to make entries. Of course, there still remain some good quarters that they are difficult for a new homeseeker to locate.

As soon as the general landoffice designates the district in North Dakota to which the 320-acre act will apply, it is expected there will be large numbers of entries.

CANNOT GET DEBATER.

Anti-Suffragists Will Not Meet Advocates of Votes for Women.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 22.—Minneapolis women suffragists are looking for a man or woman to uphold the negative in a public debate on woman suffrage. They declare that State Senator George H. Sullivan who opposed suffrage in the state senate has not replied to their written invitation to debate the question.

Former Congressman J. Adam Bede, a well known opponent of suffrage, has found it inconvenient to appear.

State Senator J. M. Hackney, opponent of suffrage, has said that he will be glad to debate when he has time, but that he is very busy.

Mrs. Oscar Owre, Mrs. George P. Douglas and other Minneapolis women who oppose suffrage, have declined to enter into a controversy.

A score of opponents of suffrage including members of the Minnesota house and senate, have declined to debate the question.

The Political Equality club of Minneapolis has arranged to have Omar E. Garwood, a Denver lawyer and suffrage supporter, uphold the affirmative in a debate on Saturday, March 29, but they have been unable to get an opponent. Dr. Ethel E. Hurd, chairman of the arrangements committee for the club, in desperation, has issued an appeal for "the services of any capable man or woman to take the negative in a debate on woman suffrage."

Near Death in the Cass County Poor Farm Hospital.

JAMES BUCHANAN CROSS.

Fargo, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Buchanan Cross, a native of Pennsylvania, once famous as a forger, formerly of the United States secret service, a protege of a member of Lincoln's cabinet, after a generation of reform, now almost 90 years old, is in the Cass county poor farm hospital here awaiting death.

From the early fifties till along in the seventies the name of James Buchanan Cross was a familiar one to newspaper readers when his daring and successful forgeries thrilled the people of both continents.

Detectives, secret service men, bankers and business men who were contemporaneous with James Buchanan Cross have long since passed away. Few knew of his reform.

For more than thirty-five years James Buchanan Cross has been known to residents of Fargo as Dr. J. B. Crucial. During that period the once international character has led an upright life, and now, unable to recognize his oldest and best friends, mentally incompetent and physically helpless, he is a county charge, his death being regarded as a matter of a few weeks.

Escapes Penitentiary Cleverly.

The extreme daring of Cross was shown while a prisoner at the Allegheny pen. One day a letter came to the warden bearing the signature of Secretary Chase of Lincoln's cabinet, written on the official letter heads, asking that Cross be liberated at once and sent to Washington as he was wanted for secret service work. The letter was so official in its character that it was unquestioned by the warden and the contents were at once complied with. On arrival at the capital, Secretary Chase disclaimed any knowledge of the case and denied that he had interested himself in Cross. The warden was about to start back with the prisoner when the latter's importunities for an audience with the secretary were granted. In a few moments Cross convinced Chase that he could be of valuable assistance to him in the secret service. The official gave him a trial and for three years the forger was connected with the department as a protege of the great war-time secretary. Cross, in addition to his clever penmanship, was an expert telegrapher.

Loyal as Detective.

During his secret service work he was extremely loyal and never was charged with any forgeries, but soon after the close of the war he again resumed his international check raising. Considerable time was spent in Europe. When things became too warm for him on this side or in England he would flee to Paris.

Under an assumed name he had a wide personal acquaintance with leading men of finance in France, posing as a wealthy American of French descent.

In 1877 he was discharged from Joliet and came to Fargo where he established himself as a physician under the name of Dr. J. B. Crucial.

He had a fair practice here and when the territory became a state in 1889, he was, along with other doctors who were not graduates of medical schools, admitted as a regular practitioner. He followed that profession with varying financial success until five or six years ago when his advancing years made it impossible for him to continue. Without resources, friends paid his board at hotels till he became so helpless that it was necessary to send him to the county hospital.

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL---25 CENT "DANDERINE"

In a Few Moments Your Hair Looks Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Abundant—No Falling Hair or Dandruff.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—In a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

ISHPEMING MAN WINS BIG CASE

John Quinn Victor in Action Involving Mining Stock and Royalties.

Marquette, Mich., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court of Michigan has reversed the circuit court decision in the case of John H. Quinn of Ishpeming vs. William J. Tully, his wife, Margaret, of Iron River, Mich., the Tully Mining company and the Crystal Falls Iron Mining company, in which Mr. Quinn sought to establish interest in a lease now held by the Crystal Falls Iron Mining company, together with an interest in the capital stock of the Tully Mining company, the whole involving a sum of $90,000, of which Mr. Quinn claims one-half.

In Court Three Years.

Mr. Quinn began suit to establish his interest Jan. 18, 1910. The case was argued in the circuit court of Marquette county with Judge S. S. Cooper on the bench. Judge Cooper found against Mr. Quinn, but he appealed to the supreme court. Mr. Belden argued the case on the appeal on Jan. 4, 1912.

By the action of the supreme court Mr. Quinn will be entitled to a royalty of 1½ cents a ton on all of the ore mined from the Houlahan property at Iron River.

While the text of the decision may not be received here for a day or two, it is assumed that Mr. Tully will be asked to account for one-half the profits made by him in disposing of options in the mining lease of the Houlahan property.

GETS SALOON LICENSE.

Judge Decides Signature of Bemidji's Mayor Is Not Needed.

Bemidji, Minn., March 22.—Judge Stanton has quashed the motion for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor McCuaig to sign the liquor license granted F. S. Tibbetts by the city council. The judge took the ground that the mayor's signature is not necessary on a license. This is the first decision of the kind in Minnesota. Tibbetts will open his saloon without a license signed by the mayor.

IS EXTENDED AFFAIR.

Launder at Stephenson Mine One and Three-Quarters Miles Long.

Gwinn, Mich., March 22.—The launder in course of construction for the past few months at the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Stephenson mine has been completed and is now in use. It is one of the longest ever built by the company and carries the water pumped from the workings of the Stephenson and Austin mines to the high landing on the Escanaba river. The structure is one and a quarter miles long and is built of three-inch plank.

An electric pump has been installed on the fifth level of the Stephenson and is used for pumping both the Stephenson and the Austin.

DRAWS WRONG ARTICLE.

Accused Pulls Gun Instead of Pipe When Girl Is Shot.

Escanaba, Mich., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Robinski of Ralph, Mich., under arrest here charged with assault with intent to commit murder upon Miss Libbie Saers, whom he is alleged to have shot in the hip, admits the shooting, but claims it was accidental and non-intentional.

It is alleged that Robinski, who was intoxicated, accosted the young woman and when his remarks were resented he pulled his gun and fired the shot. Robinski admits the shooting, but affirms that it was accidental. He states that he was trying to get a pipe out of his pocket when, in some manner, the revolver was discharged.

EDUCATES HIMSELF.

Sheridan County, N. D., Youth Follows Example of Lincoln.

McClusky, N. D., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attention of the youth of Sheridan county is being called to the difficulties that Michael Cichocki, a school teacher in this county, had to overcome before he acquired his education. He is of Polish-German parentage and his parents refused him permission to attend school when he was young. At a tender age he was put to work in the roundhouse at Austin, Minn. When a little older, he fled to North Dakota and worked on a farm. By studying at noon hours and by the light of the stable lantern at night, he got a start. Finally he saved some money and by working his way through school, was able to graduate from a normal. He has taught in this county four years and is now ambitious to complete a university course.

MOORHEAD CREAM BELOW STANDARD.

Moorhead, Minn., March 22.—George Austin, inspector in the employ of the state dairy and food department, has been spending two or three days in the city and devoting particular attention to the cream that is being brought into the city and sold by the farmers in this vicinity. Mr. Austin said he found much cream below standard.

70 DIE A MINUTE 36,792,000 A YEAR

The Christian Herald recently published the astounding statistics that 36,792,000 die every year. A large percentage die from preventable diseases. I want to impress upon the medical profession and upon every man, woman and child, whether they are sick or well, that constipation and weakened stomachs are the cause of kidney ailments, liver ailments, rheumatism and nearly all blood diseases.

Physicians are learning that when you keep the stomach sweet, the bowels clean and active, the liver and kidneys will perform their functions and will make good rich blood and nourish all parts of the body. That is why I am giving so much attention to my Paw Paw Laxative Pills. They do energize the stomach so that it can digest and get all the nutriment from foods. They do carry off the bile from the liver and keep the bowels as clean as any other part of the body. They do it without griping, without purging and without debilitating. Don't be stuck on your doctor. Don't be stuck on old-fashioned medicine. BE PROGRESSIVE. Don't use a tallow candle when you can have an electric light. Get the best of everything. You are entitled to it.

I want every person who has a sour stomach, who has distress after eating, who belches up gas, who is weak and nervous, who cannot sleep, and particularly those who are constipated, to get a bottle of my Paw Paw Laxative Pills from their nearest drug store. Take one or two at night. You cannot have headaches if you take these Pills. You cannot have dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, because these little peacemakers take out of the stomach all of the waste matter just as soon as the stomach has extracted the nourishment that is in the food. Get a bottle. Try them. If you are not satisfied, I will return your money.

DOCTORS CURE MEN AND WOMEN

Cure Diseases of All Descriptions Most Successfully.

There are a great many diseases which were looked upon to be incurable. It was considered to be impossible to fly fifty years ago, but since we learned to fly as much as to cure so-called "incurables." People have always looked up to medicine as the one means to save human life and restore health to the one afflicted with disease. In this age of scientific advancement the world is steadily getting further away from medicine because of the many failures.

The Electro Medical Doctors have a new method, entirely different from anything we ever had. At first they were looked at with suspicion, but as they steadily were successful in the cure of a great many diseases, and the patients supplied the papers with testimonials, the suspicion vanished, and the doctors had easy sailing ever since, for their offices were filled most of the time with patients from all parts of this and other states. One of the doctors said: "We have been working under great difficulties; when we first opened our office the opposition and knocking of other advertising doctors, the fact that people knew nothing of the great power of Electro Medicine, and the fact that the people have been fooled so often by traveling doctors had hurt us a great deal. We have shown the people that this new method will cure where all other methods failed. We have healed and cured such diseases as Bright's disease and cancer, gallstones, heart disease and myxodema. They have always been considered to be incurable, and such they are under the old system of medicine. However, our methods are as far superior to the old methods as the street car is to the ox cart." The doctors reported to the papers from time to time some of the cases they cured successfully, many of the patients getting well with a few treatments. Just so it may be with you if you let them take hold of your case. A prompt visit will surely pay you. Consultation and examination free.

USE "MOTOR SPIRITS" NOW

New Fuel Is Being Experimented With By American Manufacturers.

E. R. Thomas Plant Changes Hands and Will Again Be Operated.

Operators of gas engines of all kinds have been greatly interested in the report recently that a new product is to be marketed for use of motor cars and motor boats which will be sold at a price of 5 or 6 cents per gallon less than charged for gasoline. The new fuel is to be called "Motor Spirits," and is said to possess a decidedly lower specific gravity than gasoline, as also to give considerably more power under service. The reports have it that several oil companies have been at work on this mixture for several years, having carried on experiments with secrecy, and it is claimed that the fluid has been in its present state for nearly a year, during which time tests of all sorts have been made. Chemists who have been experimenting with the new fuel report that it is the right fuel for use in most motors although all carburetors are not adapted for it. This, it is claimed, is no draw-back because nearly every commercial carburetor can be easily adapted—from what has been learned up to date. It seems that the new fuel is satisfactory for nearly all motor purposes, has no draw-back except that it produces a slight odor which, it is claimed, is slightly more distinctive than that of gasoline. It is a by-product of petroleum with a gravity of 52-55 Baume as compared with 58-56 degrees of the ordinary gasoline obtainable today.

• • •

Several of the prominent automobile companies have just purchased outright the magnificent plant of the E. R. Thomas Motor company, representing an investment of almost $6,000,000. Few people are aware of just how the majority of the large manufacturers operate, and what sometimes causes a temporary cessation of business. The manufacturers of this country naturally are compelled to make extensive loans from their bankers, and all such loans made are distinctly call loans. Last October, after the E. R. Thomas Motor company had purchased their material and contracted for all the parts of their 1913 product, they were called upon to immediately pay one of these call loans of $450,000, which caused the appointment of a temporary receiver. On March 11 the entire assets of the company were sold to a number of prominent capitalists, who have now under their control seven of the prominent companies of America building automobiles. This news was received with great satisfaction by the Duluth agents, the Mutual Auto company, which has been representing the Thomas Motor company during the past six years. They are in receipt of information from the factory to the effect that cars will be ready for delivery about May 15, and, furthermore, that they will be in a better position than ever to continue in supplying them with this high-grade car, which at the present time holds the record for endurance—as long as they desire to handle the Thomas car. This information will be received with great satisfaction by the great number of Thomas owners in the territory controlled by the Mutual company.

• • •

E. J. Fillatrault of the Mutual company reports splendid business during the past week. The Ford cars, which they are distributors for in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, are, as Mr. Fillatrault says, selling like hot-cakes; over 60 per cent of their product for this territory is already sold and the only thing which is bothering him now is the question of getting cars in time to meet the requirements of purchasers. Twenty-three cars have already been received by the Mutual Auto company, and seven of these were delivered to the purchasers on the ranges during the past week.

• • •

The Overland car is also a popular seller with the Mutual Auto company. During the past week three carloads consisting of seven of the Model 69s, a $985 car and two of the Model 71s, a $1,475 car were received. Practically all of these cars are being held here for delivery in the different range towns.

Frank Smith, manager of the Fiske Rubber company, and wife spent a day in Duluth during the past week, and while here closed a contract with the Mutual Auto company for what is probably the largest order of automobile tires ever taken in Duluth. The contract taken by Mr. Smith was for $20,000 worth of Fiske tires, one-half of which will be shipped April 1, and the other half about June 15. The Mutual Auto company will be exclusive distributors for Fiske tires for Northern Minnesota, and will make all adjustments at their place of business.

The latest measure the Wisconsin motorists are facing at the hands of the Wisconsin legislature is the Richardson bill which attempts to make certain that no motorist will exceed the speed limit by requiring all motor cars in Wisconsin to be geared that the maximum speed of any car will not be more than twenty-five miles per hour. The bill is regarded in a serious light by Wisconsin motorists who fear that the principle will be put in practice in some way soon, although the Richardson bill is considered among motorists more of a joke than anything else. This bill does not apply to any motor car previously sold or owned in Wisconsin, whether its speed be ten or 100 miles per hour, nor does its provisions apply to any motor car owned and operated by any non-resident of Wisconsin. However, it exempts physicians and police officers.

J. T. Peacha says that business is good in spite of the fact that the weather is bad. With good weather comes good prospects and without these features there is not much doing. Mr. Peacha says that if anybody wants a Kissel Kar he had better hurry, for the chief question is: Early delivery.

President R. D. Chapin of the Hudson Motor Car company, Detroit, in a communication received by the Electric Service & Repair company, the Hudson dealer, today stated that the automobile industry has settled down to a "brass tack" basis. Said he:

"The 'brass tack' era in the automobile industry has commenced. The cars that are on a sound financial basis are those which are making good and will continue to do so. The American automobile is on the basis upon which the British and European business is built. There the automobile industry is a good, firm, staple business. The past year has seen incompetents in this country weeded out. And when you speak of incompetents you speak of those behind companies which, when the end comes, leave hundreds of owners of that make of car in the lurch for service, parts of everything else which depends upon the manufacturer's retention with the owner. The buyers' patronage of manufacturers is narrowing down to the aggressive, sound few who have for years forecasted the settling of the automobile business down to the 'brass tack' basis—the solid, firm bottom on which it rests today.

"And when I say a sound, firm basis, I refer to the fact that 1913 will see more cars built and sold by far than any other previous year. One low-priced car manufacturer, who is a tremendous force as an educator of the public to automobiles, will build over 175,000 cars, it is said.

"The strong companies are prosperous. They are expanding into the field from which the weaker ones have been forced to vacate by the very nature of the business settling down to bedrock. The industry as a whole is in a remarkably healthy condition."

"KNOW YOUR OWN AUTOMOBILE"

Many Duluth Owners Attending the Y. M. C. A. Auto School.

That there is much saving of money, time and temper in knowing one's car is being demonstrated right along by those who have taken the trouble of learning it. There are a number of men in Duluth who, while amply able to employ chauffeurs, and do, have taken the trouble to study autos in general and particularly their own cars. Most of these are graduates of the Y. M. C. A. Auto school, which is conducted at 310 East Superior street and 309 East First street by W. H. Healy. The present classes are large and new are starting in at all times. The school is conducted on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week.

The automobile is a mechanical child; subject to whims, crochets and little, easily remedied ailments, but it demands not only intelligent but loving attention, and this can only be given it by the owner when an emergency call comes.

The hired chauffeur may be an expert, and loyal to his employer, but if the latter has practically no knowledge of the mechanism and operation of his car, and has frequent minor ills of the road develops, the temptation is certainly great for the hired employe to save himself trouble, or even possibly earn some side commission by running the car into the nearest garage or machine shop and letting someone else do the "worrying," while Mr. Owner foots the bills. The above is not intended to imply that a majority, or indeed any large number, of chauffeurs are careless or dishonest. In fact, the reverse is true as a general rule, and this rule would be universal if the car owner understood his own car, was himself able to locate with ear and eye the source of minor troubles and capable of remedying defects or personally acting as a pilot or even as a repair assistant in the event of a road emergency.

And there is inevitably a whole lot of subtle satisfaction coming to the man riding in his own car as a passenger who can distinguish the slightest change in the purr of the motor, scent a difficulty afar off and be able to meet and overcome that difficulty, even if his hired man be unable to do so. The final motto is, "Know your own car." Know it from its radiator cap to its exhaust and tail lamp. Know it and its needs and requirements as intimately as you did those of the blooded horses which you probably drove in the olden days. You knew exactly the kind of food which they required to keep them in proper condition, exactly the style and weight of shoes they required to give the best exhibition of their speed; you studied their temper and the best ways to humor them. Do the same with your motor car. Get acquainted, and intimately.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GASOLINE

"Parol" Is Claimed to Be Cheaper and More Efficient.

That the search for a new fuel for motor cars, to be used in place of gasoline, the price of which is becoming prohibitive to many, seems to have been successful, an article in the Daily Consular and Trade Reports, issued by the department of commerce, seems to assure. The new fuel is called "parol." The Reports says about it:

"A new locally invented fuel for use in internal-combustion engines which is said by the inventors to be equal if not superior to gasoline (petrol) in efficiency, besides having the advantage of reduced cost, has lately been introduced in Johannesburg and is attracting considerable attention in motor circles by reason of the success which has attended tests.

"The inventors of this gasoline substitute, which has been given the name of 'parol,' are Messrs. Jenkinson and Livesay of Johannesburg, South Africa, and they are confident that their invention will prove a most valuable one for motor-driven vehicles from an economic standpoint.

"Parol is made from paraffin, its conversion being accomplished by a chemical process and without the use of heat. Aside from the chemical used, the only accessories required for the preparation of the fluid in large quantities are tanks, pumps and mixers. It is claimed that by means of the chemical process employed the property which creates carbon in the cylinders and forms soot on the sparking plug is removed, and the strong odor of paraffin is likewise eliminated when the machine is in use.

"The paraffin which has been used in all of the tests up to the present time is of 150 fire test. The cost of parol as a finished product is estimated at about 50 per cent more than paraffin, or about 25 per cent less than petrol, measured by the present prices charged for petrol and paraffin. Aside from the lower cost of the new fuel in comparison with petrol, greater efficiency is claimed for it, gallon for gallon, while the further claim is made that it evaporates less easily than gasoline. Other advantages pointed out are that it can be used with any ordinary type of carburetor, that no adjustment or alteration is necessary to the engines or any of the mechanism of either car or cycle, and that its use will not cause any deterioration of the machinery.

"Numerous tests of parol as fuel for motor cars and motor cycles have recently been made here, and all of these, so far as known, have been decidedly favorable to the new invention. On invitation the writer accompanied the inventors on a trial trip to Pretoria, a few days previous to the writing of this report, the party consisting of five persons, and the machine being a five-passenger, 20-horse power Ford taxicab from the Johannesburg public stand. Before leaving Johannesburg the tank was entirely emptied of the petrol with which it is ordinarily run and filled with parol, the car having been examined and passed as being in full touring condition, without alteration to engine or carburetor. The distance of thirty-six miles over a road exceptionally hilly was made without stop in one hour and forty minutes, each way, the weight of passengers aggregating 765 pounds. The quantity of fuel consumed on the entire trip of seventy-two miles was two and two-thirds gallons, equaling twenty-seven miles to the gallon. No misfire or knocking occurred, and the driver declared that the engine was cooler than with petrol. All hills, except one each way, were climbed on top gear. No smoke was visible, and scarcely any odor was noticeable. The sparking plug was examined on return to Johannesburg and did not show the slightest indication of soot, being perfectly clean. Other tests of this new fuel in various motor-cycle races here disclose equally favorable results.

"It is the intention of the inventors of parol to go to England within a few weeks for the purpose of competing in various contests organized by the Royal Auto club for alternative fuels other than petrol and for which prizes are offered. Further developments in connection with this invention are awaited with much interest in Johannesburg motor circles."

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

A handsome motor hearse built by the Peerless Motor Car company and displayed at the Chicago truck show has been purchased by the Newberry Auto Livery company for use in conjunction with its twenty-one Peerless touring cars for all-motor funerals.

Liverymen everywhere are beginning to motorize their hearses. In many cases the body of the horse vehicle is simply mounted on the chassis of a motor car, although some elaborate and beautiful new hearses of the motor type are being built and sold.

In many cities funeral processions in which no horse appears have become common. The old time livery stable has already been practically annihilated by the taxicab, touring car and limousine. The few remaining examples of it have been supported chiefly by just one kind of business—supplying rigs for funerals.

With the motorization of the funeral cortege which is now progressing very rapidly the horse livery in the larger cities will be a thing of the past.

For years efforts have been made by ignition experts to devise a mechanism which would relieve the motor car driver of the necessity of constant attention to the spark lever. Ordinarily if the driver is to get the maximum results from his engine he must be constantly shifting the spark lever to meet varying conditions of travel speed, hill climbing, heavy roads, etc.

The problem has been solved in the new Cadillac by a very ingenious application of the ring governor. As the action is such that as the speed of the engine increases, the spark is automatically advanced and is automatically retarded as the engine speed decreases. It automatically prevents the damage which may be caused by either too much or insufficient spark advance. The driver can set his spark lever when he starts out and then forget it.

The Kissel Motor Car company periodically inquires of Kissel Kar owners regarding the satisfaction they are obtaining from their cars. To one of these inquiries a reply was received recently from Justin M. Doll of Chicago which might be characterized as "the limit of brief sufficiency." It reads: "Bought my first Kissel in 1908, my second in 1910, my third in 1913. More than satisfied. J. M. D."

"We are certainly getting plenty of action in this part of the country on our coming San Francisco tour," says D. S. Menasco, vice president of the American Motors company, who is now in San Francisco, in speaking of the coming tour of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers' association from Indianapolis to San Francisco. "Having been chairman of the tour which proved so successful last year and being associated with the company which entered the first cars in this year's tour, I have naturally taken a great deal of interest in the way the tour is received here in the West. Results have been most gratifying."

William Caxton, who introduced the printing press in England, about the year 1475, knew nothing about modern methods of transportation. When he wished to go on a journey, William mounted the "palfrey" of our forefathers and "single-footed" through the country. Should his shade return to the world today, his astonishment at the appearance of the modern automobile, the successor of the palfrey, would be no more pronounced than at the wonderful printing presses which have taken the place of his poor little hand-screw machine for recording events of his day. Aside from the newspapers of today, the tremendous extent to which the automobile has been developed has had much to do with the improvements of the printing press.

The Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, with its annual output of 40,000 automobiles, presents an illustration of how the motor car industry has developed the printing press. The Toledo concern has in its factory one of the most interesting printing presses now in use, one for the production of blue prints in large quantities. With old style machinery this company would find it impossible to keep up with the demand of its engineering department for blue prints, but with the wonderful press this branch of the business is handled as rapidly as any other.

"A great many were surprised when they learned that California led the country in the number of automobiles per 1,000 of population and I know I am speaking for the rest of the Indiana manufacturers, when I say that we are going after this business in the strongest and best ways known. Therefore, it is doubly gratifying to know that our efforts are meeting with such encouragement and welcome on the part of the West," says the manager of the Willys-Overland company. "The tour will pass through the states of Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California and if the tentative route already laid out is finally adopted, we will visit St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. These cities contain the best markets for automobiles and we hope to 'cash in' on the publicity and demonstrations in them."

The Abbott company has made public its intention of participating in the Chicago to Boston non-stop run to be given next June under the auspices of the Chicago Automobile club. One car will be entered by the Detroit factory and one by the Centaur Motor company, Chicago distributors of the Abbott-Detroit line. These parties express strong confidence that both cars will come through with a perfect score.

The trip as outlined will require three and a half days and lay over the route as follows: First day, Chicago to Toledo, thence to Cleveland by night. Second day to Erie and arrive at Rochester the following morning. Albany will be reached at the close of the third day, from there the course will lie south to New York city. After a glimpse at Manhattan skyscrapers the tourists will speed their motors to reach Boston the afternoon of the fourth day.

At no time will the motors be permitted to stop without suffering heavy forfeitures of points, which would make impossible a perfect score. Such a test for a motor, as well as for the mechanism of the entire car, was not dreamed of a few years ago and goes to show the high standard of efficiency attained by the automobile of today. It is most certain that a car able to meet the stringent requirements of the Chicago to Boston non-stop run is fully able to meet the severest demands for ordinary motoring and all-year around wear.

At the close of the most successful selling year in the history of the company, J. T. Roche, sales manager for the Locomobile company of America, pioneer builders of automobiles in this country, has just sailed for a short cruise through the Mediterranean and a tour of Southern Europe.

With the announcement of Mr. Roche's vacation trip notice is given of interesting changes in the personnel of the Locomobile company. In the advertising department, G. H. Bryant, formerly advertising manager for the Franklin Automobile company, has assumed the duties of assistant advertising manager. W. H. Davis, Jr., formerly advertising manager of the Stoddard-Dayton Automobile company has been placed in charge of truck advertising while M. E. Brewster-Greene has resigned to go with the printing firm of Edward B. Stern company, in charge of automobile work.

A. A. Stewart, formerly of the faculty of Culver military academy and more recently of A. A. Stewart, Insurance brokers in New York city, has joined the service department.

Several important appointments have been made in the commercial car department of the various Locomobile branches throughout the country as a result of the rapidly increasing demand for Locomobile commercial cars.

COST OF PRODUCING COPPER AT BUTTE GREATLY REDUCED

Utilization of Electricity and Compressed Air Has Cut Costs.

Eastern Engineer Going Over Butte & Superior Mine and Mill.

Butte, Mont., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the price of copper running around 15 cents a pound the question of the cost of production is engaging considerable of the attention of the mining people, outside of those actually engaged in the operating of mines. It seems to be quite generally conceded that the copper from the grade of ore being treated by the Bullwhacker company at its leaching plant is produced around 7 cents. This latter price does not scare the big producing companies, according to the best information obtainable. Two years ago the Anaconda company had to stand a cost of around 9 cents a pound, but this was before electricity was brought into use and compressed air was utilized for the hoisting of ore. No official information is obtainable as to the actual cost of production by the Anaconda company, but those who keep a close watch on the improvements introduced within the past two years declare that the cost of production has been reduced possibly 1½ cents and maybe 2 cents. A prominent mining man operating a plant with three shifts a day says that electricity brings about a saving of 70 per cent as compared with steam, but allowing only 50 per cent it will be seen that the Anaconda company is reducing its operating expenses considerably. It is a known fact that the estimated cost of hoisting a ton of ore under steam was placed at 20 cents, while the cost today under compressed air is estimated at 3 cents, making a reduction of 17 cents a ton in hoisting alone. Then it must be kept in mind that today underground haulage is nearly all electricity, the pumps are operated by electricity and the ventilating fans are all operated by electricity. When all these economies are taken into consideration, and compared with the costs under steam of two years ago, it will be seen that the cost of production is very considerably reduced.

Butte & Superior.

Allen H. Rogers, a prominent mining engineer of New York and Boston, is in the city going through the Butte & Superior mine and mill in the interest of the new president and management. An effort was made to get Mr. Rogers to give some details as to the work he was performing and of the condition of the mine and concentrator, but he declined to express himself in any way as to conditions, saying that any information would have to be obtained from the president, over 2,000 miles away. Mr. Rogers would not even say that the concentrator was working up to expectations, but he was gracious enough to remark that the work of remodeling the second section of the mill was progressing satisfactorily and it would be ready to go into commission in the course of six weeks or two months.

Anaconda Properties.

The Anaconda properties are being run to a capacity to supply all the ore required for the smelters at Anaconda and Great Falls, but while the latter is operated to requirements, the Anaconda plant is undergoing considerable improvement and the ore supply has to be somewhat curtailed. It has therefore been considered a good time to do repair work and the Neversweat has been closed down for retimbering, a job which will require somewhere between five and six months. The Aanaconda, Mountain View, Leonard, St. Lawrence and Original and a few other properties will continue to hoist about the usual average amount of ore, but should the demand of the market require it, those properties can considerably increase their output. Just before the closing down of the Neversweat a very rich body of ore was encountered, but this will not be developed until operations are again resumed. With a view of exploring to greater depth in the High Ore and Modoc mines, shaft sinking has been commenced in both properties with the intention of going down several hundred feet. The High Ore is generally recognized as one of the best mines in the district, and it is proposed during the spring and summer to open it up several hundred feet for the purpose of ascertaining if the rich ore bodies continue at greater depth, a question which mining men consider certain. The High Ore is now down to a depth of 2,300 feet. Its ore reserves are known to be large, and while at the present time it is not hoisting over 1,200 tons a day, those who are in a position to speak say that the output could be easily doubled if conditions required and the smelters could care for the ores.

Butte & Zenith City.

The Butte & Zenith City company which is operating about five miles west of the city is making rapid progress in shaft sinking under the direction of General Manager C. W. Newton, formerly manager of the Butte & Ballaklava company. The company owns 340 acres of ground and it is sinking a standard two-compartment shaft which is now down 340 feet. Up to the present time very little water has been encountered and the ground is of hard granite, similar to that found on Anaconda hill. An average of 100 feet a month is being made and in about another two months a depth of 500 feet will have been reached. Then it is proposed to crosscut and Manager Newton is very confident rich copper ore will be encountered. He says that there are three veins on either side of the shaft and as they dip north and south the ore bodies will be opened not far from the shaft. The company which is composed almost altogether of Duluth capitalists has sufficient money in the treasury to do extensive development work. An electric pole line has been run to the property, a distance of two and a half miles and the entire plant is being operated by electricity which is generally conceded to be at least 50 per cent cheaper than steam. On the ground is an engine room, blacksmith shop and carpenter shop in addition to fine accommodation for the men in the shape of a dry room. The mine is being operated by three shifts a day. The rock being removed is quite strong in iron sulphide and in the shaft at a depth of about 300 feet some stringers were encountered showing about 2 per cent copper and fair values in silver and gold.

Tuolumne.

The production of the Tuolumne company for the year ending Dec. 31, last, was 46,683 tons of ore, yielding 4,716,047 pounds of ore copper, 131,867 ounces of silver and 259 ounces of gold, according to the report given to the stockholders of the company at the annual meeting. The average copper contents of the first-class ore mined during the year was 7.35 per cent, the average value of the silver being 3.38 ounces. The average value of the second-class ore was 4.05 per cent and of the silver 2.58 ounces per ton. The gross value of these metals was $739,196.08 and the net value after deducting smelter and freight charges was $415,528.55. The report continues with the statement that the past year was marked with extensive development in preparation for increased production. Drifting on the 2,000-foot level has been made and a fine body of ore encountered. President Hickey says that the development work has disclosed the best indications of rich ore bodies of any at any time since the mine has been operated and that the financial prospects of the company were never better. The financial report shows that at the close of the year there was a cash balance on hand of $202,762.50 with not a cent of indebtedness. It was stated by the president that the 10 per cent dividend declared on the last day of the year and which was payable last month will be continued for an indefinite period and he intimated that there might be a possibility in the future of the directors feeling justified in increasing this dividend, but he added he did not want the stockholders to feel disappointed if there were not any increase this year.

Barnes-King.

The Barnes-King company have met and elected Charles W. Goodale, president; A. J. Davis, vice president; John E. Corette, secretary and C. C. Swinborne, treasurer. Manager McGee was present and after explaining the condition of the property he was given authority to purchase nine additional leaching tanks at a cost of about $10,000, which will materially increase the mill output which at present is treating 100 tons of ore a day. Of the $39,450 received from the February clean up $18,925.38 was ordered applied to the payment of the purchase price of the North Moccasin property, agreement having been made that payment could be made from the output of the mine.

SHIPMENTS HAVE BEEN INCREASED

Calumet & Arizona and Shattuck Are Increasing Their Output.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 22.—More copper is to be made at the Calumet & Arizona smelter from now on, increased shipments having started from the mines of the company last week and the Shattuck Arizona raising its shipments. The smelter operations at Douglas have been naturally somewhat retarded recently because of the big work going on in the construction department. This is now in such shape that it is not likely that there will be further interference with the operating plant, which is to resume its normal treatment of ore.

Shattuck in February produced 1,136,080 pounds of copper. This was accompanied by 109 ounces of gold and 13,323 ounces of silver. There was also a considerable amount of lead on which returns have not been received. This ore was treated at the El Paso smelter. It is continuing to go there and will probably do so the balance of this month, if not permanently. Samples of the lead silver ore have been treated by other smelters and returns from these and the El Paso smelter will be figured out in connection with bids for treatment as soon as there has been sufficient time for thorough establishment of what the lead silver approximate extent may be and what it may average.

This lead silver ore body is now producing about a carload of ore a day for El Paso smelter and if the company is so minded can increase output steadily from now on. The body is being explored on the 300, 400 and 600 levels, from all three of which production is being made. There is so far no reason to believe that the ore body now opened will not continue to expand. As it stands it is a highly valuable asset to Shattuck as well as to the district. Fifty more men have been put at work in the Shattuck.

Other development work and production in the district is continuing steadily ahead throughout the district, unattended by anything of a strikingly important. Progress is highly satisfactory in all divisions. With the Calumet & Arizona it is likely that in a short time the management of that company will start its drifts into the lately acquired Saginaw ground. It is considered probable that this work will be done from the Junction.

TREAT LOW GRADE ORE AT A PROFIT

New Mill at Radersburg Has Capacity of 400 Tons.

Townsend, Mont., March 22.—Events are transpiring that will make for the rapid expansion of the Radersburg district, and mine and claim owners of Broadwater's premier gold camp are feeling mighty jubilant.

The treatment locally of the camp's vast tonnage of second-class ores has always been a drawback—ores running from $5 to $12 in gold per ton and carrying small silver values. It is a pretty well-known fact that only the high grade crude product of the mines have been shipped in recent years and that no mills for the treatment of second-class material were in operation. Experienced operators know that the chief asset of most camps are the low grade ores, especially where they can be successfully treated locally.

Messrs. Larson and Errick, mill builders, are now erecting at the Keating mine suitable buildings for the installation of a fifty-ton plant that will employ a new process of treatment, by which an extraction of 90 per cent of the gold content of ores is assured and a like saving of silver values—a process that means a profit earning career for every mine in the Radersburg district. The Keating company has announced that during the summer the new mill will be enlarged to 300 or 400 tons capacity for the treatment of ores from other local mines. In view of this assurance the owners of partially developed properties are putting more men to work and operators now having considerable tonnage of second-class ore are arranging to increase their present working force. It is confidently believed that within six months 600 men will be employed by Radersburg operators.

And it may be added that the Larson-Errick process will give Hassel a substantial uplift and will also be a boon to mine owners of the Winston district.

HAS REACHED PEWABIC LODE

Showing at Hancock Very Rich, Width and Extent Unknown.

Future of Ojibway Rests With Development at Greater Depth.

Houghton, Mich., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hancock Consolidated Mining company has reached the No. 8, or Pewabic lode, by a crosscut and drift south on the Fifty-ninth level, 3,650 feet from surface in the No. 2 shaft. The showing is exceptionally rich, width and extent unknown. The No. 2 shaft, which is a vertical opening, is permanently bottomed at a depth of 4,000 feet and is the main avenue of production. Crosscuts on a number of levels above this depth are driving for the purpose of intersecting this same lode nearer surface. The first of these crosscuts of which there are four should intercept the No. 4 lode at any time. The company now has three excellent copper bearing lodes under development, of which lodes Nos. 4, 5 and 8 are probably the richest and most promising. The company recently made a shipment of 1,000 tons of rock to the Centennial-Allouez stamp mill, and will ship intermittently until about July, when a daily output of 300 to 500 tons is anticipated. The physical condition of the property is good, and sufficient development work has been done to make an output of about 500 tons daily easily possible.

Houghton.

The encouraging showing obtained by the Houghton warrants further work at greater depth. Shaft sinking will be resumed at an early date according to the present plans of the management. The shaft has been temporarily bottomed at a depth of 625 feet, all development below this depth consisting of a winze from this level to a depth of 825 feet with drifts each way from the bottom in what is known as the Superior section. The company has also opened the so-called West lode, which is showing so rich under development in the Superior acreage adjoining, but has not drifted upon it, the present two crosscuts offering little encouragement in this formation at and above the 650 level. The West lode will probably yield copper rock of commercial value at greater depth, the development in the Superior mines indicating that values in this formation lie below a depth of 1,000 to 1,200 feet from surface.

South Lake.

The South Lake is putting a plat on the 300-foot level in the shaft sunk on the Evergreen lode. Crosscutting will follow the completion of this work, and is expected to result in the disclosure of commercial copper rock in a lode previously cut in shaft sinking at a depth of 170 feet. This lode, which carries a width of about forty feet, should be encountered in the crosscut at a point approximately 100 feet northwest of the shaft. At the usual rate of progress, this opening should come into the lode about the middle of May. It is the present intention of the management to drift on this vein at this point, but this work will not be permitted to seriously interfere with shaft work, and sinking will be resumed as soon as sufficient headway has been made in the crosscut to assure the safety of the workers below this level. The shaft is designed to open and develop the so-called South Lake lodes, previously disclosed in diamond drilling by cuts Nos. 3, 4, 5 an 6, all of which lodes will be reached by a crosscut on several levels the first of which will be at a depth of 500 feet. This crosscut should reach the first of the South Lake lodes, four in number, within a distance of 1,500 feet from the shaft. Measured in time, this would be fully a year hence.

Arcadian.

Copper ground of exceptional richness is showing in the new shaft which the New Arcadian is sinking on section 9 in the approximate horizon of the Isle Royale-Portage lode. The shaft has attained a depth of 410 feet, and is sinking at the rate of 60 to 70 feet per month. More or less copper ground has been opened in the course of shaft sinking, but the present showing is rich where the others have been only fair. About twenty feet of unusually rich ground was showing in the bottom of the shaft at last reports.

New Baltic.

The New Baltic continues to center all activity in the extension of the crosscut west on the 500-foot level. The crosscut has attained a length of about 1,500 feet, and is at the moment breasted in a conglomerate bed immediately above which lies a copper bearing amygdaloid of some promise. This lode was previously disclosed in diamond drilling, and apparently is a continuation of the Isle Royale-Portage series of lodes. The company has done no work below a depth of 500 feet. The working force is small and developments are slow.

Ojibway.

The Ojibway is dividing its time between exploratory work and development work. Two rock drills and one diamond drill are in service. The diamond drill is located on the 1,900-foot level of the No. 2 shaft, and is boring a horozintal hole into the hanging wall country beyond the presumed horizon of the Kearsarge lode. A drill hole, previously driven in this area, disclosed a good showing of copper, which was later opened by a crosscut on the 2,000-foot level. The deposit, however, proved of limited extent, and the drifts passed into barren ground within a very short distance from the end of the crosscut. In the No. 1 shaft, which is located 1,116 feet northeast of the No. 2 shaft, one rock drill is sinking a winze in fair copper ground below the seventeenth level, and the second drill is working in a drift north on this level. This drift is at the moment in very good ground. Work in the past has resulted in the development of fair average ground on nearly all levels in this shaft, some of the stretches being exceptionally rich. The showings have improved with depth, and are best on the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth levels. It would seem that the future of the Ojibway rests entirely with developments at even greater depth.

SAGINAW SALE IS AUTHORIZED

Recommendation of Directors Approved at Meeting of Stockholders.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 22.—At the annual meeting here of the American Saginaw Mining company the following directors were elected: William B. Mershon, Watt S. Humphrey, Benton Hanchett, all of Saginaw, Michigan; Thomas F. Cole, Charles d'Autremont, Jr., of Duluth, Minn.; Thomas H. Collins, Princeton, Mass.; J. C. Greenway, Warren, Ariz. A large percentage of the outstanding stock of the company was represented, there being 80,403 out of 100,000 shares present.

The final agreement with the Calumet & Arizona was made whereby the American Saginaw becomes a part of the Calumet & Arizona property. All the mining claims, real estate, and mining equipment of the American Saginaw situated in the Warren district was sold to the Calumet & Arizona for 16,000 shares of that stock. At the market quotation of Calumet & Arizona, $10.50 a share was paid for the American Saginaw. The property consists of twenty-nine claims, aggregating approximately 428 acres of land.

At the close of the stockholders' meeting the annual meeting of the board of directors was held. William B. Mershon was elected president, Charles d'Autremont, vice president; Edward J. Maney, secretary; F. R. Kennedy, treasurer.

The feature in connection with the meeting was the fact that it formally authorized the transfer of the Saginaw property to Calumet & Arizona. This transaction has been dwelt upon since the issuance some weeks ago of announcement that the Saginaw directors had determined upon transfer, and the public has since been generally advised.

NEVADA'S OUTPUT IS VERY LARGE

Gross Value of Ore Mined in 1912 Exceeds $36,000,000.

The gross value of ore mined in Nevada in 1912 promises to exceed $36,000,000, according to the annual report of Bullion Tax Agent Adamson. The report shows a healthy increase in profitable mining operations, and figures for the first three quarters indicate that the value of ore mined during the entire year will exceed all records since the Comstock reached the zenith of its production. The tonnage and value throughout the state has increased. The increase in tonnago in the first three quarters of 1912 is more than 500,000 over 1911. Gross values for the same periods show an increase of more than $2,000,000. It is expected the last quarter of 1912 will exceed the same period in 1911 in about the same ratio.

Considerable trouble in collecting the bullion tax is noted in the report. Several typical illustrations of attempts on the part of mine owners to evade the tax altogether or to defraud the collector of what was justly due the state are noted. In one instance, according to the report, the agent found a stamp mill in operation where he was not aware one existed. He found it was working at a good profit without the knowledge of even the county assessor, and he promptly took up the matter of the collection of the tax. Figures in the report show that $222,981.25 was collected from the entire state for licenses of all sorts, and of this amount Washoe county paid $36,600.25, or about one-sixth of the entire amount. Story county paid in licenses $8,145.

The report from Storey county shows nine mining companies in the bullion producing class, and a gross production of $1,268,432.74, and a net production of $300,634.98. The costs of mine and pumping expense of the ore recovery was $765,850.43; reduction or sale, $272,392; transportation, $53,765.89; total tax reported, $11,587.36.

NEW MANAGER OF GREENE-CANANEA

Dr. Ricketts Will Give Up Details of Operating Mines.

Bispee, Ariz., March 22.—On April 1 J. S. Douglas will take charge of the plant and interests of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company at Cananea as vice president and general manager of that company. Mr. Douglas is invited to this position because of the fact that Dr. L. D. Ricketts, who has had charge of the Cananea enterprise for a number of years, no longer has time to devote to any of the details of the operation at Cananea because of other important and numerous engagements, including his personal affairs.

Mr. Douglas, confirming this change, also stated that George Kingdon of Globe will go to Cananea to become superintendent of the "Four C's" company, relieving James Kirk, who, it is known, has been desirous of leaving Cananea for a year or more.

Dr. Ricketts remains as president and directing head of the "Four C's," but will surrender the general management to Mr. Douglas.

J. S. Douglas is well known among the copper producers of the country, and first started his career in the mining industry in Bisbee as a clerk in the general office of the Copper Queen. Afterwards he was in charge of what is now known as the old Copper Queen ranch in the Sulphur Spring valley, ten miles north of Douglas, where the company tested the opportunity there for successful farming and fruit culture. After one or two years of late frost and scarcity of rain this experiment was abandoned. Having finished his career as a farmer, Mr. Douglas went with C. E. Mills, now general manage of the Inspiration, to Yavapai county, where they remained several years developing copper properties owned by the Phelps-Dodge interests under the name of the Commercial Mining company. From here Mr. Douglas went to Mexico as general manager of the Moctezuma Copper company, where he remained until three years ago. During the time he was at Nacozari Mr. Douglas built the Nacozari railroad from Douglas to that camp and also constructed the new concentrating mill and developed the great Pilares mine until it was rated as one of the greatest copper deposits known in the world.

Resigning his position with the Phelps-Dodge company at Nacozari, Mr. Douglas built a residence at Douglas and opened offices there, from which he has directed his extensive personal affairs. Recently he was prominent in organizing the United Verde Extension company and starting development of a large tract of mineral ground at Jerome. It will be generally agreed that the Cananea Consolidated Copper company has been fortunate in securing such a high class man as Mr. Douglas to relieve Dr. Ricketts of the active management of Cananea.

Montana Has "Blue Sky" Law to Regulate Mining Stocks.

Affects Companies Organized Outside and Within the State.

Butte, Mont., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Montana has also adopted a so-called "blue sky" law to regulate the sale of mining securities within the state. It affects companies organized outside the state as well as those incorporated within it, but of course it does not protect people of other states or prevent them from purchasing mining stock issued by fake companies or on worthless properties in Montana. The new law requires every company that has stock or securities for sale, or that takes subscriptions for stock, banks and similar institutions being excepted, to file with the state investment commissioner an itemized statement of its actual financial condition and the amount of its properties and liabilities; a copy of all contracts, bonds or other securities which it proposes to make with or sell to its contributors; sample copies of all literature or advertising matter used or to be used by such investment company; a copy of its constitution and by-laws, or articles of co-partnership or association; a copy of its charter, if incorporated. All these papers must be verified under oath by an officer of the company, and in the case of a foreign corporation it must also file a written consent to be sued, and service of legal papers made, through the state investment commissioner.

Must Get License.

The commissioner authorized to make investigation of the affairs of any company, and if its plan is found reasonable and gives promise of a fair return on the stocks or bonds, he may grant a permit or license to sell. The investment company must also file quarterly reports with the commissioner, and it will be unlawful to distribute literature or advertising matter in the state until the company is licensed to do business. If at any time it appears to the commissioner that the assets of a company do not equal its liabilities, or that the company is conducting its business in an unsafe manner, or is jeopardizing the interests of the stockholders or investors, he shall apply to the courts for the appointment of a receiver for the concern. The commissioner may withhold from the inspection of any one or more the information in his possession relating to any investment company if it is deemed not to the best interest of the stockholders or the public welfare.

Dividends Must Be Approved.

It will not be lawful to pay any dividends in stocks, bonds or other securities without the approval of the investment commissioner. For any false statements made to the commissioner, or for any false statements entered on the records of the company, the offender is liable to a fine of from $200 to $10,000 and imprisonment in the state penitentiary for one to ten years. For a violation of any of the provisions of the act itself the penalty is a fine of $100 to $10,000, or imprisonment for ninety days to one year, or both fine and imprisonment. As new corporations, then, the law is effective at once, and will apply to existing companies on and after Jan. 1, 1914, by which date they must all submit statements to the investment commissioner and obtain a license to do business in the state. The general provisions of the law also apply to stock brokers.

The people of Montana have been singularly free from fake mining ventures. In but one or two notable cases have they been the victims of home fake products, but the foreign public has not been so fortunate in regard to its investment and speculation in Montana mining enterprises. In half a dozen noted instances the outside public was shamefully fleeced during the height of the copper mining boom several years ago. The new law apparently does not reach the mining faker who sells his ware only outside of Montana. His case could be covered only by making the provisions of the law applicable to a company or corporation as soon as legally and fully organized, regardless of its intention—to sell its securities in the state.

HUGE PUBLIC FUND FOR DEFENSE

Sentiment of Nationalism in Denmark Prompts Subscriptions for Additional Fortifications for Defense of the Country.

Copenhagen, March 22.—The sentiment of nationalism is growing in Denmark by leaps and bounds, and a notable result is the collection of a huge public fund for the defense of the country. Repeated demands on the government for additional fortifications have met with little response, and private interests have now determined to take up the work.

The subscription is headed by the king and queen, and other members of the royal family have contributed generously. The money is now pouring in from all sources, schools, business houses and offices contributing freely. Several artists have donated their paintings to be sold for the fund.

The present unrest in Europe is largely responsible for the interest in this remarkable measure of national defense. The Danish people feel that in the case of a war between any of the great powers, their country would be crushed unless they are in a position to enforce armed neutrality.

Interest in Panama Canal.

The East Asiatic company is making arrangements to run a direct line of steamships from Copenhagen to the Golden Gate via the canal, and Denmark expects that the new waterway will place the fruits and wines of the Pacific coast within reach of her purse, as well as provide a market for her products.

The visit to Copenhagen of the commissioners of the Panama-Pacific International exposition aroused great local interest, and Denmark is determined to be adequately represented at the San Francisco fair. This feeling of neighborliness with the United States was increased by the recent gift of Bebbild park to Denmark by a large group of Danish-Americans. Many Danish merchants have returned recently from tours of the United States where they went to get into touch with the latest business methods, and the closeness with which American political and financial conditions are studied is indicated by a number of new Danish laws modeled on those of the United States.

Trade With America.

Edward W. Winslow, the American consul general here, declares that American trade with the Scandinavian countries during the past year established a high water mark.

America is learning rapidly that Copenhagen occupies for Scandinavia the same place London does for the rest of Europe, and as a clearing house that the Danish metropolis acts as a barometer of trade between the United States and the northern countries of Europe. American merchants find the free harbor of Copenhagen an excellent distributing point. It is interesting to note, says Mr. Winslow, that there is no prejudice against American goods; on the contrary, they are preferred. Denmark is now buying from the United States in large amounts corn, machinery, oils, boots and shoes, cotton garments, flour, canned friuts, apples and ready-made clothing, and she is sending in return garden seeds, sugar beet seeds, raw hides, cordials, flint pebbles, dried fish, Icelandic wool and beer. During the past year the Danish exports to the United States have increased by $1,000,000.

The tourist trade is also growing. Hardly a family in Denmark is without relatives in America, and consequently Americans are made very welcome. The consul-general declares that not only the cordial welcome extended to American tourists is making Denmark popular, but also the fact that everywhere in the country they find their own tongue spoken.

Oldest Ship in the World.

The yacht Constance, said to be the oldest ship in the world in active service, has just been sold to a fisherman of Skaw, up in Jutland, who will use the ancient craft in his trade. The Constance was built in 1720, 193 years ago, and in her long life she has sailed into almost every port in the world. Her timbers are still staunch, and her new owner declares he can see no reason why she should not sail the seas for a century to come.

To Study Agriculture.

There is good reason to believe that Prince Erick, cousin of King George of England and King Christian of Denmark, will complete his farming education by a tour of the agricultural districts of the United States. For several years the prince has been at work on his farm on Fionia island with intervals spent at agricultural colleges. Next summer he will go to England to study agricultural conditions there, and afterwards he will sail for America.

If this young prince considers that he should go to the United States to learn agriculture, it is also apparent that the American authorities are convinced that Danish agricultural institutions have much to commend them, for only last week a special government commission arrived here from Washington, and has already started to study the rural schools, agricultural schools and co-operative agricultural societies of Denmark. The members of the commission are H. W. Foght, bureau of education, department of the interior; L. L. Friend, state supervisor of high schools of West Virginia, and W. H. Smith, rural school inspector of Mississippi.

The commission will remain for three months in Denmark, and on its return make a report on the facilities for agricultural education in a country where the science has been developed more extensively than in any other country in the world. Just at present the American visitors are investigating the highly successful small landholders' school at Ringsted.

Denies Rumors.

The American minister to Denmark, Maurice Egan, has given denial to the persistent rumors that the Danish government has approached Scandinavian proposition for the purchase from the United States of the island of Mindanao, in the Philippines. He does not deny that certain prominent Danes have proposed that Denmark should exchange Greenland for Mindanao, with the privilege of trading the latter to Germany for Slesvic, but he does deny that such a proposition was made to him by the German government.

THE ARCHITECT AND HIS CHARGES

Brooklyn Eagle: No reputable architect will overcharge for his services. He is much more apt to undervalue them. Furthermore, he is in a position to save his client a sum as much as and often more than his commission by reason of his familiarity with the supply markets, and his experience in the use of materials of one kind and another. In a hundred and one ways he is fitted to suggest savings and economies unknown to the layman.

It is not to be expected, however, that he will busy his brain seeking legitimate means of reducing the cost to the owner (when every dollar saved lowers his own commission proportionately), unless he feels that he is being adequately paid, and is insured a fair profit on his labors. The architect's commission is but a small part of the cost of the house, and the owner makes his first expensive mistake when he figures to "save" anything on this score.

When the architect is in possession of the "clews" to the problem before him, its happy solution is merely a concern of his ability, to turn them to interesting account. The client should be the main source of needed information and assistance in supplying the "personality" of the plan, but he should allow it to be envolved in a rational, individual manner in harmony with the environment and the spirit of the times. The architect should bear in mind that he acts largely in the capacity of an adviser, and he must respect the owner's wishes unless he can convince him of his error with clear argument and clean-cut illustrations. In other words, he must demonstrate what detriment to the work would result if any erroneous measures that his client might desire are enacted. It is supposed that the client will seriously consider the architect's advice before it is rejected, for it represents the fruit of many years' study and experience, which can not be safely disregarded.

Probably the most embarrassing moment in the architect's intercourse with his client is when there arises a question of taste. Unless you know your man it may well lead to blows. Taste is a product of personality and environment, and good taste is merely a measure of local standards. The Indian's wigwam and his personal attire may conform so accurately to the precepts of good taste as the fashionably dressed American millionaire in his modern chateau. Many a layman considers himself a competent art critic who would never question the opinion of his lawyer or his doctor, or advance any views upon finance or attempt to explain a problem in engineering.

All of these gentlemen may successfully hide their failures. Even the engineer may temporarily cloak his defective structure with the architect's mantle. Endowed with such powers for good and for evil there rests upon the architect a grave responsibility, demanding from him the highest form of mental and moral equipment. Let him but show his capacity for good deeds, let him but prove his worth, and the public can be trusted to give him place in the councils of the nation.

NEW BUILDING PROJECTS COMING TO THE SURFACE

Contracts Let for Eleven Houses for Steel Plant Workmen.

New Wholesale Building and Five Houses at Lakeside.

Building operations have been maintaining a healthy pace during this month. A number of new projects have come to the surface, which indicate a busy time ahead along construction lines. Architects advise considerable work on their tables and builders are preparing for a busy spring.

Things keep booming at Gary. It was announced this week that the Gary Building company will erect eleven new workingmen's homes there. The houses will be of re-inforced concrete block construction and will be five and six-room affairs. They will range in cost from $1,500 to $2,000.

The Gary Building company has received the contracts to build six of the houses and will put up five on its own account. Two of the dwellings will be built for G. Ashley Tomlinson, and one each for Ward Ames, Julius H. Barnes, Watson S. Moore and the Steel Plant Investment company.

The new homes will be suited to the needs of the community, and are expected to fill a long-felt want in the fast growing suburb of the city. At the present time houses at Gary are considered to be as scarce as hens' teeth.

• • •

A modern fire-proof structure, five stories high, will replace the building occupied by the Peyton Paper company at 222 West Michigan street, which was gutted in an early Sunday morning fire this week. The owner of the property, William Peet of St. Paul this week engaged Architect J. J. Wangenstein to prepare plans for the reconstruction of the building, along strictly fire-proof lines. Reinforced concrete will be used. The building will front fifty feet on West Michigan street. Mr. Wangenstein expects to have the plans in the hands of contractors within a short time.

Architect Wangenstein expected to award the contract for the new three-story brick hotel building to be erected at Baudette at a cost of $40,000 Monday. The same architect has plans for the six-story hotel building at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street almost ready to be given to the contractors for figures.

• • •

That there will be a fairly heavy movement in residence construction at Lakeside this summer is evidenced by an announcement of the plans of the Lakeside Land company to erect five houses on Wyoming, Juniata and Tioga streets this spring. Architect P. M. Olsen has received the commission to prepare plans for the new homes, which will range in cost from $4,500 to $5,000 a piece. The figures will be taken next week at his office.

Architect Olsen is also preparing plans for a new dwelling to cost $7,000 for Oscar Peterson. The new residence will be built on the northeast corner of Twentieth avenue east and Fourth street. The contract will be let within the next few days. Other new jobs reported by the same architect are:

New residence to be built for J. H. Josephson at Menominee, Wis. It will be a two-story brick house and will cost $10,000. Plans are now being prepared.

Residence for F. C. Biebesheimer on Seventeenth avenue east between Fourth and Fifth streets, costing $4,000. Bids have been opened, and the contract will be left the first of next week.

Brick garage for H. F. Salyards to be built at the rear of his residence at 2311 East Third street, at a cost of $3,000. The contract for this job was this week awarded to Anderson & Gow.

• • •

Holstead & Sullivan, architects are taking figures this week on a two-story store and flat building to be built for M. J. Filiatrault on Ramsey street between Central and Fifty-fourth avenues west and to cost $6,000. The building will be of frame construction, 25 by 70 feet, and will be put up on the property adjoining the present Filiatrault block to the east.

The same architects this week let the contract for a four-room frame modern schoolhouse to be built at Cove, Minn., at a cost of $10,000 to Gust Shedin of Milaca, Minn.

• • •

William Fawcett was this week awarded the contract for the construction of the superstructure of the new St. Marks African M. E. church to be built at the corner of Fifth avenue and Sixth street. The figure was $5,675 and the job was let by Architect E. S. Radcliffe.

• • •

Kelly & Williams, Architects, will have plans out for figures within the next two weeks on a store and office building to be built at Crosby, Minn. The improvement will entail an expenditure of $15,000. The structure will be built of brick.

• • •

As soon as weather conditions permit work will be started on the Catholic church to be built at New Duluth. It is expected that the contract will be let at a meeting of the building committee next week. The edifice will be 120 feet long and 42 feet wide. It will cost about $15,000.

• • •

The ambitions of Smithville people to have a new school building may be realized after several years of patient waiting. The members of the Smithville school board have practically decided to build a new structure this year. The location of the schoolhouse has not been decided on. The old structure was built in 1889.

At New Duluth, a crew of twenty men are engaged in the work of setting up the new steel supply tank for the New Duluth water system. The tank is 175 feet in height and has a capacity of 200,000 gallons. The pipes have already been laid.

ARCHITECTS WILL HOLD BANQUET

Speeches Will Be of Interest to Members of the Profession.

Duluth architects will hold their first annual banquet on Thursday evening, April 3, at the St. Louis hotel, according to plans which have been arranged by the Duluth Architectural club.

The affair will be limited strictly to members of the profession and will be the first affair of its kind to be held here. Although the organization of architects has been in existence about two years, no formal banquets have been held.

The evening will be devoted to a program of music and short talks which will be interesting to members of the profession. The plans for the dinner are now in the hands of the club's social committee.

On Thursday night this week, members of the club listened to an interesting and instructive lecture on "The History of Reinforced Concrete," given by E. C. Gilulson. His discourse on the subject covered a wide range of time, going back to the earliest evidences of concrete. He referred to the pyramids of Egypt and other imposing concrete structures of the Greeks and Romans. He also dealt at length on the recent great revival of concrete construction work in this country.

On Thursday evening, March 27, the club will listen to an address given by its president, Clyde W. Kelly on "Apartment Buildings." It is also expected that C. C. Rosenkranz will be present at the meeting and will talk on an art subject.

THREE NEW INDUSTRIES ARE ASSURED FOR DULUTH

Duluth was this week assured of at least three more new industries. The promised concerns are a Universal Portland cement plant to cost $1,700,000; a bread plant to cost $75,000, and a publishing enterprise which will entail an outlay of $35,000.

It had been known for some time in an unofficial way that Duluth was to be the site of a mammoth plant to be built by the Universal Portland Cement company, a subsidiary of the United States steel corporation. The official announcement of the project was made this week.

The plant will be located near the blast furnaces at the steel plant. It will be ready for operation in 1914. The output of the plant will be about 1,400,000 barrels of cement per annum.

Raymond W. Smith of New York City and Harry W. Zinsmaster of Des Moines, Iowa, are associated in a project to built a $75,000 bread making establishment in this city. According to plans announced this week, the bread factory will be located at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Superior street. The capacity of the plant will be 30,000 loaves a day. The building will be two stories high. The first floor will be devoted to the ovens and the second to the storage of flour, mixing rooms, offices, shower baths and recreation rooms for the employes. Automatic machinery will be installed so that human hands will not touch the bread or any of its ingredients.

The Tyomies Publishing company, which will remove its headquarters to Duluth from Hancock, Mich., has taken an option through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck, upon 100-foot frontage at the northeast corner of Sixth avenue west and Second street. Plans are under way for the erecting of an office building, and the establishment of a plant which will mean an outlay of about $35,000. The firm will employ about sixty people at the outset.

The Duluth realty market experienced a rather active period during the past week. It apparently has emerged from a stage of comparative inactivity, for today there are more signs of vigorous and wholesome trading than there have been for some time. The investing public's interest has been awakened and has begun to pulsate in anticipation of the city's future. Among realty men there is a strong feeling in the air. This feeling is not only bred by absolute confidence in the reviving of the market itself but also by the general improvement which has been noted in all lines of business this spring.

"Lot selling continues fairly strong at Gary, considering the weather," declared Thomas Beyenka of the Home Realty company yesterday. "As soon as the snow gets off the ground, I look for a rushing spring business up the steel plant way. You would be surprised to see the volume of outside inquiry that we are receiving daily with regard to Gary property." Mr. Beyenka closed up on the sale of two lots this week. The Steel Plant Investment company, for Watson S. Moore, sold fourteen lots this week.

The snow and cold weather has held back acerage operators and the result has been less activity in farm lands than there would have had been had dealers an opportunity to show prospective purchasers the properties offered for sale.

Ebert, Walker & McKnight advise that as soon as weather conditions are right, a large party of Iowans will come to Duluth with the view to looking over St. Louis county farm lands. This firm reports brisk inquiry from outside sources. A number of deals are reported pending.

Actual sales closed by the firm this week were few. For the Northern Real Estate company they sold 120 acres in 58-13 near Norman postoffice to local investors. The land is unimproved and the consideration was about $5 an acre. They have also received earnest money from Bemidji investors on a 200-acre tract in the town of Morrison, Aitkin county, now held by an Iowa man. The selling price is $15 an acre.

The Locker-Donahue company reports that a number of lots were disposed of during the past week at Crosby, the new metropolis of the Cuyuna range. Inquiry for this property has been especially strong, they advise.

* * *

Peter Lundin this week sold to Anna Bjork a house and lot on Piedmont avenue, between Cascade and Marks avenues. The consideration was $5,000.

* * *

Sydney Morterud this week purchased from Gini Henldrickson for $1,650, a house and twenty-five-foot lot on the upper side of Fourth street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west.

* * *

The Minnesota Loan & Trust company has sold to Percy S. Kingsley a forty-foot frontage on the west side of Minnesota avenue between St. John and Duke streets. The price paid was $1,800.

* * *

William R. Wright has disposed of a twenty-five-foot lot on the lower side of Sixth street, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth avenue west to Bert Wiggin for $350. Mr. Wiggin is now putting up a house on the property.

* * *

Mathilda Nelson has purchased a fractional lot fronting twenty-five feet on the upper side of Sixth street, west of Fifty-sixth avenue west from William R. Wright for $250.

* * *

The Grassy Point Land company has sold to Uno Lindstrom for $800 four lots between the Northern Pacific tracks and Grand avenue west, fronting on Raleigh street and Sixty-fourth avenue west.

New Land Companies.

Four new land companies filed articles of incorporation with the register of deeds this week. John B. Arnold and Stella Taylor of Duluth, and W. J. Schlitze are named as incorporators. The names of the new concerns are: The Northern Counties Land company, Number One Land company, Number Two Land company and the Cyanite Land company. Each has a capital stock of $10,000 and will have its headquarters in Duluth.

DULUTH STOCK AND GRAIN MARKETS CLOSED

The Duluth Board of Trade was closed today. Yesterday was a general holiday, and it was not deemed worth while to hold the short Saturday session between Good Friday and Sunday. The local grain and stock brokerage offices were also closed today. There were no stock quotations from New York, as that exchange was closed today, as was also that of Boston. The grain exchanges of Chicago and Minneapolis, however, remained open today. The grain markets of Europe closed Thursday afternoon to remain closed until Tuesday morning.

* * *

The Minneapolis Commercial West says:

"It seldom happens, at a time when markets are as dull as at present, that there is such a general interest as to the probable course of prices as is now in evidence. And, too, after such a big decline as prices have had in the last six months, there are usually many members of the trade who believe a good reaction is in order. At the present time, however, there are very few people who can see any good in wheat prices at the present level; that is, from a commercial point of view. On the contrary, almost every one who expresses an opinion is pessimistic as to the probable tendency of prices, except only as accidents to the growing crop, or war disturbances in Europe, may have a ridealtionary effect.

"The condition that confronts the trade and causes so many persons to wonder if anything can intervene to prevent a still lower price-level, is the immense supply of wheat in this country, and also in other parts of the world; though this country is the depressing factor. Wheat in terminal elevators throughout the Northwest and in farmers' hands, that will certainly be marketed in the near future, amount to approximately 100,000,000 bushels. This wheat has got to be taken care of in the markets before the expiration of the May future. The question in the mind of the trade generally is: Who will carry the load after the liquidation in May wheat? As was said in the Commercial West of last week, the May hedges are probably largely held by persons who sold in other markets; that is, the purchase in Minneapolis was one end of a spread. Therefore, when such long wheat in this market is sold, there must be an equal amount of buying orders ready to absorb the offerings, or the price will seek a level that will be attractive to some class of buyers. There are indications in the Minneapolis market that some holders of the May are going over into July. Should this movement become general, liquidation of May would be offset by the buying of July."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Low Temperatures, Accompanied By Snow, Sends Wheat Up.

Chicago, March 22.—Low temperatures over the winter wheat belt today, though in many sections the cold was accompanied by snow, sent wheat up. The market opened unchanged to ⅛@¼c higher. May started at 90⅛c to 90⅜c, varying from ⅛c off to a like amount up and then rose to 90⅜c.

Afterward the market reacted slightly, the close firm at 90½c for May, a net gain of ¼c.

Firmness was given to corn by unfavorable weather for farm deliveries. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 53c to 53⅛c and sold up to 53½c.

Later the market eased somewhat because of falling off in Eastern demand and closed firm at 53⅜@53½c for May, a net gain of ⅛@⅜c.

Limited offerings sent oats up. May started a shade higher at 33¼c, touched 33⅜@33½c and advanced to 33¾c.

Packing house buying carried provisions higher. First sales were a shade to 7½c to 10c higher, including May at $20.65 for pork, $10.80@10.85 for lard and $10.37½ to $10.95 for ribs.

OLD RUMOR IS FLATLY DENIED

A persistent rumor has been heard for the last few weeks to the effect that C. A. Marshall, owner of the Lyceum theater and building, is planning to abandon the theater part of the structure and turn the playhouse entirely into the office building class, having a new theater erected for his use.

Within the past few days, coupled with this rumor, there has been another one to the effect that Thomas Furniss, owner of the Arcade, and of the Odeum and Lyric theaters, is about to build a theater on the property at the corner of West First street and Second avenue, in which the road shows would be booked, with Mr. Marshall as manager.

Mr. Furniss could not be reached today in time for The Herald, but Mr. Marshall was. The latter denied most emphatically that there was the least suggestion of fact in connection with it. He says that it would cost $250,000 to turn the Lyceum into a real office building because of the thickness of the walls and the substantial nature of its construction in general. He added, also that never before in the theatrical business have prospects been so bright. Klaw & Erlanger and the Schuberts having united and quit their quarreling and that as the Lyceum is now a good odor with each it should get the best kind of bookings. He says that improvements will be made on the building this spring and later on several stories for offices may be added to it, but there is no intention of abandoning the theatrical part of the building.

BOARD OF CONTROL REDUCING BUDGET.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the state board of control today began the task of reducing their budget submitted to the legislature by $1,000,000. The pruning is being done at the request of the appropriations committee.

According to Charles E. Vassely, most of the cut will come in the new building fund, for which $2,464,000 was asked. The mechanical improvement budget, calling for $600,000, also will be sliced.

ODD CASE OF MONOMANIA

Charles H. Richter's Mind Is Unsettled on One Subject Only.

Highly Educated But Thinks "Organized Crime" Pursues Him.

Charles H. Richter, draftsman, employed by the Minnesota Steel company in the Wolvin building, who has used the "want ad" columns of the daily papers to inform the public of a supposed persecution from some imaginary hypnotic source, was today in probate court found to be suffering from mental disease. As he is a non resident, permission must be received from the state board of control before he can be committed to the hospital at Fergus Falls for treatment.

The case is one of the most pitiful and peculiar cases which has ever come to the attention of the probate court. Richter is a college graduate and a highly educated man. He entertains fixed views on science, religion and philosophy which are said to be irrational. Among other things, he stated that he believed that he was being influenced by hypnotic forces have made his food unpalatable and poisonous.

Richter came to Duluth from Paterson, N. J. He claims that the forces of organized and coordinated crime have followed him and that he has been a subject to persecution.

HAS THREE HEADS.

Freak Child Born to Mrs. Palm of Appleton, Wis.

Appleton, Wis., March 22.—A child with three heads was born to Mrs. Louis Palm, of Appleton today. The main head is longer than the other two and is the one closest to the trunk of the body. On top of the main head is a neck, which is mounted by the other two heads.

It is said that the child cannot live, it having been born with a broken spine.

Mrs. Cashin Dies.

Mrs. Mary N. Cashin, mother of John Cashin of West Duluth, a candidate for city commissioner, died this morning, aged 69 years, of old age at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. A. Keeley, 1 West Fifth street. The funeral will be held from the cathedral on Tuesday morning.

Do you imagine that any worthwhile buyer of real estate is going to overlook your ad in this paper? Not unless he is sick abed.

The Duluth realty market experienced a rather active period during the past week. It apparently has emerged from a stage of comparative inactivity, for today there are more signs of vigorous and wholesome trading than there have been for some time. The investing public's interest has been awakened and has begun to subside in anticipation of the city's future. Among realty men there is a strong feeling in the air. This feeling is not only bred by absolute confidence in the probing of the market itself but also by general improvement which has manifested in all lines of business activity.

Lot selling continues fairly strong for considering the weather, declared Emmons Reyelska of the Home Realty company yesterday. "As soon as the snow gets off the ground, I look for a rushing spring business up the street. You would be surprised to see the volume of outside territory that we are receiving daily with regard to Gary property." Mr. Reyenka closed up on the sale of two lots this week. The Steel Plant Investment company, for Watson S. Moore, sold fourteen lots this week.

The snow and cold weather has held back acreage operators and the result has been less activity in farm lands than there would have had been had dealers an opportunity to show prospective purchasers the properties offered for sale.

Ebert, Walker & McKnight advise that as soon as weather conditions are right, a large party of Iowans will come to Duluth with the view to looking over St. Louis county farm lands. This firm reports brisk inquiry from outside sources. A number of deals are reported pending.

Actual sales closed by the firm this week were few. For the Northern Real Estate company they sold 120 acres in 58-13 near Norman postoffice to local investors. The land is unimproved and the consideration was about $5 an acre. They have also received earnest money from Bemidji investors on a 200-acre tract in the town of Morrison, Aitkin county, now held by an Iowa man. The selling price is $15 an acre.

* * *

The Locker-Donahue company reports that a number of lots were disposed of during the past week at Cross-by, the new metropolis of the Cuyuna range. Inquiry for this property has been especially strong, they advise.

* * *

Peter Lundin this week sold to Anna Bjork a house and lot on Piedmont avenue, between Cascade and Marks avenues. The consideration was $5,000.

* * *

Sydney Morterud this week purchased from Gini Henldrickson for $1,650, a house and twenty-five-foot lot on the upper side of Fourth street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west.

* * *

The Minnesota Loan & Trust company has sold to Percy S. Kingsley a forty-foot frontage on the west side of Minnesota avenue between St. John and Duluse streets. The price paid was $1,800.

* * *

William R. Wright has disposed of a twenty-five-foot lot on the lower side of Sixth street, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth avenues west to Bert Wiggin for $350. Mr. Wiggin is now putting up a house on the property.

* * *

Mathilda Nelson has purchased a fractional lot fronting twenty-five feet on the upper side of Sixth street, west of Fifty-sixth avenue west from William R. Wright for $250.

* * *

The Grassy Point Land company has sold to Uno Lindstrom for $800 four lots between the Northern Pacific tracks and Grand avenue west, fronting on Raleigh street and Sixty-fourth avenue west.

New Land Companies.

Four new land companies filed articles of incorporation with the register of deeds this week. John B. Arnold and Stella Taylor of Duluth, and W. J. Schultze are named as incorporators. The names of the new concerns are: The Northern Counties Land company, Number One Land company, Number Two Land company and the Cyanite Land company. Each has a capital stock of $10,000 and will have its headquarters in Duluth.

DULUTH STOCK AND GRAIN MARKETS CLOSED

The Duluth Board of Trade was closed today. Yesterday was a general holiday, and it was not deemed worth while to hold the short Saturday session between Good Friday and Sunday. The local grain and stock brokerage offices were also closed today. There were no stock quotations from New York, as that exchange was closed today, as was also that of Boston. The grain exchanges of Chicago and Minneapolis, however, remained open today. The grain markets of Europe closed Thursday afternoon to remain closed until Tuesday morning.

The Minneapolis Commercial West says:

"It seldom happens, at a time when markets are as dull as at present, that there is such a general interest as to the probable course of prices as is now in evidence. And, too, after such a big decline as prices have had in the last six months, there are usually many members of the trade who believe a good reaction is in order. At the present time, however, there are very few people who can see any good in wheat prices at the present level; that is, from a commercial point of view. On the contrary, almost every one who expresses an opinion is pessimistic as to the probable tendency of prices, except only as accidents to the growing crop, or war disturbances in Europe, may have a ridiculous effect.

"The problem that confronts the trade and causes so many persons to wonder if anything can intervene to prevent a still lower price-level, is the immense supply of wheat in this country, and also in other parts of the world; though this country is the depressing factor. Wheat in terminal elevators throughout the Northwest and in farmers' hands, that will certainly be marketed in the near future, amount to approximately 100,000,000 bushels. This wheat has got to be taken care of in the markets before the expiration of the May future. The question in the mind of the trade generally is: Who will carry the load after the liquidation in May wheat? As was said in the Commercial West of last week, the May hedges are probably largely held by persons who sold in other markets; that is, the purchase in Minneapolis was one end of a spread. Therefore, when such long wheat in this market is sold, there must be an equal amount of buying orders ready to absorb the offerings, or the price will seek a level that will be attractive to some class of buyers. There are indications in the Minneapolis market that some holders of the May are going over into July. Should this movement become general, liquidation of May would be offset by the buying of July."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Low Temperatures, Accompanied By Snow, Sends Wheat Up.

Chicago, March 22.—Low temperatures over the winter wheat belt today, though in many sections the cold was accompanied by snow, sent wheat up. The market opened unchanged to ¼@⅜c higher. May started at 90¾c to 90¾c, varying from ¼c off to a like amount up and then rose to 90¾c.

Afterward the market reacted slightly with the close firm at 90½c for May, a net gain of ⅛c.

Firmness was given to corn by unfavorable weather for farm deliveries. May opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 53c to 53¼c and sold up to 53½c.

Later the market eased somewhat because of falling off in Eastern demand and closed firm at 53⅜@53½c for May, a net gain of ¼@⅜c.

Limited offerings sent oats up. May started a shade higher at 33¼c, touched 33⅜@33½c and advanced to 33⅝c.

Packing house buying carried provisions higher. First sales were a shade to 7½c to 10c higher, including May at $20.95 for pork, $10.80@10.85 for lard and $10.87½ to $10.95 for ribs.

OLD RUMOR IS FLATLY DENIED

A persistent rumor has been heard for the last few weeks to the effect that C. A. Marshall, owner of the Lyceum theater and building, is planning to abandon the theater part of the structure and turn the playhouse entirely into the office building class, having a new theater erected for his use.

Within the past few days, coupled with this rumor, there has been another one to the effect that Thomas Furniss, owner of the Arcade, and of the Odeum and Lyric theaters, is about to build a theater on the property at the corner of West First street and Second avenue, in which the road shows would be booked, with Mr. Marshall as manager.

Mr. Furniss could not be reached today in time for The Herald, but Mr. Marshall was. The latter denied most emphatically that there was the least suggestion of fact in connection with it. He says that it would cost $250,000 to turn the Lyceum into a real office building because of the thickness of the walls and the substantial nature of its construction in general. He added, also that never before in the theatrical business have prospects been so bright. Klaw & Erlanger and the Schuberts having united and quit their quarreling and that as the Lyceum is in good odor with each it should get the best kind of bookings. He says that improvements will be made on the building this spring and later on several stories for offices may be added to it, but there is no intention of abandoning the theatrical part of the building.

BOARD OF CONTROL REDUCING BUDGET.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the state board of control today began the task of reducing their budget submitted to the legislature by $1,000,000. The pruning is being done at the request of the appropriations committee.

According to Charles E. Vassely, most of the cut will come in the new building fund, for which $2,464,000 was asked. The mechanical improvement budget, calling for $600,000, also will be sliced.

ODD CASE OF MONOMANIA

Charles H. Richter's Mind Is Unsettled on One Subject Only.

Highly Educated But Thinks "Organized Crime" Pursues Him.

Charles H. Richter, draftsman, employed by the Minnesota Steel company in the Wolvin building, who has used the "want ad" columns of the daily papers to inform the public of a supposed persecution from some imaginary hypnotic source, was today in probate court found to be suffering from mental disease. As he is a non resident, permission must be received from the state board of control before he can be committed to the hospital at Fergus Falls for treatment.

The case is one of the most pitiful and peculiar cases which has ever come to the attention of the probate court. Richter is a college graduate and a highly educated man. He entertains fixed views on science, religion and philosophy which are said to be irrational. Among other things, he stated that he believed that he was being influenced by hypnotic forces have made his food unpalatable and poisonous.

Richter came to Duluth from Paterson, N. J. He claims that the forces of organized and coordinated crime have followed him and that he has been a subject to persecution.

HAS THREE HEADS.

Freak Child Born to Mrs. Palm of Appleton, Wis.

Appleton, Wis., March 22.—A child with three heads was born to Mrs. Louis Palm, of Appleton today. The main head is longer than the other two and is the one closest to the trunk of the body. On top of the main head is a neck, which is mounted by the other two heads.

It is said that the child cannot live, it having been born with a broken spine.

Mrs. Cashin Dies.

Mrs. Mary N. Cashin, mother of John Cashin of West Duluth, a candidate for city commissioner, died this morning, aged 69 years, of old age at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. A. Keeley, 1 West Fifth street. The funeral will be held from the cathedral on Tuesday morning.

Do you imagine that any worthwhile buyer of real estate is going to overlook your ad in this paper? Not unless he is sick abed.

North Butte Mining Company.

Dividend No. 20.

A quarterly dividend of $205,000, being 50 cents per share on the outstanding stock of the company, has been declared out of the surplus earnings, payable April 10, 1913, to the stockholders of record at the close of business on April 4, 1913. The transfer books will be closed from April 5, 1913, to April 21, 1913, both inclusive.

THE DULUTH HERALD'S GREAT SPECIAL NUMBER

WILL READ AS FOLLOWS:

DULUTH, THE CITY OF INDUSTRY

Mammoth Steel Plant and Many Other Factories, With the World's Greatest Iron Mines Close By. Agricultural Development in Adjacent Territory Making Rapid Strides. America's Largest Grain Market. Lumbering and Cheap Water Power. Railroad Center at the Head of the Great Lakes. Coolest City in the Country in Summer. Duluth as a Port Ranks Next to New York. Duluth Is Destined to Be the Biggest City in the Northwest

¶ Principally pictures, with panoramic photographs of the steel plant and Duluth generally, as well as of the Minnesota iron ranges. Six panoramic photographs of Northern Minnesota farms, some of them stretching across one page and others across two pages. Four solid pages of farm pictures. Stories of success by the farmers themselves.

¶ The people of Duluth will send this great newspaper all over the country. It will have an enormous circulation and be the best and most profusely illustrated issue of a newspaper ever published in Minnesota. It will advertise Duluth and Northern Minnesota in every state of the Union, and help to bring in industries and settlers.

¶ To land men this special number offers an unexcelled opportunity to dispose of their lands. Advertising rates: $2 per inch, $70 per quarter page, $130 per half page and $250 per page. Checks should accompany orders from outside the city.

DO NOT DELAY. SEND IN YOUR ORDER NOW AND GET A PREFERRED POSITION IN THE AGRICULTURAL SECTION, WHICH CLOSES EARLY.

OUT MONDAY, MAY 26

¶ Extra copies, 5 cents each. All extra copies must be ordered by May 18, as it will take a week to print this enormous edition, with the exception of the news pages. To print the news section alone on the day of publication will tax the capacity of The Duluth Herald's fast perfecting presses, owing to the tremendous circulation foreshadowed by the orders already in, some of them for thousands of copies.

JAP STORIES OF ANIMAL LIFE

Cat and Toad Take on Form of Women and Work Man's Undoing.

Spectator: The animal stories of the Far East do not constitute a record of attempts, infantile and a little pathetic, to copy human intelligence. Japanese animals realize that the supernatural is their proper sphere, and in this region, whither man cannot follow them, the fox, badger, cat and toad are constantly at work.

The cat and toad are distinctly malevolent; they usually take the forms of beautiful women and work men's undoing in that way. In fact, a man can never be certain whether it is a cat or a woman he has married; at any moment his wife may develop a tail.

The badger plays a sort of general utility part; his roles are inexhaustible. To a priest sitting in his lonely hut in the forest a badger may appear as the Goddess Kwannon riding on a white elephant in a cloud of glory—and all this magnificent display for the sake of the bowl of soup that it is hoped the priest will drop in his astonishment. Another mortal hurrying home at night may meet a Daimyo's vast retinue and thereby be compelled to wait for hours with bowed head by the side of the road—all badger work for badger ends.

For the badger is a humorist with a large appetite. His amusement on summer evenings when otherwise unoccupied is to drum on his stomach with a paw. The wary, of course, are not led astray by a curious droning that they may hear in the thicket, but old gentlemen or diners out returning home in a muddled condition often feel compelled to investigate the affair.

The result of the inquiry is always the same. Last night's guest is found in the morning by the side of the road with an absurd story, and without the box of delicacies that he was taking home to his wife. Among the educated today stories such as these only raise a laugh, but country people and the older generation, whose traditions go back to the days before the Revolution, still cling to the old beliefs.

In the family the grandmother still acts as the jealous guardian of the spirits, looks after their wants, interprets their various manifestations and while protecting us from malicious influences tries to obtain all the good luck that is going.

Perhaps Buddhism, which insists on the unreality of outward form and material things and the oneness of nature, is responsible for the many stories of animals changing into human beings or human beings into animals. Often the change is so chameleon-like that one is left in doubt as to what the organism really is. If a fox chooses to live the greater part of its life as a human being is it a fox or man? In short, when is a fox a fox?

In the garden of an old yeoman family called Kondo, in the Province of Tosa, is a large bamboo grove. In the middle of the grove is a shrine to the family ancestors, and underneath the shrine is a deep hole. Now, when the grandfather of the present owner of the house was a young man there lived in this hole the famous hermit Yosoji. Every day food was sent out from the house and placed before the hole—unless Yosoji came in to eat with the family.

The curious thing about these occasions was that on sitting down to dinner the hermit assumed exactly the same appearance as the master of the house, and no one, not even the wife, when she filled the cups of wine could tell which was her husband. Yosoji used to say that he had already lived about 800 years. The Tokugawa period that was nothing; the Ashikaga and Iojo dynasties he clearly remembered.

On summer evenings or in rainy weather the young people used to collect round the shrine and listen to the stories of the old times. And the hermit, delighted, used to tell, for example, of the battle of Sekigahara of what such-and-such wore, and how he looked; of who fought whom, and so forth. Every one loved these stories and treated Yosoji with great respect.

At the same time he loved a joke, and sometimes when any of the young people of the village or the Kondos' servants teased him he would say: "Oya, I'll make a priest of you." And sure enough before one could say "knife" there somebody was—bald head, clothes, down to the beads and wooden bowl.

However, if the unfortunate one apologized he was forgiven and changed back into his true shape.

When in the house he always appeared as a human being and no one ever saw him in any other guise, but before getting into the bath he used to call out: "Now mind, no one must look." As all were afraid of being turned into something dreadful, nobody ever did.

He wrote a remarkable hand, so much so that the Daimyo of the province asked for a specimen of his penmanship, and it is kept among his household treasures to this day.

However, about the year 1872 Yosoji went up to court to be decorated. No news was heard of him for some time and the family were getting anxious when at last a letter arrived. In it was written the sad news that he had been caught in a fox's trap near a village in the province of Koshu, an event which unfortunately he had no power to foresee. "Since I am thus caught in a hole and likely to die, I take the opportunity of thanking the family for their kindness in the past," etc. This letter, which the family still preserves, is the last that was heard of their guest.

Tourists in Switzerland spend almost $30,000,000 in the hotels, and the annual Swiss revenue from tourists is estimated at $38,000,000.

TWO DISTINCT CYCLONES SWEEP THROUGH OMAHA, LEAVING DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN THEIR PATHS

HEARING WILL BE HELD IN DULUTH ON SATURDAY ON LAWS AS TO FISHING

Joint Committee of Wisconsin and Minnesota to Meet Here.

Desired to Make Laws of the Two States Uniform.

Abolition of the Minnesota Game and Fish Commission Is Urged.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The joint committee from the legislatures of Wisconsin and Minnesota, appointed to propose uniform laws relating to fishing in boundary waters, will take up the Lake Superior fisheries in Duluth at a public hearing in the courthouse Saturday morning, when an opportunity will be given north shore fishermen to present their ideas. The state laws governing fishing in Lake Superior differ in many material points, and the committee wishes to make them uniform. Nets of different sized meshes are allowed at present, and the committee wishes to work out a single set of regulations that will apply in both states. A closed season on herring during the spawning season in the fall is also proposed.

Senator George B. Skogmo of River Falls, Wis., is chairman of the joint committee and Representative John A. Healy of Hibbing is secretary. The other members are as follows: Minnesota—Senator Manley L. Fosseen, Minneapolis; Senator George C. Carpenter, Buffalo; Senator L. O. Cooke,

CANANEA ATTACKED BY STATE TROOPS

Advance Made Simultaneously From Two Directions With Artillery.

Naco, Ariz., March 24.—State troops under Gen. Obregon and Col. Cabral attacked the American mining town of Cananea at 7 o'clock this morning, simultaneously from two directions with artillery and hand grenades, according to advices received here.

SEVENTEEN AT TERRE HAUTE

Tornado Claims That Number of Victims in Indiana City.

More Than Seventy-Five Injured Are Being Cared for.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 24.—Seventeen victims of a tornado which swept the southern part of Terre Haute and Vigo county late last night had been identified today and more than seventy-five injured were being cared for in improvised hospitals. Several more bodies are expected to be found when the ruins of two homes, razed by the storm, have been cleared away.

At the request of Mayor Gerhart, Governor Ralston today ordered out Company B of the Indiana national guard to patrol the devastated district and help in the rescue work.

Telephone messages reaching here from Prairietown, nine miles south, state that nearly every house in town had been destroyed and that many homes between here and that place had been leveled.

Rains Save Some.

Torrential rains accompanied the tornado and probably saved many persons pinned in the wreckage from burning to death, as electric wires and lightning fired the debris at different places.

STORM WIDESPREAD WITH HEAVY DAMAGE

A storm, which reached cyclonic proportions at Omaha, caused about 200 deaths, injured several hundreds of persons, and wrought damage, which it is estimated, from meager reports, will run into the millions.

Wind, rain, dust and sleet storms, accompanied by great electrical manifestations, were reported in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Illinois and Indiana.

At Terre Haute, Ind., fifteen persons were reported dead and scores injured. In Chicago hundreds of windows were broken, frail dwellings blown down and other damage done. Several persons were reported missing.

Loss of life was reported at Ackley, Woodbine, Carroll and Menlo, Iowa, and Yutan and Greenwood, Neb.

Wires went down in every direction. Chicago was isolated for many hours and the telegraph companies reported destruction of wires from Omaha to St. Paul. Owing to the demoralization of the ordinary means of communication, it is believed that many towns not heard from during the night have suffered.

Other towns affected by the storm were Prairieton, Ind.; Ashland, Berlin and Craig, Neb.; Neola, Avoca, Dunlap and Manly, Iowa; Alva, Kan., and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Perth, Ind., a mining town, was practically wiped out, the property loss being estimated at $50,000. Many persons were injured, but no loss of life has been reported.

TEN ARE DEAD IN YUTAN, NEB.

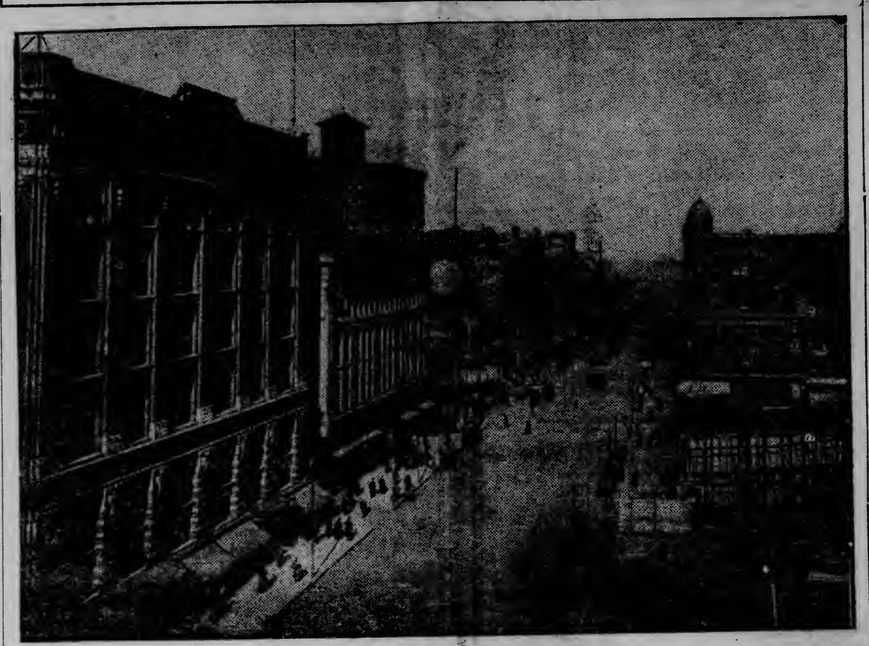
Storm So Sudden People Unable to Reach Cyclone Cellars.

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—Ten persons are known to be dead and it is believed that the list will reach fifteen at Yutan, about thirty-five miles northwest of here where the tornado which later did such havoc at Omaha, first began its destructive work.

The known dead at Yutan:
LITTLE SON OF FRED HEYN.
HENRY SCHEELE.
BABY OF MR. AND MRS. FRED OHM.
A. R. HAMMOND.
MRS. A. R. HAMMOND AND LITTLE SON.
HERMAN STARMAN, postmaster.
MRS. GILSTER.
MRS. WILL BABCOCK AND LITTLE DAUGHTER.
MRS. W. H. STEINBAUGH AND BABY.

Other deaths are reported but not confirmed.

The Injured.



Partial list of injured:
Mrs. Herman Starman, recovery doubtful.
John Heldt, hurt about shoulder and leg.
W. H. Steinbaugh, body badly hurt.
Walter Haden, head cut; bruised.
Mrs. Fred Heyn, seriously hurt.
Child of Herman Starman, leg broken.
Will Swigart, bruised.
Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hammond, leg broken.
Henry Jensen, head cut.

The storm at Yutan broke with such suddenness that residents were unable to reach their tornado cellars.

The furniture store of the village was turned into a morgue and at one time there were ten bodies there.

A relief train with physicians was rushed to Yutan from Lincoln last night and this morning several of the injured were taken to Lincoln hospitals.

APPOINTMENT OF DIPLOMATS

President and Secretary Bryan Will Confer on Latter's Return.

Washington, March 24.—Secretary of State Bryan is due back in Washington from his Western trip Wednesday. The president is expected to be ready to take up with him the appointment of men to at least five diplomatic posts which Washington observers regard as of the most pressing importance. Ambassadors to England, Mexico, Japan, Russia and a minister to China probably will be named within a short time.

The London and Mexican embassies have been looked upon as those which should be filled first because of the Panama free tolls question with Great Britain and troubled conditions of Mexico.

For the Japanese and Russian posts several men are being considered, but it is not believed any final choice has been reached.

John E. Osborn, former governor of Wyoming, was mentioned today as the probable successor to Huntington Wilson as first assistant secretary of state. Mr. Osborne is said to be a close friend of Secretary Bryan and is Democratic national committeeman from his state.

EXTRA SESSION MAY BE PROLONGED

Will Be If Other Questions Besides Tariff Are Considered.

Washington, March 24.—Democrats expressed the view today that the extra session of congress would be a prolonged affair. This was on the assumption that President Wilson would recommend to congress consideration of the currency question as well as perhaps other matters of pressing importance in so far as their discussion would not interfere with the right of way of tariff revision. The president has indicated within the past day or two, that he will urge other needed legislation when the tariff is out of the way. Consideration of currancy and other questions, might carry the session well into the autumn.

Democratic Leader Underwood is known to believe that the tariff will be disposed of in the house by May 1 and by both houses by July 1. Speaker Clark said that if only the tariff were taken up, congress could adjourn the middle of August, while other leaders said tariff revision would be ready for the presidential approval by Aug. 1.

The big problem with which the house ways and means committee majority now is wrestling is the income tax.

AGED WOMAN IS FOUND STARVING

Discovered in Small Prairie Schooner in Which She Was Traveling.

Norfolk, Neb., March 24.—Mrs. Mary Busham, aged 70 years, of Benson county, North Dakota, was found in a famishing condition in a small prairie schooner in which she had driven overland from North Dakota. She was en route to Grand Island, Neb., to care for her orphaned grandchildren. The aged woman drove through the terrible storms of last week, and when found had had nothing to eat for several days. A collection was taken up in this city and she was sent forward by rail. Mrs. Busham traveled about 400 miles in the wagon. The trip was being undertaken as a promise to her husband, who died several months ago and asked his aged wife to go to Grand Island and care for the grandchildren.

LOOKING 'EM OVER.

RELIABLE ESTIMATES OF DEAD ONE HUNDRED AND 240 OR MORE HURT

More Than 150 Residences Destroyed and 250 Damaged By Fierce Winds —Militia Called Out By Governor to Guard the Ruins.

Fire Breaks Out in Ruins and for Some Time It Was Feared Bodies Would Be Consumed — Nine Killed at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Omaha, Neb., March 24.—(Via long distance telephone to Denver.)—Omaha and vicinity was swept by two distinct wind storms late yesterday afternoon, both of cyclonic intensity, which spread death and destruction in their wakes. Fire which broke out in many of the wrecked buildings, added to the horrors.

Reliable reports place the number of dead at fully 100, with 240 injured. More than 150 residences were destroyed and 250 were badly damaged.

The financial loss will be in the hundreds of thousands. The storm did not hit the main business district, but swept a path of four to six blocks wide and more than eight miles long through the residence section.

Governor Morehead has called out the militia to guard the ruins. Federal troops also are on duty.

Nine killed and a score hurt are reported from Council Bluffs.

The first and main storm struck Ralston, three miles west of South Omaha, shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday evening and moved in a northeasterly direction through the city of Omaha.

The only point at which the force of the storm struck the business section was Twenty-fourth and Lake streets. Here the Diamond theater, a moving picture concern, well filled, was wrecked. According to the best available figures at least thirty of its patrons were killed. Between forty and fifty more were killed in the wreckage of a pool hall nearby, which was patronized by negroes.

The well-defined path of the storm ended at Carter Lake, near the Missouri river north of the city.

Fire broke out in the debris and wrecked buildings. Fires burned themselves out except in instances where flames were brought under control by volunteer "bucket brigades."

The second storm swept across the Missouri river about 6:20 p. m. doing considerable damage in Council Bluffs, Iowa. Figures compiled early today pla Iowa. Figures compiled early today placed the number of known dead in Council Bluffs at nine with a score injured.

Many Killed and Injured.

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—One hundred persons were killed, twice as many more were injured, some fatally, by a tornado which devastated Omaha and its environs early last night. It demoralized telegraph and telephone service and cut Omaha from communication with the outside world.

Property damage at Omaha will mount up to the hundreds of thousands.

The tornado swept in from the southwest and zigzagged to the northeast over the residence portion of the city, leaving in its wake destruction and carnage from two to four blocks wide. Fire sprung up all over the area and added to the horror of the twister. Firemen were unable to respond to the numerous alarms and many houses were allowed to burn to the ground.

Soldiers Called Out.

The police were unable to properly police the stricken district and the soldiers from Fort Omaha were called out. The tornado zone soon was practically under martial law.

The villages of Benson, Dundee and Florence, suburbs of Omaha, were practically wiped out. Only the fact that a heavy rain fell for half an hour after the tornado saved the mass of wreckage and many dead bodies from being burned.

The Webster street telephone station which contained a score or more girls was one of the buildings struck by the storm and in a moment was twisted and torn. Several of the girls were killed outright and many others were injured.

Mayor Dahlman of Omaha wired Governor Morehead shortly after midnight for several militia companies to prevent the residences and the dead bodies from being looted. The governor left on a special train for the scene of the disaster shortly after 2.

Suburbs Suffer.

Omaha's suburbs suffered heavily from the storm. Ralston, southwest of Omaha was razed to the ground and a half score or more are dead. East Omaha, which felt the tail of the twister reported houses demolished but no lives lost. Council Bluffs, Iowa, suffered nine dead. A score or more injured and great damage to property.

The worst damage was done and the largest toll of lives was exacted in the western part of Omaha and in the vicinity of Twenty-fourth and Lake and from there northeast to Sixteenth and

KNOWN DEAD AND INJURED

Now Claimed More Than One Hundred Lives Were Lost.

Property Damage Is Estimated in Excess of $12,000,000.

Chicago, March 24.—The Western Union Telegraph company has been advised by its Omaha office that the damage from the tornado will amount to more than $12,000,000, and that more than 100 lives were lost.

If I am elected to the commission, it will be my earnest endeavor to give the city a good, clean, business administration.

Twenty years of service in the city engineer's office gave me a knowledge of the city's needs that will be invaluable in the office of commissioner.

My stand on the eight-hour day has been misunderstood. I am in favor of an eight-hour day on all city work at the current and usual wages prevailing at the time the work is performed.

LEGAL AID FOR THE POOR

New Department Is Preventing Much Suffering in Duluth.

Courtenay E. Dinwiddie is authority for the statement that the newly established legal department in which poor people can get advice and legal assistance free, is one of the greatest successes that has yet been attempted in any line in connection with relief work for such people. Frank Hicks, who was appointed a probation officer, was also, because of his well-known legal ability, given charge of the legal department. It was established tentatively last January, but as such things are slow in becoming known no real results could be obtained until recently. During the present month, Mr. Dinwiddie said today, the work has spread amazingly, and much real good has been shown in connection with it. Many cases are brought to the attention of the authorities in charge and the bureau has obtained a wide clientele.

The establishment of the bureau was the result of the visit here last fall of Mr. Billikopf of Kansas City. The department had been established there. More recently it has spread in Kansas because of the demonstration of its practical usefulness. A dispatch from Topeka, Kan., says:

"Kansas has taken the lead in many things, and it has taken the lead again in the new law creating what are known as small debtors' courts, the first courts of the kind established in this country. In England and Germany courts of this nature, where lawyers and legal technicalities are barred from meddling, have been in operation for years, and it was from these that Kansas got the idea. The purpose is to remove from the regular courts the work of collecting small debts owing to hard-working people, especially by those who pose as well-to-do, but who are actually 'deadbeats' when it comes to paying small debts.

An Example.

"Here is an example of the need of the new court:

"In Topeka there is a man who owns a motor boat and who is supposedly very rich. But he owes a woman $1.50 for washing his clothing for a month and has refused to pay. The woman supports three children by doing washing, and it takes every cent she makes to properly clothe and feed them and pay the installments on the little home purchased from the husband's insurance money.

"For this woman to go into court and collect what is really due her would require her to pay $10 to a lawyer as a retainer, $7.50 as a cash bond for the costs, and then all she would have would be a summons on the man to appear in court. There would be witnesses to pay, additional court costs and more fees for her attorney before there could be a judgment, and then there might be applications for a new trial and an appeal to a higher court, and more costs and more attorney fees.

"But the little debtors' court will stop this. The county commissioners or the city commissioners are to appoint the judge of the court. He need not be a lawyer, but it is required that he must be a man in full sympathy with the down-trodden and weak. There can be no costs and the court sessions may be held in the home or the office of the judge or in an office provided by the appointing power. No claim exceeding $20 can be entertained in this court. No claim can be entertained unless it is conclusively shown that to go into another court the attendant fees would work an actual hardship on the debtor. The plaintiff must appear in person and tell his or her story and make the showing required. There are to be no written pleadings or petitions.

Meet the Judge.

"The plaintiff and defendant are to meet the judge and tell their stories and the judge is to make his decision according to justice. There can be an appeal from the debtors' court, but when one is taken the appellant must furnish sufficient bonds for all the costs and all the attorney fees. If no appeal is taken and the defendant fails to pay the costs the judgment is to be certified to the sheriff, who is to go out and collect it, together with his fees.

"Under the law creating the court the judge must serve without pay, fee or award, and there is an express prohibition against any lawyer or any other person than the plaintiff and defendant appearing in or intermeddling with the affairs of the court. There are to be no witnesses, no formalities, no lawyers, no fees, no technicalities in this little court.

"The judge himself may go out and investigate a case, or he may call in people who might throw light on the matter and to get the exact facts in the case in order that he may 'give judgment according to the very right of the cause,' as the law itself specifically provides.

"The little court was created just to fit such cases as that of the Topeka laundry women, the laboring man who washes windows and cleans up the lawn, the tailor who presses a suit of clothes, and similar cases where it would be an injustice for one party to have to pay fees and an attorney to get justice when the expenses would be more than the total claim. There are thousands of these little claims throughout the state. If it is a case of one poor man or woman against another the judge may arrange terms of payment where there should not be a hardship on either and the debt would be paid. The law goes into effect with the publication of the new statute book about May 20, so the first judge will be named about June 1."

OBITUARY

John Dean Browne, for thirty-three years president of the Connecticut Fire Insurance company, died March 23 at Hartford, Conn., of apoplexy, aged 75. In his early life he was a resident of St. Paul, and enlisted in the Seventh regiment Minnesota volunteers, at the outbreak of the Civil war. He had the honor of carrying the first electoral vote from Minnesota to Washington. It was for Abraham Lincoln.

Samuel Judson Roberts, owner and editor of the Lexington Leader and for many years a Republican leader in Central Kentucky, died March 23 at Lexington, Ky., from blood poisoning following an operation for ingrowing toe nail. Mr. Roberts was for many years collector of internal revenue for the Seventh district. He was born in Canton, Ohio, Feb. 11, 1858.

Frederick W. Devoe, one of the pioneers in the paint manufacturing industry of the country, died in New York March 22, in his 85th year.

Pierre Wibaux, president of the First State National bank of Miles City, Mont., at one time the largest individual owner of cattle in the United States, and after whom the town of Wibaux was named, died March 22.

Cardinal Peter Respighi, vicar general to the pope, died March 22. He was 70 years old and was born in Bologna. Pope Pius has not been told of his death, as the Vatican authorities did not wish to cause his holiness grief on Easter eve.

Superior

Vote on Utilities.

It was announced Saturday afternoon that the question of purchasing the water and light company will be placed before the voters of the city at the spring election next month. Several petitions now in circulation have influenced the city commission to this decision.

FIFTY-TWO LINEMEN LEAVE

Go to Omaha to Help Repair Cyclone Damage.

Fifty-two linesmen from Duluth and the ranges left Duluth this afternoon at 1:55 for Omaha to help in the work of repairing the telephone wires that were blown down by the cyclone.

The company sent out a hurry call for all available men and the local company collected fifty-two from this territory.

ONE PERSON IS KILLED IN CHICAGO

Eighty-Seven Injured in Severe Storm in Windy City.

Chicago, March 24.—One person is known to have been killed and eighty-seven injured, for the most part slightly, in a severe wind and rain storm, which broke over the city early this morning. Fully a score of houses were blown over and others were moved from their foundations, roofs and porches were torn off and in several instances lightning set fire to the structures.

The one death reported to the police was that of Oral Slocombe, a 12-year-old boy, who was crushed to death. His home was blown against an adjoining structure and collapsed.

Buildings Moved.

Peoria, Ill., March 24.—A terrific storm struck Galesburg this morning. Several buildings were moved from their foundations.

Two Killed at Des Plaines.

Des Plaines, Ill., March 24.—Two men were killed, one injured seriously today when a chimney of a manufacturing plant was blown on the caboose of a Soo line freight train.

The dead:

CLYDE ROGERS, brakeman, Fond du Lac, Wis.

FRANK SHERIDAN, brakeman, Fond du Lac, Wis.

Frank Zeihms, Des Plaines, Ill., conductor, was seriously injured when the falling mass of bricks crushed the caboose as if it were made of paper.

Moline Girl Killed.

Sterling, Ill., March 24.—Lulu Ellison, 19 years old, of Moline, was killed last night in the storm which swept the southern part of this county. The home of her uncle, Jesse Miller, near Erie, was demolished. Other members of the Miller family escaped injury.

DULUTH DRUGGIST MAKES A STATEMENT

We always advise people who have stomach or bowel trouble to see a doctor. But to those who do not wish to do this we will say: try the mixture of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This simple new remedy is so powerful that JUST ONE DOSE usually relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation QUICKLY. People who try Adler-i-ka are surprised at its QUICK action. W. A. HER HUSBAND GETS $1,500,000 AS HIS SHARE OF HIS FATHER'S ESTATE

MRS. JACK CUDAHY.

Mrs. Jack Cudahy was the center of a controversy concerning the distribution of the estate of Michael Cudahy which has been compromised by paying her husband $1,500,000. Jack Cudahy was disinherited by his father on account of his domestic troubles. He opened negotiations with his family through attorneys and succeeded in getting a big slice of the estate. Cudahy divorced his wife some years ago on account of Jere Lillis, whom he found in his home at Kansas City. But he has acknowledged since that he was in the wrong and has remarried his wife.

LEGAL AID FOR THE POOR

New Department Is Preventing Much Suffering in Duluth.

Courtenay E. Dinwiddie is authority for the statement that the newly established legal department in which poor people can get advice and legal assistance free, is one of the greatest successes that has yet been attempted in any line in connection with relief work for such people. Frank Hicks, who was appointed a probation officer, was also, because of his well-known legal ability, given charge of the legal department. It was established tentatively last January, but as such things are slow in becoming known no real results could be obtained until recently. During the present month, Mr. Dinwiddie said today, the work has spread amazingly, and much real good has been shown in connection with it. Many cases are brought to the attention of the authorities in charge and the bureau has obtained a wide clientele.

The establishment of the bureau was the result of the visit here last fall of Mr. Billikopf of Kansas City. The department had been established there. More recently it has spread in Kansas because of the demonstration of its practical usefulness. A dispatch from Topeka, Kan., says:

"Kansas has taken the lead in many things, and it has taken the lead again in the new law creating what are known as small debtors' courts, the first courts of the kind established in this country. In England and Germany courts of this nature, where lawyers and legal technicalities are barred from meddling, have been in operation for years, and it was from these that Kansas got the idea. The purpose is to remove from the regular courts the work of collecting small debts owing to hard-working people, especially by those who pose as well-to-do, but who are actually 'deadbeats' when it comes to paying small debts.

An Example.

"Here is an example of the need of the new court:

"In Topeka there is a man who owns a motor boat and who is supposedly very rich. But he owes a woman $4.50 for washing his clothing for a month and has refused to pay. The woman supports three children by doing washing, and it takes every cent she makes to properly clothe and feed them and pay the installments on the little home purchased from the husband's insurance money.

"For this woman to go into court and collect what is really due her would require her to pay $10 to a lawyer as a retainer, $7.50 as a cash bond for the costs, and then all she would have would be a summons on the man to appear in court. There would be witnesses to pay, additional court costs and more fees for her attorney before there could be a judgment, and then there might be applications for a new trial and an appeal to a higher court, and more costs and more attorney fees.

"But the little debtors' court will stop this. The county commissioners or the city commissioners are to appoint the judge of the court. He need not be a lawyer, but it is required that he must be a man in full sympathy with the down-trodden and weak. There can be no costs and the court sessions may be held in the home or the office of the judge or in an office provided by the appointing power. No claim exceeding $20 can be entertained in this court. No claim can be entertained unless it is conclusively shown that to go into another court the attendant fees would work an actual hardship on the debtor. The plaintiff must appear in person and tell his or her story and make the showing required. There are to be no written pleadings or petitions.

Meet the Judge.

"The plaintiff and defendant are to meet the judge and tell their stories and the judge is to make his decision according to justice. There can be an appeal from the debtors' court, but when one is taken the appellant must furnish sufficient bonds for all the costs and all the attorney fees. If no appeal is taken and the defendant fails to pay the costs the judgment is to be certified to the sheriff, who is to go out and collect it, together with his fees.

"Under the law creating the court the judge must serve without pay, fee or award, and there is an express prohibition against any lawyer or any other person than the plaintiff and defendant appearing in or intermeddling with the affairs of the court. There are to be no witnesses, no formalities, no lawyers, no fees, no technicalities in this little court.

"The judge himself may go out and investigate a case, or he may call in people who might throw light on the matter and to get the exact facts in the case in order that he may 'give judgment according to the very right of the cause,' as the law itself specifically provides.

"The little court was created just to fit such cases as that of the Topeka laundry women, the laboring man who washes windows and cleans up the lawn, the tailor who presses a suit of clothes, and similar cases where it would be an injustice for one party to have to pay fees and an attorney to get justice when the expenses would be more than the total claim. There are thousands of these little claims throughout the state. If it is a case of one poor man or woman against another the judge may arrange terms of payment where there should not be a hardship on either and the debt would be paid. The law goes into effect with the publication of the new statute book about May 29, so the first judge will be named about June 1."

OBITUARY

John Dean Browne, for thirty-three years president of the Connecticut Fire Insurance company, died March 23 at Hartford, Conn., of apoplexy, aged 75. In his early life he was a resident of St. Paul, and enlisted in the Seventh regiment Minnesota volunteers, at the outbreak of the Civil war. He had the honor of carrying the first electoral vote from Minnesota to Washington. It was for Abraham Lincoln.

Samuel Judson Roberts, owner and editor of the Lexington Leader and for many years a Republican leader in Central Kentucky, died March 22 at Lexington, Ky., from blood poisoning following an operation for ingrowing toe nail. Mr. Roberts was for many years collector of internal revenue for the Seventh district. He was born in Canton, Ohio, Feb. 11, 1858.

Frederick W. Devoe, one of the pioneers in the paint manufacturing industry of the country, died in New York March 22, in his 85th year.

Pierre Wibaux, president of the First State National bank of Miles City, Mont., at one time the largest individual owner of cattle in the United States, and after whom the town of Wibaux was named, died March 22.

Cardinal Peter Respighi, vicar general to the pope, died March 22. He was 70 years old and was born in Bologna. Pope Pius has not been told of his death, as the Vatican authorities did not wish to cause his holiness grief on Easter eve.

Superior

Vote on Utilities.

It was announced Saturday afternoon that the question of purchasing the water and light company will be placed before the voters of the city at the spring election next month. Several petitions now in circulation have influenced the city commission to this decision.

Ministers' Banquet.

The Superior Ministerial association will hold its annual banquet this evening at the Hotel Superior. The banquet is to be a farewell dinner to Rev. Harry Burns, who will leave this week for Oshkosh. Rev. Mr. Burns preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning.

Annual Election.

The East end chamber of commerce will hold its annual election of officers this evening at the Dewey school. Nominees were selected two weeks ago and final choices will be made today.

Policemen's Ball.

The annual ball of the Superior police for the benefit of the relief fund will be held this evening at the Sacred Heart auditorium. Nearly 700 tickets have been sold and a record crowd is expected by those in charge.

Will Approve Plans.

The board of education will meet Wednesday afternoon and decide on the plans and specifications for the Hatt-Cummings school addition. It is expected that the contract will be awarded at the same time.

Prof. Phelan to Speak.

Prof. Raymond Phelan of the University of Minnesota will be the principal speaker tomorrow afternoon before the Public Welfare society at the Commercial club. Prof. Phelan is a member of the extension department faculty of the university.

Musica Has Heart Trouble.

New Orleans, La., March 24.—Antonio Musica of New York, who was placed in jail here last week with three sons, charged with defrauding a New York banker of a large sum of money, suffered a severe heart attack in the jail today and his condition is reported serious.

FIFTY-TWO LINEMEN LEAVE

Fifty-two linesmen from Duluth and the ranges left Duluth this afternoon at 1:55 for Omaha to help in the work of repairing the telephone wires that were blown down by the cyclone.

The company sent out a hurry call for all available men and the local company collected fifty-two from this territory.

ONE PERSON IS KILLED IN CHICAGO

Eighty-Seven Injured in Severe Storm in Windy City.

Chicago, March 24.—One person is known to have been killed and eighty-seven injured, for the most part slightly, in a severe wind and rain storm, which broke over the city early this morning. Fully a score of houses were blown over and others were moved from their foundations, roofs and porches were torn off and in several instances lightning set fire to the structures.

The one death reported to the police was that of Oral Slocombe, a 12-year-old boy, who was crushed to death. His home was blown against an adjoining structure and collapsed.

Buildings Moved.

Peoria, Ill., March 24.—A terrific storm struck Galesburg this morning. Several buildings were moved from their foundations.

Two Killed at Des Plaines.

Des Plaines, Ill., March 24.—Two men were killed, one injured seriously today when a chimney of a manufacturing plant was blown on the caboose of a 800 line freight train.

The dead:

CLYDE ROGERS, brakeman, Fond du Lac, Wis.

FRANK SHERIDAN, brakeman, Fond du Lac, Wis.

Frank Zelhms, Des Plaines, Ill., conductor, was seriously injured when the falling mass of bricks crushed the caboose as if it were made of paper.

Moline Girl Killed.

Sterling, Ill., March 24.—Lulu Ellison, 19 years old, of Moline, was killed last night in the storm which swept the southern part of this county. The home of her uncle, Jesse Miller, near Erie, was demolished. Other members of the Miller family escaped injury.

THE PERIL OF THE LABOR UNIONS

We reject, we must reject altogether, says the March Century, editorially, the assumption that organized labor as a whole, the industrious, law-abiding laborers who make up the mass of union membership in this country, are in sympathy with the crimes of the dynamiters. To believe that would be to believe that a very considerable part of every community in the country is lost in depravity and barbarism. Organized labor was betrayed by the McNamaras. Betrayed by the other demons of the iron workers' union; it has been, and is, betrayed by all and several who seek to establish union supremacy upon the graves of men who were the support of women and children now left destitute, upon the ruins of costly structures they have destroyed, or upon the bankruptcy of business houses they have assailed with their boycotts. But it is doubly betrayed by the false leaders who make of their refusal to denounce these crimes a virtue and a boasted evidence of their loyalty to labor.

The judge who presided at the Indianapolis trials declared upon the bench that he should have no hope for this country if he were compelled to believe "that organized labor stands for the things that have been shown here." But for the sympathy and helping hand of society, not for the immense gains of the general mass of men, labor in this country would never have come into its present condition of

MRS. JACK CUDAHY.

Mrs. Jack Cudahy was the center of a controversy concerning the distribution of the estate of Michael Cudahy which has been compromised by paying her husband $1,500,000. Jack Cudahy was disinherited by his father on account of his domestic troubles. He opened negotiations with his family through attorneys and succeeded in getting a big slice of the estate. Cudahy divorced his wife some years ago on account of Jere Lillis, whom he found in his home at Kansas City, but he has acknowledged since that he was in the wrong and has remarried his wife.

DULUTH DRUGGIST MAKES A STATEMENT

We always advise people who have stomach or bowel trouble to see a doctor. But to those who do not wish to do this we will say: try the mixture of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This simple new remedy is so powerful that JUST ONE DOSE usually relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation QUICKLY. People who try Adler-i-ka are surprised at its QUICK action. W. A. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Chief Troyer of efforts which the Chinamen had made to be "smart" and to make love to them when they went into the chop suey alone. This was after they had been instrumental in securing the arrest of John Mandel, a negro bootblack, on a white slave charge.

When they detailed what had happened on previous visits the chief directed them to go back to the Tuxedo and let the Chinese go far enough so that they could ascertain what they would do. They made their first visit about 9 o'clock and the witness stated that proffers of an appointment were forthcoming. She stated that Lee gave Dorothy his card and told her that they could get a room at the St. James. They did not go to the hotel then, but returned later, about 10 o'clock. She stated that Lee told them to come back to get a key. Instead of a key they got another card with Lee's name on the face of it. She asserted that the name of Henry Miller was written on the back of it, with the words, "For a good room."

She said that they gave the card to Miller and that he showed them to rooms 43 and 41, which had a door opening from one to another. As it was far too early for the Chinese to appear they went to a downtown dance, where they remained until about 12 o'clock. From the dance they went back to the chop suey. There they were offered lunch but did not eat, as they were not hungry. About 12:15 she testified that they returned to their rooms at the St. James, where they sat about with their hats off until 2:30 or 3 a. m.

She stated that the Chinamen put in their appearance about that time. She said that she saw Miller standing in the hall when Lee and Kin Sue walked into the room. From their pockets she asserted that they took four bottles of beer, two bottles of whisky and some cigarettes. Both removed their overcoats and one his undercoat and vest. One was described as pouring a drink of whisky into a glass when the arrest was made by a policeman who had been placed in a room across the hall.

The girl was asked by B. M. Goldberg, Miller's attorney, about any arrangements she had made with the police relative to remuneration. She said that they had been told that she and Dorothy would be paid for their work, but that there was nothing said about any compensation for securing a conviction. She understood that they would be paid, no matter what the outcome of the case, and that she did not know who Miller was before she went to the St. James to keep the appointment with the Chinese.

Considerable excitement was created on Superior street about 8 o'clock last evening when the report spread that the St. Louis hotel was on fire.

The basis of it was a small blaze at the top of the shaft of the freight elevator, caused by a short circuit, which burned a couple of boards.

Several companies of the fire department responded and squelched the indolent blaze without trouble. But the apparatus and the hose stretched across the street car tracks tied up street car traffic for about fifteen minutes.

Alex McCauley, 60 years old, may owe his possession of a roll of $112 to the fact that he was arrested Saturday afternoon. He was picked up in the Union station in an intoxicated condition and sent to headquarters. He stated in police court this morning that he was on his way to Minneapolis and sentence was suspended. The old man would have been rich pickings for some of the sharks who hang about the Bowery.

Fire of unknown origin caused a loss of about $100 to the rooming house run by Mrs. O. McLean at 209 West Third street, about 1:30 this morning. The house is owned by the First Methodist church. Several women roomers were compelled to flee in scanty attire but found immediate shelter in nearby houses.

A policeman saw John McDonald brace several pedestrians Saturday night for the price of a bed and locked him up on a charge of begging. He pleaded guilty today and got $5 and costs or five days in the county jail.

Frank Wilk, released Saturday morning on a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct, was arrested again Saturday night on the same charge. The police said he was a participant in a saloon brawl. He pleaded guilty and got $10 and costs or ten days.

"CANNED GOODS" WEEK

Wholesalers and Retailers Will Co-Operate With Manufacturers to Educate Housewives.

March 31 to April 6 will be "canned goods" week in Duluth.

A big canning exhibit will be put on here by the canned goods manufacturers and dealers of the country, under the auspices of the Duluth wholesalers and retailers.

It is designed to make the week one of education to Zenith City housewives. Special efforts will be made to show Duluth women how to solve the question of easy meals at reasonable cost.

Exhibitors will explain the process of canning, sanitary methods used in factories, and the economy that can be practised by purchasing canned fruits and vegetables instead of resorting to the expensive and somewhat wearying work of home preparation.

The week will be one full of explanation on household economy and labor-saving hints, which will mean much to the woman whose household cares are numerous and exacting. She will be shown that a practical canned goods addition to her larder will eliminate much of the worry and toil to which she has been accustomed.

In these days of the high cost of living, an exhibit such as is planned by the Duluth merchants, will be taken advantage of by the prudent housewife. She will find much of real interest in the canned goods show which the manufacturers of the country have prepared for her benefit.

She will be given information as to the food which daily graces her table, and also on preparation, sanitary methods and kitchen cleanliness that will give valuable hints to the oldest and most prudent housekeepers, as well as to the youngest and most inexperienced.

In the last few years, the methods of factory preparation have undergone many radical changes. There is now a standard of perfect sanitation which is impossible to attain in the most tidy and immaculate kitchen of any home.

Duluth merchants will make special efforts to urge local housewives to introduce prepared foods into their homes. There is no greater boon to the housekeeper, they say, than the thought that her shelves are well stocked with provisions against the unexpected guest or other emergencies that may bring about a sudden change in the menu of the day.

There are many other things that will be of interest to the careful housekeeper and it behooves her to keep her eye open for suggestions which are bound to help her keep down the high cost of living.

HAVE FRIENDS IN OMAHA

Many Duluthians Anxiously Awaiting News From Stricken City.

Linemen Go From Here to Help Repair the Damage.

Meager reports from the stricken city of Omaha, which was swept last night by a terrific tornado of snow and sleet, have failed to satisfy anxious Duluthians who have friends and relatives there.

Omaha's isolation from the outside world and the difficulty in getting first hand news from there have caused anxious ones to be held in suspense. The Herald office has been stormed with telephone calls for information as the latest reports from the Nebraska city.

A number of Duluthians are known to be in Omaha. Mrs. W. C. McCarter and three children of this city have been visiting there for the past few days. Dr. C. E. Lum has a brother there.

A number of former Duluth newspaper men have gone to Omaha within the last few months, among them being: Thomas V. O'Toole, George W. Preston, Richard Garrington, E. Wilson and Emil Neusbaum.

Both telegraph companies, the Western Union and the North American, are today dispatching linemen to the scene of the storm-swept district, where there has been a great destruction of wires and demoralization of all means of communication.

JURY CASES ARE BEING TRIED

Judge Martin Hughes Relieves Judge Dibell in District Court.

Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing arrived late this morning to take the place of Judge Dibell in district court here. Shortly before noon the drawing of a jury in the suit of Lena Roswald against Patrick Hines, charging trespass and the despoilage of timber on forty acres of land belonging to her in 13, 61-17, was begun in his court. The suit will likely not get to trial before late this afternoon or first thing tomorrow morning.

Before Judge Dancer the trial of the case of Victor Stromberg against the Duluth & Iron Range road so far as the actual testimony was concerned, ended before Judge Dancer this morning. The jury was excused for a few minutes during which a motion was made for a directed verdict and was refused. It was so close to noon, however, when the arguments on the motion were finished that the court adjourned until this afternoon. The case is now being presented to the jury. This is one of the old cases of demanding damage for setting fire to wood during the burning of the Knox location in 1910, which fire it is claimed in the suit, was caused by sparks from a locomotive of the defendant company. The plaintiff in this case demands $6,858.

In Judge Ensign's room the time is occupied today with the drawing of a jury in the suit of Andrew Ekelund against the Northern Pacific and James W. Ross, a brakeman of the road. It is claimed that the plaintiff was invited to ride on the night Northern Pacific train from Minneapolis to Duluth, but when the brakeman found that there was no money forthcoming the plaintiff claims, he was thrown off and severely injured. He asks damage to assuage his bodily and mental injuries.

LAST CHANCE TO WITHDRAW

Candidates May Pull Out of Race Up to Wednesday Night.

Wednesday of this week is the last day on which candidates for the commission may withdraw from the race. Candidates who do not want their names to go on the ballot must file with the city clerk on Wednesday on or before a written notice of withdrawal.

Tomorrow evening, City Clerk C. S. Palmer will start his school for election judges at the city hall. The school will run three evenings and all judges have been notified to appear on at least one evening to receive instructions as to the counting, tallying and reporting of the vote.

Mr. Palmer is anxious that the vote be counted accurately and as expeditiously as possible and has arranged his school for judges in order to take every precaution against mistakes. He will have charts, sample ballots, tally sheets and report blanks and will give detailed instructions. He will also be prepared to answer any questions the judges may ask.

On account of the large number of candidates and the prospect of a close vote, it will be necessary to have all precincts reported before any definite result of the election may be determined. The clerk will impress upon judges the necessity of reporting the results in their precincts as rapidly as possible, consistent with careful and accurate tallying, in order that the announcement of the results may be delayed no longer than is absolutely necessary.

No Decisions in Big Cases.

Heating that brings tenants

"The house that's so often untenanted."

The original owner had liberal ideas—big, airy rooms; plenty of big windows to let in the light and wholesome sunshine; and big, arched openings between the rooms instead of cumbersome doors. But he made the one big mistake—he put in old-fashioned heating—and he and every succeeding owner and tenant has found the place "big and barny"—so full of chill corners, drafty passageways and cold floors. In thousands of such houses formerly handicapped by old-fashioned heating it has since been proved that the one unfailing way to cure houses of cold and lack of tenants is to put in an outfit of

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

For the 3-room bungalow up to the largest mansion or public building, we make IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators in every size and kind exactly suited to the needs and incomes of wage-earner, salaried man, farmer, or man of investments.

A No. 2-22-S IDEAL Boiler and 350 sq. feet of 38-inch AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $210 were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include costs of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

IDEAL Boilers are made in different forms to burn to highest heating advantage hard or soft coals, screenings, pea-coal, run-of-mine, coke, wood, oil, gas, etc. Their heating capacities and economies are figured from scientific standards—fuel-holding capacity; fire and flue-heating surfaces and their position (around and over the fire); time each fuel charge will last; draft and check-damper heat regulation, etc. These things are absolutely known, so that he who pays the fuel bills can be sure to get the highest possible heating results and economies from every pound of fuel—and with the simplest care-taking.

If you have a home, office, store, church, school, theater, bank, hotel, flats, etc., that is lacking in cozy warmth, let us send you our full story of cleanly, healthful, long-lasting IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators. Ask for book (free): "Ideal Heating."

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators keep a new house new and cause an old house to have its life and value prolonged.

We have also brought out the first genuinely practical, automatic, durable Vacuum Cleaner. ALL the dirt and trash are drawn from the rooms through small iron suction pipe leading to big, sealed dust-bucket in cellar. Attach hose to iron suction pipe opening in baseboard of any room, turn an electric button to start the machine in cellar, and with a few gentle strokes of the hollow, magical ARCO WAND, you instantly and thoroughly clean carpets, rugs, floor, walls, ceiling, draperies, moldings, mattresses, drawers, corners, crevices, etc. Put with ease into any old or new dwelling or building. Costs little monthly for electricity to run. Ask for catalog of ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner.

Sold by all dealers.

BIG PERMIT FOR ORE DOCK

Most Costly Structure in Duluth Since the Steel Plant.

Missabe Road Pays $765 to City for Permission to Build.

The biggest building permit since that of $10,000,000 for the steel plant, was issued to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad this morning for the new ore dock which is being built at the foot of Thirty-second avenue west.

The permit taken out this morning at the office of Building Inspector S. M. Kielley gives the cost of the dock at $1,500,000. It will probably remain the record permit for the year. The fee paid by the company was $765.

The ore dock will be one of the largest and most modern in the world. It will be equipped with all the latest improvements and will be a valuable and important addition to the ore docks which have been established at the same location for years. The D. M. & N. is a subsidiary of the Steel corporation, as is the Minnesota Steel company, to which was issued the $10,000,000 permit for the steel plant which is now going up near New Duluth.

LOSES SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Anna Nelson Fails to Recover From M. M. Gasser Company.

Anna Nelson, guardian for Lawrence Nelson, her 5-year-old son, has lost out in her suit for $10,000 damages against the M. M. Gasser company for injuries to the boy. The jury returned a sealed verdict on Saturday night and when it was opened in Judge Ensign's court this morning it was found to be in favor of the defendant.

Last November one day, while the little fellow was playing in the yard of a neighbor at Thirteenth avenue west, a wagon of the company, driven by Einar Jensen, backing in to deliver goods, ran over the little chap and, it is claimed, injured him most severely. It is claimed that the boy will be a cripple for life.

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Ointment Ends Itching and Heals Eruptions.

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of all impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol positively heals eczema, rashes, ringworm and other eruptions, and clears away disfiguring pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at our expense. Just write to Dept. 11-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you a generous trial by parcel post.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The revival meetings at the First Christian church yesterday were largely attended, and there were several added to the church. Fifteen were baptized at the close of the evening service.

The meetings will continue every night this week, Saturday excepted, at 8 o'clock. Tonight Evangelist Robert Whiston will speak upon "The Man on the Fence." The large chorus will assist each night and new chorus work will be introduced. Mr. Whiston's sermon last night was on "Sowing and Reaping." It was a striking and vivid portrayal of the law of restribution in human history. The evangelist said in part:

"Sincerity is no criterion of truth, for one may be equally sincere in doing wrong as in doing right. The truth is a higher law than those of sincerity and conscience. Whether one violates law in ignorance or with sincere purpose he must pay the penalty of violated law. Drink a cup of poison and you die. Does God interfere? No. Touch a live wire and you die. Does God interfere? No. Break the laws that control your spiritual destiny and you are lost. Does God interfere? No. If God does not interfere here with the carrying out of law he won't interfere through eternity."

AUTOS ARE DESTROYED

Fifteen Machines Burned in Fire Starting in Blacksmith Shop.

Total Loss Is About $50,000, Partly Covered By Insurance.

Fire of possible incendiary origin which broke out about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the rear of Devaney & Jordan's blacksmith shop at 20 North First avenue west, caused a loss of $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

Fifteen automobiles and a number of carriages and wagons, estimated to be worth $40,000, were burned, the building was practically destroyed, and the adjoining stable damaged, adding $10,000 to $15,000 to the loss.

The automobiles represent the greatest loss. They were owned by Chester A. Congdon, Henry Bridgeman, A. B. Coates of Virginia, Arthur H. Crassweller, Murdock McDonald of Virginia, Frank Hoch, W. H. Locker, Frank Russell, A. L. Miles, A. H. Comstock, Carlo Mainello, Northwestern Cadillac company and the Peerless laundry.

Devaney & Jordan place their loss at $5,000, covered by $3,000 of insurance. W. H. Luhm, carriage, wagon, automobile and sign painter, who occupied the second floor of the building, places his loss at $2,000, covered by $500 insurance.

Twenty-one horses of Barrett & Zimmerman, which were in the stable adjoining the blacksmith shop, were liberated with difficulty. Some of them scattered about the streets and were rounded up only after considerable trouble. The principal damage to the stable, managed by Dan Horgan, was by falling walls. Mr. Horgan estimates his loss at $500.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but the officials of the department incline to the belief that it was of incendiary origin. It was discovered in the rear of the blacksmith shop about 3:30. Patrolman Smollet said last night that he passed there about ten or fifteen minutes earlier but saw nothing to indicate that the building was on fire.

The flames spread with great rapidity. They were fed by the highly combustible oils and paints, cans or barrels of which exploded at intervals while the fire was at its height, greatly increasing the hazard of the firemen, who responded to the alarm from four stations. A dozen streams of water were poured into the burning building.

By strenuous efforts the firefighters prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining structures. Scores of people who were in the Pearson block, First avenue west and First street, fled in their nightclothes. They sought temporary shelter in the Frederick hotel, across the street. All returned to their rooms when the danger was past, none the worse for their scare.

Fargo to Vote Commission.

Fargo, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The commission form of government will carry in Fargo April 7, but not by the large majority that was predicted a few weeks ago. The reasons, it is said, are the opposition of Mayor Sweet and his friends and the efforts of the labor leaders to secure a delay on the vote for the members of the commission.

TWO CYCLONES SWEEP THROUGH OMAHA

Binney. This is the residence portion and the destruction wrought was well nigh appalling. Whole blocks of homes were picked up and dashed into a shapeless mass. Street cars were hurled from the track and demolished.

A moving picture show at Twenty-fourth and Lake was destroyed. Ten dead and eight injured have thus far been removed from the ruins. About fifty persons were in the theater at the time of the disaster and it is feared that most of these are buried in the debris.

Bemis Park Razed.

Bemis Park, one of the prettiest residence districts in Omaha, was razed and fires dotted the park, completing the destructive work of the tornado.

Among the show places of the city damaged was the Joslyn Castle. The roof was torn off and the trees and shrubbery uprooted.

The convent of the poor, Twenty-ninth and Hamilton streets, was unroofed and the grounds were littered with debris. An unverified report said that the Sacred Heart academy at Thirty-sixth and Bart streets was demolished.

The storm so paralyzed telegraph service that no reports of the disaster could be communicated to the outside world. The Omaha telegraph office sent their piled up messages to Lincoln on an early train.

Mass of Debris.

At 1:30 a. m. Omaha presented a sorry spectacle. From the field club in the western part of the city to the Carter club at the northeast—a distance from two to six blocks wide—was a mass of debris.

Federal soldiers from Fort Omaha assisted the police in keeping looters and morbidly curious at bay. The presence of the soldiers gives the city the appearance of being under martial law.

It is impossible at this hour to get an accurate estimate of the loss in life and property. One hundred is a conservative estimate and that the damage to property will run up into the hundreds of thousands is certain.

A garage at Fortieth and Farnum streets was destroyed and a large strip of territory east of that corner was seriously damaged. The Illinois Central bridge over the Missouri river was destroyed.

Limits of Storm.

The stretch of Omaha covered by the tornado reaches from the southern limits to the suburb of Florence, six miles north of the point of origin. The storm swept the western part of the city for its entire length following the west side of the valley, extending along the Missouri river bluffs. The eastern half of the city—generally composing the business section—was out of the path of the twister, but suffered greatly.

The section traversed by the storm is the residential portion of the city, as well as a number of outlying business thoroughfares through the destroyed area.

The greater part of the damage was done west of Twenty-fourth street, a north and south cross-town street extending the entire length of the city. Numerous streets with retail stores criss-cross this section, with the residence portion of the city scattered in intervening sections.

Best Parks Wrecked.

Many of the best parks of the city are located within the district covered and at least two of these were wrecked.

Hanscom park, situated near where the storm originated, was greatly damaged and Bemis park, one of the show residence districts of the city, was struck with sufficient force to practically wreck most of the residences within its limits.

The temperature Friday night and Saturday morning hovered near the zero mark, but shot up with remarkable rapidity and this doubtless was responsible for the condition of the elements which brought on the storm.

Situation Grave.

That the situation is grave was indicated by the action of Mayor Dahlman in procuring the aid of government troops and the national guard.

Fort Crook is five miles south of Omaha and was out of the path of the worst part of the storm.

One part of the area covered by the storm is that located between Cuming street on the south and Ames avenue on the north and from Twenty-fourth street on the east to Fiftieth street on the west. This is the most thickly populated residence district in the city and contains ten of the largest public schools in Omaha. Many of the large churches of all denominations also are in that part of the city.

Omaha university was in the path of the storm and is presumed to have been badly damaged.

GOVERNOR HANNA MAKES BIG CUT

Bismarck, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Hanna has vetoed a total of $301,274 in appropriations, these cuts being made because the revenues of the state for the biennial period were greatly exceeded by the legislature. In making reductions in the appropriations for the several state educational institutions, he takes the ground that there are other institutions and lower branches of the educational system that are more in need of financial aid. Following are the items vetoed by the governor:

Hebron lignite station	$25,000
Asylum for the insane	30,000
Inspection of coal	2,000
Pure seed department	2,500
School of Forestry	1,600
Mayville normal	6,500
Wahpeton school of science	20,000
Valley City normal	10,125
Ellendale normal	11,000
Minot normal	18,000
University	28,000
Agricultural college	45,000
Spanish-American war history	2,000
Library commission	5,000
Publishing school inspector report	400
Hettinger experimental station deficit	9,649
Deaf and dumb school	25,000
Williston experimeneal station	1,500
Reimbursing E. F. Ladd for prosecuting cases	500
Agricultural college geological survey	2,000
University geological survey	2,000
Dairy department	8,000
EState Historical society	5,500
Improvements executive mansion	1,500
Experiments in milling schools	2,500
Tax commission	35,000

The total appropriations for the institutions that have been affected by the use of the veto follow: Minot normal, $50,000; Ellendale normal, $23,300; Asylu mfor insane, $283,500; agricultural college, $86,500; Valley City normal, $57,000; school of science, 28,985; Bottineau school of forestry, $7,600; University, $65,300; Hebron lignite station, $5,000; Mayville normal, $7,500.

HEARING WILL BE HELD IN DULUTH ON SATURDAY ON LAWS AS TO FISHING

Lake City; Representatives Thomas Kneeland, Minneapolis, and Frank Minette, Sauk Center, Wisconsin—Senator L. G. Kellogg, Ripon; Senator Robert Glenn, Beloit; Assemblymen J. A. Game and Fish Commission.

The house committee on public accourts and expenditures is preparing a report for presentation to the house tomorrow on the investigation into the game and fish commission. It is understood that the committee will recommend the abolition of the commission and will present a bill putting its work under the forestry bureau, with the forest rangers and patrolmen as game wardens. It will be charged that politics has too many influences with the game and fish work as constituted at present, and the methods in vogue of letting contracts for seining so-called rough fish out of lakes will be criticized.

The committee this afternoon will present bills taking the work of collecting inheritance taxes out of the hands of the attorney general and putting it into the control of the tax commission and reorganizing the attorney-general's office on the basis of recommendations previously made to the house.

* * *

Initiative and Referendum.

Lieutenant Governor Burnquist this afternoon announced the appointment of the following conference committee on the initiative and referendum bill, to meet with a similar house committee already appointed: Senators Sageng, Boyle, Haycroft, G. H. Sullivan and Rockne.

The two points to be settled by the conference committee are those involved in the Sullivan and Rockne amendments, adopted by the senate when the bill passed that body last week. The Sullivan amendment requires that constitutional amendment initiated by the people must be satified by a majority of those voting at the election, as is the case with constitutional amendments proposed by the legislature. The house bill permitted such amendments to be ratified by 60 per cent of those voting upon them. A very probable compromise is that amendments may be ratified by 60 per cent of those voting upon them, providing that 40 per cent of those voting at the election vote affirmatively on the amendments.

The Rockne amendment requires that initiative or referendum petitions must be signed in one-third of the counties of the state. In all probability this amendment will be eliminated by the conference committee.

* * *

The house is likely to try the experiment of night sessions beginning tomorrow. The plan is to work from 10 to 12:30, then adjourn to 7:30 in the evening, leaving the afternoon for committee meetings. This will be done, if the plan is adopted, Tuesday and Thursday of this week at least.

Copper Country Tied Up.

Calumet, Mich., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy rains early last night, turning into a fierce blizzard, with a 60-mile wind and heavy snowfall, tied up all traffic into and out of the Copper country today. Business is suspended because of the blockades of the streets. All electric and steam railroads are tied up. Wire service is uncertain.

WIRE SERVICE IS DEMORALIZED

Rain and Sleet Play Havoc With Telegraph Companies.

Wire conditions throughout the middle states, radiating out of Chicago, were in a demoralized condition early today. Duluth early got into communication with Chicago over a shaky strand of rain and sleet-soaked copper. Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Racine soon afterward were lost, and no wires were obtainable to those cities for some time.

An effort was being made to enter New York city via Winnipeg. The entire west was cut off from Chicago, and an emergency wire was being worked out from St. Paul to Tacoma, Wash.

At St. Paul last night the wind blew a gale, and from four to five inches of snow fell, intermingled with rain at midnight. The temperature there then fell and at 8 o'clock this morning snow was falling. Wires out of the Twin Cities were burdened with sleet and were working poorly when at all.

The Southwest apparently had not been heard from this morning. Attempts to reach Kansas City, St. Louis and other points in that part of the country, were unavailing.

Wild stories of great loss of life at or near Omaha were rife among operators on the main trunk lines, early today.

HAS A LIST OF ITS OWN

The Municipal Ownership League Warmly Debates Stirrup Club Report.

Members Refuse to Adopt Report in Full—Partners Disagree.

CANDIDATES INDORSED.

For Mayor:
D. H. Day,
Marcus L. Fay,
W. B. Getchell,
W. E. McEwen.
Long Term Commissioner:
Carroll F. Graff,
Leonidas Merritt,
P. G. Phillips,
James W. Preston,
Frederick J. Voss.
Short Term Commissioner:
W. L. Bernard,
E. R. Cobb,
W. A. Hicken,
John Hogan,
Alex Kennedy,
Neil B. Morrison,
Roderick Murchison,
M. J. Murray,
Olof G. Olson,
C. E. Roe,
W. H. Smallwood,
Bert N. Wheeler.

The Stirrup club report on candidates was the bone of contention at the meeting of the Municipal ownership league at Kalamazoo hall Saturday evening.

After a spirited debate, in which T. T. Hudson upheld the Stirrup club report and Alfred Jaques, his law partner, opposed its adoption by the league, the league members decided to make up a list of their own. A committee of five, consisting of Mr. Jaques, J. B. Gibson, Watson S. Moore, W. H. Pryor and A. G. McKnight was appointed to select a list of candidates for indorsement. The list selected was adopted and the indorsement given.

Frank Crassweller, president of the league, declared in opening the meeting that municipal ownership is the principal issue before the voters and that men favorable to municipal ownership can be depended upon to be with the people on other issues. He said that men who favor the principle and declare themselves in unequivocal terms should be elected.

Partners Disagree.

Mr. Hudson made the motion that the Stirrup club report be adopted as the Municipal Ownership league's estimate of candidates also. Mr. Jaques immediately took the floor in opposition. He said he is a member of the Stirrup club, and he refused to sign the report because he did not know personally that all the statements were true and because the report drew conclusions instead of stating facts only. He said the report was based on more than the candidates' position on municipal ownership and the Municipal Ownership league should take cognizance of no issues other than municipal ownership.

Roderick Murchison, short term candidate, who was given an indorsement by the Stirrup club, supported Mr. Jaques' stand.

Mr. Hudson contended that even though the Stirrup club report was based on more than the views of the candidates on municipal ownership, it might well be adopted by the league. He said the men condemned by the Stirrup club should also be condemned by the league, as their election would be detrimental to good city government.

J. W. Cumming, candidate for the short term, took occasion to deny that he favored the liquor interests when a member of the county board as the Stirrup club report stated.

Unfair to Farrell.

Leo A. Ball, speaking for James A. Farrell, declared the report was not fair to Mr. Farrell, especially in regard to the eight-hour day. Instead of not committing himself on the eight-hour day, he said Mr. Farrell has declared unequivocally for the eight-hour day.

J. B. Gibson also declared that the Stirrup club report should not be adopted by the league and James W. Preston protested against the statements made in regard to him. He said if he has been indorsed by the Loyal Liberty Protective league the action was taken without his knowledge.

Mr. Jaques, again defending his stand, said that he agreed with the report in many ways, but he did not believe it should be adopted by the league.

"I am not in favor of a candidate," he said, "who states that he favors municipal ownership when 'public necessity requires,' neither do I favor a candidate who distributes beautiful cards telling all about 'efficiency;' neither do I favor a man who declares at the Auditorium that municipal ownership is a 'toy issue,' at the city hall that he favors it, and again at West Duluth that it is not an issue in the campaign."

The league organized for the campaign by the appointment of the following ward chairmen: First ward, W. L. Smithies; Second ward, Richard Funk; Third ward, Walter Borgen; Fourth ward, N. W. Wilson; Fifth ward, F. C. Bowman; Sixth ward, Axel Carlson; Seventh ward, Charles Mork; Eighth ward, J. H. Brigham.

SAYS THE REPORT MISREPRESENTED HIM

James A. Farrell, candidate for commissioner for the short term, declares emphatically that he has been misrepresented by the Stirrup club report.

"In reply to the questions submitted by that organization, I wrote the following, he said:

"'In reply to yours of the seventh instant, and the questions therein contained, submitted to me as a candidate for short term commissioner, I answer 'Yes' to (a), (b) and (c) of question one. As to question four I believe in a uniform eight-hour law.

"'As to question two, if such an ordinance, when presented, should appear not too severe, I would support it but believe one conviction unfair. I am in favor of an ordinance providing more stringent regulations.

"'As to question three, I would say that until a better method can be proven I think the best way to handle the question would be a strict segregation, with all liquor and music barred.'"

DAY TALKS AT LAKESIDE.

Says Only Issue of Present Campaign Is Good Government.

David H. Day, candidate for mayor, held the second of his meetings at the Lakeside town hall on Saturday night. After explaining the preferential system of voting, which he does at all his meetings he said, in part:

"The only issue that I recognize as being before the people at this election is the question of good city government, with all that that term implies. Good city government means efficiency in public affairs, and let's say here that nowhere is inefficiency resulting from misdirected work more clearly shown than in the execution of public improvements. There is no purpose and no plan in what is done. Modern efficiency methods introduced in Spokane by the commissioner of public works in that city are today saving the people $30,000 per month.

"Good city government means law enforcement. Good city government means that every saloon owner should be treated alike—made to obey the law—with no special privilege shown to any one. Special privilege means graft every time, and graft means inefficiency.

"Good government means a city that is clean morally and physically. There will always be dirt, and there will always be crime, but both dirt and crime can be kept down to a minimum. Good government means efficient citizenship through adequate publicity of city facts—the people must know their city, they must be kept informed of what is going on. And they should be informed of things as they really are, not as somebody says they are. But we will never be able to get good city government until we elect men as public servants who are servants of the people, and not servants of some special interest. There are several special interests which are interested in the control of our public officials, but the worst and most dangerous one is the public utility corporation known as the Duluth-Edison company. If we can but get rid of this special interest, it will not be so hard to handle the breweries, because, with men elected as commissioners who are true representatives of the people, we can, under our new charter, pass laws that will control their activities to a large extent. But with the candidates of the electric lighting company elected as commissioners, there is little hope of getting better conditions.

"I will say nothing against any of the men that are opposing me, for I do not believe in throwing mud. It is too liable to hit an innocent man, and for that I could not forgive myself. I feel sure that you know on which side I have stood since the beginning of this fight—on the side of the people. I am fighting the battle of the people and I ask for no indorsement, for no assistance, save from the people who believe in me and in the principles I am fighting for. I am not fighting men, but conditions which corrupt men. That is what I am fighting; that is what I shall continue to fight, whether I am elected to the office of mayor, or continue my career as a private citizen.

"As mayor, I believe I can make my fight more effectively, for I feel sure that I will have back of me the mighty power of public opinion, that iron hond of the people against which no man, however great, can stand. It has in the past dethroned kings and emperors, and it can and will remove this stumbling block over which we have so often tripped in seeking to obtain good city government."

WHEELER AND GRAFF SPEAK

Bert N. Wheeler, short term candidate, and Carroll F. Graff, long term candidate, spoke at a meeting at Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, Saturday evening.

Mr. Wheeler declared that too much attention is being given the office of mayor, and that every other place on the commission is of just as much importance.

Mr. Graff outlined his platform and his qualifications for office. He urged the voters to elect good men, who will give the city a clean, businesslike administration.

Rev. Ray W. Hunt also gave a short talk on good citizenship.

MUDSLINGING DENOUNCED

Prince's Friends Say He Is Object of Unmanly Attacks.

Candidate Himself Says He Is Free From Corporate Influence.

The report of the Stirrup club on W. I. Prince was declared to be unfair and misleading, at a meeting of business men and supporters of Mr. Prince at his headquarters in the Torrey building Saturday evening.

"I deeply regret that this campaign has degenerated into a mud-slinging affair," said Mr. Prince. "Until a few days ago it had been conducted in an open, manly manner. Now some people have stooped to personalities and baseless charges in an effort to injure my candidacy.

"This campaign should be free of such methods. We all are citizens of Duluth, interested in the welfare of Duluth. We should all strive for good city government, not to advance our own interests. Citizenship should be first in this contest, in order that the best interests of the city may be advanced.

"The question of municipal ownership has already been settled by the people. Woe to the man elected to office who attempts to circumvent the people's will. I say right here and now that no man in this race is more free of corporate influence than I, and if I am elected, I will go into office absolutely untrammeled to work for the interests of the people and of the city.

"It has been charged that before I entered this campaign I had left the city and came back in order to enter the contest. I came to Duluth over ten years ago to make this city my home. It is still my home and I intend to continue to make it my home. I own property here and my interest is here. I have never had any intention of leaving, and no man can truthfully say anything to the contrary."

The meeting was opened by O. J. Larson, Mr. Prince's campaign manager, who deplored the mud-slinging methods adopted by some candidates and others interested in the campaign, and made a plea for fair play. G. A. Gray was elected chairman and Attilio Castigliano secretary of the meeting.

Dr. O. A. Oredson declared that Mr. Prince's business record had commended his candidacy and he became a supporter of Mr. Prince before he met him. "Mr. Fay's statements are unbecoming a gentleman," Dr. Oredson said, "and any man using such methods is unfit to be the mayor of this city."

J. L. Cromwell said that he cannot understand how some of the Stirrup club members could sign the report if they had read what they were signing. He said the report was manifestly unfair and could not be supported.

"I have known many mayors and many candidates for mayor, but I do not know a man I would rather see chief executive of this city than Mr. Prince," said T. W. Wahl. "Mr. Prince is my neighbor and I know that his personal character is above reproach. I know he is a good business man, a good citizen and would be a good mayor."

Mr. Castigliano referred to the fact that many Bessemer business men had joined in an indorsement of Mr. Prince, who had been mayor of Bessemer for three years.

Other citizens spoke, joining in the condemnation of the Stirrup club and expressing confidence in Mr. Prince. All joined in the denunciation of the methods used in the campaign and declared that no such methods should characterize their campaign in behalf of Mr. Prince.

WILL SPEAK FOR LEONIDAS MERRITT

Chris O'Brien Will Campaign for His Boyhood Friend.

The speech of Chris D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, at Knights of Pythias hall, 118 West Superior street, tomorrow evening is to be one of the events of the municipal campaign.

Mr. O'Brien will speak in behalf of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt for long-term commissioner. Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Merritt have been friends since boyhood and the St. Paul man volunteered to come to Duluth and make an effort to assist Mr. Merritt's candidacy.

Mr. O'Brien was a law enforcement mayor of St. Paul and gained a reputation for efficiency during his tenure of office. He has always taken a deep interest in municipal government and is an authority on methods of administering city affairs. He is a powerful orator, has many friends in Duluth and will undoubtedly attract a big crowd.

"STIRRUPER" REPLIES TO KAPLAN'S CRITICISM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your columns, Morris Kaplan, Socialist candidate, charges that the Stirrup club's report on him was dictated by "class bias or prejudice;" and he states that the Stirrup club's membership does not include one "bona-fide wage-worker."

In view of the fact that the Stirrup club's report heartily commends Mr. Phillips, Socialist candidate, and in only milder terms (they having no public records) commends also Mr. Blackwood and Mr. Edes, Socialist candidates; and that it does not censure Mr. Towne, Socialist candidate; it is surely evidence that such unfavorable comment as the report does make on Mr. Kaplan is not due to any anti-Socialist bias. Further, in view of the fact that Mr. Blackwood and Mr. Edes, whom the report commends, and Mr. Towne, whom it does not criticize, are all bona-fide wage-workers, and that Mr. Phillips, whom the report also commends, and Mr. Kaplan, whom it does not commend, are both merchants, that is, belong to the business classes and not to the wage-earning classes, it is also evident that the report on Mr. Kaplan was not affected by any class prejudice.

Just as a matter of policy, Mr. Kaplan might better not have disclosed his belief that he is the entire Socialist ticket in this campaign.

CULLUM REMINDS VOTERS THAT HE PROPOSED COMMISSION PLAN

M. B. Cullum, candidate for mayor, declared at the Oneota hall Saturday evening that he proposed the commission form of government in the interest of good city government, and expressed the hope that the people would elect five men who would make the most of the new charter.

"You can make an awful mess of this," Mr. Cullum declared, "if you care to. You can elect men of one idea, or a man who will wink at law enforcement, or a man who will cast his vote in favor of the special interests. You could elect men—and there are a number of them running—who will give you almost a model government. This need not necessarily include myself. The men you want should be men of character and ability to solve the public problems, and solve them right.

"My competitors should demonstrate their fitness for the position by showing some record of achievement or marked ability to serve with credit to themselves and to the community. My record is good and bad in spots. Under the system that I have proposed for your benefit my record will be all good. Just a difference of systems. Under the old system I could not enforce the laws. Under this system I can enforce them to the limit.

"In the municipal ownership question there is a serious moral problem, which is evident to you now. The business reasons for its adoption must be demonstrated to you by scientific, unbiased investigation, or we cannot ask you to accept the proposition.

"You help the laboring man most when you make conditions under which he may help himself. As long as industrial conditions are such that the working man is only permitted to live and labor, he is not receiving a fair share of the results of such labor. Social adjustment will never be accomplished until this rule is changed."

WILL TAKE TIME TO TEST FRIEDMANN CURE

That it will require two years to determine whether the tubercular treatment of Dr. Friederich F. Friedmann is an actual cure was the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. J. J. Eklund of Duluth. That period of time must elapse before it will be known whether the patients treated by the German doctor in New York have been permanently cured of the disease. Three months at least must elapse, Dr. Eklund says, before it will be positively known whether Dr. Friedmann's cure possesses any real merit or not. It often happens, he observes, that tubercular patients will report that they have been benefited, simply because a change in treatment for the disease has afforded them temporary relief.

CATHOLIC POPULATION OF DULUTH DIOCESE

SHORT COURSE AT CANOSIA

Three Days' Instructions to Farmers Expected to Have Good Results.

Series of One-Day Institutes to Open Next Saturday.

The three days' short course conducted at the Canosia town hall under the direction of the extension department of the agricultural college ended Saturday evening.

The course and a similar course on the preceding three days at the church near the Jackson school on the Swan Lake road, were in charge of Fred Ward, county agricultural agent. Mr. Ward said today that the courses were well attended and he looks for good results.

Mr. Ward was assisted in the work by George P. Grout, superintendent of the Jean Duluth farm; A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club; W. A. Dickinson, superintendent of the Duluth & Iron Range demonstration farm at Meadowlands; L. H. Bugbee of Carlton and A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast Experiment station at Grand Rapids. The milk testing experiments at the Canosia meeting Saturday were in charge of Charles Lindberg, a farmer of the district and a former creamery man.

At the close of the course Saturday the farmers organized a Milk Testing association that will serve as a farmers' club.

Beginning next Saturday, a series of institutes will be conducted in the territory around Duluth. The following one-day meetings will be held: Saturday, March 29, Auburn; Monday, March 31, Gnesen; Tuesday, Nea; Wednesday, Proctor; Thursday, Molde; Friday and Saturday, short course at Meadowlands.

Mr. Ward expects to arrange additional meetings in the northern part of the county, the series to follow those already arranged.

WHY WINTERS ARE WARMER

Earth Is Canting Upon Its Axis, Making Sun's Rays Direct---Ice Caps Formed at Poles in Past Ages Are Diminishing.

From Answers, London: Everybody knows that if a person sits directly facing a fire and in front of it he is warmer than if he sits sideways to it.

The reason is obvious; he receives more of the direct rays of the heat it gives forth.

Imagine our sun to be a fire—which, as a matter of fact, it is—and our earth the individual who is warming himself by it, and you have the correct explanation why our winters are becoming warmer.

By slow degrees, in the course of centuries, the earth is canting upon its axis in such a manner as to bring the poles more directly under the sun's rays, with the result that the ice caps formed there in past ages are gradually diminishing in size, and the weather over the whole earth is consequently becoming milder.

These theories are not held by all scientists. In fact, they are comparatively new, having been first put forward by another eminent astronomer, Maj. Gen. A. W. Drayson, who died only last year.

The Age of Ice.

But they are beginning to be more and more generally accepted, not only because they throw a flood of light upon occurrences that are otherwise unexplainable.

We know for instance, that in the period of greatest cold—called by geologists the ice age, or glacial period—the whole of the northern hemisphere was covered by an ice sheet a mile or more in thickness. All the shallow basin of the North sea was filled with it, and it overlapped all along the east coast of England as far down as Suffolk, while boulders and granite blocks, weighing in some cases many tons, were borne by land ice and stranded so close to London as Highgate.

Then the ice gradually began to retreat northward, leaving the land uncovered. As the thawing increased in rapidity deluges of water must have occurred—curious how everywhere one comes across traditions of a universal flood—and these would be followed on their subsidence by a rebirth of vegetable and animal life.

Process Still Going On.

And this process is still going on in the Arctic and Antartic regions; hence our milder winters. Hence also, incidentally, our chilly, miserable summers. For the breakup of the ice in the North Polar regions send it floating in ever increasing quantities down into the Atlantic, thereby lowering the summer temperature over the British isles.

Ice will resist heat for a considerable while; but sooner or later it melts; and when once a thaw sets in it is apt to be very rapid. This is because of the latent heat stored up inside the ice itself.

For centures the North Polar ice cap has been storing up the sun's heat; now it is feeling the effects of it. It is breaking up, as it were; and that with unusual and increasing rapidity.

To this fact was directly due the recent lamentable loss of the Titanic. The ice broke—millions of tons of it—from Labrador and Greenland very early and abundantly, so that bergs were in quantities in a latitude where they should not ordinarily have been at the time.

Nor is this an isolated case. On the contrary, it is the same everywhere. It is a matter of common knowledge that our old-fashioned Christmas, with its abundance of snow and ice, has quite passed away. We can hardly conceive nowadays the possibility of climatic conditions such as would permit of a "Frost Fair" being held on the frozen Thames at London bridge, as was done in 1684, and again so recently as 1814.

No More "Ups and Downs."

The ice on the Neva breaks up now three weeks earlier than it did a generation ago. In Alberta and other parts of Northern Canada it has been found possible to grow wheat where, within the memory of people now living, there used to be snow and ice practically all the year round. Iceland now belies its name, for of late years, even in midwinter, there has been no snow and scarcely any frost. In the Alps the glaciers are rapidly retreating, so that valleys that were filled with ice thirty or forty years ago are now being cultivated.

In short, it would appear to be fairly certain that we are in for a long period of more generally equable weather; considerably warmer in winter, slightly cooler in summer. The latter, however, is merely temporary, being due solely to the rapid melting away of the North Polar ice cap. When that is gone, or nearly gone, we shall probably see a return in these islands to sub-tropical conditions.

HOLD EASTER SERVICES

Day Is Celebrated By West Duluth Congregations.

Services in celebration of Easter were held at all the local churches yesterday morning and evening.

At the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, a union sunrise service was held at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning by all the Protestant churches of West Duluth, with the exception of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, which held a private service at the same time. Forrest Kent of the West Duluth Baptist church conducted the union service, assisted by the pastors. The Asbury quartet rendered several selections during the morning.

Easter Cantata.

Last evening the choir of the Westminster church rendered the Easter cantata, "Love Triumphant," under the direction of Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of the church.

Musical programs were given both morning and evening yesterday at the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street.

A special Easter program was given yesterday morning by the Sunday school class of the Proctor M. E. church at the Odd Fellows' hall.

The Epworth league of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, had charge of the Easter program last evening. Miss Sylvia Bevier rendered a piano solo and Miss Bertha Schaller of Superior a violin solo during the evening.

The Sunday school of the Hope Congregational church at Fond du Lac had charge of the annual Easter service last evening. Miss Verna Severson, secretary of the school, presided.

Easter service was held Saturday evening at the Harvey Webb M. E. church at Smithville. Rev. C. W. Emery of the Merritt church conducted the service.

NEW DULUTH CLUB PLANS BANQUET

The Annual Affair Will Be Held Early in May.

The New Duluth Commercial club will hold its second annual banquet early in May. Arrangements for the affair will be made at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the club tomorrow evening.

D. J. Kulaszewicz, secretary, announced this morning that the banquet this year will be made to exceed the one held last year. A special effort will be made by the members, he said, to secure a delegation of at least 300 business men from Duluth. A special Northern Pacific train will take the delegation to and from the banquet.

Last year the banquet was held on May 8 at the Becklinger hall, and was attended by about 300 business men, a large number of whom had come from Duluth. Among the principal speakers last year were W. A. McGonagle, W. S. McCormick, ex-Judge Alfred Jaques and Charles Mitchell.

Tomorrow evening Edward E. Martell, president of the club, will name the chairman for the banquet and also appoint a committee to take charge of the affair. In all probability the banquet will be held the first week in May.

The present officers of the club are, Edward E. Martell, president; Noble Sampson, vice president; D. J. Kulaszewicz, secretary, and U. C. Tower, treasurer.

HAVE CONFUSED THE TWO OFFICES.

That the voters of Duluth are confused with regard to the offices of assistant municipal judge and special municipal judge in the present campaign, is the claim of Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant judge. He explains the two offices as follows:

"At the present time there are two judges located in Duluth, Judge Windom, who is known as the municipal judge, and Judge Cutting, who is known as the special municipal judge. Judge Cutting is a candidate for reelection to his own office.

"The new charter provides for a municipal court to be located at West Duluth and to be known as the West Duluth division. The assistant municipal judge will have charge of this court. The candidates for this office are W. H. Gurnee, H. W. Lanners and N. H. Wilson. Judge Cutting is opposed by John Brown."

Entertain for Visitors.

Miss Edith Work and Florence Brunell entertained Thursday evening at the home of the former, 8 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, in honor of the Misses Maud and Pearl Partridge of Cass Lake, Minn., who are visiting here this week. The rooms were prettily decorated with Easter lilies, ferns and green and white streamers. The evening was spent at music and games, after which refreshments were served to the following guests: Misses Ethel Young, Maud Partridge, Pearl Partridge, Ethel Crosby, Eva Crosby, Hilma Johnson, Esther Johnson, Mamie Davidson, Lillian Frank, Elda Frank, Mae McGaige, Edith Work, Florence Brunell, and Messrs. He is survived by four children, besides his widow. They are Mrs. John Johnson, Aaron, August and Charles Stark, all of Midway. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Midway Lutheran church. Rev. J. A. Krantz will officiate and interment will be at the Midway cemetery.

Hise Funeral.

The funeral of Richard, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Hise, 525 South Seventy-first avenue west, who died Saturday evening following an operation at the St. Mary's hospital, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence. Interment was at the Oneota cemetery.

Card Party.

Mrs. Louis White of 201 North Fifty-second avenue west entertained at a card party Saturday evening in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Wright of Chicago, who are her guests for several days. Five hundred was played at five tables, the honors being won by Mrs. Wright. Covers were laid for twenty-five, following the card games.

Mass Meeting.

A men's mass meeting was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. Rev. R. W. Wilcox of the Proctor M. E. church gave the principal address. Short talks were also given by members of the association, after which a musical program was rendered.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Bonschor of Proctor were pleasantly surprised by a number of friends Saturday evening, the occasion being their fifteenth wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in music and games, after which refreshments were served. Covers were laid for twenty.

Easter Dance.

Pocahontas lodge, No. 319, Royal League, will entertain at an Easter dancing party this evening at the Dormedy hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. The following committee is in charge of the affair: Mesdames E. W. Boerner, Emil Zauft, M. J. Murray, George Hise, T. F. Olsen, Henry Fedl, Thomas Brain, and the Misses Margaret Doig, Helen Eldred and Merle Wright.

Will Entertain Guild.

St. Margaret's Guild of the St. James' Catholic church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon at Gilley's hall, 322 Central avenue. Mesdames James Godfrey, William Godfrey, Irving Myre and W. E. Tuscan will be the hostesses during the afternoon.

Railway Club.

The Proctor Railway club will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. building. W. A. Clark, general car foreman of the D., M. & N. road, will give an illustrated lecture on "Wrecks." A general discussion will follow the lecture.

CURES FOR SNORING.

Detroit Free Press: One of the most respected citizens of Winsted, Mass., offers $100 as a reward to any one who will break him of the habit of snoring, which has made him a goat in his own home, so to speak. This is a golden oportunity. Somebody will tell him to sleep on his face, to hang himself on the hatrack o' nights, to bandage his face shut before going to sleep, to put wire screens in his nose, to wear a clothespin or safety pin in his nose, to cork his nose tightly each night, to stay awake, to sleep in the cellar, to tent in the open air, or—oh, any of a dozen or two more cures, and if he pays for them all he'll be so worried over his financial condition that he won't sleep at all, and hence won't snore—and so his desire will become a fact accomplished, you see.

From The Duluth Herald, Wednesday, Mch. 13, 1913

A campaign that has heretofore been free from personalities was given that political adjunct last evening at the meeting of the Municipal Ownership league, when Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, made serious charges affecting the candidacy of W. I. Prince.

"There is a combination or arrangement existing by which the Duluth-Edison Electric company expects to capture the whole commission," Mr. Fay declared. "This combination exists between the Duluth-Edison Electric company, the breweries, the saloons they control, the pickpockets and thugs wherever you find them in the city. That is why we have so many candidates in the field. The agents of the combination have been out patting candidates on the back and getting them in.

"The breweries, the Edison Electric company, the tinhorns and the men who live by woman's shame have drawn a man from the church to drag his coat-tails in the mire of their dirty politics. They are asking the citizens to vote for a man who stands high in society and high in the church after they succeed in bringing him out."

The letter which induced Mr. Prince to become a candidate and some of the signers:

TO W. I. PRINCE:

We, the undersigned, voters of Duluth, believing that you are thoroughly qualified by education, training and experience to discharge efficiently and honestly the duties of the office of mayor under the new city charter, respectfully ask you to become a candidate for that important office.

The voters of Duluth have adopted an admirable new city charter, but it is not self-executing. Excellent as it is, it can not of itself give to the people of Duluth good municipal government. To insure an efficient and honest administration of the affairs of our city under the new charter, it behooves the people to elect for mayor and commissioners men of character and capacity—men who can and will discharge the duties of their respective offices with ability, honesty and absolutely without fear.

The men who will be chosen to administer the affairs of our city under the new charter will have a most difficult task to perform. They will have many important and difficult municipal problems to solve. Therefore, the people should choose for their mayor and commissioners the very best men available regardless of party affiliations.

The people of Duluth need a man for mayor who sees in our city "a means for promoting business and commerce, an agency for convenience and happiness." We think that is your conception of the true function of a city government.

We sincerely believe that in asking you to become a candidate for mayor, we are but expressing the sentiments of a large and substantial part of the voters of Duluth.

Whatever personal reasons you may have for your reluctance to become a candidate, we hope will be overcome by your strong sense of civic duty.

TODAY IS THE DAY POLISH GIRLS ARE GIVEN SWITCHING

Lenten solemnity, which was broken yesterday with a display of Easter finery, will today be left deep in oblivion as laughing Polish youths chase shrieking feminine compatriots about streets and yards with light quirts cut from sprouting shrubbery. Whenever a young Pole sees a young woman of his acquaintance on Easter Monday, it is his traditional privilege to chastise her with a whip. Of course, it is not customary to inflict any serious injury—just such a smart cut as will cause her to squeal—about as an American miss does when she is caught in a forfeit game and the penalty is to be a kiss. Not to be switched in an evidence of unpopularity.

The custom is supposed to have originated with the driving of Christ's followers away from the tomb by the Jews after the crucifixion. That the young women are not averse to their punishment is evidenced by the fact that Easter Monday is one of the greatest holidays of the year in Polish quarters. Scarcely a manufacturer who employs any large number of young Polish girls, as in tobacco factories in the large cities, expects to find half of his fair employes at their benches today. Tuesday, the girls take revenge by switching their tormentors.

Today is primarily a religious holiday and was opened with masses in all the Polish churches.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Practice of Tossing Child Into Air Is Dangerous One.

The habit which many parents form of tossing their baby into the air to quiet him, and catching him on the rebound, recently resulted in the death of an infant. The mother failed to catch him, and he fell to the floor, striking his head. The mother's anguish, of course, can better be imagined than portrayed.

This is not the first time that such a thing has happened, nor will it be the last; but it serves to illustrate how dangerous a thing it is, this tossing a baby about as though he were a rubber ball and not a delicate little organism which should be handled with the greatest care. Many an infant is harmed by too much handling; more children than we dream of suffer permanent injuries when they are babies, through rough usage, and occasionally one meets its death through this foolhardy practice of parents or other relatives, indulged in in the name of playing with the baby.

Now a baby, even the tiniest and most delicate one, will stand a moderate amount of handling. You do not have to be as careful with him as the average young mother thinks when she first starts out to care for one by herself. The little head is securely adjusted to the neck, though from its capacity for wabbling you would not think so. Its hands and feet, for all they are so small, will not crumple in your hands. The neck and head and back do need to be supported for several months after his birth, but aside from this he will be better off if he is not coddled too assiduously by his fond young mother.

The nervous excitement which too much handling creates in a baby is decidedly a bad thing for him. He commences to cultivate his nerves too early, and grows to expect the tossing or fondling as part of his daily fare. Rocking a baby, which persons advanced in the care of infants taboo strictly as injurious, does not appeal to me as such, though it may be so. But trotting a baby vigorously on the knee, throwing him into the air and shaking him to make him laugh and coo his delight are surely harmful.

The danger is three-edged. It is bad for him temperamentally and physically if he escapes the accidents that are likely to occur when he is being thus roughly treated. He does not know enough to look after that part of it, and that is where the danger lies to his life. He depends upon you, but he acts independent of you. If you could control his movements when you are playing with him in this manner, there would be little to fear. But you cannot.

The only safe and reasonable way is to avoid such foolish methods of playing with the baby.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. O. De Vaney of 2725 West Second street was pleasantly surprised Saturday in celebration of her 73st birthday anniversary. She received many pretty gifts and a large bouquet of roses. The evening was spent with music, vocal and instrumental solos being given by J. Wade, Miss Leona Granger, Miss Elizabeth De Vaney, Leslie Granger, Edward De Vaney. During the evening a lunch was served to the following guests:

Messrs. and Mesdames—
A. Milligan, E. De Vaney, T. De Vaney, P. Vanvick, W. De Vaney, W. Granger.
Mesdames—
L. Kelly, J. Cleary, H. Ose, J. De Vaney.

PAINTING OF GARDENS IS NEW SOCIETY FAD

MARY HELEN CARLISLE.

The latest fad of society in England, as well as the United States, is the painting of gardens. Mary Helen Carlisle, an English portrait painter of reputation, is showing a collection of such paintings in New York at this time. Among them is a picture of a private garden of King George.

Marine IS SEEKING INFORMATION

Government Engineer Asks About St. Louis River Commerce.

Rivers and Harbors Bill Authorizes Survey for Dredging Channel.

Capt. E. D. Peek, in charge of this United States engineering district, has issued circular letters asking for information in connection with proposed redredging of the St. Louis river between the foot of the Peterson islands near Fond du Lac and Dubray creek. The recently passed rivers and harbors bill authorizes a preliminary survey for this work and it is put up to the captain to determine whether or not the work should be done. He is, therefore, asking business and vessel men of the city to advise him as to the present business of the locality, particularly in the matter of vessel commerce, what is the need of such improvement and what kind is needed most, what is the prospective business of the locality and what benefits to commerce are expected to result from such improvements if they are to be made.

This is one of the improvements asked for in view of the fact that the steel plant at Gary will begin operations in the not far distant future and it is expected that there will be a tremendous increase in shipping up that way, the growth being expected all the way along the river front as a result of the opening of the plant.

The opinions asked by Capt. Peek are to be submitted in writing and are to be at the United States engineer's office not later than May 1.

A similar examination has been authorized for the Keweenaw waterway at the Portake lake ship canal, Michigan, with a view to making a cut-off at Princess Point. The captain has made a similar request for opinion regarding its necessity and benefit.

VESSEL INSURANCE STARTS ON APRIL 1

Provided of Course That Ice Conditions Are Reasonably Safe.

It has become known that the underwriters are disposed to issue policies to attach any time between April 1 and 15 that the ice conditions make navigation reasonably safe. It was intimated to shipowners that the premium would be prorated over the extra period at the regular season's rate.

The Great Lakes Protective association could not enter into such a deal and boats sailing prior to April 15 would have to carry full insurance with the underwriters. The policies of the protective association cannot be issued to attach prior to April 15, according to the agreement that owners have received from the advisory committee of the association.

Efforts of the association to obtain a reduction in the insurance valuation from $51.50 to $48.50 are not meeting with much favor among the underwriters. They do not consider the valuation too high and believe other forms of insurance would be carried by owners to make up the difference. They also have other arguments that they are advancing in regard to the constructive total loss possibilities under a smaller valuation.

As soon as the valuation is definitely determined the underwriters are expected to quickly name the rates they will charge for insuring lake vessels this summer. By the middle of next week at the latest it is thought both propositions will be announced.

FROM NEW ENGLAND TO OLD.

London Mail: The parish council of Hingham has received intimation from New Hingham, Mass., that a stone from the hillsides of the American town is ready for shipment to England to take the place of one removed to America.

The American town has applied to the Norfolk Hingham for a stone to form the cornerstone of a bell tower erected to mark the two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of New Hingham. As there is little stone in the district the English town was in a quandary until an American visitor suggested the sending of a boulder which had stood for centuries in the street and had been used for mounting by horsemen. A deputation from America will present the stone in May.

CHECK WAS WORTHLESS

Fred Trombley Gets Indeterminate Sentence; Other Criminal Cases.

Fred Trombley, alias A. J. Trombley, alias A. F. Spencer, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Cant during the recess hour this morning in district court, charged with passing a worthless check. At noon he was given an indeterminate sentence in Stillwater, the limit being five years. Trombley, according to the indictment, was formerly a resident of Correll, Minn., and had money in a bank of that town for a time. On Feb. 11, last, while in Duluth, he passed a check for $40 on Buchanan & Hogan, saloon keepers on East Superior street, but when the check went through it was found that Trombley had already withdrawn his funds from the bank and had done so before the check had been passed.

As soon as the present civil case before Judge Cant comes to an end—which is expected to be this afternoon, the trial of the case of the state against William Osborne of West Duluth, charged with having carnal knowledge of a child, will begin. This, it is said, is one of the most revolting cases that the county authorities have had to deal with in many years. Osborne, it is claimed, a married man, and whose wife was living with him at the time the alleged crime was perpetrated, had obtained from the Humane society a 14-year-old girl for adoption. Shortly afterwards, it is accused, Osborne subjected this child to criminal abuse at various times for one week.

The case of the state against Albert Hall will follow that against Osborne. Hall is charged with having had improper relations with a kitchen girl under 16 years of age, who was employed at the St. Louis. Hall has been a waiter at one of the local hotels.

IT IS "SOME CAMPAIGN."

Duluth is seeing "some campaign." If anybody thought that the elimination of party lines in a municipal contest for office would result in a colorless and uneventful pre-election period, he is learning differently now. The way things are warming up ought to satisfy the most ardent of controversialists.

But there is this to remember, if we are not to lose sight of the real question at issue—that of giving Duluth the best possible government. The city is to be governed by five men, not by any one of the five. Altogether too much emphasis is being placed, in some quarters, on the mayoralty contest. There are four commissioners to be elected, and the choice of good men for those positions is more important than the choice of one man for mayor, just as the choice of a majority of good men in any body is paramount to the importance of a choice of any one individual.

Though the mayor is to be known by another title than that of commissioner, he will have no more power than any member of the commission. The only reason we call him mayor is because the state Constitution demands that we must have a mayor. He will have no veto power, and he will not even have a choice of the department of which he is to have charge. Except that he must sign bonds and contracts and receive processes in case of proceedings instituted against the city, he will have no more power or rights than any member of the commission. In fact, in everything except in name, he will be nothing more than a fifth commissioner.

So what the voters must bear in mind is not the importance of a good man for mayor, but the importance of having five good men, to whom it will be safe to trust all Duluth's affairs during their term of office.

The men who really stand a chance of being elected to places in the new city government are well known and have records open to the public. The voters are thoroughly capable of judging these men, either by their personal characters or what they have done in the past. They will do well to exercise this individual judgment, and not to take as unquestionable any opinions as to the fitness of the various candidates that may be given out by organizations of citizens no better qualified than themselves to form such opinions. They should remember that their opinion is just as much entitled to consideration as that of their neighbors. And if they are persuaded regarding any particular candidate, they will do well not to be led away or prejudiced by any conclusions others may draw.

What we want, first of all, is able administration by men on whom we can depend. Let each voter decide his choices for himself, and vote his conception of a good makeup for the city's government.

Spring is here. If you don't believe it, forget the snowbanks awhile and study the almanac.

BRYAN'S "BLAZING INDISCRETION."

It is quite like old times to see the British papers rising in wrath and grief over the action of some member of the government of the United States as they have done over Secretary Bryan's St. Patrick's day speech, in which he predicted home rule for Ireland in two years. His words are characterized on the other side of the Atlantic as "a blazing indiscretion," whatever that may be. The British writers make it plain that they believe the American secretary of state is trying to "butt in" on British affairs, and they resent such interference.

As a matter of fact, it is to laugh. Home rule in Ireland is one of the things nearest and dearest to the hearts of the men who keep St. Patrick's day, and for the secretary to have addressed such a gathering on such an occasion and have omitted mention of that matter would have been quite as blazing an indiscretion as any he could have committed. More especially when his own name has a distinctly Irish ring.

Moreover, Secretary Bryan did nothing but give his personal view of the trend of historical events. Home rule has passed the house of commons once, and it is admittedly only a question of its doing so twice more (which is admittedly certain) before it becomes a fact. This is common knowledge on both sides of the Atlantic, and it surely is no "blazing indiscretion" for the American secretary of state to think with the majority, or even to speak as the majority think, in a case of that kind.

To make the choleric state of our cousins' minds even more absurd, the New York Post reminds us that on Nov. 9, 1896, following Mr. Bryan's defeat in the presidential election, Lord Salisbury, then British minister for foreign affairs, in a speech at the Guild hall in London, congratulated the American ambassador that "the great people" he represented had defeated "a dangerous demagogue." Perhaps Secretary Bryan had a good and sufficient license to indulge in a come-back of some kind. Certainly the one he chose was pretty mild, under the circumstances.

Lord Roseberry once wrote, says the Post, that "England has always assumed the possession of a European censorship, which impels her to administer exhortation and rebuke to the states of the continent." Then why should she be so touchy if an official of another great power sees fit to comment on current events within her own borders?

The more one observes the vagaries of the Illinois legislature when it comes to choosing senators, the less one wonders that sometimes desperate measures have been adopted to end such situations.

THE CITIES IN THE LEGISLATURE.

The Waseca Herald has been misinformed, or at least has made a big mistake, in its comparison of the sectional representation in the legislature under the new apportionment. The paper says:

> The reapportionment bill * * * will result in giving St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth practical control of Minnesota's legislative affairs in future. The country members who voted for the bill will see the folly of their action before many years pass by.

A glance at the figures of representation under the new reapportionment will show the error in this. Instead of the cities having control in the legislature, they will have less than one-third the membership in each house. And it is absurd to think that with so small a force they can have "practical control" of affairs.

Under the new apportionment the senate will have 67 members. Of these there will be six from St. Paul, nine from Minneapolis and five from Duluth, including Lake and Cook counties. This makes a total of twenty members from the three larger cities, or less than 30 per cent of the total membership in the senate. This leaves over two-thirds or 70 per cent, of the membership for the rest of the state.

In the house the new division gives St. Paul twelve members, Minneapolis eighteen and Duluth, including Lake and Cook counties, ten—a total of forty for the three cities. This is less than 31 per cent of the house membership. So that it is absurd to claim control of that body for the cities.

There may be some features of the new apportionment that could be improved upon, but such a charge as this, that it has given legislative control over to the members from the three large cities, is too much of a joke to entitle it to serious consideration. The spread of any such notion as that should be stopped at once.

The Chicago News asks if the progressives in all parties in the Illinois legislature have lost the sense of direction. Can't say, really; but they do seem to lack the direction of sense.

AMEND THE DIRECT LEGISLATOIN BILL

Either before or after the bill for the initiative and referendum is reported out by the conference committee in the legislature, it should be amended so as to eliminate the distribution feature that has been tacked onto the clause regarding the signing of petitions.

As that clause reads at present, the signatures to a petition for initiative or referendum on any measure must represent citizens in not less than one-third of the counties in the state. That is a mistake. It would mean that more or less of a campaign must be carried on in twenty-nine counties before the petition could be completed. This would be a serious hindrance to the operation of the law, and any provisions that operate to that end should be eliminated from the bill.

Another provision of the bill as it stands at present is that proposed constitutional amendments must, as heretofore, secure a majority of the votes cast at the election at which they are submitted, in order to become effective. This provision was substituted for one in an earlier draft of the measure which provided that such amendments need receive only 60 per cent of the votes cast on the amendments themselves. Under the terms of the earlier draft, it was pointed out, in case only 1,000 votes were cast on an amendment and 600 of that number were in favor of it, it would become effective even though fifteen or twenty thousand votes were cast in the election, but the vast majority of the voters failed to express themselves on the question of the amendment.

The injustice of this is readily apparent. But a way out of the difficulty might be arrived at by a compromise on the bill as a whole, by which the distribution feature should be eliminated so that the initiative and referendum plan would be put on a straight petition basis, and the ratification of constitutional amendments be made to depend on the amendments' getting 60 per cent of the vote cast on the amendments, providing 40 per cent of those who vote in the election vote in favor of them.

Such a compromise as this would mean that a proposed constitutional amendment must receive a large proportion of the total vote cast, and at the same time would assure a simple and effective system of operating the initiative and referendum.

President Wilson threatens to smash another Washington precedent by insisting upon the conservation of efficiency.

American Rag-Time

(From the London Times.)

Nor must the words of "rag-time" songs be forgotten; they must not be contemptuously dismissed as meaningless rubbish. They may not be anything as literature—indeed, they often cannot be said to be either sense or grammar—but for all that they are an interesting study in the fitting of a verbal to a musical pattern.

There are sincere and sensitive musicians who hold that "rag-time" is decadent and deplore its popularity as an evil sign of the times. They see in it all the worst characteristics of the modern American (many of them, perhaps, caught from the despised negro race). "Rag-time" in fact leaves, they feel, an unpleasant taste in the mouths of healthy-minded people. Perhaps their objections are partly accounted for by the fact that many of the best and most popular "rag-time" tunes are associated in their minds with certain repulsive ballroom dances or such abominations as the "Gaby glide." But this connection is purely accidental. There is surely nothing unhealthy or lascivious in the music itself—indeed, its very vigor and rhythm must have a stimulating effect on the popular musical mind. The sloppy rhythmless amateur, the inefficient soprano who cannot leave her high notes, will be hard put to it to make anything of "rag-time"—they must set their house in order before it will have anything to say to them. To perform these songs properly, both singer and pianist must have a strong feeling for rhythm and an absolutely accurate sense of time. The American public have learned to appreciate rhythm at the feet of that really remarkable composer Sousa; he it is who has prepared the way for this peculiar specialization in rhythm which seems to fit in so absolutely with the American character.

"Rag-time" music has been popular in the United States for about twenty-five years, and started probably as a debased imitation of the genuine negro song (just as the popular Gaiety favorites of the late eighties, "Enniscorthy" and "Ballyhooley," were debased imitations of a certain class of Irish folk song). It now represents not the lazy, sensuous, pleasure-loving "nigger" element, but the modern American at his most characteristic, full of energy—purposeless energy, perhaps, and without result, but never tiring and always alert.

Has "rag-time" anything to say to the musician? Is it a mere craze, or has it in itself the seeds of life? Will the American composer arrive who will be able to extract gold from the ore, who will add to the rhythmical basis of such music a noble sense of melody? It is not suggested that "rag-time" as such will develop into a great art. But "rag-time" represents the American nation; will it not probably suggest to some composer of the future other greater, more developed means which will also represent the American nation, out of which will grow up an art which will be really vital because it has its roots in its own soil? America has waited too long for her own music. Her serious musicians must cease to look abroad for their inspiration and turn their faces homeward.

What Do the Colors Say?

Ohio State Journal: This little poem was written by James Reagan, who is 7 years old:

I love the name of Washington,
I love my country, too.
I love the flag, the dear old flag,
Of red and white and blue.

What do the colors say?
Red says "Be brave,"
White says "Be pure,"
Blue says "Be true."

That little boy had been rightly instructed. He will go out into life with the true meaning of the flag. To him the flag does not stand for boasting and sentiment. It illustrates three virtues—courage, purity, fidelity. That is the lesson of the flag which everybody should learn, so as to put into their lives the virtues it proclaims. The flag stands, not only for battle and the roar of war, but for those civic qualities that adorn peace. "What do the colors say?" They say that a person who sincerely loves the flag must be brave, pure and true; and a man doesn't love it who isn't all these.

Did This Ever Happen?

Kansas City Times: The counsel for the defendant presented some evidence irrelevant to the direct charge, but tending to show that the defendant was not guilty.

The Court: Mr. Prosecutor, why don't you object?

The Prosecutor: If your honor please, we are not trying merely to get a conviction. We are not trying to win a game of technicalities. Furthermore, we believe that the jury has intelligence, and that if this evidence has nothing to do with the case they will disregard it. As we desire only justice, we wish not to create in the minds of the jurymen the impression that we are unfair or that we are afraid to have the whole truth appear. If, with a clear undertsanding of the case, the jury finds that the defendant is innocent we will feel that we have discharged our duty to the state as fully as if the jury finds the defendant is guilty.

Did anybody ever know this to happen?

A Sign of Spring.

Judge: "Oh, mother, spring is here!" "How do you know, Willie? Did you see a robin?"

"No; I saw a bunch of ball players on their way to catch a train for the South."

REPLIES TO SOCIALISTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In a Socialistic pamphlet of March 15, we notice that the Socialists are very much put out by being refused the use of the Polish school for their political meeting. On what ground can the Socialists lay any claims to the use of any Catholic institution? Are not the Socialists the bitterest enemies of the Catholic church? We are well aware of their anti-Catholic work right in the city of Duluth. In the Socialists' reading room on Second avenue west and on First street marked pages of books and periodicals were displayed, attacking and blackmailing the Catholic church. There is hardly an issue of the Socialistic Appeal to Reason or the Call, not to say anything of the Menace, which does not attack the Catholic church. For all this we are to allow Socialists to come to our schools and propagate their doctrines?

As a citizen of Duluth I am interested in the city's welfare. I want to see in it a good, clean and economical administration and from the experience of Milwaukee and other cities we are certain that Socialists are not in position to give us such an administration. They were failures in other municipalities and they will be a failure in Duluth. Should the Socialists return victorious in this campaign it will not be through the people's choice but rather on account of the number of candidates in the field and as the old proverb says, "Duobus certantibus tertius gaudet." The best anticote for Socialism is to give them a chance to govern the city, and no further effort will be necessary to defeat them. One dose of Socialistic administration is always an absolute cure for Socialism.

The Socialists wonder what would happen if Christ applied for a place in our pulpits. It is remarkable that those who do not believe in Christ seem to take great interest in the treatment he would receive on the part of His worshipers.

REV. S. A. ICIEK.

Flies Are a Disgrace

Philadelphia North American: "Flies are more dangerous than rattlesnakes," was the startling statement made by Dr. Henry Skinner in the second of a course of lectures on entomology recently.

"If people would but realize the germ-carrying propensities of the housefly," said Dr. Skinner, "nothing would be left undone to get rid of this pest. Owing to the hairy character of the legs and body, the fly collects all kinds of bacilli and transmits disease in its wake. If one-half of the energy that is squandered in slapping the fly and profanity during that process would be applied to getting proper fly traps, the result would soon be felt by humanity.

"A time will come when modern and cleanly houses will feel ashamed and disgraced by the presence of a fly, and every householder upon whose premises a brood of flies is detected will be heavily fined or even sent to jail. Always remember, an ounce of cleanliness is worth a ton of fly paper and wire screens."

During the course of Dr. Skinner's lecture he brought out the fact that to the stable fly has been attributed the increase of infantile paralysis in certain seasons of the year, being evidenced by the fact that this disease is more prevalent during summer, which is coincident with the time of flies.

A Suggestive Sign.

From the Boston Globe:

FOR SALE
THIS DAM MILL
& POND.

Perhap it may have been from this very sign that Holman F. Day, Maine's favorite poet, got the thought for his famous bit of verse, the "Sad Case of Mr. Moore," in which he says:

I know of a youth with the curious
name of Noah Damsite Moore;
And he wants it changed the very worst way, for that name has fretted him sore.
His parents years before—
Nice folks by the name of Moore—
Had lived by a river ere he was born.
They were poor, but honest, and woke one morn
To find that an opulent syndicate
Was ready to buy at a good stiff rate
All right and title to have and to hold
This farm for a damsite, and so they sold.
The haul was so big that this worthy pair
Lived high on the interest with lots to spare.
And so it was natural quite
When the son and heir and the light
Of the household came, he should get a name
Like a trade mark of that site—
To commemorate
That real estate
That gave them wealth when the syndicate
Bought up the damsite's right.

Evergreen in English Customs.

Boston Transcript: The day for pulling down Christmas evergreens has varied in England, according to popular custom. In Herrick's time, when evergreens were charms as well as decorations, the Christmas holly, mistletoe, rosemary and bay were not taken down till Candlemas eve, Feb. 1. But for every leaf left after this day maids are warned by the poet, "So many goblins you shall see," for these decorations must now be replaced by box. On master eve, box was displaced by yew, and yew at Whitsuntide by birch and fresh flowers. In Shropshire the Christmas holly used to be burnt on the hearth on Candlemas day. A pretty Shropshire custom was the "purification" of the house in early spring by placing within it a bunch of snowdrops — "Christ's flowers" — this was called "the white purification." This belief in the purifying power of the snowdrop seems to have been derived from its use as an emblem of the purification in Candlemas ceremonies and processions; another name for the flower was "Candlemas bells." An old rhyme says that the snowdrop "first rears her hedde on Candlemas day," but this mild winter garden snowdrops have been in flower since the first week in November, and some species bloom naturally in autumn, on high ground, in Greece and adjacent countries. The snowdrop is a native of Central and Southern Europe, but it is said not to be indigenous to Britain. It was probably introduced in the Middle Ages by monks returning from Italy, and by other travelers.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wilson and Secretary Tumulty joke each other back and forth in the course of their daily toil, with the comradeship of a pair of schoolboys. On the morning that Wilson made his first appearance at the executive offices, the only thing on his desk was a stack of photographs to be autographed.

"I'm sorry, sir," said Tumulty, "but this is all I have been able to find for you to do today."

"Well, well," murmured the president, in mock vexation, "I supposed the position would carry with it bigger jobs than this."

* * *

Later the same day, Mr. Wilson put on his hat to leave the offices. It was the silk hat he had bought for the inauguration exercises. Young Mr. Tumulty stared at the lofty headgear and then reproachfully asked the president of the United States:

"Where did you get that hat?"

"My regular hat hasn't been unpacked yet," replied the president apologetically.

* * *

Uncle Joe Cannon, for many years a representative in congress from one of the Illinois districts, and Col. William J. Bryan, our estimable new secretary of state, always regard a meeting with each other as a signal for a kidding match.

Uncle Joe called on Bryan a day or so after he stepped into his fine new job.

"What's the name?" inquired Bryan. "Seems as if we've met before," came back Cannon. "I've either met you or seen you or heard your name or something. Let's see, weren't you a member of congress at one time?"

* * *

Uncle Joe has been less jocose with his successor, Frank T. O'Hair. When O'Hair came on to Washington to learn about his new job, about the first man he ran into at the capitol was nobody less than Uncle Joe himself. But the former speaker never gave so much as a look or a hand wave to the man who defeated him. He has not recognized the man's existence since election day.

* * *

This story begins with the battle of Manila bay, in 1898. Josephus Daniels, a young editor down at Raleigh, N. C., is so impressed with Dewey's feat that he becomes a hero-worshiper, and has never ceased to regard Admiral Dewey as about the greatest man alive. When Dewey is criticized later on, for one reason or another, Daniels stays at his office late and writes columns of carefully polished editorial matter defending and lauding his hero. He hopes some day to meet Dewey and have a chance to sit at his feet.

* * *

Time goes on, and Josephus Daniels becomes secretary of the navy. After he has been in office a day or two, he learns that one of his duties is to go over every so often and attend the meetings of the general board of the navy department, of which Admiral Dewey is president. Now, he thinks, he will get his long-hoped-for chance to know Admiral Dewey. He is almost abashed at the thought of meeting his hero face to face after all these years. After the introductions are over, Dewey offers Secretary Daniels a seat at the head of the table. Daniels is almost startled.

"Gracious, no!" says he. "Me at the head of the table and YOU here?"

"But you're the secretary—you're my chief," reminds Dewey, smilingly.

"Naw, naw; I'll never sit at the head of any table where you are," declares Daniels, who would have felt honored to have a footstool where he could sit and look up at Dewey. "I'll sit at your right hand, but that's as far as I can go."

* * *

"It's a funny thing," remarks Daniels to Dewey later on, "that my state has now had five cabinet officers and every one has been secretary of the navy."

"Yes," replied Dewey, "and that reminds me of something. The last North Carolina secretary before you was James C. Dobbin, and he was the man who got me my appointment to Annapolis. I guess that's why I've always been such a good Democrat."

* * *

Daniels always dresses in black and white—black clothes, black string necktie, broad-brimmed black hat of Quaker shape, and plain white linens. He reminds one of the plain, kindly-faced folks one sees in old-fashioned albums.

The thing Daniels is best at is being a human being. He has a sense of humor, and every remark he makes impresses one with the fact that he is human. Probably he is the most human man in the cabinet.

It is Daniels' notion that the greatest job in the world is running a newspaper. By not caring a continental about political jobs for himself, he has kept his paper independent and has been able to run the politics of North Carolina. He was not wildly enthusiastic about entering the cabinet.

Just one argument caused him to take his present job, and that argument was put up by his wife. She said that it would be a fine thing for their four boys to have had their dad honored by a cabinet place. That settled it. If it were a good thing for the boys, Daniels was for it.

The Cook and the Cuckoo.

Boston Transcript: Mistress—Bridget, what ails the cuckoo clock? I haven't heard it today.

Bridget—Well, mum, there do be a strange cat around the kitchen an' likely the poor bur-rd's afeared to come out.

Something Unusual.

He hunted through the library,
He looked behind the door,
He searched where baby keeps his toys
Upon the nursery floor;
He asked the cook and Mary,
He called mamma to look,
He even started sister up
To leave her precious book.

He couldn't find it anywhere,
And knew some horrid tramp
Had walked in through the open gate
And stolen it, the scamp!
Perhaps the dog had taken it
And hidden it away;
Or else perhaps he chewed it up
And swallowed it in play.

And then mamma came down the stairs,
Looked through the closet door,
And there it hung upon its peg,
As it had hung before.
And Tommy's cheek turned rosy red,
Astonished was his face,
He couldn't find his cap—because
'Twas in its proper place!

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

A Step Ahead.

Aurora News: Personal injury lawyers and ambulance chasers have worked up the form of an opposition to the workmen's compensation bill but those backing the measure do not appear much alarmed at this sort of opposition. The bill might be improved, but is a fair and just measure, and if it becomes a law, will be a healthy stride toward correcting the many abuses to which the injured workman has been subjected.

Credit Where Due.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Up to this time the legislature has made an excellent record, and it is a pleasure to give it full credit for good service.

When Omission Counts.

Red Wing Republican: There are over 1,500 bills now pending before the Minnesota legislature. The larger number of them should undoubtedly be cut out or ignored by common consent. A legislature oftentimes does as valuable public service in what it doesn't do as in what it does.

Sensible Law.

Albert Lea Standard: The bill permitting five-sixths of a jury in civil cases to render a verdict after twelve hours' deliberation, has become a law, and a sensible law it is, as all must agree.

Astonished!

Fairmont Sentinel: Capital punishment, a polite term for legalized murder, was very properly strangled to death by the lower branch of the legislature. It is astonishing that in this day of civilization any man claiming to be a Christian will cry out for the blood of a fellow being.

Eggs By Weight.

Preston Times: A bill is before the legislature to fix the legal weights of all sorts of commodities not already thus regulated, but we look in vain for a proposition to compel the selling or buying of eggs by weight. It is particularly exasperating when eggs are say, 25 cents or 30 cents a dozen, to be confronted with a lot of tiny nut-sized affairs, at least two of which would be required to make an ordinary egg. But it is the consumer who suffers and he is seldom heard.

Praise for the Legislature.

Cambridge North Star: The legislature will be in session a little more than a month. So far it has proven to be about the most industrious and intelligent legislature Minnesota has ever had.

No Hoodoo Session.

Cambridge Independent-Press: With state reapportionment and distance tariff out of the way it ought to be easy sailing for the legislature to wind up the business affairs of the present session in fine shape. The 1913 legislature is no hoodoo in spite of the number "13" adage.

London's Lord Mayor

Harper's Weekly: The powers and duties of the lord mayor of London, in presiding over his square mile of territory, present some curious features. Theoretically, at least, the consent of this important personage must be obtained before even the king may enter the city of London; at the same time, it may be pointed out, the lord mayor spends a considerable portion of each morning disposing of petty offenders against the majesty of the law in the small area over which he rules. Most of these are plain "drunks." Imagine the mayor of New York, of Boston, or of Chicago engaged in the dispensation of such Solomon-like justice.

The "city" in London comprises but one square mile, the greater part whereof is occupied by the great business houses that control the finances of the world. For instance, there is the Bank of England, containing a reserve fund of $100,000,000 in gold. Twenty-eight soldiers are detailed to guard the treasure within, but without it is still further watched, inasmuch as within the square mile mentioned there circulate no fewer than 1,800 policemen. After 9 o'clock in the evening the silence of the streets there is broken only by the slow tread of these "bobbies." It would be a bold burglar, indeed, who attempted work in this well-guarded area.

The result of all this is that as downright criminals give the "city" a wide berth, the chief offenders haled before the lord mayor in the morning are those who have looked upon the wine when it was red in the cup.

The lord mayor's salary is twice that of a prime minister. He receives as much pay as does our president. He is the highest salaried magistrate in the world.

It is not to be assumed, however, that, aside from disposing of the morning's "drunks," the lord mayor has nothing to do. One such official, who kept a record of his activities during the course of one year, has tabulated for our information some interesting figures in this connection. It appears that he attended 130 public and semi-public dinners, 85 balls and receptions, 365 meetings and committees. He delivered 1,100 speeches and paid 20 state visits to churches.

When the above mentioned class of duties militates against the dispensation of justice, a brother alderman takes the lord mayor's place on the bench.

Unlucky Days to Wed.

From Tit-Bits:

Marry in Lent and you will live to repent:
Marry in May and you will rue the day.

May and February were held by the ancient Romans to be the two months in the year which were certain to bring ill luck, while even the church before the time of the reformation placed a ban upon all marriages contracted between the first Sunday of Advent and Hilary day, between Septuagesima Sunday and Low Sunday, and between Rogation Sunday and Trinity Sunday. Thus only thirty-two weeks of the year were left by the church for marrying.

As to the best day, if we would believe a tradition handed down by the ancients, any day is certain to bring unbounded happiness if it only be when "the moon is growing."

There are other traditions which, if you are superstitious, it will be well to observe. One of these is that May 14 brings ill luck for all the rest of the year, and if you would be assured of misfortune then select Childermas day for the date of your wedding. This day is the anniversary of the massacre of the innocents. A wedding on the last day of the year is also said to be productive of great misfortunes.

Crosby's New Paper.

The Crosby Crucible is the name of the latest addition to the weekly newspapers of Northeastern Minnesota. Published in the rapidly growing new town of Crosby on the Cuyuna Iron range by C. M. Atkinson and Marc Atkinson, who have made a success of the Mesaba Iron Ore at Hibbing, the Crucible starts out like a sure winner. The first number has a fine array of advertising which shows that Crosby is a live and enterprising town, and the publishers have presented an excellent newspaper that both in typographical appearance and from a news standpoint would do credit to a much ouer and larger village. There is no handsomer weekly published in the state than the Crosby Crucible.

The Hours of Life.

Maeterlinck: Teach us to respect the little hours of life. If this morning I have been able to act, with the animus of a Marcus Aurelius, do not over-emphasize my actions, for I know, even I myself, that something has happened. But if I believe I have sacrificed my day to wretched enterprises and if you are able to prove to me that I have lived meanwhile as profoundly as a hero, and that my soul has not lost its rights, then you will have done more than if you had persuaded me to save my enemy today, for you have increased within me the amount, the greatness and the desire of life, and tomorrow in all likelihood I shall know how to live with respect.

She Knew All About Children.

Columbus Dispatch: The activities of the local pure food experts in condemning large quantities of catsup brought this story from a physician who used it to illustrate a point he was making: "In my younger days I once saw a woman feeding a baby a few months old on bits of dried fish and pickle.

"'Don't do that,' I said, 'It's most unhealthy to give fish and pickle to so young a child.'

The woman frowned on me.

"'Huh,' she said, 'don't you try to teach me how to feed babies. Why young man, I've buried seven.'"

HEALTH & HAPPINESS
By Dr. R. D. Scott.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and when a stamped addressed envelope is enclosed.

Dr. Scott will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases, and requests for such service cannot be answered.

Rural Sanitation and Health.

It is a popular illusion that life in the country is more healthful than average city life. That it should be so would appear a self-evident fact to the city man, and, theoretically, life in the country, being more natural, should therefore be more healthful; but the ignorance and carelessness which prevail in rural communities regarding the simplest and most essential rules of hygiene, more than counterbalances the advantages of fresh air, fresh food and abundance of sunlight.

To the average farmer and his wife, hygiene and sanitation are just new tangled bothersome things, invented by the pestiferous city fellow, mainly to interfere with the liberty of the born kings of the soil. Have not they, and their fathers before them, survived the drinking of dirty milk, the eating of fly-infected food, and the use of sewage contaminated water? And surely what was good enough for them should be good enough for their children, or the much despised city consumer of their produce. In the face of such an argument, it is needless to say that ordinary means of education in hygiene would prove futile, among the adult population at least.

Dr. Charles E. North of New York, in a recent bulletin of the United States bureau of education, says: "Studies of the water supply of farms in both Canada and the United States, show that 60 per cent of the wells are polluted with house or barn yard drainage. The milk, although fresh, is often from cows suffering from tuberculosis, and produced under unsanitary conditions. Human and animal waste is poorly disposed of, being frequently exposed to flies, in a manner that makes easy the transfer of germs to the house and the food of its occupants.

"Sleeping with closed windows is common, and the house air in the country is frequently worse than house air in the city. Cellars are damp and improperly drained, the common drinking cup or dipper is a regular institution, and so is the roller towel. Hot water is scarce, so the dish washing suffers; even in the country there is an abundance of infectious diseases." The remedy for this situation lies in the education of the children in the science of hygiene, and the harvest will be reaped by the next generation.

As if to assure us that all rural communities are not as painted by Dr. North, there come a grateful breeze of advanced health sentiment from the little town of Dawson, Minn. With a population of 1,513 souls it has a weekly paper with a circulation of 1,200, edited by a progressive hygienist, who is working for the uplift of his fellows, and particularly for the betterment of the next generation. In a recent editorial he advocates the establishment of medical school inspection in the following words: "It has been scientifically established that most diseases result from childhood neglect. Children from all sorts and conditions of homes meet in the democracy of the public schools. Do you know who occupies the seat in front of or beside your boy? Is he clean? Is he healthy? Are you sure that no member of the family is afflicted with contagious disease? It may be that his throat is spotted with diphtheria; that scarlet fever is being shed from his hands. He may be itchy, his body may be covered with foul sores transmissible to your boy. Do you know anything about it? Do you care a hang?" He then continues, in enthusiastic form, to advocate medical school inspection as a remedy for all these suggested ills. This is right; but the removal of these dangers which he would have his children avoid, is the smallest part of efficient medical school inspection. The bigger parts lie in the discovery by the inspector of abnormalities, easily corrected in time, which prevent the normal development of the child; and the educational influence on the whole school, and through it the community. Teaching hygiene to a community in this manner has proved itself to be both satisfactory and potent of lasting results; and, even rural communities, when fairly progressive, are advocating the establishment of medical school inspection, with this result in view.

Nervous Function of the Skin.

To the neurologist the skin and mucous covering appear as one vast sense organ; and studded, as these structures are, with high specialized sensory end-organs which are constantly forwarding impressions to the cord and brain, it is not surprising that the physiologist, the neurologist and the hygienist all consider the condition in which the skin is kept to be a very important matter, so far as health is concerned. The greater part of the impressions conveyed by the skin nerves are stimuli which are at once reflected through the spinal chord to the various internal organs, and the healthy functioning of these depends to some extent on the character of stimuli received from the skin. In connection with my recent "talks" on ventilation, where it was stated that to make fresh air popular it would be necessary to make it comfortable air, it is well to call attention to the fact that skin comfort is best understood as a freedom from stimuli, and that such freedom may be easily carried to excess. The old saying, "what is one man's meat is another man's poison," was never better exemplified than in the matter of skin stimuli; for, while a cold plunge in the morning is an excellent thing for the nervously robust person, it may be decidedly injurious to any other suffering from a loss of nervous equilibrium; and the same thing holds true in the matter of sudden changes of temperature, exposure to cold drafts, etc.

It has recently been pretty clearly shown that constantly living in air with a too even temperature is not conducive to either the best health or greatest efficiency, but such observations apply only to the robust and nervously well balanced individual. There are scores of people, and among them those whose avocation keeps them within doors most of the time, who do not require the nerve stimuli from cold plunges, sudden changes in temperature, etc.; but, on the other hand, often receive direct injury from such treatment. So it will be seen that, even in prescribing fresh air, the personal equation must not be lost sight of, and people of nervous temperament are seldom benefited by anything causing nervous stimulation.

The points to remember are: First cold is stimulating and those of robust nervous are benefited by occasional stimulation, while the person of nervous temperament, although he craves stimulation at all times, is invariably injured whenever it is carried to even slight excess. Secondly, everybody needs fresh air, the neurotic and phlegmatic alike; but the methods of administering it must differ so as to suit the nervous temperament of the individual. Let everybody get their share of the cheapest and most plentiful thing on earth, but let them take it in a manner that will do the most good. Remember that even temperatures are restful, therefore beneficial, to the person of nervous temperament; also that the strenuous life is of real benefit only to those having a robust nervous constitution. But let it also be remembered that the feelings are a poor thing on which to judge air conditions, and reliable thermometers are so inexpensive there is no excuse for anyone being without one in every room, during the winter months. Then they will be able to find out exactly the temperatures best suited to their temperament, and make an effort to warm the fresh air to suit their skin.

Growth Under Toe Nails.

Mrs. C. T. R. writes: I am troubled with a growth under three toe nails of each foot. It prevents my cutting the nails short enough for comfort. The growth is painful if cut. The nails are perfect in shape. Can you give me a remedy? I think a solution of some good wash might help. I think the growth was caused by the nails being cut too short during my younger days. I am 90 years old.

REPLY.

In old age all the appendages of the skin, hair, nails, etc., are inclined to slight overgrowths. I guess that the growth under the nails is nothing more than a slight growth of the matrix or nail bed, and should be protected by allowing the nails to grow slightly longer. Daily applications of peroxide of hydrogen on an orange wood stick will, however, have a tendency to check over growth. The peroxide and manicure stocks may both be had at any drug store.

NEW MEMBERS FOR THE U. C. T.

Zenith Council Initiates a Large Class and Installs Officers.

Zenith council, No. 40, U. C. T., initiated a class of thirty candidates and installed the newly-elected officers at one of the best meetings of the year at the Owls' hall, 118 West Superior street, Saturday night.

Plans were made for sending a large delegation to the annual state convention of the commercial travelers, to be held at Crookston in June. The regular delegates include G. M. Peterson, district deputy; J. D. Sattler, J. E. Lawrence, George Speirs, C. W. Sutton and Bert Holcomb. The lodge will give a dance next week and preparations are under way for the annual minstrel show to be given April 29. With the initiation of last night the order becomes the second largest in the state.

Following the regular meeting those present enjoyed a social session and banquet. Al Overman acted as toastmaster and among those who responded were: George M. Peterson, John R. Melning, William Donaldson, A. M. Balfany, D. E. Casey, Clarence Nixon, G. Berg and Messrs. West and Hegstrom of Superior.

The new officers to take their official positions are as follows: Senior consul, George Speirs; junior consul, S. F. Chalk; past senior consul, J. D. Lawrence; secretary-treasurer, C. W. Sutton; conductor, J. H. Lindbeck; page, F. A. Tate; sentinel, H. A. Anderson; members of the executive committee, B. P. Neff and G. W. Welles.

FIVE DULUTHIANS ADMITTED TO BAR

Pass State Examinations and Are Eligible to Practice.

The report of the state board of bar examiners, for the examination held Feb. 1 at St. Paul has been issued by Secretary Ell Southworth of Shakopee. The following young lawyers from Duluth were successful and are now eligible to practice: Raymond H. Fryberger; John H. Manthey, George B. Gifford, Neal Beaton and W. A. Pittenger.

Mr. Fryberger is a nephew of H. B. Fryberger, the well known Duluth lawyer. His record in the examination was especially good; and out of a class of thirty or more from all over the state he received the second highest mark.

ANNUAL REPORT OF SOCIETY FOR FRIENDLESS

The Society for the Friendless, which has members and carries on its operations in all cities of any considerable size in this state, has just issued its annual report, showing more than the usual activity during the year 1912. The society directs particular attention to the inmates of the jails and reformatories, studying individual cases, and getting the helpless on their feet, enabling them to take care of themselves. The report includes the following summary of the work of the society, compiled by the superintendent, James Parsons, of Minneapolis:

Number of applicants for assistance and service, 890; number rendered assistance and service, 795; number of men assisted to employment, 230; number of prisoners interviewed, 911; number of interviews at office, 1,150; number of special cases investigated, 159; number of miscellaneous interviews, 2,816; miles traveled, 42,696; number of addresses delivered, 373; number of persons reached by public addresses, 73,390; number of papers and leaflets distributed, 10,000; number of letters sent out from office, 2,300.

The officers of the society are as follows: President, Edward F. Waite, Minneapolis; vice president, George A. Hormel, Austin; treasurer, C. W. Gardner, Minneapolis; secretary, James Parsons, Minneapolis; directors, C. J. Winton of Minneapolis, E. W. Bohannon of Duluth, Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren, George H. Crosby of Duluth, W. L. Harris of Minneapolis, Greer U. Orr of St. Paul, D. A. Painter of Minneapolis, C. L. Stacy of Minneapolis and Dr. F. M. Rule of St. Paul.

ARRAIGNS MEN WHO PANDER TO VICE

Lumberjacks' Missionary Condemns Owners of Buildings Sheltering Immorality.

A bitter arraignment of so-called "leading citizens," who derive much of their income from pandering to the vicious instincts of society, was delivered by Matt Daly, the missionary among the lumberjacks, in an address on "Citizenship" at the Bethel last night. Mr. Daly said in part:

"As we enter the city we meet a poor, old man sitting on his humble doorstep bowed in grief. We hear his story—that of a saloon near his home, the downfall of his son through drink, which later killed his good wife, and then later the corruption of his daughter.

"This poor old citizen sits bowed under a load of sorrow. He doubts existing conditions. He doubts the story of the Lowly Nazarene. Why should he not? The man who runs the place which caused the wreck of his family is a leading member of the same church. He thinks if this man is entitled to be looked upon as a leading member, then surely his idea of the teachings of Christ must be all wrong. He has lost faith in his church, his city and his country for which he fought through the wars. Who shall say he is an undesirable citizen?

"Next we look for a 'leading' citizen and are directed to te fashionable part of the city. We are wined and dined and he consents to show us the town. As we pass from street to street people all appear to pay homage to our host. He shows us his residence property, his business property. In the latter we see saloons, gambling halls and hotels of questionable repute. We go to the redlight district and he tells us he owns several of the buildings. On the way home we pass the brewery and he tells us of the directors' meeting he will have to attend where a dividend will be declared.

"On leaving our host we go to our room tot hink it over. My Christian friends are shocked. We resolve to protest. We again call on the leading citizen and ask him if he knows what his buildings are being used for. He says yes, but then the agent collects the rental and he does not become contaminated. When we broach the subject that these are breaking up the homes he begs to be excused owing to business meetings necessary for him to attend.

"How often it is that we find this class of a man called the leading citizen. In the name of Jesus Christ, I ask an honest and fearless question: 'Which way is he leading and how uong will he lead?' We need true Christian citizens who will have the courage to engage in an uncompromising struggle against these 'leaders.' If we would lift the fallen we must force those who are crushing them down to step aside. This requires real citizenship that will acknowledge no defeat, no matter who is the enemy."

MOST NUTRITIOUS FOOD SOLD IN DULUTH

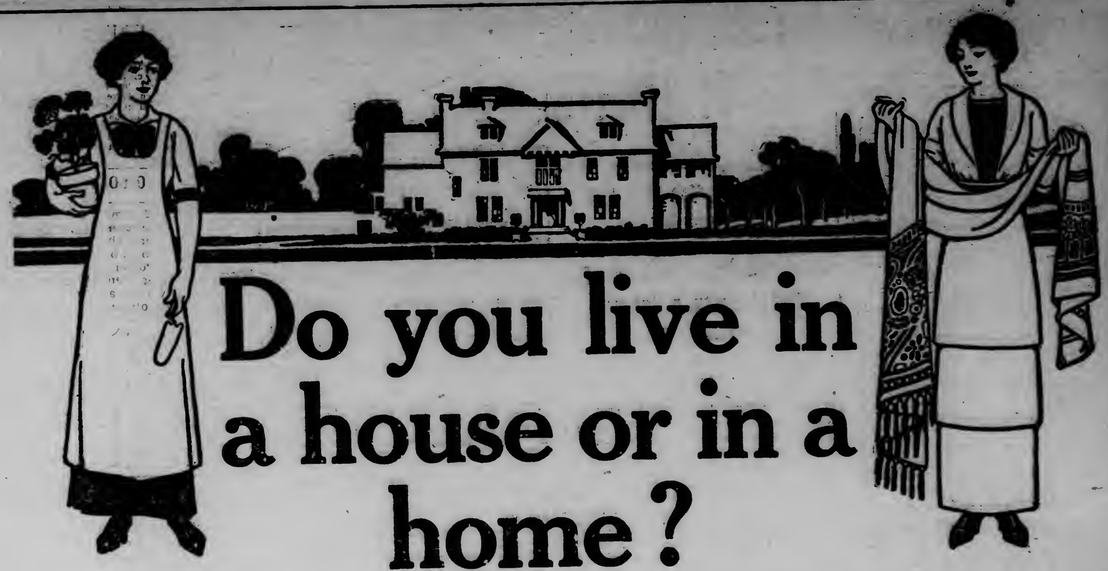
To some Duluth women it will be news that "Minnesota" Macaroni, besides being so delicious, is also four times as nutritious as beefsteak and six times as nutritious as potatoes.

"Minnesota" Macaroni contains more proteids than most foods and is therefore more strength giving, and it gives the body great power of endurance without overloading the stomach.

If it is served often in place of meat the whole family will be much healthier. And, besides, it will reduce the cost of living, as "Minnesota" Macaroni costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

MILWAUKEE ARRESTS.



Two Captures of Mysterious Nature Made By Cream City Police.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—Two mysterious arrests have been made in this city in the past two days, but pending the arrest of a third member of what is said to be one of the most dangerous band of safe blowers in America, the local police refuse to explain the nature of the arrest. Various theories are offered for the arrest. One is that the men are suspected of the robbery of a New York pawnbroker's safe in New York, March 16, of $300,000. The police, however, refuse to admit that the men are accused of this offense. The authorities refuse to give out the names of the men under arrest. One was arrested in a local hotel early on Saturday, while two others escaped. One of the two who escaped was arrested Saturday afternoon when he called upon a doctor to have a gunshot wound in his hand treated, this man, it is said, having been shot by the detectives while escaping from the hotel. The police do not even make a formal admission that there have been any arrests.

CASS LAKE SOO DEPOT HAS FIRE.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ticket office and both waiting rooms at the Soo depot were badly gutted by fire Saturday, the first starting from an overheated hot-air register in the ticket office. Nearly everything in the ticket office, including the records, were destroyed, and a few parcels of express matter damaged. All of the freight was removed, but the fire was stopped before reaching that room.

I. C. Curtin, the agent, was checking over articles being unloaded from a freight train and, on returning to the office, noticed it was pretty warm in the building and went downstairs to shut off the furnace drafts, and, on returning upstairs, he found the office in flames. Although the building looked for a time as if it would be destroyed, the firemen, by hard work, confined the flames to the rooms above stated. Loss on the building is estimated at about $700 and contents $300, all covered by insurance carried by the company.

RELIGHTING OF LIGHTS

Beautiful Ceremony Is Conducted at the Masonic Temple.

Rev. Thomas McLean Delivers Easter Sermon to Masons.

The Masonic exercises at the temple yesterday afternoon marked the close of the Scottish Rite reunion and also was in observance of the annual custom of the Knights Templar attending divine services in a body.

The affair took place in the Scottish Rite auditorium and was largely attended by Masons and their families. The auditorium was packed to capacity. An excellent musical program was furnished by the Scottish Rite quartet, under direction of A. F. M. Custance. The Templars, in full uniform, were present in large numbers.

Before the sermon of the day, by Rev. Thomas McLean, rector of Trinity pro-cathedral and prelate of the Templars, the ceremony of relighting the lights took place. This was conducted by Wise Master Carl Wiberg and his assistants. The lights are extinguished, according to custom, on Maundy Thursday and relighted on Easter Sunday. It is a solemn and beautiful service, signifying that although apparently slain righteousness is never dead.

Dr. McLean spoke on the true meaning of Easter and spoke eloquently on his subject.

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. SILBERSTEIN

Sixteen Prominent Citizens Resent the Stirrup Club Attack.

A remarkable testimonial to Bernard Silberstein, candidate for mayor, is published in this issue of The Herald. It consists of signed statements by sixteen prominent Duluth men, who indorse Mr. Silberstein's candidacy, and recent the attack made on him by the Stirrup club.

Those who signed the statements are:

R. D. Annis, one of owners of Northern Hardware company.

A. Lofgren, druggist at 2030 West Superior street; Duluth business man for many years.

Dr. N. B. McNulty, dentist in Duluth for many years.

John Jenswold, Jr., attorney and member of park board.

S. W. Hill, merchant at 1926 West Superior street; resident of Duluth for twenty-five years.

C. P. Craig, real estate dealer and resident of Duluth nearly twenty-five years.

J. W. Rowley, retired real estate dealer.

J. T. Johnson, clerk in Duluth for ten years.

W. E. Magner, general manager of D. G. Cutler company and president of board of education.

E. S. Radcliffe, architect in Duluth for twenty-five years.

George W. Strayer, retired coal dealer, now in real estate business.

Dr. W. H. Magie, physician and surgeon in Duluth for twenty-six years.

CALLS STIRRUP CLUB "SILLY LITTLE BOYS"

Morris Kaplan, candidate for mayor, characterized the Stirrup club and the Municipal Ownership league as "organizations of silly little boys led and misled by a bunch of politicians," at a Socialist meeting at New Duluth yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Kaplan declared that the two organizations are boosting McEwen for mayor because they know he hasn't a chance of being elected and they want to divide the workingmen's votes.

Ed Blackwood also gave a short talk. Tonight Morris Kaplan, E. N. Edes and Blackwood will speak at 1627 London road, while P. G. Phillips, W. E. Towne and Ed T. Harris of Superior will address a meeting at 421 East Fourth street. Tomorrow evening Socialist meetings will be held at Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street and at Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

Owing to the municipal campaign now on in Milwaukee, Victor Berger will probably be unable to come to Duluth for the meeting at the Armory next Sunday afternoon.

LETTERS FROM CANDIDATES

Women Will Hear How They Stand on Law Enforcement.

At a meeting this afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., fifty letters from candidates for the commission will be read. Letters, asking certain questions, dealing with law enforcement, were sent to the candidates on behalf of the W. C. T. U., Women's Suffrage club, Humane society, Y. W. C. A., and Woman's society of the First M. E. church.

IN DEFENSE OF A GOOD CITIZEN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

About fifteen years ago, a laboring man of Scandinavian birth owned a home on Fourth avenue east above Sixth street, and had it insured for $1,500. The house and all its contents were destroyed by fire, completely destroying everything that this poor man possessed. After the fire, he called at the insurance agency and reported his loss. In due time the adjusters came and finding that the insured was not up in business tactics immediately began to scheme to beat him out of as much as possible. They bluffed, threatened, and used every underhanded method known to the art to get a settlement for a few paltry dollars. The man with his little family were in despair, did not know of a friend to go to, until by chance he met Bernard Silberstein on the street. He told Mr. Silberstein his trouble and what the adjusters were trying to do. Mr. Silberstein was indignant at such methods and asked the poor man to have the adjusters call at his store the next time that they appeared and he, Mr. Silberstein, would handle the case. The adjusters came, Mr. Silberstein told them in plain but forcible language just what he thought of this kind of deal, told them that this poor man must be paid his money within forty-eight hours or, he, Mr. Silberstein would cancel all the insurance he had with the company, and would further advertise their methods. The result was that the poor man received his money the next day, and received justice and square treatment from a man who was not looking for votes or the dollars and cents in every little deal. This explains or shows the kind of a man Bernard Silberstein has always been, a friend of the poor and unfortunate.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE IS CURABLE

If one-tenth of the letters and statements we have received are true. Some of them include the analytical chemist's figures insuring the genuineness of the cases and the results. They come from all classes, including business and professional men; some are from physicians. The writers do not know us and are not interested in us and would have no motive in writing us other than the truth, and it is absolutely impossible to escape the conclusion forced by these letters, viz: that Bright's Disease is curable and that many of the ninety thousands annually dying from this disease can live on to other terminations.

The truth that these letters and statements carry is of vital interest to Insurance Companies, to the Government and to the people. We would welcome an investigation by the highest court in the land into their genuineness, the motives that prompted them, and the facts they disclose and a judicial decision on them as to the curability of chronic Bright's Disease, alleged to be incurable the world over.

If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, oil the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system of impurities.

They do all that dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

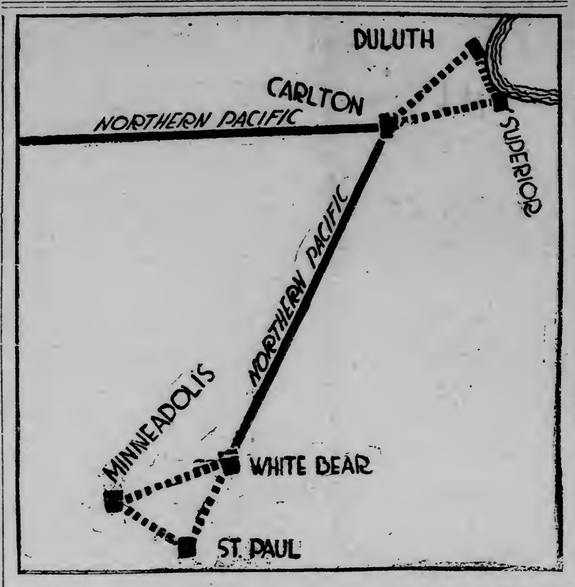
IMMENSE SORTING YARDS WILL BE LAID OUT AT CARLTON AND WHITE BEAR

President of Northern Pacific Announces Freight Handling Plans.

Will Relieve Congestion at Duluth and the Twin Cities.

The enormous and growing traffic between the Head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities has necessitated some very important changes in the matter of terminals by the Northern Pacific with a view to keeping the city terminals from being overcrowded, and President Howard Elliott of that road has just made an interesting announcement in connection with this matter.



The preliminary work will start at once in constructing a large terminal at Carlton, announcement of which has been made by The Herald before this. This terminal will be used as a storage and make-up yard to relieve the situation here. A similar one will be put in at White Bear to take the pressure off the Twin Cities. As a result of these two sub-terminals, it is expected that the state inspection department will likely establish a station at each of these places, for grain shipments will be immensely affected.

The Duluth-to-the-Twin-Cities stretch will be equipped with the latest thing in block signals, operated by electricity, and which are said to make wrecks impossible unless engineers fail to obey.

"The passenger service," said President Elliott yesterday in the Twin Cities, "will continue to operate directly into the Duluth-Superior and Twin City terminals, but the freight trains will break up and make up at Carlton and at White Bear. a large freight-house and roundhouse will be built at Carlton, and at White Bear a roundhouse will be put in. These places will be the ends of runs for the freight crews."

It is estimated that the cost of this proposed work will be fully $1,000,000, and it may ultimately result in more than that, for the reason that the work now planned, it is admitted, is hardly more than preliminary. It is considered as highly significant of the great growth of the past and that anticipated. It is one of the greatest proposed improvements of any of the roads for years, especially on as short a line as between the Head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities, that being only 150 miles. It is indicative of the unusual growth of business between these two points and of the prospective growth for which the road is preparing.

The Cuyuna range shipment, of course, added to the demand for accommodation at this end.

Between Carlton and White Bear will be observed heavy black lines showing the future freight runs of the Northern Pacific, these two points to the freight termini of the Northern Pacific in the near future. At these points will be the make-up and break-up yards, and roundhouses will be provided. The idea is to take the pressure off the city terminals. Passenger trains will run directly between the cities.

BUSINESS ABOUT EQUAL THAT OF LAST YEAR

According to the statement of several of the freight representatives of several of the local railroads, the general business of the Duluth railroads is about as good during the present month as it was during the greater part of March, 1912, and this despite the fact that there has been a heavy falling off in the shipments of two important commodities.

Coal and lumber are behind compared to the showing of March of a year ago. Railroad men declare that the present high price of lumber is the principal reason for the falling off in shipments.

So far the present month there has been a decrease in the coal movement comparing the figures with those of the first three weeks of the same month of a year ago.

In general the business of the Duluth railroads remains very good.

This is the dull time of the year for the railroads. Starting with the latter part of next month the Duluth railroad men in general look for an increase in business.

ICY SIDEWALK PLAYS TRICKS WITH PEDESTRIANS

Many Accidents, Both Serious and Humorous, at Scene of Sunday's Disastrous Fire.

The fire that occurred Saturday night on the east side of First avenue east between First and Superior streets left an extremely dangerous sidewalk on the side of the street across from the burned buildings. The walk was coated with ice formed of water from the engine hose for a distance of about fifty feet, and the crowd that gathered from time to time during the day to look over the ruins was amused by many a curious sight on the treasherous hillside. At the bottom of the slippery incline for a long time during the morning, a young man and a young woman stood engrossed in each other's society so deeply that they took little notice of the pedestrians who awkwardly balancing themselves on the ice after the manner that they learned some twenty or forty years before, but had almost completely forgotten, came sliding towards them from time to time. The spoony couple continued oblivious to the scene around them until a young man who had been walking down the hillside at more than the usual speed, and who had stepped upon the ice unawares, came sliding to them at such a velocity that he was unable to halt himself before reaching them. The momentum with which he butted in between the lovers was such as to rouse them from their dual reverie. Awakened to a sense of the ridiculous situation, they quickly walked round the corner and were seen no more, not even waiting for an apology from the disturber of their dream.

An accident that occurred early in the morning gave promise of resulting much more seriously. An intoxicated man slipped and fell on the icy walk and, striking his head on the hard surface, was knocked senseless. He was picked up and carried to a nearby store, where he soon revived and went on his way. At first it was feared that death would be the consequence of the mishap.

Those who slipped on the ice were nearly all men. Almost every woman that passed that way noticed the condition of the walk before she reached it and walked around it in the street.

CHURCHES ARE CROWDED

Easter Services Well Attended Despite the Unfavorable Weather.

Elaborate Musical Programs Mark Observance of Religious Festival.

The congregation that assembled in the various churches of Duluth to attend the Easter services yesterday were surprisingly large in view of the disagreeable weather. Many of the pastors expressed great gratification over the size of their congregations on a day when walking on many of the sidewalks was not only difficult and unpleasant but positively dangerous, especially during the latter part of the day and in the evening.

Never were the Easter programs of these churches more elaborate or arranged and carried out with more painstaking care than those of yesterday. There was special Easter music in every church, and many of the selections sung by the choir in the larger churches were entirely new, and therefore a strong drawing card in gathering large audiences. Most of the programs were well advertised in advance.

At the Sacred Heart cathedral a special feature at the morning service was the assistance rendered to the choir by a chorus of thirty children, picked for their voices, from St. James orphanage. The choir itself included twenty-five, and sang under the direction of John Goltz. The singers included the following eight soloists: Mrs. Leo A. Ball, Mrs. A. A. Deslauriers, Mrs. H. R. Carl, Miss Alice Sorrell, Miss May Lydon, J. S. Lynn, J. E. Foran and J. F. Coates.

Elaborate musical programs were given both morning and evening at Trinity pro-cathedral, where Miss Isabel Pearson is organist and choir director. At St. Paul's church also the music was of a high order. At the evening service, the Sunday school children sang carols. The choir was at its best and the program was further supplemented by the singing of Sullivan's "Lost Chord" and Handel's "Immortality" by the Scottish Rite quartet, A. F. M. Custance is organist and choirmaster.

In the afternoon, a good audience of both men and women gathered in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association to hear a stereopticon sermon by Rev. W. H. Farrell, pastor of the Asbury M. E. church, on the story of the resurrection and ascension of Christ. The slides were reproductions of Tissot's world renowned paintings. Appropriate hymns were sung by the Asbury mixed quartet.

At the Grace M. E. church the evening service consisted of the rendition of a fine program of Easter songs and recitations by the Sunday school children.

Rev. John A. McGaughey in his sermon at the evening service in the Second Presbyterian church observed not only Easter but also the centenary of the birth of the famous Scotchman who immortalized his name by his achievements as a missionary and explorer of Africa. The subject of the sermon was "The Resurrected Life, as Illustrated by David Livingstone."

An Easter-Livingstone program was also given last evening at the West Duluth Baptist church.

Wife's Broken Heart Over Husband's Drinking

If you were to stay in the office of the Neal Institute a single day and answer the 'phone calls and attend the door every time the door-bell rang, and met the wives and mothers and sisters and other loved ones who go there in the interest of their drinking ones, and heard their pitiful stories of drink, and the want and privation, sorrow and suffering and anguish that liquor had brought them, heard the piteous sobs of the broken-hearted wife as she tells of her little ones at home in want, and her husband downtown drinking, you would say "surely the Neal Institute, next to the Church, was the greatest institution in the land." There, in just three days, all craving, desire and appetite for liquor is taken away, and the drinker restored to his wife and little ones a sober man, who then hates and despises all liquor. Our booklet, "Three Days," giving full information, is mailed on request and in a plain sealed envelope. "SUFFICIENCY OF THE RESURRECTION."

Rev. Bruce Black, pastor of the Union church, in his sermon yesterday morning on "The Sufficiency of the Resurrection," said:

"All great religions of the past and present, teach immortality as a hope. Like all other spiritual truths, the resurrection appeals to the faith of men for its acceptance; herein lies the reason for the doubts which this wonderful doctrine arouses. Personally I believe in the redemption of Christ over sin, accomplished by His resurrection. If I believe at all in any part of the genuineness of Christ, I must accept His claim of redemption, for it was his secret teaching to His apostles, and their ministry was full of this doctrine. Skepticism may refute Christian doctrine, may decry the resurrection, but is totally nonplussed by the invincible experience with which the Bible abounds."

DULUTH

A Beautiful City

Nature was in her happiest and most generous mood when she created Northern Minnesota. She was in her best frame of mind when she made picturesque Duluth!

Today Duluth is one of the most beautiful cities in America. In and around Duluth one is charmed with the scenery. There are massive, rugged rocks, almost mountain high, dells and valleys, waterfalls, rapid streams, wonderful lakes, great forests—and a magnificent chain of drives and city parks.

The Great Port of the Northwest

—is a wonderfully beautiful city from every point of entrance. From the great Port one approaches on a silvered lake and finds Duluth lying comfortably at the foot of her beautiful hills. Naples, with all its colorings, is no lovelier than Duluth. From the city or from the summit of the "hill" behind Duluth, one looks out onto the greatest of all the Great Lakes—and sees a world-famous Port dotted with its fleets of busy boats—a sight that attracts the eye of thousands of Duluth's visitors every year.

Duluth is a beautiful city, a most liveable city, a prosperous city, a city of 12-month opportunity—The City of The Northwest. Boost for Duluth!

SAGE TEA BRINGS NATURAL COLOR TO GRAY, FADED HAIR

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens Beautifully and Takes Off Dandruff.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever. PRISONERS' AID SOCIETY WILL MEET

Officers Will Be Chosen and Plans Discussed for Helping Prisoners.

The annual meeting of the Prisoners' Aid society will be held next Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. The society was organized a year ago for the purpose of aiding men confined in the county jail. A class in English is conducted at the jail, and much good work has been done in aiding men after release.

At the meeting Thursday evening officers will be elected, and reports received on the work of the past year. Following is the program: Report of the work of the year, Mrs. A. B. Siewert; the attitude of the lawyer toward the prisoner, H. S. Clapp; the need of a broader parole system, Judge H. A. Dancer; the new penal system, reform rather than punishment, Rev. George R. Gebauer; the right attitude of the business man toward the released prisoner, Judge Albert Jaques.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD'S FOURTH LIST.

New York, March 24.—The simplified spelling board has issued its fourth list of words to appear in the new fashioned orthography. Approximately 1,000 words are shortened or changed in spelling.

"In considering the new spelling," the board said, in announcing the new list, "do not be too much influenced by the odd appearance of the word. Any change must look odd at first. Consider, rather, whether the change will bring a real gain if the public should accept it."

Some of the changes are:

Dropping the silent "h" in such words as chaos and chameleon; dropping the final "k" in words like hammock; changing heart and hearts to "hart" and "harts;" dropping the silent "e," in money and similar words; substituting "laf" for laugh and "cof" for cough; omitting the "g" in gnat and similar words, substituting "nee" for knee and "nicnac" for knicknack and dropping the "k" in similar words; changing pranced to "pranst" and other words ending with nced to nst.

The new list touch is spelled "tuch;" serious is changed to "serius;" blow is spelled "blo;" bellows is changed to belos; foced to "forst;" phantom to "fantom;" handsome to "hansum;" boss to "bos;" glue to "glu" and wretch to "retch." Each of those instances typifies a rule and is followed by a long list of words to which it applies.

Andrew Carnegie, Theodore Roosevelt and a score of other noted men are included in the list of the board's members.

WORST STOMACH TROUBLE ENDED

"Pape's Diapepsin" Gives Instant Relief and the Relief Lasts.

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If you meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomache, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

MINNEAPOLIS STUDENT IS DEAD AT HARVARD.

Cambridge, Mass., March 24.—William Penrose Hallowell, Jr., of Minneapolis, a Harvard sophomore, was found dead in his room at Hampden hall yesterday. Physicians said death was due to an overdose of sleeping powders.

According to Hallowell's friends, he had been troubled with insomnia and probably took the overdose without realizing the danger.

The young man had been dead for several hours when his body was discovered by a friend who had a dinner engagement with him.

JURYMAN IN HYDE CASE DIES OF INJURIES.

Kansas City, March 24.—C. C. Spangler, a juryman in the third trial of Dr. E. Clarke Hyde and who was found in a street here this morning after the close of the trial, apparently slugged, died yesterday at a hospital, where he was taken after being picked up.

Spangler never sufficiently regained his senses, it was said at the hospital, to tell what had happened to cause his injuries.

He said, however, that he had been taking a few drinks after his release from the jury last Monday.

RELUCTANTLY ACCEPTS DECISION OF McCOMBS.

Washington, March 24. — President Wilson last night reluctantly assented to the expressed determination of Chairman McCombs of the national Democratic committee to decline the proffered French ambassadorship. In a statement expressing his high regard for Mr. McCombs, the president declared that the diplomatic service of the United States is unnecessarily hampered by the fact that only men who have time and money to leave their business, find themselves able to serve the government abroad. The president's statement said:

"I am very sorry, indeed, that Mr. McCombs cannot accept the appointment to France. I was particularly anxious that he should. My admiration for his abilities as well as my affection for him combine to make my disappointment very great indeed. But I, of course, appreciate the force of the reasons he gives. He would have accepted at an unreasonable sacrifice."

EASTER FINERY GETS SOAKED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 24.—Easter finery was at a discount here yesterday. Torrential rains fell continuously, churches were scantily attended and the fashionable promenades were deserted stretches, wind swept and streaming.

One group of wealthy women members of a fashionable church braved the weather in their limousines to attend Easter services. While a score of them were waiting under the church awnings for their automobiles, the canvas burst from weight of water which had collected in it. Some of the women were brought to their knees. All were deluged and hats were washed off into the gutters.

UNCLE SAM'S WEALTH TO BE COUNTED AGAIN.

Washington, March 24.—The greatest count of money and securities in the history of the world, will begin at the treasury department in April when John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, takes the oath of office as treasurer of the United States, succeeding Carmi A. Thompson.

To safeguard the nation's wealth Uncle Sam requires that the retiring treasurer's record of the transfer of funds be verified by a count of the notes, coin and securities in the treasury. Secretary McAdoo will appoint a committee to take charge of the vaults and each vault and safe will be sealed on April 1, in preparation for the count. Only enough money to keep the wheels of government revolving will be laid aside for daily use, while the counting is in progress.

It generally requires from two to five months to make the count. A government mathematician has figured out that it would take one person 300 years to verify Mr. Thompson's records. Ordinarily every note, bond and other security is counted. Unless a shortage or error is discovered, the gold and silver, stored in bags containing $1,000 each usually is weighed, a test bag being balanced against all others for verification.

Armed guards stand over the counters and workmen to protect them from interference.

Losses seldom have been found on this count.

IOWA EDITOR'S IDEAS.

Tells Agricultural College Graduates Co-operation Is Applied Christianity.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 24.—Co-operation is merely applied Christianity, declared Henry Wallace of Des Moines, editor, former president of the National Conservation congress, former preacher and member of Col. Roosevelt's country life commission, yesterday in the baccalaureate sermon which he preaches to the graduating class of the state college of agriculture. His theme was "The Country Church."

David Harum's maxim he designated as heathenish. It is the unwritten law of competition, the local end of which is combination.

Mr. Wallace said the great co-operative movement which is to become world-wide, is only a result of the fundamental teachings of Christ, who all admit to have been the most profound thinker of all ages.

The young man of today has opportunities that the older generation did not have, he said.

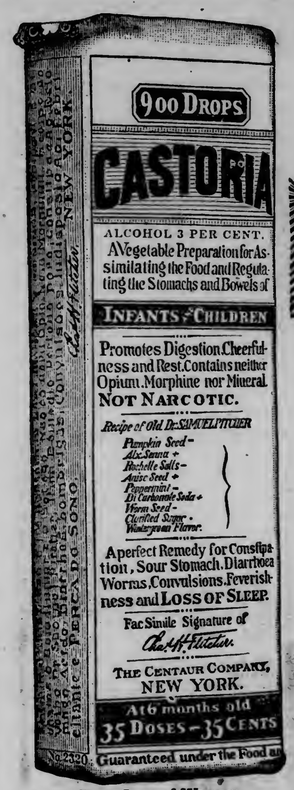
Nearly All Runaways Back.

Red Wing, Minn., March 24.—Eight of the ten inmates who escaped from the training school Friday night by sliding down a rope made of bed clothing from a third story dormitory window, but who were later captured, have been separated from the remainder of the boys in the main dormitory. Dr. Merica says he may be compelled to break away from his usual custom and punish them.

Hawthorne Off to Prison.

New York, March 24.—Deputy United States marshals started yesterday afternoon with Julian Hawthorne and Dr. William J. Morton for the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., where they will serve their terms for fraudulently using the mails in the sale of Canadian mining stock.

Long Missing Woman Found.



New Ulm, Minn., March 24.—Dazed, weakened by hunger and exposure, Miss Augusta Jennings, who disappeared from a hospital here on Dec. 19, was found in her brother's yard near Morgan. She climbed through a window yesterday morning and again disappeared, but was soon found by persons who searched for her.

The Danger of Imitations.

An Ohio druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. His experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine. If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for Children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

REILLY MUST SERVE TIME

Milton, N. D., Physician Loses Appeal to State Supreme Court.

Must Go to Penitentiary for Causing Death of Langdon Woman.

Milton, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. J. J. Reilly of Milton, a prominent Cavalier county physician, must serve ten years in the North Dakota penitentiary, the supreme court having denied his application for a new trial.

Dr. Reilly was convicted nearly two years ago in the district court of Cavalier county on the charge of manslaughter in the first degree. The death of Mrs. Wm. Drury of Langdon was made the basis for the criminal prosecution.

Convicted of Blindpigging.

The defendant, after he was convicted of manslaughter, and pending the decision of the supreme court, served ninety days in the Cavalier county jail for blindpigging, it being charged that he violated the prohibition law in the sale of liquor in his drugstore in Milton.

UNCLE SAM NOW MAKING PROBE

Postal Authorities Looking Into Operations of Securities Company.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postal authorities have been conducting an investigation into the affairs of the International Securities company of America, recently attacked in the state courts by the attorney general of North Dakota, who charges mismanagement and failure to operate within the boundaries prescribed by its charter.

The report of the postal officials will not be made to the department of justice until after the hearing of the state case is held Thursday this week. The Federal investigation is based on the contention of the attorney general that investors have been induced to put their money in the business without being given any protection.

DEPRAVED FAMILY.

Sensational Disclosures Are Made Near Rhame, N. D.

Bowman, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Remarkable depravity was unearthed near Rhame, where Mrs. Minne Mangan, a widow with nine children, resided. The eldest was 17. The place had become notorious. The woman was arrested and pladed guilty to a statutory charge. Her own brother was sentenced to two and half years in state prison on accusation of his niece, the oldest Mangan girl. Otto Hanson, arrested at the same time, married the second girl.

WILL CONTINUE WORK.

North Dakota State Tax Commission to Ignore Action of Governor.

Bismarck, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the state tax commission will go ahead with their work despite the action of Governor Hanna in vetoing the appropriation of $13,000 for salary and expenses which it has been claimed would leave them without funds. It is the contention of the members of the commission that the measure which provided for the creation of the commission and fixing their salaries carries with it an appropriation of sufficient money to meet this expense.

The tax commission was created by chapter 303 of the session laws of 1911. This bill provides for the creation of such a commission, fixes its duties, provides the amount of salary the members are to receive and fixes a limit to the amount of expenses that may be incurred.

Relative to salaries, section 5 provides "each of said commissioners shall receive an annual salary of $3,000, payable in the same manner that salaries of other state officers are paid."

TWO COMMANDERIES AT EASTER SERVICES.

Crookston, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Constantine commandery, Knights Templar, held the usual Easter services here yesterday. St. Aldemar commandery of Grand Forks coming over in a body, headed by Excellent Commander C. Edison Kelly and joining in the services, which were held in the M. E. church. Rev. W. C. Hodgson delivered the address with a special musical program. At 4 p. m. a banquet was held in the Masonic hall with 150 Knights in attendance.

NEGRO BEATS HIS BOSS

Rather Than Do the Chores He Was Ordered to Tackle.

Park River, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unwilling to perform certain chores he was told to do, James Green, a negro farm hand, beat up James McAuley, his employer, with a neck yoke. Green was arrested and brought here to jail.

DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS.

William Lindberg, Former Ishpeming Man, Victim of Bright's Disease.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of William Lindberg, aged 59, a native of Sweden and an old resident of Ishpeming, who died Friday in Minneapolis, where he lived will be brought here for interment.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters and an adopted son. The daughters are Mrs. Anslem Holmgren of this city, and Miss Ellen Lindberg, who lived at her home; the boy is 15 years of age. He also leaves five brothers and one sister, Alfred of this city; Andrew and Fred, now located in Canada; and Charles and John of Northern Minnesota. His sister is Mrs. Alfred Johnson of Munising.

PENNINGTON COUNTY FAIR IS PLANNED

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 24.—The Pennington County Fair association elected the following officials: President, Dr. G. A. Penney; vice presidents, John Morgan and Rasmus Oen; secretary, Jesse Labree; treasurer, Robert McGinn.

It was decided to close a deal for a twenty-acre tract just west of the city for a permanent fair grounds. The buildings which stand on the old grounds north of town will be moved to the new site.

MARKET IS GLUTTED.

No Demand for Potatoes in Kansas City Market.

Fosston, Minn., March 24.—There is practically no demand for potatoes in the Kansas City market, according to Messrs. Movold and Larson, who returned from Kansas City a few days ago. Upon their arrival at Kansas City with their extensive shipment of tubers they found the southern market glutted with potatoes and that prices had materially dropped since the time of their leaving Fosston. Under the conditions they did not sell but left their shipment with a reliable commission house with the hope of receiving better prices later on.

FREE PHONE SERVICE.

Boon Promised 100 Farmers Living Near Park Rapids.

Park Rapids, Minn., March 24.—One hundred farmers living tributary to Park Rapids will be enjoying a free telephone service before the summer has passed. New phone lines are now being projected north to the vicinity of Fish Hook lake, and southwest into Straight River township, and when these are completed the farmers of this section will be brought into close touch with each other and with residents of Park Rapids. The Osage and Hubbard phone lines charge a fee to all who are not stockholders who use their lines, and the Itasca line makes a charge for all services over the line regardless of who has stock, but there is a free service over all other lines coming into Park Rapids, and this gives this community an excellent service.

FIRST MARKET DAY AT COOPERSTOWN.

Cooperstown, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first market day in North Dakota this year will be held here April 4. As there are a number of other towns in this section planning to hold these sales days regularly, there is a movement to organize six towns so sales can be conducted in each one day during the week of each month. Some kind of a vaudeville performance will then be secured for the week to make all the towns and give the market days a touch of the old fashioned country fairs.

BANQUET FOR JUDGE.

Stearns County Bar to Honor Judge M. D. Taylor.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 24.—Arrangements for a complimentary banquet to Judge M. D. Taylor by the Stearns County Bar association have been completed by a committee composed of Attorney R. B. Brower, J. Himsl and A. H. Klasen. The banquet is to be served at the Grand Central hotel at 8:30 on the evening of March 27.

A group of attorneys from outside counties in this portion of the district will be invited. The number of guests will be about fifty.

MILL CITY MURDER.

Civil War Veteran Is Shot Down By Insane Man.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 24.—W. A. Darling, aged 68, a Civil war veteran, was shot and killed early Sunday by Gus Gusafson, near the Darling home on Nicollet Island avenue. Gusafson also fired a rifle bullet at Policeman Fred Shroeder but his aim was poor and the shot went wild. He then darted down a side street and was not captured until several hours later.

Gusafson recently was brought before an insanity commission after having attempted to blow up a settlement home with a view to killing imaginary enemies in a boarding house nearby. He was ordered deported to Norway and officers escorted him to New York where he was placed on a ship sailing for his native country. He reappeared in Minneapolis a few weeks later, however. The cause of Sunday's shooting is not known. Gusafson is being held in the city jail.

CHILD WITH MATCHES STARTS BEMIDJI FIRE.

Bemidji, Minn., March 24.—While toying with matches 6-year-old Jimmie McCarthy set a fire which totally destroyed the large barns of his father, Thomas McCarthy, at Park and Tenth streets, and one cow, a large flock of pure bred chickens, and a litter of valuable Boston bull pups were burned to death. The loss was large with little insurance.

New Englanders to Meet.

Fargo, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The New England Society of Fargo will meet tonight in a banquet. It is expected there will be several hundred in attendance. From 4 to 6 there will be a reception for the ladies and children and the feast will begin at 6:30 when dishes dear to the hearts of the former residents of the New England states will be served. Several prominent speakers will be heard.

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

ANENT the comeback of the Jeffries bulk, which is being industriously press agented at the present time by no less an august personage of the sport world than old bald and beamy Tom Jones, it might be stated that those with their florid ears to the ground have found not in the least one stray crum of encouragement from the table of the rich merchant, in which rides the role of the public.

Jeffries might be likened to the poor Pharisee, waiting outside the gates for a crum from the banquet. The case before was one of the public being treated as the promoters of the big battle—the one that was arranged between Johnson and Jeffries—saw blooming well fit. Just then the world in general, or least that portion of the world not entirely occupied with intellectual thoughts, longed for the coming of the white who could and would knock the dome from the raven shoulders of the raving black. Therefor the vociferous welcome of Jeffries.

But it has been pretty well told by this time of the attempts made by the former boilermaker to have the fight fixed his way, and when he was forced to fight on the level the disheartened exhibition he put up was one well calculated to disgust the most fervent admirer of the former holder of the title.

Indeed there is no call for the return to the ring of Jim Jeffries. Let him remain in retirement enjoying as only one of callous conscience could enjoy the large sum he got for going through with his part of the show. This talk of Jeffries coming back is simply adding insult to grievous injury. It is quite safe to believe that the public will not forget for sometime to come the most monstrous bunco game of the century; and it is safe to add also that it will also remember the chief actor in this merry swindle. Indeed no, there is no demand for the return to the ring of Jim Jeffries, the man who sold his friends for what dirty money it brought to him.

SOME of these baseball players will never learn. Jim Delehanty, the strike leader of the Detroit team, was railroaded out of the American league for the part he played in the righteous uprising of the Tigers. Now comes old Wahoo Sam Crawford with a scathing arraignment of Ban Johnson. The white Czar of baseball may grow red of countenance and the chords of his rather large neck may swell, and following close upon this eruption of the internal system of Ban may occur the swinging of the mace and the dropping of the head of the former barber.

FROM the inside of a jail, where he is held pending the straightening out of all of the mixed details regarding a horse deal, player Williams of the Indianapolis team announces that he is a holdout. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst has been a literal holdout in the matter of food, but one is driven confusedly to wonder how in the world a baseball player in grim prison walls can calmly hope to move a manager with his talk of holdout.

TOWN OF MELLEN COMING HERE WITH WILLOUGHBY

Fans of the Wisconsin City Believe Their Fellow Citizen Is Going to Put the Yoke on Yokel.

Bearing a huge banner on the side of their special coach, with the painted inscription of "We have come to Duluth to watch Willoughby put the yoke on Yokel," part of the town of Mellen, Wis., is coming to Duluth next Friday morning to witness the championship contest between Mike Yokel of Salt Lake City and Walter Willoughby of Mellen.

Rich lumbermen, the mayor of the little city, cruisers, J. P. Fitzgerald, the proprietor of the newspaper, and every citizen of Mellen who can get away will be on hand, according to the news received here last Saturday. A whole section of tickets has been sent to Mellen to supply the wants of the fans who are morally certain that the Salt Lake City wrestler is going to meet his master in Walter Willoughby.

"We are coming up to take possession of Duluth," writes Mr. Fitzgerald of the Mellen newspaper. "You will sure know that we are in town. We will have our banner and also a whole lot of confidence in the ability of Walter Willoughby to defeat Mike Yokel We know that Yokel is one of the greatest wrestlers in the world; but this man Willoughby is a wonder and he is in the condition of his life for the meeting with the champion. Down here at Mellen we don't believe there is a man in the world of Willoughby's weight who can defeat him, and we are coming to Duluth to witness the crowning of a new champion."

Saturday night at Mellen, Willoughby made quick work of Tommy Russell, a Minneapolis heavyweight wrestler. The first fall came in 17 minutes and the second and deciding one in 12 minutes. According to the dispatch from the little Wisconsin town Willoughby is absolutely right and right now is in condition to go on the mat and face the great bear from the Jackson Hole country.

Willoughby is scheduled to reach here today and will put in four of the hardest kind of days polishing off for the contest. Both road work and labor in the gymnasium will supplement the hard training the Mellen boy has been doing down at his own home. Right now he is as hard as tacks and Walter's only apprehension is to keep down to the 162-pound notch, for this is the figure he will have to come on the mat at.

From out of the mysterious confines of the old Jackson Hole country Mike Yokel is scheduled to depart today or tomorrow. It is expected that the bear of the Rock mountains will be here on Wednesday.

Michaelson of Milltown, Wis., a middleweight, who has wrestled a draw with Joe Carr of Minneapolis and has beaten some of the best men in the country, and Carl Hanson, "the Terrible Swede" of this city, are scheduled to meet in one of the preliminaries to the big contest.

DARBY IS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECTS OF TEAM

Irish Orator Believes He Has Best Club in History of Duluth.

Sox Have Secured Use of Toledo Grounds for Spring Work.

Toledo, Ohio, is the spot where the colts of the Duluth team are assembling at the present time. The park of the American Association team has been loaned to the Duluth club and here is where the large squad will be taken stock of and also where the first preliminary stunts will be held.

"With the shower baths and all the arrangements made for getting into condition, it should not take the members of my club long to get the kinks out of their system," writes the Irish orator. "It has always been my policy to go after the youngsters first and I will have a large squad of the younger players reporting here shortly after the first of the month. I am so busy writing letters—twenty-eight today—that really I can't tell you about all of the men I have under contract.

"I am hearing from players all the time, and by the time you receive this letter it may be that I will have added several more recruits to the squad. That doesn't mean that we haven't signed a large squad of players. I, for one, am of the opinion that the artiele of baseball played in the new league is to be very fast, and with this idea in view have signed what I honestly believe is by far the best team that Duluth has ever had.

"In Charles Pew of Rising Sun, Ohio, it looks as if I have a real sure enough star. He is a big fellow and comes with the reputation of being a fence buster. If this fellow is nearly as good as some of the reports say he is, my outfield should be about the best in the league. Sours and Miller are two of the best outfielders in minor league baseball, so that if we are able to land one more star we will have some garden.

"There are a large number of youngsters signed that come very highly recommended, but you can't tell until you see these fellows in action. If half of the players that I have signed at the present time come up to expectations I think I can promise the fans up at Duluth the best team we have ever had and one that will be in the hunt from the very jump."

MINNEAPOLIS BRONCHOS WILL REPORT NEXT WEEK

Minneapolis, Minn., March 24.—One week from tomorrow the collection from which will be formed a team to represent Minneapolis in the Northern league, will assemble at Nicollet park for the first practice. Thirty-one names are on the roster of the Bronchos and of these fourteen live in Minneapolis and St. Paul. It is only the Twin City youths who will report that day. The remaining seventeen are expected to straggle in during the week.

Manager Unglaub and Magnate Dickinson will look over the gallant fourteen bright and early on reporting day. They expect to have quite a look, too, for they plan on a rapid thinning of the ranks so that the squad may be reduced to practical proportions. Before the day is over it is believed that a goodly number of the locals will find themselves free agents. Regulations of organized ball prescribe that Class C clubs carry not to exceed fourteen players and a manager so it requires little struggling with arithmetic to see that the local bosses will be kept turning loose ambitious young men.

Roberts Heard From.

In a letter received from Baltimore yesterday, Manager Unglaub said he intended to bring his family to Minneapolis and perhaps make this city his permanent home. He is enthusiastic over the season's prospects and declared himself tickled to death to be named manager of the Bronks. Training will begin in earnest on April 3 and it will take little time for the new manager to get a line on his men. The Millers, the big brothers of the Bronks, will reach town April 10 and the youngsters will be given some valuable practice before their season opens.

The appointment of Lefty Davis as manager of the Winona club yesterday completed the list of leaders in the league. Those who will manage are as follows: Minneapolis, Bob Unglaub; St. Paul, Charley Jones; Duluth, Darby O'Brien; Winnipeg, Tim Flood; Superior, Fred Curtis; Virginia, Spike Shannon; Grand Forks, Sam Foster; Winona, Lefty Davis.

League Hails Winona.

The substitution of Winona for Fort William-Port Arthur appears to have met with general satisfaction all around the circle. The change will be a money saver for the league by virtue of the decreased mileage, and the selection of the Southern Minnesota town makes the circuit one of the most compact in the country. From each of the towns on the list come advance reports of a prosperous season ahead and the opportunity of getting on a circuit with the Twin Cities has made a big hit with fans in the other six cities.

The new league bids fair to become one of the most famous in the whole family of organized baseball for several reasons. Officially it is only a poor little class organization, but, population considered, it is worthy to be numbered among the Class A boys. It is said to be the only league extant that boasts a Class A population with a Class C rating. There will be another feature to open the eyes of Silent Bob Unglaub, Lefty Davis, Charley Jones, Tim Flood and any other big league gentlemen who chance to break into the young organization.

Northern Custom.

This is the gentle custom of twilight baseball indulged in by the folks of the North country. These chesty ex-big league managers, who perhaps have never heard of starting a ball game except in the early afternoon, will see themselves on hotel verandas all afternoon, crawling into their uniforms along about tiffin-time and starting the contests at the shank of the day.

There will be other features in abundance, if reports from around the circuit may be believed, and it looks as though these one-time big leaguers will see some new angles of the pastime that they never knew existed.

UNLUCKY DATE PRODUCES STARS

Many Famous Baseball Players Were Born on 13th of the Month.

Lucky would be the magnate who could secure for his team those players who happen to have been born on the alleged unlucky date of the thirteenth. Said magnate probably would by the middle of the season be making preparations to enlarge the seating capacity of his park, for from the players whose birthdays fall on the hoodoo date a world's championship combination could almost be picked.

The manager of this Thirteen club would be J. Garland Stahl of the Red Sox. He was born on April 13, 1880. Presuming that Stahl might prefer to remain where he now is, a person named Fielder Jones, was was born on Aug. 13, 1874, might be induced to take charge.

For scouts Billy Murray of the Pirates, who was born on April 13, 1864, and Gene McCann, formerly with the Highlanders, who was born on June 13, 1876, would be available.

The catchers for the Thirteen club would be Jimmy Archer of the Cubs and Mike Simon of the Pirates. These two athletes reached this sphere on May 13, 1883, and April 13, 1883, respectively. Johnny Kling, who says he will not pastime this year, was born on November 13, 1885.

Only one real high grade major league pitcher was born on the thirteenth. He is Vean Gregg of the Naps, who will celebrate his 28th birthday next month. Bill Donovan, who pitched the Tigers to two pennants, and "Rube" Waddell, who was responsible for the winning of a pair of flags by the Athletics, were both born on the thirteenth. "Wild Bill" will be 37 years old next October and so will the Rube.

Noted infielders who celebate their natal days on the thirteenth are, besides Jake Stahl, Hal Chase of the Highlanders, Ed Konetchy of the Cardinals, Larry Gardner of the Red Sox, Eddie Foster of the Nationals and J. Franklin Baker of the Athletics, who ran Tris Speaker a close race for the Chalmers American league trophy car last season.

The outfielders born on the thirteenth are not numerous. Josh Devore of the Giants was born on Nov. 13, 1887, and Harl Maggert, formerly with the Athletics, was born on Feb. 13, 1883. "Bucky" Freeman, who holds the major league record for the greatest number of home runs in a reason, first saw the light of day on Oct. 13, 1871.

Mal Eason, National league umpire, is one of the thirteen chaps, he having reached this earth on March 13, 1879. Here is the Thirteen club:

Manager and center filder—Jake Stahl of Red Sox, born April 13, 1880.

Pitcher—Vean Gregg of the Naps, born April 13, 1885.

Catcher—Jimmy Archer of the Cubs, born May 13, 1883.

First baseman—Hall Clase of the Highlanders, Feb. 13, 1883.

Second baseman—Larry Gardner of the Red Sox, born May 13, 1886.

Third baseman—J. Franklin Baker of the White Elephants, born March 13, 1886.

Left fielder—Konetchy of the Cardinals, born Sept. 13, 1885.

Scout—Billy Murray of the Pirates, born April 13, 1864.

Umpire—Mal Eason of the National league, born March 13, 1879.

HORGAN TO PLAY ALFRED DE ORO

Billiard Stars to Contest for the World's Three-Cushion Emblem.

Now that William Hoppe and Ora Morningstar have decided the 18:1 balk line billiard championship, cue fans throughout the country will turn their attention to the next battle for the world's professional 3-cushion emblem, held by John Horgan of St. Louis. The donors of the emblem on March 14 received Alfredo de Oro's forfeit, challenging Horgan to a championship match, which, under the rules governing such contests, must be played within sixty days from date of challenge. This means that Horgan will be called upon to defend his crown on or about May 14.

Whether the match will be ulayed at St. Louis or San Francisco is a matter yet to be decided. Horgan and the wonderful Cuban are about 3,400 miles apart at present, John playing in Eddie Graney's room at San Francisco while De Oro is taking things easy in New York. After beating John Daly at St. Louis months ago Horgan hiked to the Pacific coast where for a time it appeared he would not be challenged, as few players was one of the best of the unofficial games that have been played during the present season. Magie shot both of the goals for the winning team, while Bartlett scored the only net for the Wolvins.

The lineup:

Loseau Club—		Wolvin Building—
Dinham	c	Greenfield
Mahan	r	Bartlett
Larson	rw	Tingblad
Magie	w	Johnson
Carpenter	cp	Stevens
Miller	p	Thorburn

WELSH RECEIVES A LARGE OFFER

British Lightweight Champion Can Make Large Sum By Going to Australia.

New York, March 24.—Freddie Welsh, the world's lightweight champion, who is sailing for New York on the Mauretania next Saturday, has received a flattering offer from Australia. "Snowey" Baker, the promoter who recently bought out the interests of Hugh McIntosh, cabled yesterday that he would give the Welshman a guarantee of $15,000, with the privilege of 35 per cent of the gross gate receipts, to engage in three battles. Three round-trip tickets also go with the offer. While the proposition is a good one, it is not tempting enough to warrant the champion taking the trip. It would take at least four months to complete the contract, and in little more than half that time Welsh can pick up that much in this country with vaudeville engagements, not to mention the hundred and one offers that have been pouring in for him to engage in battles ranging from six to twenty rounds.

In his latest letter, Welsh speaks of bringing over with him a heavyweight to have a try at our crop of "hopes." He says he has a man in tow who weighs nearly 200, stands six feet, and can box as fast as a bantam and hit like a "thousand tons of brick." If he is half as good as this he should have a chance, at least, with the mixed collection of heavies now occupying public attention.

MEETING CALLED.

Junior Baseball Representatives to Meet at Quayle-Larsen Store.

There will be a meeting this evening at the Quayle-Larsen company's store, of the representatives of the Junior Baseball league. The meeting is called for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the league for the present year and also for the purpose of presenting to the members of the Adams Junior team, the winner of the pennant last season, the suits. The winner of the flag during the coming season will also receive suits in addition to the pennant.

It is desired that all of the representatives of the league be present, as it is planned to have the schedule issued as early as possible. The meeting is set for the hour between 6 and 7 p. m.

DULUTHIANS WIN AT VOLLEY BALL.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 24.—The Duluth volley ball team defeated the Grand Forks team Saturday night, 20 to 14, victory going to the visiting crew only after the hardest kind of a fight. The Duluthians put up a superior game at almost every point, their team work being remarkable.

The lineup:

EVELETH WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Mother of Mrs. Joseph Wilson Is Sick Only Two Days.

Eveleth, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—After an illness of only two days of acute pneumonia Mrs. Nancy Matilda Payne, mother of Mrs. Joseph S. Wilson, wife of one of the leading citizens of Eveleth, died yesterday at 5:30 p. m. at the Wilson home of acute pneumonia. Mrs. Payne was a native of Bradford county, Pa., aged 68, and came here to live in 1900. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Wilson, she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Charles Rutty of Eveleth, and a son, Arthur, living in Pennsylvania.

The funeral of Mrs. Payne will be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday from the Wilson home on Lincoln avenue, Rev. P. A. Schwarz, Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating, and the body will be taken to Grand Rapids, Wis., for burial.

MESABA RANGE HAS SEVERE BLIZZARD

Worst Storm of Season Rages Around Hibbing All Sunday Night.

Hibbing, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most severe blizzards of the winter swept the Mesaba range last night. It interrupted traffic on the electrical line, delayed railroad trains and the snow on the streets of Hibbing this morning was drifted in places to a depth of over three feet.

The storm began with a light fall of snow yesterday afternoon and reached its height shortly after 8 last evening.

Continued All Night.

The theremometer did not get below zero during the night but the wind and snowfall continued unabated until an early hour today.

Snow plows were run over the trolley line this morning and during the night and the schedule of car service was not picked until nearly noon today.

Horses attached to snow plows cleared the sidewalks of the business section of the city from snow this morning.

The snow was still falling early today and the snow was still drifting badly.

Eveleth Has Much Snow.

Eveleth, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last night's storm snow falling and heavier winds blowing. There is a lot of snow over town today and in some places it is badly drifted.

Virginia Hard Hit, Too.

Virginia, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The storm Sunday evening prevented people attending church for the Easter services the attendance being very small. The storm was the worst of the winter, more was the worst experienced here this winter. The electric railway experienced much difficulty but had cars running again this morning.

BEATS YOUNG WIFE.

Biwabik Brute Is Sent to County Jail for Six Months.

Biwabik, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Salmon gave Steve Starek, a Bangor miner, six months in the county jail for beating his wife. The woman, a mere girl to whom Starek was married in Pennsylvania two months ago, made the complaint and the accused even admitted the truth of the accusation.

When Starek was brought into court, accused of having on two occasions deliberately beaten his young wife, he stolidly admitted the charges and was very calm when told that a sentence of ninety days on each charge would be given.

The wife's story to the court was that she had no immediate relatives in this country, having been brought over from the old country a year ago by an aunt and married to the first man her aunt coul pass her over to. She is even much younger looking than she really claims to be.

ELECTRIC ROAD MADE DEFENDANT

Joseph Mustar Seeks Large Sum for Injury to Children.

Virginia, Minn., Morch 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba Electric railway line has got into the railway class by having a personal injury case filed againts it. Joseph Mustar sues for $22,500 for injuries sustained by his 6-year-old daughter and his son Joseph, when they picked up a dynamite cartridge on the Buhl road and exploded it, the girl losing one eye and being badly disfigured. The sum of $15,000 is asked for the girl, $5,000 for the boy and $2,500 for the loss of services of both. Sarah Casey in another suit filed asked $5,000 for the death of her son, James, who was killed on the Canadian Northern Dec. 21, 1910, in a collision. Angelo Vagni has sued the Republic Iron & Steel company for $10,000 for injuries sustained in the Franklin mine last October.

TO HONOR PIONEERS.

Old Timers to Be Well Seated at Virginia Banquet.

Virginia, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the big features at a banquet to be given by the Commercial club early in April will be separate tables for pioneers of the city. Only a few who were in the city when it was laid out twenty years ago are here still. Quite a number have been here fifteen years or more. The banquet arrangements are in the hands of C. H. Griggs, R. C. Pickering and Newton J. Smith. Mr. Griggs will be the toastmaster and there will be well-known speakers. Governor Eberhart will be invited. C. S. Mitchell and others will be invited from Duluth. The Iron Range and the Missabe roads will each be invited to send representatives, as well as the Oliver Iron Mining company and the Virginia & Rainy Lake company.

TWO HARBORS WINS.

Beats Gilbert and Now Claims Range Basket Ball Championship.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Y. M. C. A. basket ball team easily cinched the range championship here Saturday night, when they defeated the fast Gilbert city team by the score of 53 to 16. The Gilbert team disputed the range championship, but as the score indicates they fell easy victims at the hands of the local boys who have not lost a game this year. The local Y. M. C. A. team have one of the cleanest records of any team in this state. The team is composed entirely of last year's high school team who made a record for themselves last year by winning the range championship for the high school, winning every game they participated in.

Over 500 enthusiastic followers of the team witnessed the game Saturday night. This is the largest crowd that has ever turned out to a basket ball game in this city. Fortman, Kernan and Woodward for the locals played a great game, figuring in every play.

The following was the lineup:

Gilbert—		Two Harbors—
Small	f	Fortman
Bevill	f	Kernan
William	c	Woodward

BIWABIK JOTTINGS.

Biwabik, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik City band will give what will probably be the last band concert for the winter season, March 28.

P. H. Hubbard has left for Byron, Wis., where he will spend some time visiting friends.

Arvid Nisen, who has spent the winter at Shank's logging camp, has returned home, having finished work Saturday.

Ed. Krompasky, who is working at Mesaba, was here Sunday visiting with relatives and friends.

A man giving the name of J. Fridman and claiming Biwabik as his home, was fined $10 and costs in Gilbert a few days ago on a charge of having small pike and perch in his possession.

Claude Graves left the first of the week for Western Canada, where he will locate.

Dr. C. W. Bray, F. S. Bottsford and Charles Anderson have all purchased a new Buick auto.

Mrs. Fred Lerch of Virginia visited friends here Friday.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The government has established a postoffice on Crane Lake Portage to be known as Buyck, with Carmel De Caigney as postmaster. Mr. De Caigney constructed a hotel and store at that point, and the locality is fast developing as a farming community.

G. D. Lizer of Virginia was a Tower visitor on Sunday.

J. B. Carey has returned from a business trip to Eau Claire, Wis.

A large number of men are making repairs on the Cook & Ketchum sawmill. A new engine is being installed and other work undertaken.

Range Men on Jury.

Virginia, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—These range men were drawn for jury service at the next session of the district court April 1:

Grand jurors: Maurice Dean, Peter Busha, Frank J. Biron, Virginia; C. H. Morrill, Eveleth; W. T. Moyle, L. L. Kugler, John R. Maki, Hibbing; R. M. Broad, Biwabik.

To Enlarge Buildings.

Tower, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The government has plans well under way for the enlarging of several buildings at the Lake Vermilion reservation. One of the main buildings will be made three stories and the addition of several wings. A commodious barn is also to be erected. Dr. O. O. Benson is superintendent and it is largely through his recommendation that the improvements are being made.

DISTRICT COURT AT GRAND RAPIDS

Judge Stanton Will Preside and There Will Be Many Cases Up.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The advance guard of jurymen and attorneys coming to attend the term of district court beginning here tomorrow with Judge Stanton presiding arrived today and more will come tonight and tomorrow. Tomorrow morning Judge Stanton will charge the grand jury and place the inquisitors at work on various pending cases. There are ten or so of criminal cases, the bulk having to do with violations of the liquor laws. There are some charges of assaults on lumberjacks and one case of burglary.

Over sixty civil cases are to be considered after the criminal actions are out of the way. It is not known whether the remaining indictments pending against F. E. Ruesswig, who pleaded guilty to defrauding the school district, will be tried.

EASTER PROGRAM

Is Given By St. James Presbyterian Church of Tower.

Tower, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sunday school of the St. James' Presbyterian church held its Easter service yesterday afternoon at the church, Supt. B. F. McComb presiding.

After the opening hymn Rev. J. Mapson, pastor of the church, offered prayer. Supt. McComb made a few remarks preparatory to the program which followed and consisted of music and recitation by the younger members of the school, all especially appropriate for Eastertide.

The exercises were followed by a reading by Mrs. McComb, portraying in verse the crucifixion and the resurrection. The pastor then made a short address and in keeping with the exercises. Owing to a raging snowstorm the attendance was not as large as it might otherwise have been.

Ely Easter Program.

Ely, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening the following Easter program was rendered by the Methodist Sunday school: Song, congregation; prayer, John Nankervis; Scripture reading, Philip Schweckhard; song, Mrs. C. L. Mergenthaler's class; recitation, Evelyn Ewing, Reginald Smith, duet, Miss Ruth Prout and Miss Ebba Swenson; drill, Mrs. T. Wallace's class; offering; anthem, choir; recitation, "Prayer," Cecelia Nankervis; song, Lottie Coomba; recitation, "Awake, Glad Spring," Elsie Schaefer; song, Miss Florence Nankervis' class; recitation, "Easter," James Nicholas; song, Miss Stanley's class; recitation, Thomas Nankervis; talk, Rev. E. P. Stidd; selection by male quartet, consisting of Messrs. William Nicholls, Peter Schweickhard and John Nankervis; anthem by the choir; doxology by congregation.

The men of the Methodist church will serve a Dutch supper in the basement of the church this afternoon and evening.

CHANDLER TROUBLE.

Men Want 25 Cents Per Day Increase on Surface and Underground.

Ely, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected the labor trouble at the Chandler mine, where the employes walked out Thursday because of some disagreement over their pay checks, will be speedily adjusted. The men want 25 cents a day increase on the surface and underground. Capt. McCombs was on his way to Duluth to attend the Masonic affair when he got word of the trouble and hastened back. Since then an effort toward settlement has been made. The strike committee has issued a warning to all not to keep away until the difficulty is adjusted.

There was some trouble at Section 30 mine not long ago, but this was soon patched up and work resumed.

TIE MAKER CUT.

Embarrass, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Andrew Palilla, a young tie maker who has been working in a tie camp near here, was cut during a row a few days ago and is being treated at the Soudan hospital at Tower. His jugular vein was nearly cut by an ugly thrust. Neither he nor his friends will talk about the affair so the authorities are in the dark as to whom to arrest.

Ironwood Home Burned.

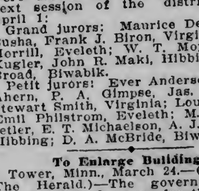
Ironwood, Mich., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of Andrew Dorey was completely destroyed by fire which caught between the ceiling of the second floor and the roof from a defective stovepipe. Mr. Dorey lost at least $300 worth of furnishings and clothes. The house was an old land mark at the Puritan location and was built of logs.

Keewatin-Nashwauk Election.

Nashwauk, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Keewatin and local voters will decide at a special election March 31 whether to vote $100,000 for a new school building at Keewatin and to expend $50,000 in improvements on the local school.

Clough Gets Ely Contract.

Ely, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. H. Clough & Co., of Duluth have been awarded the contract for laying cement walks at $24-465 and S. K. Johnson of Biwabik the contract for storm sewers at $6,780.



Killed by Idaho Blast.

Carrington, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Kieb, aged 25, was almost instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite which he was using in blasting rock on a homestead near Aroo, Idaho. The body was brought to Bordulac, this county, today. Kieb lived at Bordulac until only a few months ago. He was well known throughout this section.

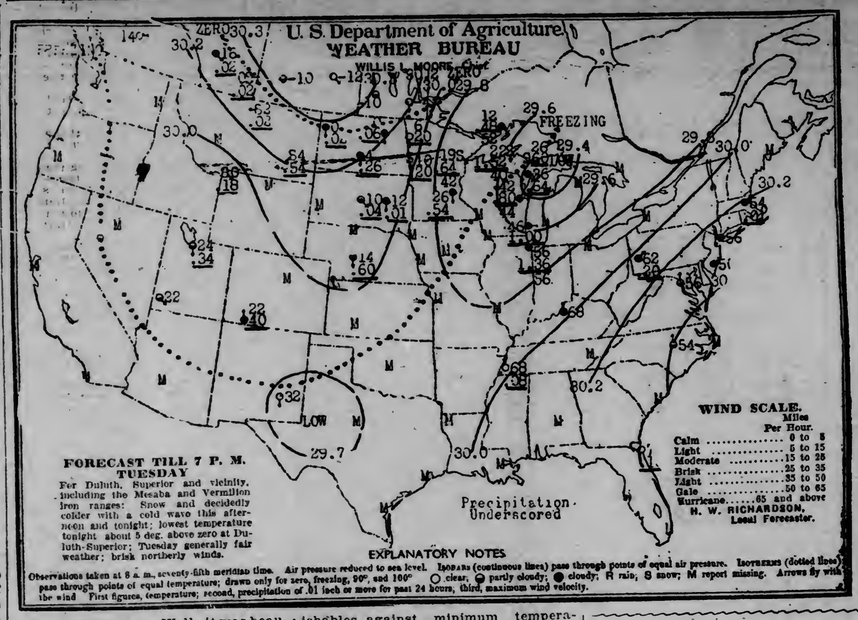
Ugly Sores Quickly Banished

You Marvel How Worst Skin Eruptions Disappear as Result of Famous Remedy.



If you have been fighting some blood troubles, some eruptive skin disease, call it eczema, lupus, psoriasis, malaria, scrofula or what you will, there is but one sure, safe way to cure it. Ask at any drug store for a $1.00 bottle of S. S. S. and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remarkable remedy is just as direct; just as positive, just as certain in its influence as that the sun rises in the east. It is one of those rare medical forces which act in the blood with the same degree of certainty that is found in all natural tendencies. The manner in which it dominates and controls the mysterious transference of rich, red, pure arterial blood for the diseased venous blood is marvelous.

Out through every skin pore acids, germs and other blood impurities are forced in the form of invisible vapor. The lungs breathe it out, the liver is stimulated to consume a great proportion of impurities, the stomach and intestines cease to convey into the blood stream the catarrhal, malarial germs; the bowels, kidneys, bladder and all emunctories of the body are marshalled into a fighting force to expel every vestige of eruptive disease.

There is scarcely a community anywhere but what has its living example of the wonderful curative effects of S. S. S. Get a bottle of this famous remedy to-day, and if your case is stubborn or peculiar write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Their medical laboratory is famous and is conducted by renowned experts in blood and skin diseases.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. TUESDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Snow and decidedly colder with a cold wave this afternoon and tonight; lowest temperature tonight about 5 deg. above zero at Duluth-Superior; Tuesday generally fair weather; brisk northerly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100° ○ clear, ◑ partly cloudy, ● cloudy; R rain, S snow; M report missing. Arrows by wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours, third, maximum wind velocity.

COLDER

Well, it was beautiful Christmas weather—no, not Easter weather, Christmas weather is right. Yesterday would have been a dandy Dec. 25, but it was a most disagreeable March 23. The wind howled some last night, but the temperature was not very low, fortunately. "Snow and colder" is the prediction for tonight. Snow and colder! Bah!

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:03 and it will set at 6:26 this evening, giving twelve hours and twenty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance centered over Northern Michigan moved to that section from Colorado during the last twenty-four hours. In the meantime this depression caused light to heavy rain, snow or sleet and brisk to high winds over the Lake region, Central valleys and Northwestern states. The high pressure over Saskatchewan has caused much colder weather over the Dakotas, Northern Minnesota and Nebraska. Zero temperatures prevailed Saturday night and Sunday night throughout Western Canada. Cold wave conditions may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties this afternoon and tonight. Many reports are missing because of wire trouble."

Shippers' Forecast.

Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures zero to slightly below in North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and probably Northwestern Wisconsin.

"A MODERN EVE" AT THE LYCEUM

The Lively Musical Show Pleases Two Easter Sunday Audiences.

Originally a Berlin operetta, "A Modern Eve," is now a typical American musical comedy, with tuneful music, catchy lines and the dash and go so prevalent and popular in the productions of today. The production began a three-day engagement at the Lyceum yesterday.

Alexander Clark in the leading role of Casimir Cascadier, the henpecked husband, reminds one very much of Richard Carle in "Mary's Lamb," Mr. Clark is artistic in his work and his comedy is far above the average of similar entertainers. His singing and dancing are the hit of the show, while the many humorous lines presented in his own droll manner, readily won him the appreciation of the audience yesterday afternoon.

"A Modern Eve" has a plot, unlike most present-day musical comedies, and a rather clever and odd one it is. It deals with the family of Casimir Cascadier, which consists of Madame Cascadier, an ardent suffragette, who does not believe in sentiment and love, and her tfo daughters, Aenee and Camille, both of whom have become inculcated with their mother's ideas.

Justin Pontgirard, a wealthy young Frenchman, falls in love with Renee, and in asking her mother for her daughter's hand, the young man is compelled to sign a contract. The mother is a lawyer and draws up a very interesting document, which takes all the power of the home away from the husband and places it in the mother-in-law. The young man is so ardently in love that he signs the agreement. The couple are married, the scene for which is one of the most artistic seen here in a long time.

The young people quarrel and the young man is at wit's end as to getting rid of his mother-in-law, who comes to see that her daughter is not mistreated. The result of the affair is that a divorce trial is held in the garden of Pontgirard's home, in which his case is pleaded by his companion, Dickey Rutherford, and his wife's case by her own mother. Everything finally ends happily.

Renee, who marries Pontgirard, is capably portrayed by Miss Ellen Boyle, who is the possessor of a splendid prima donna voice and whose dancing is exceptionally artistic. With Ray Raymond, who plays the young husband, she sings several beautiful duets.

Members of the company deserving of mention are Miss Florence Bain as the heartless Camille, who scores a hit in the "Modern Eve" waltz with Mr. Raymond; Miss Arline Bolling as Baroness Taille, who is loved by every man in France; Miss Henrietta Tedro as Madame Cascadier, the "father" of the home; and Louis Kelso as ardent Dickey Rutherford, who does not believe in professions for women, but only in love and sentiment.

The production is well staged and reflects credit on Martin Beck and Mort Singer, the owners. The scenery is beautiful as are the many costumes of the large well-trained chorus. Of the song numbers, which are a credit to the musical comedy are "Good Eye Everybody," "Everyday is Christmas When You're Married," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love" and "Hello Sweetheart."

"A Modern Eve" will be repeated this evening and tomorrow evening.

THE TRIUMPH OF SHEER NONSENSE

T. Roy Barnes Hit of Orpheum Bill—Miss Busley a Real Headliner.

It takes a real artist to make a genuine fool of himself, and T. Roy Barnes at the Orpheum this week is an artist.

He is the best exponent of the utterly nonsensical type of comedian the Orpheum has seen in many a day, and he was the riotous hit of a good lively bill of vaudeville which had its opening on Easter Sunday before two large audiences.

Barnes and his partner, Miss Bessie Crawford, haven't much but the scenery on which to base their act. The rest of it consists of Barnes' foolishness, Miss Crawford simply acting a a foil. Barnes tells jokes with the seriousness of a Hamlet. The climax comes when he picks up a musket with a long bayonet attached, and descends from the stage into the aisle demanding that the audience give his partner a little more applause for her solo. She gets the applause all right. Barnes saw to that before he returned to the stage. He's the best "nut" comedian the Orpheum has seen since the visit of Frank Tinney.

Miss Jessie Buley in a comedy sketch of department store life by Rupert Hughes, is the headliner this week. Miss Busley has made a reputation for herself in the last few years as an actress of intelligence and genuine ability, and she makes the most of her present vehicle, assisted by a company of seven people who have been carefully chosen for their "types." The story of the sketch is a timely one. It is an incident of department store life and the dangers which surround young girls in the larger cities. The comedy lines are sparkling, and Miss Busley's portrayal of the "diamond in the rough" type of slangy clerk is refreshingly natural.

Dave Kramer and George Norton, two blackface comedians, have a lively act that caught the fancy of the Sunday night audience, and they were second only to Barnes and Crawford in the applause handicap. There is nothing subtle about their comedy, but it is clean and well handled, and both the young men can sing and dance. 'Nough said.

Miss Carrie Reynolds is an animated picture of very blonde hair and very blue eyes. She makes a pretty enough picture under the spotlight to cause the audience to forgive many shortcomings. But the shortcomings are not evident in her case, although a better collection of songs might be selected. She sings and dances well, and if her songs were a little more out of the ordinary would score a much bigger hit than she does.

The opening act this week is a most remarkable exhibition of sharpshooting by a man who calls himself Gen. Pisano. Some of his shots are fired from the balcony, and from this position he lights matches held on the stage, and then extinguishes them. It is quite a thrilling exhibition, but not many people in the audience envy the assistant his job.

Meehan's leaping canines provide a lively closing act for the program. The act contains a number of cleverly trained trick dogs, but the most spectacular feats are performed by the leaping greyhounds.

Frank Gordon and Rose Kinley have an acrobatic dancing act that gets by nicely. Gordon is a remarkable acrobatic dancer, and his work makes the act a success in spite of the fact that their comedy does not seem to "get across."

The pictures this week show some scenes at the national ski tournament at Ironwood, Mich., which the pictures announce is held at "Greenwood, Minn." They complete a most entertaining bill which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

Kramer and Norton were delayed by the blizzard and failed to reach the city in time for the matinee yesterday. Miss Valborg Gunderson filled in the gap most acceptably with some violin solos. Miss Gunderson held her own on the bill, and acquitted herself most creditably.

PROGRAM FOR Y. M. C. A. "POP"

After two weeks' intermission, the "Pop" programs at the Y. M. C. A. are to be again resumed. An excellent program has been prepared for this week.

The chief interest will center around the basket ball game between the Midgets and the Giants. The former are captained by Henry Hallenbeck and the latter by H. B. Fredrickson. Both teams include star performers and what the Midgets lack in weight and height will be made up in their agility and speed.

The Eldora quartet, composed of Mrs. Kelly Compton, soprano; Miss Marjorie Wonderly, alto; H. Franchere, tenor, and Clyde Cordinere, bass, will appear in several numbers. Miss Violet Flaaten will accompany them on the piano. Miss Theresa Diehl, one of the city's most popular readers, will also appear on the program in a humorous selection. The Lavick Brothers, well-known violinists, will play a minuet by Mozart. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will also provide instrumental music.

Free tickets are being given at the Y. M. C. A. The program follows:

NEW TABLOID AT THE EMPRESS

"The Winning Widow" Delights Three Capacity Audiences on Opening Day.

When a theater is packed for three performances in one day and the tickets were all sold hours before each performance, there must be something worth while going on inside. Such was the case at the Empress theater yesterday.

And when one sees "The Winning Widow" the reason for such large crowds will be readily understood. "The Winning Widow" is without a doubt the best tabloid musical comedy ever seen in this city and reflects credit upon the men who are behind this new form of entertainment. Empress patrons will rest content, if such productions are continued at the local theater.

"The Winning Widow" has exceptional comedians, an able, well-trained chorus, popular songs and extremely funny lines and situations. Mul Clark as Heinie Schmitz and Ben Turbett as Dennis McFadden are the hit of the show with their original comedy. Mr. Clark introduces a specialty in the second act, which brought four encores, and not until he had made a little speech was the audience willing that he should discontinue the number.

The song numbers and comedy are all above the average and worthy of a large musical comedy production. Among the song hits featured are "Way Down in New Orleans," "Louisiana Lizbeth," "That Old Girl of Mine," "I Want My Man," "Razzle Dazzle Rag" and "My Clementine."

The production has a very light plot, which deals with the love affairs of Schmitz and McFadden, both of whom are rivals for the winning widow, portrayed effectively by Miss Hilda Bartin. Others of the company, who capably present their parts, are Jack Barton as Eddie McFadden, Miss Marion Gibson as the Queen of the Models, Miss Leona Thompson as Nannie Schmitz and Miss Hazel Wilson as Josie McFadden.

The chorus is well trained. The members are also the possessors of pleasing voices. The costumes worn by the feminine members of the company are all far above the average of those seen here in the past.

Between the acts a specialty is introduced by Miss Wilson and Mr. Burton, which is well received. Opening the production an interesting reel of motion pictures is shown.

"The Winning Widow" will continue until Wednesday evening, making way for "The Love Pirate" Thursday afternoon.

REAL DUEL FOUGHT ON STAGE IN SPAIN.

Madrid, March 24.—The stage of the little theater at Argamasilla De Alba, in the province of Ciudad Real, was the scene of a duel to the death last night.

The opera was "Carmen." The baritone Padro took the part of Toreador Escamillo and the tenor, Martinez, filled the role of Don Jose. Between these two singers there was intense rivalry over a love affair, and they resolved to settle their differences with the sword. They decided, however, to defer the combat until the end of the season. This closed with "Carmen" last evening, and the audience was horrified when a real duel was interpolated in the third act. The men fought savagely and the tenor received a sword thrust from which he succumbed.

CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

Gently Cleanses the Stomach, Liver and Waste-Clogged Bowels.

Every mother immediately realizes after giving her child delicious Syrup of Figs that this is the ideal laxative and physic for the children. Nothing else regulates the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of tender bowels so promptly, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little insides need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the foul, constipated, clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given to-day will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

CONGRESS OF OLDER BOYS

Important Meeting in Connection With Sunday School Convention.

Delegates From All Parts of State to First Congress.

Final arrangements have been made for the boys' congress to be held Saturday and Sunday, March 29 and 30, in connection with the State Sunday School association convention.

This will be the first boys' congress in connection with the Sunday School association, and it is expected that it will prove a big feature. The boys' work committee met at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday and went carefully over the program to see that every part of it was complete. In addition to the boys who will come from other parts of the state, every Sunday school in Duluth will be represented. Each School was asked yesterday to pick out from four to six older boys (15 to 20 years) as special delegates.

The congress will be held at the Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. All the sessions will be held there. The opening session will be Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, when all the delegates will be registered and the officers elected. This will be followed by devotional service by J. E. Hauter of the Y. M. C. A. Ralph Dunning of the Endion M. E. Sunday school will present the first paper on "How to Increase the Number of Older Fellows in the Sunday School."

This will be followed by Richard Cullum, president of the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., on "Why Don't Older Fellows Attend Sunday School? John L. Alexander of Chicago will conduct an open parliament on the above two papers. Dr. Robert Yost will follow with an address on "Motives," and the morning program will conclude with an address by John L. Alexander on "The Challenge." The afternoon will be devoted to recreation and at 4 o'clock all the delegates will be entertained at the Y. M. C. A. pool, with special activities in charge of J. R. Batchelor.

At 5:30 the congress will convene again. A banquet will be served by the ladies of the Norwegian church. Boys representing different parts of the state will bring greetings. F. H. Brigham, general secretary of the Wisconsin Sunday School association, will give an address on "The Place of the Older Boy in the Sunday School," and J. L. Alexander will close with an address on "Go To It."

The congress will conclude with an older boys' rally Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Mr. Alexander is a most fascinating speaker and attracts a large number of boys everywhere he speaks. Sunday schools are requested to send in names of their delegates at once to the chairman of the boys' committee.

TRYING IT ON THE FAMILY

An Author Reads the Manuscript of His Latest Novel to His Wife and Daughters, Who Place Themselves in Position of the Public.

Archibald Marshall in the London Mail.

Author—Now listen carefully and make any criticisms that may suggest themselves to you. I'm sure you will like it; it's the best I've written so far. But I want to get it absolutely right. Anything you think is wrong, don't hesitate to say so. You are in the position of the public, and I've got to please the public.

(Family puts itself into position of public. Author reads.)

Eldest Daughter—I don't think she would have worn a frock exactly like that on that occasion.

Author—Well, now, that's just the sort of thing you can put me right on. I wasn't quite certain about it when I wrote it. Let's get that right.

(Frock discussed and settled. Family gratified, again takes up position of public. Author prepares to resume reading. Youngest daughter comes in.)

Youngest Daughter (in aggrieved voice)—Mother, you said I might have an egg for my supper. Ellen won't boil me an egg.

(Situation discussed by family. Youngest daughter asked for reasons of refusal, as stated by Ellen, who is under suspicion of "temper." Reason elicited. No eggs in house. Youngest daughter driven out of room and told to shut door and not interrupt again. Author has taken no part in discussion, but sat with manuscript on knee and air of weary patience. Prepares to read again.)

Wife—I can't understand why there are no eggs in the house.

(Question rediscussed. Author resumes air of weary patience.)

Wife—Please go on. I'm longing to know what is going to hoppen.

(Author reads several pages, in which nothing particular happens. Family listens respectfully, but with no comment. Author hurries on to humorous dialogue, and is soon rewarded by laugh from Eldest Daughter. Author reads more brightly. Wife laughs.)

Second Daughter—Is Sir Reginald going to be funny?

Author (brought to a sudden stop)—Why don't you listen? That's a silly question.

Wife—Yes, it's a very silly question, can't you see that he is meant to be funny?

(Author, after a thoughtful pause, resumes reading. Family laughs frequently. Scene goes well. Author modestly gratified, and stops at the end of it to point out various excellences. Family sympathetic, but ready to go on before he is. He is about to resume reading. Youngest Daughter comes in.)

Youngest Daughter—Mother, Ellen says I must have a bath. I had a bath this morning. I don't want a bath this evening.

(Author resumes air of weary patience. Question of bath settled, and Youngest Daughter routed. Reading begins again and goes on for some time. Author pauses for comment.)

Eldest Daughter (without enthusiasm)—Jolly good, I think. But I don't quite understand why he——

(Author explains with some irritability "Why he——," and says he should have thought anybody could have seen that. Eldest Daughter says she sees now.)

Second Daughter—Which is he going to marry?

(Second Daughter snubbed by family. Author keeping silence, with air of superiority, Author reads another chapter and awaits comment.)

Wife (dutifully)—I think it is splendidly written.

Eldest Daughter—Jolly good, But—

Second Daughter—Was it summer or winter?

Author—What a ridiculous question! Summer, of course. Weren't they having tea out of doors?

Second Daughter—Yes, but when he went in he burnt the letter. Where did he burn it?

Author—H'm! Ha! Yes, I'm glad you pointed that out. Wouldn't do. He mustn't burn it.

Second Daughter (encouraged)—Couldn't he burn it in the kitchen fire?

(Second Daughter sat on.)

Eldest Daughter—Isn't it better to make people do or say things instead of talking about them?

Author (grudgingly)—Well, I've often told you that, of course, but here—

(Goes into long explanation of why he hadn't done it.)

Eldest Daughter (doubtfully)—Yes, I see.

Wife (courageously)—I think the whole chapter is a little dull.

(Author explains carefully that whatever chapter may be it is not dull.)

Wife—Well, perhaps you are right. Do go on. I want to know what is going to happen.

(Author prepares to go on. Youngest Daughter come in.)

Youngest Daughter (in voice of strong complaint)—Mother—

(Youngest Daughter told that if she interrupts again she shall have good whipping, which, as threat has often been made and never yet carried out, fails to intimidate her.)

Youngest Daughter (insistently)—But, mother! Ellen says—

(Youngest Daughter routed, with complaint unventilated. Reading resumed.)

Second Daughter (interrupting)—What does "obsessed" mean?

Auther (impatiently)—I wish you would wait until I come to the end of a passage. It means—it's plain enough what it means, from the context. Look it up in a dictionary.

Second Daughter—I only ask because you have used it seven times on that page.

Author—Oh, well, I'll make a mark. Now I think you'll like this bit that's coming. It's rather pathetic.

(Reads to end without interruption. Family quite silent. Author looks around.)

Author (not entirely destitute of humor, in hurt voice)—Well, I think you might blub a bit!

Wife (with handkerchief to eyes) Oh, it's beautiful!

Eldest Daughter—I could easily have cried if I wanted to.

Second Daughter—Could she throw herself on his breast if he was kneeling by her bed?

(Effect of pathos completely spoilt. General irritation directed against Second Daughter, who sticks to point and is pacified by promised interpolation. Youngest Daughter comes in in dressing gown.)

Youngest Daughter—Mother, Ellen says—

(Youngest Daughter once more routed with ignominy. Reading resumed.)

Wife (at end of chapter)—Yes, it's very good. I always like your quiet, reflective bits. But—

Author (on defensive)—Well, what?

Wife—I don't think it's quite as good as the rest.

(Author explains that it is the best chapter in the book.)

Eldest Daughter—Of course, it is good, but I think it hangs up the action a little.

(Author explains that it is meant to hang up the action. You must have breathing space. Any sensible persons would give and enjoy that chapter before getting into action again.)

Eldest Daughter—Yes, perhaps so. It's awfully well written. Still, I do think it retards the action.

(Author gets irritated and explains further.)

Second Daughter (breaking in)—I don't like that chapter. I thought you were going to tell us whether she was really dead or not.

(Author exhibits extreme irritation and asks whether it is worth while going on at all. Youngest Daughter comes in.)

Youngest Daughter—Mother, Ellen says—

(Youngest Daughter fallen upon, holds ground for a moment, then bursts into howls.)

Youngest Daughter—Ellen says—boo-hoo-hoo!—nearly 8 o'clock—boo-hoo—must lay the table.

Do you imagine that any worthwhile buyer of real estate is going to overlook your ad in this paper? Not unless he is sick abed.

WHEAT PRICES CREEP HIGHER

North American Markets Are Strong in Spite of Crop Reports.

Flaxseed Is Slightly Higher ---Country Roads Bad for Hauling.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 24.—Wheat worked a little higher on the North American markets today, by reason of the action of shorts, notwithstanding favorable winter wheat crop reports. Duluth May wheat today closed ⅝c to ¾c higher than Thursday. Cash wheat closed 1½c to 2c under May. Durum closed ¼c up, oats ⅝c up, rye unchanged and barley a cent higher. Duluth May and July linseed closed ¼c higher.

Wheat worked considerably higher on the Duluth exchange today following the upward trend of the markets at Chicago and Minneapolis on Saturday, where shorts put up prices. These markets, as well as those of Duluth and Winnipeg, were also strong today. This general strength did not seem to be due to any of the news about crops or other outside factors affecting market conditions, but merely to a feeling that wheat had been weak for a long time, and some strengthening influence was about due. General conditions seemed to be pretty bearish. Reports from the winter wheat regions of the United States were very promising indeed.

Business was rather slack on the wheat markets of North America today because no news could be obtained on market conditions in Europe, all of these markets being closed in observance of Easter Monday.

Duluth May wheat, which closed Thursday at 86½-⅝c bid, opened today at 86⅞c and at noon today was quoted at 87¼c asked. There were higher quotations also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Flax Trade Dull.

Trading in flaxseed during the morning was quite dull. There was a small demand and little was offered. Prices hardly changed all. Of late the weather conditions have been such in the country that farmers could not do their hauling of flaxseed to the country shipping points as usual, and the receipts have therefore been quite small, and offers not at all aggressive. It is expected, however, that in April, a great deal of flaxseed will be hauled and offers will be correspondingly heavier. The Minneapolis crushers are buying very little seed. Minneapolis cash seed at noon today was 3 cents under the Duluth May price. Duluth May seed at noon today was ⅛c up and July was ¼c up. Winnipeg May seed at noon today was unchanged at $1.12¼, being 15c under Duluth May

FLAXSEED.

Last week, with its four market days, showed a slight rise in flaxseed on the Duluth market, notwithstanding the dullness of the demand. This may be accounted for by the large decrease in the arrivals of American seed. Even making due allowance for the fact that there were only four market days last week to six the week before, there was a tremendous falling off in the receipts of this seed on the Duluth market, as shown by the elevator reports. In bonded receipts, however, there has been some increase. This Canadian seed is not on an import basis for American consumption since the margin between the Duluth and Winnipeg markets has for some time been less than 17c.

MARKET GOSSIP.

C. H. Peterson, manager of the Ayr Farmers' Elevator company, at Ayr, Hess county, N. D., was a visitor on the Duluth grain exchange today. Mr. Peterson is the son of G. W. Peterson, formerly a member of the Duluth board of trade, now manager of the Amenia Elevator company at Amenia, N. D.

"About the only important change in the farming program for our vicinity for the coming year, as far as I know," said Mr. Peterson of Ayr today, "is that the farmers have decided to raise less spring wheat and more barley. They will put in about the usual amount of wheat this year, but about two-thirds of it will be durum, and about one-third spring wheat. Last year about a third was durum and the rest was spring wheat. Durum has been growing in favor with the farmers of Hess county for two reasons. In the first place, it brings a better price. In the second place, the soil is well adapted to durum, being light and on high ground, where it is generally rather dry. There are not many places where natural conditions favor the cultivation of durum as they do in our region.

"I do not think the farmers will put in much flax. Flax has been cultivated less and less in our neighborhood from year to year. The land is rather old and is not adapted to flax-raising, though there was a time when a great deal of it was produced there. In the farm country tributary to Ayr, I do not believe more than 5,000 bu of flaxseed were raised last year, and this year I doubt if those farmers will raise 1,000 bu.

"Our farmers are somewhat behind in their plowing. Last fall they managed to do about two-thirds of the usual amount of plowing for that season of the year. Therefore this spring they will have more than the usual amount of plowing to do. Yet I think the usual acreage of grain will be put in.

"There has not been much snow this winter, but the ground is well supplied with moisture by reason of the heavy rains of last fall. The outlook is for a prosperous grain-growing season this year."

John Inglis wired Logan & Bryant at Chicago: "After an extended trip over the Southwest, including Northern Texas and as far north as Nebraska, I may briefly summarize the general conditions of wheat as very promising. While the growth has only been normal, the plant is well rooted, with a much more perfect stooling than is usual at this early date. Moisture is abundant. The recent snows with lower temperatures checking too rapid a growth, will be beneficial. So far this has been an exceptional season. There is less winter killing up to date than in any previous year to my knowledge. I have not seen a field so far that shows any serious damage. Country mills are well supplied with wheat and are not grinding up to full capacity. Flour stocks are large. The general impression is that should the present crop mature without any serious damage, millers are willing to go into the new crop with as small a margin of old wheat as possible. Most of the territory recently covered had a very moderate corn crop, with the exception of Northern Kansas and Northern Missouri, where there are still large reserves in farmers' hands, but even those sections which had a comparatively light crop all have sufficient for their needs with some to ship out. There will be little demand for corn to the Southern and Western Nebraska excepted. They will require to ship in corn the balance of the season. Grass is beginning to show up green, pastures last fall had a wonderful growth in the season, which left them well protected during the winter season."

• • •

A letter from a large exporting firm at Sydney, Australia, under date of Feb. 19, says: "Our wheat crop has turned out quite as well as expected and is reaching terminals in good condition. We think the total will reach 80,000,000 bu for the commonwealth.

The Chicago Paint and Varnish Record says:

"The Interstate Commerce commission has just decided to allow Western railroads to advance freight rates on linseed oil from Minneapolis to Chicago, Kansas City and other Southern and Eastern points. The increase in rates represents from 10 to 15 cents per 100 pounds.

"Minneapolis is one of the leading linseed oil centers in the United States, and it is claimed that this advance in rates from the principal flaxseed and linseed oil center is a discrimination. An advance in rates on linseed oil from Des Moines, Iowa, was considered by the commission, but as this is only a small producing center it was not considered necessary to advance the rates from that point.

"The increase in rates from Minneapolis will place that city somewhat at a disadvantage, as flaxseed can be shipped by lake from Duluth to Eastern and Middle-western cities and there made into linseed oil, and shipped from there to other cities at prices which would cause a discrimination to exist between them and Minneapolis."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Absence of Cables and Storm Conditions Send Wheat Up.

Chicago, March 24.—The storm conditions throughout the West sent wheat up today. Absence of cables, owing to foreign holidays and interrupted wire conditions here, made the market largely local in character, and trade was very dull. The market opened unchanged to ⅛c higher. May started at 9⅛@90⅝c, unchanged to ⅛c up, and steadied around 90⅝c under lack of buying pressure.

On the strength of Northwest markets and aided by a bullish corn market, wheat later touched 91c, the highest point reached for about three weeks. The close was nervous at 90⅛c for May, last night's closing price.

Influential buying gave some strength to corn after an easy opening. May started a shade lower to a shade higher at 53⅜@53½c and advanced to 53⅝c.

Continuance of support by leading houses sent corn upward till it touched 53⅞@54c. The close was a shade easier with May at 53¾@53⅞c, a net gain of ⅜c.

Covering by shorts gave some firmness to oats after a weak opening. May started a shade to ⅛c lower at 33¾c to 33¾@33⅞c and touched 33⅞c.

Light offerings and good buying demand caused a firm provision market. Opening prices were unchanged to 10c higher for May, with pork at $20.85, lard at $11.02½@11.10, and ribs at $11.10@11.12½.

Mexican dollars, 47½c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

COPPERS APPEAR TO BE STRONGER

News and quotations from the Eastern stock markets of all kinds today were exceedingly meager, as the telegraph service was badly demoralized, owing to the storms. The reports that were received, however, uniformly indicated a bullish state of affairs. The quotations from the general stock market of New York showed a very substantial rise. Amalgamated and Butte & Superior were shown to have gained by the figures that were received. There was no news from the copper metal market of London, that being closed on account of Easter Monday.

RAISES THE "ANTE."

Uncle Sam Forced to Increase Wages of Messenger Boy.

The government has again raised the "ante" for the service of an adequate messenger boy for the Duluth weather bureau office. For several years the salary has been $360 per annum or $30 a month. When the boy who now fills there last quit and nobody could be found to take his place at the figure named, the amount was raised with the usual left-handed liberalism of Uncle Sam, but that failed to serve as a bait.

So today it is announced here that a civil service examination will be held here on April 4 for the position and that the amount to be paid will be $480 a year or $40 a month. Applications must be in to the St. Paul office by April 2, and E. M. Barker, local secretary, who is superintendent of the registry department at the local postoffice, should be asked about it.

LITERATURE AND THE NEWSPAPER.

Christian Science Monitor: That the newspaper has in the past been set outside the pale of literature and even in the present hour of progress is thought of as having literary standing only in respect to certain departments. Is due to the fact that the newspaper of old considered only one or two aspects of human experience and did not consider them from the highest standpoint.

Of late everything that is of concern to human beings finds representation in the newspaper and every class of humanity is represented, from the adult to the child, from the rich man to the factory girl, from the poet or servant to the bricklayer and the newsboy. That the newspaper is not considered literature follows from the double fallacy in deciding what literature is on the one hand, and what a newspaper should be on the other.

Literature is not dry-as-dustism. It is vital, human thought and activity, set forth in printed form so that all may share it. All great literature is in a deep sense autobiographic. From St. John saying, "That which our hand have handled of the word of life . . . declare we unto you," to Mr. Howells setting down what he has seen in the world about him, no man can write a word that does not record himself as well as the people or ideas he is describing. In fact, or events he is describing. In fact, everything one does is autobiographic.

Then the newspaper, with its constant cry for "human interest" stories, is literature, and it is good or bad as the writers and directors of the paper shall choose. For every writer in his degree writes himself into his work. Hence the deciding vote as to what the literary aspect of any newspaper shall be lies in the quality and character and ideals of the men and women who write for it as well as of the editors who choose and shape what is written.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Brisk Demand for Leading Speculative Shares Causes Rise.

Prices Reach Best Level of Session Near the Close.

New York, March 24.—There was a brisk demand for the leading speculative stocks when trading was resumed today after the triple holiday. Union Pacific rose 1⅜, Reading, Rubber and St. Paul a point and Steel ¾ in the first few transactions. Some of the less active stocks also rose briskly. Sloss-Sheffield gained 2 points and Railway Steel Spring 1⅝. New Haven, Rumeley and Can were heavy.

Demand abated after the principal stocks had risen 1 to 1½ and speculation became dull.

Completion of early short covering left the market in a vulnerable position and when the news came from Washington that there would be no decision in the Minnesota case today today, prices went down. Union Pacific reacted a point and other shares half as much. Can declined abruptly from 30¼ to 28, with the bears selling freely.

Dealings were virtually suspended in the late afternoon and there was scarcely any movement of the important stocks. Canadian Pacific was especially strong and Can seemed to meet support around 28.

The market closed firm. Business expanded in the final hour and prices advanced to the best level of the day.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota, State Auditor's Office.
St. Paul, February 24, 1913.
Notice is hereby given that on April 16, 1913, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the state of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.
Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1st, 1914, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year; provided, the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.
Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.
Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.
All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.
Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.
Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.
Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the state auditor or the state commissioner of immigration at St. Paul, and of the county auditor at above address.
SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

DISASTROUS FLOODS INUNDATE VAST AREAS OF OHIO AND INDIANA, CAUSING LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY

SCORES OF WOMEN AND MEN SEARCH RUINS AT OMAHA FOR RELATIVES

Struggle With Snow-Covered Debris, Shivering in Wintry Blasts.

Snow Storm Has Seriously Hampered Work of Rescue.

Clothing and Other Necessities Are Distributed to Sufferers.

Omaha, Neb., March 25.—Shivering from cold and the awe inspired by the nature of their work, scores of men, women and children today struggled in the snow to rescue dead or injured relatives and friends who lay beneath the wreckage of buildings that were crumbled like eggshells by the tornado which Sunday swept over Nebraska and Iowa, killing more than 150 persons in Omaha alone. The latest reports this morning gave the number of injured at 320, but the death list had not increased over the night report of 202.

The snowstorm which seriously hampered the work of rescue began shortly after midnight, and continued with gathering force. More than three inches of snow covered the debris in the section of the city which was struck by the cyclone.

Privations of the storm sufferers were greatly increased by the snow following so closely in the wake of the tornado. Women tugging at heavy beams, hoping against hope to find the living dear ones beneath the tons of wreckage; men gruffly cheering their sorrowful mates; weeping children wrapped with shawls and blankets—all these figured in the scene which Federal soldiers watched while patrolling the afflicted district and kept the wrecked buildings from conscienceless looters.

Distribute Necessities.

Later city officials gathered within the lines drawn around the tornado district and helped the soldiers and distributed clothing and other necessities among the sufferers.

More than $50,000 has already been subscribed for relief, $25,000 by the city commissioners and equal amounts by citizens.

The injured at hospitals are receiv-

PASSENGERS ESCAPE THROUGH WINDOWS

Climb Out of Sleeper and Make Way to Shore Through Water.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, March 25.—The engine and rear sleeping car of westbound Pennsylvania train No. 3 plunged into Mad river, at the edge of West Liberty, early today, but the sleeping car fell at the side of the stream, and the passengers crawled through the windows and waded to shore. The other six coaches of the train remained on the rails.

Heavy rains had swollen the river until the bridge was swept away just as the train arrived. The train was running over the Big Four railroad from Urbana to Bellefontaine, because of washouts on the Pennsylvania lines.

Conductor Philip Ham was swept off the front of the engine into the river, but landed on a bridge down stream.

Engineer James Wood and Fireman C. E. Chilton, who jumped after setting the brakes, were slightly injured.

Washouts on each side of the ruined bridge prevented immediate aid from reaching the train. Meanwhile the storm kept forcing a rise in the river. Communication had to be established by shouting across the river, which is half a mile wide.

Inhabitants of West Liberty tried to reach the train by boat, but the current was too swift. For nearly a quarter of a mile behind the train the river had risen over the tracks.

HER HUSBAND WAS INSANELY JEALOUS

Responsible for Killing of Four, So Mother-in-Law Says.

Philadelphia, March 25.—Jealous rage was responsible for the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wharton, their 6-year-old daughter and Johnson Hemphill, a visitor, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of the fire which yesterday destroyed the Wharton home near Williamstown, N. J., according to Mrs. Caroline F. Worrell, mother of Mrs. Wharton.

Mrs. Worrell declared today that "Wharton was insanely jealous and must have shot his wife, his child and Hemphill and then killed himself after setting fire to the house." The autopsy by Coroner Stultz at Glassboro, N. J., today disclosed that Mrs. Wharton and the little girl, as well as Hemphill, had been shot. Wharton's body was the only one in which no bullet wound was found. The top of his head, however was either shot or burned off.

TO PROTECT STATE TIMBER

Senate Advances Bill for Construction of Fire-breaks and Roads.

Unavailing Fight Against Bill Regulating the Shipments of Cream.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar a bill providing for the expenditure of state funds to the amount of $112,500 in each of the next two years for fire protection and road building on state lands in Northern Minnesota.

The bill is by Senator Manley L. Fosseen of Minneapolis and a similar bill by Representative P. H. McGarry of Walker is in the house.

In many respects this is the most important measure, so far as Northern Minnesota is concerned, yet remaining before the legislature. Only the public domain bill can be reckoned with it in point of importance.

The bill provides that in any county in the state in which there are more than 5,000 acres of state lands covered

DAMAGE IN CHICAGO WILL REACH MILLION

Wiremen of Illinois Metropolis Working Feverishly to Repair Storm Damage.

Chicago, March 25.—Wiremen of the fire department worked feverishly today to restore the electric alarm system which was seriously impaired by the storm which yesterday hit the city.

It is estimated that the damage done in Cook county, (Chicago), including dwellings demolished, the miles of wires and poles prostrated, windows smashed, basements flooded, railroad property and machinery injured, will aggregate $1,000,000. The greatest loss falls on the telegraph and telephone companies.

Despite cold and snow, former occupants of most of the thirty dwellings which were wrecked continued search for valuables but made little attempt to clear away the debris. The contents of the houses for the most part were considered a dead loss.

At 5105 Medill avenue, formerly the home of E. Anderson, "Raffles" Anderson's prize collie, stood on guard with eyes on the Anderson piano which stood clear of the other wreckage and upon which the snow was falling steadily. "Raffles" went on guard yesterday and remained over night. Admiring spectators of his devotion brought him food in bountiful quantities.

Three Men Killed.

Wellington, Ohio, March 25.—Three railroad men were killed when their train on the Wheeling & Lake Erie plunged through a flood-weakened bridge at Whipple hill today.

CHANGE IN SYSTEM IS ADVOCATED

House Committee Raps Management of Capitol and Grounds.

Early Vote Now Expected on the County Division Bill.

House Passes Bills Making Agreed Changes in Apportionment.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committee on public accounts and expenditures, of which Representative S. R. Child of Minneapolis is chairman, this morning introduced in the house a bill abolishing the present system of managing the capitol buildings and grounds and putting the custody and care of the state's property under the direction of the board of control with a single superintendent at a salary of $1,800 a year.

The bill was accompanied by a report containing a number of criticisms of the present system. It is asserted that it costs too much, that there is a topheavy managing staff, that there are several useless places, that some salaries are too high, and that the purchase of supplies is not on a strictly business basis. There is a criticism, too, of the cost of redecorating the new capitol by a Duluth firm, and the committee says that this contract was let on the recommendation of state officials, and apparently on the basis of helping out friends.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED FAMILIES HOMELESS

Residents of Indianapolis Forced to Leave Houses By High Water.

Indianapolis, March 25. — Fifteen hundred families in Indianapolis had been forced to leave their homes at noon today by the high waters caused by incessant rains. White river, Eagle creek and Pleasant run are rising at the rate of six inches an hour. Only one of the thirteen interurban lines is running and traffic on the steam roads is at a standstill.

The water company has warned its patrons to draw emergency supplies of water as the company expected to be put out of business before night by the flood. The plant of the Indianapolis Gas company is under water and the pressure went out of the mains before noon.

A levee along White river in Broad Ripple, a suburb of Indianapolis, went out today, driving 300 families from their homes and washing out a mile of railroad tracks. Only the roofs of some of the houses of the suburb are visible.

It is estimated that more than 5,000 Indiana families have been forced to leave their homes.

So far only four deaths by drowning have been reported, but several persons are said to be missing and may have been swept away with their homes.

JURY FINDS ALLEGED FIREBUG NOT GUILTY.

Chicago, March 25.—Joseph Frank, one of the two-score of men arrested as a result of the "arson trust" investigation, was found not guilty today by a jury in Judge Windes' court. Frank collected $1,600 for a fire in his clothing store.

The state claimed that rags saturated with gasoline were found in the place by firemen. Frank said that the fire started from a defective gas light about which he had complained to the gas company.

Train Blown Over.

Chicago, March 25.—A high wind at Makanda, Ill., last night blew over eighteen cars of a 31-car freight train on the Illinois Central. The engine and caboose remained on the track. None was hurt.

A POOR PLACE TO BLUFF.

FORTY PERSONS LOSE LIVES AT DAYTON, O., BY FLOODING OF CITY

Waters From Miami River, Swelled By Breaking Laramie Reservoir, Rushing Through Business Streets at Speed of a Millrace.

Reports From Delaware, Twenty-five Miles From Columbus, Say Mayor Leas and Twenty Other Citizens Have Been Drowned.

Disastrous floods inundated important areas of Ohio and Indiana today, bringing great loss of life in their train and driving thousands of people from their homes. Reports reached Indianapolis that at Dayton five feet of water rushed through the streets. At Delaware, Ohio, twenty persons were drowned.

The property loss will run into the millions. In the flooded districts rivers were out of their banks, the dams were bursting and inhabitants of the lowlands fleeing for their lives.

Governor Cox called out the militia to protect property and keep order. Loss in livestock has been heavy.

Following is a resume of the situation:

Dayton, Ohio—Cut off from communication. Dam above city said to have broken, flood breaching the levees.

Delaware, Ohio—Twenty persons drowned, militia ordered to patrol street; relief supplies being sent.

Columbus, Ohio—Bridges near Columbus on Scioto river washed out and railway traffic paralyzed.

Lima, Ohio—There are ten miles of railroad trains of all kinds stalled by washouts between Lima and La Fayette. The Ottawa river is on a rampage.

Akron, Ohio—Dam north of city broke. Horsemen rode through valley warning farmers, who, with their families, fled by the hundreds to higher grounds.

Laruse, Ohio—Inundated.

Youngstown, Ohio—Mahoning river and Crab creek flood embankment; steel mills close and 14,000 men unable to work.

West Liberty, Ohio—Engine and one car roll down embankment washed out by flood of Mad river.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—St. Joseph, Maumee and St. Mary rivers on rampage. Town without lights and water famine feared. Highest water in twenty years.

Kokomo, Ind.—Southern part of city flooded; city in darkness last night when electric light plant was flooded. Use of militia authorized.

Indianapolis—Hundreds of persons in suburbs driven from homes by rise of Eagle creek and White river. Thousands of head livestock in state perished.

Marion, Ind.—Levee broken and 500 persons flee for their lives.

Elwood, Ind.—Three hundred homeless by floods.

La Fayette, Ind.—Wabash river 21 feet gauge and rising. Detention hospital flooded but inmates escaped.

St. Louis, Mo.—One person drown and many families flee from western part of city because of rise of River Des Peres. Rise due to heavy rains of last forty-eight hours.

Columbus, Ohio, March 25.—Information was received at the state capitol building today from Dayton that forty persons had been killed as a result of the flood in that city. Adjut. Gen. Wood issued an order directing that the railroad bridge over the Big Miami river be blown up.

According to reports received the Main street bridge, a steel and concrete structure, had already been swept away.

Governor Cox received a telegram this morning which was sent from a railroad tower near Delaware, asking for aid for Delaware flood sufferers. The dispatch said that state troops probably will be necessary but did not give the number of casualties.

It is reported that the flood in the Miami river was caused by the breaking of the Laramie reservoir in Shelby county, about fifty miles north of Dayton.

When this message was received the Miami river was rising about one foot an hour. The water was seven feet deep in Main street, Dayton, and fourteen feet deep in many parts of the surrounding country.

Water Rushing Through Streets.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 25.—(By telephone from Dayton.)—Dayton is seeing the deep muddy waters of the Miami river rushing through her downtown streets.

In front of the Algonquin hotel, at corner of Third and Ludlow streets, the water is many feet deep. At Third and Main streets the flood is three feet deep and the courthouse appears an island.

The Mad and Stillwater rivers are overrunning their banks and spewed their roaring flood waters into the always feverish, impetuous Miami.

Three rivers, the Miami, Stillwater and Mad, and Wolf creek conjoin right in the heart of Dayton. As the city, particularly North Dayton and a section called Riverdale, lies almost on a level with the four streams, it is protected from high water by levees twenty-five feet high, which guide the streams through the city.

North Dayton generally is first to suffer during high water. It is a manufacturing and residence district. Riverdale is a residence district.

If the levees of Mad river, the most dangerous of the four streams, should break, the major portion of the manufacturing district and the downtown business section would be in extreme danger. A break in any section of the levees would result in great damage.

TWENTY REPORTED DEAD AT DELAWARE

Mayor With Others Said to Have Been Drowned.

Columbus, Ohio, March 25.—B. V. Leas, mayor of Delaware, a town of 10,000 inhabitants twenty-five miles north of here, is reported drowned and the town is said to be completely flooded by a sudden rise in the Scioto river. All telephone and telegraph communications have been cut off. Just before the telephone operators left they reported that all the inhabitants were fleeing to the hills.

An appeal for help was received by Mayor Karb of Columbus from Delaware.

It is reported that besides Mayor B.

UNION CHORUS TO SING AT STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The union chorus is to be a prominent feature of the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota State Sunday School association, which begins tomorrow evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The convention will come to a close Sunday evening.

The chorus will be directed, during the convention, by J. Lincoln Hall of Philadelphia, one of the most prominent choir directors in America. The chorus will be accompanied by Dr. Adam Geibel, also of Philadelphia, known as the blind composer. The first song service will be held at the opening of the convention at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening. The service will last for a half hour every evening during the remainder of the week.

In the chorus are members of several choirs throughout the city, who have been gathered especially for this occasion. They have been trained during the past month by A. O. Anderson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. Mr. Anderson is also director of the church choir.

Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is in charge of the entertainment for the convention. He announced this morning that the special speakers for the convention will arrive this evening and tomorrow morning and that they will make their headquarters at the McKay hotel. The Sunday school specialists, who are expected here for the convention this year are: Rev. James M. Gray, D.D., of Chicago, dean of the Moody Bible institute; John L. Alexander, Chicago, secondary division superintendent of the International Sunday School association; Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick, Corinth, Miss., adult field worker in the South for the Methodist church; Prof. W. S. Athearn, Des Moines, Iowa, professor of religious education of Drake university; Rev. William N. Dressel, Evansville, Ind., pastor of the German Evangelical church and superintendent of "The School That's Different;" Andrew Stevenson, Chicago, publisher and prominent Sunday school worker; Miss Mabel Bally, Neenah, Wis., elementary superintendent of the Wisconsin Sunday School association; Rev. F. H. Bringham, Neenah, Wis., general secretary of the Wisconsin Sunday School association; J. Lincoln Hall, Philadelphia, composer, and Dr. Adam Giebel, Philadelphia, composer and organist.

TALK ON RESUSCITATION.

Pulmotor Used in Demonstration Before Lake Superior Electric Club.

Last evening, about fifty members of the Lake Superior Electric club and representatives from the police and fire departments listened to a very interesting and practical talk on first aid treatment of electrical shock, by George H. Hawes, mine rescue engineer of the Oliver Iron Mining company, at the meeting of the club in the Superior Commercial clubrooms.

Mr. Hawes, who has charge of the first aid and mine rescue departments of the mining company, demonstrated resuscitation from electrical shock by the Prone and Sylvester methods and also showed the proper way to remove a man from contact with electric current. The talk was concluded by a demonstration of the pulmotor, a machine which automatically inflates and deflates the lungs of the patient, thereby starting respiration and reviving the victim. The pulmotor is operated by means of compressed oxygen which is carried in a small steel cylinder at a pressure of 2,200 pounds per square inch from which it passes through a reduction valve and by means of its operation on two small leather accordion bellows effects the automatic reversal of the apparatus from suction to delivery and vice versa without ceasing. The bellows are connected by a pair of air tubes which lead to a rubber face mask, inclosing the mouth and nose of the victim. The pure oxygen and the automatic rhythm with which it is administered have proved successful in reviving victims of drowning, asphyxiation and electric shock that have been given up as hopeless by physicians.

The next meeting of the electrical club will be held in Duluth in April and a special committee has been appointed to arrange for special features as it will be the annual meeting and new officers will be elected and installed. The present officers of the clubs are: W. H. Winslow, president; W. B. Burgess, vice president; J. B. Crane, secretary and treasurer.

DEAD AT CANANEA NUMBER NINETY

Defenders Lose Sixty and the State Troops Thirty.

Naco, Ariz., March 25.—That the dead and wounded might be removed from the field after a day of desperate fighting, with no advantage, state troops attacking and Federals defending Cananea last night agreed to an armistice until noon today.

The defenders lost sixty killed, while the state troops' dead number thirty. The battle lasted from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m.

The Cananea club, home of an American social organization, has been converted into a hospital.

In the fighting, L. Bushnell, believed to be a Canadian, formerly from Edmonton and a member of the Northwest mounted police, was killed while manipulating a Howitzer for the state troops. Robert Charlot, an American mining man from New York city, was fatally injured while watching the battle from the roof of a building. Pablo Soto, an American-Mexican merchant from Arizona, was killed by a stray bullet. Another American named Foster was slightly wounded.

KRAABEL TELLS OF HIS ACTION

North Dakota Lieutenant Governor Explains Vote on Initiative Bill.

Fargo, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Presumably to rehabilitate himself with the insurgent Republicans who will hold a state meeting here Thursday, Lieutenant Governor Kraabel has issued a signed statement to public explaining his vote on March 6, when he was charged with killing Ployhar Blakemore's initiative and referendum bill in the state senate. He calls attention to the fact that the question of the passage of the bill did not come up to him on a tie vote, but merely on a motion to attach a "clincher." The measure had passed, 26 to 23, but on a vote to attach a "clincher" the result was 24 to 24. Had he voted "aye" it would have required two-thirds vote to have reconsidered the measure. In view of the close vote he would have been unfair as presiding officer to have voted that way so voted "no" making it possible to reconsider on a majority vote. This was later done and the bill was killed.

Bitterly Assails Bill.

Kraabel assails the bill bitterly, showing that it required only 8 per cent of the voters to start the initiative and only 5 per cent to start the referendum and only fifteen to amend the constitution and that this was necessary from only half the counties. He also contends that the bill contained a clause relating to municipal legislation which would have virtually permitted local option in cities.

CLOQUET MAN KILLS SELF BEFORE FAMILY.

Cloquet, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Jorgenson committed suicide last night by drinking the contents of a 3-ounce bottle of carbolic acid. Jorgenson worked at the Northern Lumber company's planing mill in the north end and lived nearby. He was intoxicated when he came home about 7:30 and producing the bottle from his pocket took the death dose in the presence of his family, a wife and seven children.

BEER FROM "EMPTIES."

Bemidji Youth Accumulates Jag in Very Unusual Manner.

Bemidji, Minn., March 25.—A 13-year-old boy by the name of Miller was found drunk on the downtown streets. He was unable to tell a coherent story, but Mayor McCuaig investigated personally and found that the boy had obtained liquor from beer bottles thrown out from saloons.

One of the small boys with him said that they had been gathering bottles during the morning and that the Miller boy drank the dregs from several of them. It is said that the boys also stole one full bottle of beer.

Prof. Olson's Trial Set.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—Monday has been formally set for the trial of Prof. Oscar M. Olson, charged with the murder of Clyde N. Darling, in district court.

Attorney Stan J. Donnelly wanted the case set as late as possible in the March term, and the probability is it will go over to the April term.

PRINCE YOUNG MEN'S LEAGUE

Membership Includes Representative in Every Precinct in the City.

The W. I. Prince Young Men's league, with a membership which includes representation from almost every precinct in the city, is organized to make a systematic campaign during the week before election.

Meetings will be held several times this week at the Prince headquarters in the Torre-- building and the members of the league will report progress. They have pledged themselves to work unceasingly until election day in an effort to carry the city for their candidate.

O. J. Larson, Mr. Prince's campaign manager, says that the Prince organization is completed and that workers are now out in every precinct boosting Mr. Prince's cause. Mr. Prince will make several talks before election and will carry on his personal campaign right up to the day of election.

KONKLER SAYS HE WAS MISREPRESENTED.

Dr. W. H. Konkler, candidate for short term commissioner, declares that he has been misrepresented by the Stirrup club report. In reply to the question of segregation, he said his reply was "I favor the abolishment of the illegal sale of liquor in the segregated district, and will work to exterminate it altogether." The Stirrup club reported Dr. Konkler as in favor of segregation. He says his stand for the extermination of the district should be plain from his answer.

MUST REPORT EXPENSES

State Law Requires Candidates to File Statements Saturday.

Failure to Comply May Result in Contest of Election.

STATE LAW ON EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

"Every candidate, and the secretary of every personal campaign and party committee shall * * * also on the Saturday preceding any election or primary, file a financial statement verified upon oath of such candidate or upon the oath of the secretary of such committee, as the case may be, which statement shall cover all transactions not accounted for and reported upon in statements theretofore filed. Each statement shall contain a summary of all preceding statements, and summarize all items theretofore reported, under the provisions of this act."—Subdivision 1, section 10, chapter 3, laws of extra session, 1912.

Each of the sixty candidates for office at the election next Tuesday must file with the city clerk Saturday a statement of his expenses for the campaign.

Unless candidates file the statements required next Saturday, their election will be open to contest, should they be elected. Any defeated candidate, or any twenty-five voters, may contest the election of a candidate on the grounds of violation of the corrupt practices act.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has the necessary blanks for the filing of expenses accounts by candidates and secretaries of personal campaign committees. Candidates who want to protect themselves against contest in the event of election will provide themselves with the blanks this week and file their statements with the clerk Saturday.

SHOULD HOLD AN EVENING SESSION

Bernard Says Commissioners Must Keep Close to People.

"When the commission form of government is inaugurated, the commission should make provision for holding night meetings twice a month, or once a week if it is necessary," said William L. Bernard, candidate for short term commissioner, today.

"Monday night has been the meeting time of the old council and as it has been established by long custom the same night might be continued. This would give the man who has to work all day a chance to appear before the commission without being compelled to lay off a day to do so. It would give the people a better opportunity to keep in touch with what is being done by the men they have elected to run the city for them. With only day meetings many who would like to lay some matter before the commissioners will not do so because they will feel that they cannot afford to lose the time which would be lost.

"Certain days should be set aside for considering the other branches of city business which will be dealt with by the commission as a whole. Take the water and light plant for an example. One commissioner will have charge of utilities, but he should not try to handle all its affairs as an individual, any more than should the men in charge of the other departments. The people want commission government and not one-man rule in five different ways.

"If a specified day is named to take up water and light business the citizens who have any general complaints to make or anything they wish to say concerning the policy of the department can appear at that time to make their statements. Of course many of these matters will be referred to the commissioner of public utilities, but there will be many others which should be acted on by the whole commission. The combined judgment of five men is much better than that of one man alone and that principle is one which I believe should be followed by the commission in handling all the important affairs affecting the general welfare of Duluth.

"The various departments should interlock and dovetail into one another, but the administration will not reach its greatest possibilities unless the commissioners do some interlocking and dovetailing also. Not only should they keep in close touch with the people, aided by meetings arranged on a systematic basis, but they should keep in close touch with one another's departments and with each other. The more the commissioners know about all the departments the better will be the results which Duluth will get from the commission form of government. Of course, each commissioner should know his own department best, but he should help the others to get acquainted with it so that friction will be eliminated and all will pull together to run the city like the big business corporation it is."

SAYS STIRRUP CLUB MISREPRESENTED HIM

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Stirrup club, the Municipal Ownership league, and several other organizations throughout the city have taken it upon themselves, and I believe without due consideration of the facts, to indorse certain candidates for office at the coming election and to advise the voters as to who should be elected.

I, for one, claim these comments and indorsements are most unfair and unworthy of consideration by the voters, for the reason that they misrepresent the standing of certain candidates upon certain questions and deliberately pervert the answers to other questions asked by the club.

As to municipal ownership I have believed in it and worked for it for more than twenty years, probably before some of the committee knew the meaning of the words. My record on this question can easily be verified by asking some of the members of the league.

As to the comments contained in the Stirrup club report, I ask in behalf of absolute fairness that you publish my answers and let the people decide for themselves. Yours very respectfully,

J. SCOTT CASH.

"Duluth, Minn., Dec. 19, 1913—To the Stirrup club—Gentlemen: In compliance with the request contained in your favor of 7th instant, I answer the questions submitted as follows:

"To each of the subdivisions a, b and c, of Question No. 1 I answer yes, without any qualification.

"To Question No. 2 I must qualify that where a building contains more than one place licensed to sell intoxicating liquors, I do not consider it right, fair or just, to compel one of the tenants, who obeys the laws to vacate or close his place of business, merely because his neighbor has been convicted of violating them.

"Your Question No. 3 involves the assumption that the abolishment of the red light or segregated district is the authoritative and well recognized solution of the social evil problem.

"Sociologists who have made a study of the subject differ in their views as to the best solution. In common with all right-minded citizens I recognize the serious menace of the evil but have never given the subject exhaustive consideration, and it would be presumptuous in me to decide in advance of adequate investigation just what mode of treatment should be adopted. If I am elected I will willingly co-operate with those interested in a conscientious endeavor to decide upon the best and most practicable solution of our local problem, and use my best efforts to enforce the policy so decided upon.

"To your Question No. 4 I most emphatically answer 'yes.'

"Thanking you for the opportunity of stating my position, and trusting that you as individuals can support my candidacy, I am yours very respectfully,

"J. SCOTT CASH."

WILL CALL A SPADE A SPADE

Dowling Says He Will Reply to Stirrup Club Report.

P. E. Dowling will speak tonight at the Park Point mission and tomorrow night at the Lyceum theater.

Mr. Dowling says that tomorrow night he will put the Stirrup club in its proper place. He will call a spade a spade, he says, and will show wherein the Stirrup club report is manifestly unfair to himself and other candidates.

Mr. Dowling has issued an invitation to the women of Duluth and to the pastors of the various churches to attend the meeting. He will discuss matters of special interest to them, he says, and he is anxious that all people interested in the campaign turn out to hear him.

ARDOUIN IS OUT OF THE RACE

W. B. Ardouin, candidate for short term commissioner, filed his withdrawal with City Clerk C. S. Palmer this morning, thus cutting the number of short term candidates to thirty-five. Mr. Ardouin is the third to withdraw since the last day for filing petitions. Chan Smith and George W. Power had their names taken from the list last week.

Tomorrow is the last day for the filing of withdrawals. The ballots will be made up Thursday and candidates remaining in the race until that time will have their names on the ballot at the election next Tuesday.

DAY'S MEETINGS.

Outlines Active Program of Speech-Making for the Week.

Dr. D. H. Day, candidate for mayor, has arranged the following meetings for this week: Wednesday evening, March 26, Woodmen's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street; Thursday evening at Fond du Lac at 7 p. m., and at Maccabee hall, New Duluth, at 8:15; Friday evening at Dormedy hall, West Duluth; Saturday evening at the Armory.

At each of his meetings Dr. Day will explain the preferential system of voting in addition to talking on the issues of the campaign.

OPENS SCHOOL FOR ELECTION JUDGES.

City Clerk Palmer's school for election judges will open in the council chamber at the city hall tonight. Letters have been sent out to the judges uring them to attend and receive final instructions on the methods of counting, tallying and reporting the vote under the new system of voting. Mr. Palmer will have sample ballots, tally sheets and report blanks and will conduct demonstrations to test the judges' knowledge of methods. He will also be prepared to answer all questions.

MAY VOTE BY AFFIDAVIT

Estimated That 1,500 to 2,000 Votes Will Be Sworn in.

Charter Provides Simple Methods and Blanks Will Be Available.

It is estimated that 1,500 to 2,000 of the voters who failed to register on one of the two registration days will vote at the election next Tuesday.

The feature of the election provisions of the new charter which allows unregistered voters to vote on election day is one that is little understood. A similar provision is included in the primary election law adopted at the extra session of the state legislature last year and some voters are familiar with it through its use at the primary last fall, but the number is not great.

The new charter provides that any voter who fails to register shall be allowed to vote on election day on filing an affidavit stating that he is a resident of the election district in which he offers to vote, that he is entitled to vote in that district, that he has resided in the district thirty days, that he is a citizen of the United States and has lived in the state of Minnesota six months. The affidavit must be corroborated by the affidavits of two property owners of the election district.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has prepared blank affidavits and a supply will be furnished to each precinct. The election judges will take the acknowledgements without charge, so that the voter who presents himself at the polling place with two property owners, also living in the district, will be able to vote. It is probable that some of the candidates will see that two property-owners are at each polling place to corroborate the affidavits of men they know.

The state law provides that no one man may corroborate more than five such affidavits of unregistered voters, but there is no such provision in the city charter. Any property-owner may corroborate as many affidavits as he is asked to support.

The candidates are busy now endeavoring to get out the vote. They are urging the registered and unregistered to remember that next Tuesday is election day. They are hopeful of getting out a larger vote than the registration, which was 10,115.

LEAGUE WILL SEND OUT SPEAKERS

The Municipal Ownership league will enter the speaking campaign tonight when a speaker representing the league will address a meeting at Rowley hall, 112 West First street.

The meeting will be an open session of the Carpenters' union. W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, and Alex Kennedy, candidate for short term commissioner, will speak and they will be followed by a speaker representing the Municipal Ownership league. The league speaker had not been assigned today.

O'Brien Will Speak.

C. D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, will speak tonight at K. P. hall, 118 West Superior street, on good city government in general and particularly in behalf of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt for long term commissioner.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Merritt have been friends since boyhood and the St. Paul man is anxious to do all he can to assist Mr. Merritt in his canvass for municipal office. The former mayor of the Saintly City is well known in Duluth and he is expected to attract a large crowd.

Socialist Meetings.

The Socialist candidates held two well attended meetings last night.

At 431 East Fourth street, W. E. Towne, candidate for the long term, took issue with the Stirrup club on the finances of J. T. Armstead as a commissioner.

An essential feature of every Socialist meeting is a large sample ballot which is used to warn the auditors against second and third choice voting.

Tonight Edes, Kaplan and Phillips will speak at Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street. Towne, Blackwood and E. T. Harris will be at the Bricklayers hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. Wednesday a meeting will be held at 822 Mesaba avenue.

CALLED ALOFT BY GREAT CAPTAIN

Several Vessel Captains Have Died Since Close of Last Season.

Several vessel masters will not report for duty this spring, having been called across the great divide since last season. Among those who have died since the close of navigation last year are:

Capt. Ralph E. Byrnes of the C. O. Jenkins, who was murdered by robbers at his home in Cleveland a short time ago.

Capt. Mitchell Clark of the Normania, who died of acute indigestion at his home in Henderson, N. Y., a few weeks ago.

Capt. Thomas Naden of the steamer Saxon, who died of intestinal trouble at his home in Sombra, Ont., about Feb. 1, after having been home only three days from the meeting of the Pittsburg fleet captains at Cleveland.

Capt. Eugene Marguette of the steamer Minnesota, who died at his home in Milwaukee only a few days ago.

LYCEUM THEATER
ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT, MARCH 26th, AT 8 P. M.

The Stirrup Club and Municipal League will each fittingly and becomingly receive its package, which they have so justly earned. The real issue of the campaign will be outlined at this meeting.

VESSEL CAPTAINS REACH THE CITY

Will Prepare Their Ships for Opening of Navigation.

A squad of vessel captains arrived at Duluth today over the Soo road to get their ships in readiness for the opening of navigation. They are: Capt. F. C. Pratt of the J. H. Dunham, Capt. A. C. Callam of the W. E. Fitzgerald and Capt. Burnham of the Minnetonka.

Accompanying them was W. A. Bourke, commissioner of the Lake Carriers' association at this point. Mr. Bourke has just returned from Cleveland where he was in conference with the officers of the association—the last before the season opens. He has not much to divulge aside from the fact that while the headquarters here have been open all winter for the accommodation of vessel men who reside hereabouts, the office will be open beginning April 1 for the shipping of seamen and others who expect to be employed on the lakes during the coming season.

Is Loading Grain.

The big steamer W. H. Wolf is loading grain at Consolidated Elevator E, and will take her cargo through the Canadian Soo. The Dunham has been pulled back from elevator H and the John Dunn, Jr., will take her place. The Dunn will load about 225,000 bushels of flax for lower lake ports, and her holds are now being cleaned at the Clarkson dock.

Vessel Crews Arriving.

Capt. W. L. Girardin of the steamer Castalia has arrived to take charge of the fitting out of his ship for the coming season. He arrived yesterday from Cleveland. The Castalia is being repaired at Pittsburg No. 2 dock.

Engineer H. Otis Smith and crew of the steamer John Dunn, Jr., arrived a few days ago and are fitting out the ship for the coming season's work.

Master Appointed.

Capt. Henry Hensley has been appointed master of the steamer Normania, to succeed Capt. Mitchell Clark, deceased.

IS NEAT DRYHOUSE.

Fine Building Erected By Jones & Laughlin in Stambaugh District.

Iron River, Mich., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new buildings at the Jones & Laughlin mine put up by Contractor Wahlman of Ishpeming, are undergoing the finishing touches and will soon be ready for occupancy. The dry, 75 by 35, is one of the neatest in the district. It is of brick and cement construction and provides for 122 miners. It is practically complete, with the exception of the steel lockers, which will shortly be installed.

The new frame building to the west of the dry, is 44 by 30 feet and has three good sized rooms. It is well lighted and conveniently arranged for its purpose.

A 150-foot extension has been added to the trestle at the Jones & Laughlin and a stock pile begun on the west side of the shaft.

DR. W. H. KONKLER
Commissioner for Short Term

I am of German parentage and was born at Lancaster, Ohio, in 1867. I remained with my parents until I was 16 years old; from that time I acted as foreman for a truck farmer, Jacob Claypool, who certifies that William H. Konkler is a young man of good character, industrious and has good habits, and that he is worthy of position of honor and trust. In 1885 I decided to go to school; I entered a business university for two terms, working my way through, doing janitor and other work in city hospital to pay for my tuition. Hon. J. B. Whiting, ex-senator, city hospital physician, certifies: "That William H. Konkler is a young man of honest, sober and industrious habits; I have found him faithful and trustworthy under all circumstances."—Dated 1888. I was also bookkeeper one year in a grain elevator in Iowa; came to Duluth in 1889 and was employed by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad as agent, May 1889, until August 1902; during that period, in connection as agent, was postmaster at Allen, Minn., and was affiliated with the A. R. U., a labor organization. Mr. Thomas Owens, superintendent, certifies my record, conduct and services satisfactory. I left the Iron Range company on account of ill health of my family. Up to 1903 I was connected with a jobbing coffee manufacturing concern, until it was destroyed by fire, I sustaining a heavy loss personally. In 1903 I became interested in chiropractic; October, 1904, I opened offices at present location. I am a graduate Mechano-Therapist, Electric Therapeutics; also vice president and member of the examining board for the Minnesota State Non-Medical association. PRINCE YOUNG MEN'S LEAGUE

Membership Includes Representative in Every Precinct in the City.

The W. I. Prince Young Men's league, with a membership which includes representation from almost every precinct in the city, is organized to make a systematic campaign during the week before election.

Meetings will be held several times this week at the Prince headquarters in the Torrey building and the members of the league will report progress. They have pledged themselves to work unceasingly until election day in an effort to carry the city for their candidate.

O. J. Larson, Mr. Prince's campaign manager, says that the Prince organization is completed and that workers are now out in every precinct boosting Mr. Prince's cause. Mr. Prince will make several talks before election and will carry on his personal campaign right up to the day of election.

KONKLER SAYS HE WAS MISREPRESENTED.

Dr. W. H. Konkler, candidate for short term commissioner, declares that he has been misrepresented by the Stirrup club report. In reply to the question of segregation, he said his reply was "I favor the abolishment of the illegal sale of liquor in the segregated district, and will work to exterminate it altogether." The Stirrup club reported Dr. Konkler as in favor of segregation. He says his stand for the extermination of the district should be plain from his answer.

MUST REPORT EXPENSES

State Law Requires Candidates to File Statements Saturday.

Failure to Comply May Result in Contest of Election.

STATE LAW ON EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

"Every candidate, and the secretary of every personal campaign and party committee shall * * * also on the Saturday preceding any election or primary, file a financial statement verified upon oath of such candidate or upon the oath of the secretary of such committee, as the case may be, which statement shall cover all transactions not accounted for and reported upon in statements theretofore filed. Each statement shall contain a summary of all preceding statements, and summarize all items theretofore reported, under the provisions of this act."—Subdivision 1, section 10, chapter 3, laws of extra session, 1912.

Each of the sixty candidates for office at the election next Tuesday must file with the city clerk Saturday a statement of his expenses for the campaign.

Unless candidates file the statements required next Saturday, their election will be open to contest, should they be elected. Any defeated candidate, or any twenty-five voters, may contest the election of a candidate on the grounds of violation of the corrupt practices act.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has the necessary blanks for the filing of expenses accounts by candidates and secretaries of personal campaign committees. Candidates who want to protect themselves against contest in the event of election will provide themselves with the blanks this week and file their statements with the clerk Saturday.

SHOULD HOLD AN EVENING SESSION

Bernard Says Commissioners Must Keep Close to People.

"When the commission form of government is inaugurated, the commission should make provision for holding night meetings twice a month, or once a week if it is necessary," said William L. Bernard, candidate for short term commissioner, today.

"Monday night has been the meeting time of the old council and as it has been established by long custom the same night might be continued. This would give the man who has to work all day a chance to appear before the commission without being compelled to lay off a day to do so. It would give the people a better opportunity to keep in touch with what is being done by the men they have elected to run the city for them. With only day meetings many who would like to lay some matter before the commissioners will not do so because they will feel that they cannot afford to lose the time which it would be lost.

"Certain days should be set aside for considering the other branches of city business which will be dealt with by the commission as a whole. Take the water and light plant for an example. One commissioner will have charge of utilities, but he should not try to handle all its affairs as an individual, any more than should the men in charge of the other departments. The people want commission government and not one-man rule in five different ways.

"If a specified day is named to take up water and light business the citizens who have any general complaints to make or anything they wish to say concerning the policy of the department can appear at that time to make their statements. Of course, many of these matters will be referred to the commissioner of public utilities, but there will be many others which should be acted on by the whole commission. The combined judgment of five men is much better than that of one man alone and that principle is one which I believe should be followed by the commission in handling all the important affairs affecting the general welfare of Duluth.

"The various departments should interlock and dovetail into one another, but the administration will not reach its greatest possibilities unless the commissioners do some interlocking and dovetailing also. Not only should they keep in close touch with the people, aided by meetings arranged on a systematic basis, but they should keep in close touch with one another's departments and with each other. The more the commissioners know about all the departments the better will be the results which Duluth will get from the commission form of government, of course, each commissioner should know his own department best, but he should help the others to get acquainted with it so that friction will be eliminated and all will pull together to run the city like the big business corperation it is."

SAYS STIRRUP CLUB MISREPRESENTED HIM

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Stirrup club, the Municipal Ownership league, and several other organizations throughout the city have taken it upon themselves, and I believe without due consideration of the facts, to indorse certain candidates for office at the coming election and to advise the voters as to who should be elected.

I, for one, claim these comments and indorsements are most unfair and unworthy of consideration by the voters, for the reason that they misrepresent the standing of certain candidates upon certain questions and deliberately pervert the answers to other questions asked by the club.

As to municipal ownership I have believed in it and worked for it for more than twenty years, probably before some of the committee knew the meaning of the words. My record on this question can easily be verified by asking some of the members of the league.

As to the comments contained in the Stirrup club report, I ask in behalf of absolute fairness that you publish my answers and let the people decide for themselves. Yours very respectfully,

J. SCOTT CASH.

"Duluth, Minn., Dec. 16, 1913—To the Stirrup club—Gentlemen: In compliance with the request contained in your favor of 7th instant, I answer the questions submitted as follows:

"To each of the subdivisions a, b and c, of Question No. 1 I answer yes, without any qualification.

"To Question No. 2 I must qualify that where a building contains more than one place licensed to sell intoxicating liquors, I do not consider it right, fair or just, to compel one of the tenants, who obeys the laws to vacate or close his place of business, merely because his neighbor has been convicted of violating them.

"Your Question No. 3 involves the assumption that the abolishment of the red light or segregated district is the authoritative and well recognized solution of the social evil problem.

"Sociologists who have made a study of the subject differ in their views as to the best solution. In common with all right-minded citizens I recognize the serious menace of the evil but have never given the subject exhaustive consideration, and it would be presumptuous in me to decide in advance of adequate investigation just what mode of treatment should be adopted. If I am elected I will willingly co-operate with those interested in a conscientious endeavor to decide upon the best and most practicable solution of our local problem, and use my best efforts to enforce the policy so decided upon.

"To your Question No. 4 I most emphatically answer yes.

"Thanking you for the opportunity of stating my position, and trusting that you as individuals can support my candidacy, I am yours very respectfully,

"J. SCOTT CASH."

WILL CALL A SPADE A SPADE

Dowling Says He Will Reply to Stirrup Club Report.

P. E. Dowling will speak tonight at the Park Point mission and tomorrow night at the Lyceum theater.

Mr. Dowling says that tomorrow night he will put the Stirrup club in its proper place. He will call a spade a spade, he says, and will show wherein the Stirrup club report is manifestly unfair to himself and other candidates.

Mr. Dowling has issued an invitation to the women of Duluth and to the pastors of the various churches to attend the meeting. He will discuss matters of special interest to them, he says, and he is anxious that all people interested in the campaign turn out to hear him.

ARDOUIN IS OUT OF THE RACE

W. B. Ardouin, candidate for short term commissioner, filed his withdrawal with City Clerk C. S. Palmer this morning, thus cutting the number of short term candidates to thirty-five. Mr. Ardouin is the third to withdraw since the last day for filing petitions. Chan Smith and George W. Power had their names taken from the list last week.

Tomorrow is the last day for the filing of withdrawals. The ballots will be made up Thursday and candidates remaining in the race until that time will have their names on the ballot at the election next Tuesday.

DAY'S MEETINGS.

Outlines Active Program of Speech-Making for the Week.

Dr. D. H. Day, candidate for mayor, has arranged the following meetings for this week: Wednesday evening, March 26, Woodmen's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street; Thursday evening at Fond du Lac at 7 p. m., and at Maccabee hall, New Duluth, at 8:15; Friday evening at Dormeng hall, West Duluth; Saturday evening at the Armory.

At each of his meetings Dr. Day will explain the preferential system of voting in addition to talking on the issues of the campaign.

OPENS SCHOOL FOR ELECTION JUDGES.

City Clerk Palmer's school for election judges will open in the council chamber at the city hall tonight. Letters have been sent out to the judges uring them to attend and receive final instructions on the methods of counting, tallying and reporting the vote under the new system of voting. Mr. Palmer will have sample ballots, tally sheets and report blanks and will conduct demonstrations to test the judges' knowledge of methods. He will also be prepared to answer all questions.

MAY VOTE BY AFFIDAVIT

Estimated That 1,500 to 2,000 Votes Will Be Sworn in.

Charter Provides Simple Methods and Blanks Will Be Available.

It is estimated that 1,500 to 2,000 of the voters who failed to register on one of the two registration days will vote at the election next Tuesday.

The feature of the election provisions of the new charter which allows unregistered voters to vote on election day is one that is little understood. A similar provision is included in the primary election law adopted at the extra session of the state legislature last year and some voters are familiar with it through its use at the primary last fall, but the number is not great.

The new charter provides that any voter who fails to register shall be allowed to vote on election day on filing an affidavit stating that he is a resident of the election district in which he offers to vote, that he is entitled to vote in that district, that he has resided in the district thirty days, that he is a citizen of the United States and has lived in the state of Minnesota six months. The affidavit must be corroborated by the affidavits of two property owners of the election district.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer has prepared blank affidavits and a supply will be furnished to each precinct. The election judges will take the acknowledgements without charge, so that the voter who presents himself at the polling place with two property owners, also living in the district, will be able to vote. It is probable that some of the candidates will see that two property-owners are at each polling place to corroborate the affidavits of men they know.

The state law provides that no one man may corroborate more than five such affidavits of unregistered voters, but there is no such provision in the city charter. Any property-owner may corroborate as many affidavits as he is asked to support.

The candidates are busy now endeavoring to get out the vote. They are urging the registered and unregistered to remember that next Tuesday is election day. They are hopeful of getting out a larger vote than the registration, which was 10,115.

LEAGUE WILL SEND OUT SPEAKERS

The Municipal Ownership league will enter the speaking campaign tonight when a speaker representing the league will address a meeting at Rowley hall, 112 West First street.

The meeting will be an open session of the Carpenters' union. W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, and Alex Kennedy, candidate for short term commissioner, will speak and they will be followed by a speaker representing the Municipal Ownership league. The league speaker had not been assigned today.

O'Brien Will Speak.

C. D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, will speak tonight at K. P. hall, 118 West Superior street, on good city government in general and particularly in behalf of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt for long term commissioner.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Merritt have been friends since boyhood and the St. Paul man is anxious to do all he can to assist Mr. Merritt in his canvass for municipal office. The former mayor of the Saintly City is well known in Duluth and he is expected to attract a large crowd.

Socialist Meetings.

The Socialist candidates held two well attended meetings last night.

At 431 East Fourth street, W. E. Towne, candidate for the long term, took issue with the Stirrup club on the fitness of J. T. Armstead as a commissioner.

An essential feature of every Socialist meeting is a large sample ballot which is used to warn the auditors against second and third choice voting.

Tonight Edes, Kaplan and Phillips will speak at Sixtieth avenue east and Superior street. Towne, Blackwood and E. T. Harris will be at the Bricklayers hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. Wednesday a meeting will be held at 522 Mesaba avenue.

CALLED ALOFT BY GREAT CAPTAIN

Several Vessel Captains Have Died Since Close of Last Season.

Several vessel masters will not report for duty this spring, having been called across the great divide since last season. Among those who have died since the close of navigation last year are:

Capt. Ralph E. Byrnes of the C. O. Jenkins, who was murdered by robbers at his home in Cleveland a short time ago.

Capt. Mitchell Clark of the Normania, who died of acute indigestion at his home in Henderson, N. Y., a few weeks ago.

Capt. Thomas Naden of the steamer Saxon, who died of intestinal trouble at his home in Sombra, Ont., about Feb. 1, after having been home only three days from the meeting of the Pittsburg fleet captains at Cleveland.

Capt. Eugene Marguette of the steamer Minnesota, who died at his home in Milwaukee only a few days ago.

VESSEL CAPTAINS REACH THE CITY

Will Prepare Their Ships for Opening of Navigation.

A squad of vessel captains arrived at Duluth today over the Soo road to get their ships in readiness for the opening of navigation. They are: Capt. F. C. Pratt of the J. H. Dunham, Capt. A. C. Callam of the W. E. Fitzgerald and Capt. Burnham of the Minnetonka.

Accompanying them was W. A. Bourke, commissioner of the Lake Carriers' association at this point. Mr. Bourke has just returned from Cleveland where he was in conference with the officers of the association—the last before the season opens. He has not much to divulge aside from the fact that while the headquarters here have been open all winter for the accommodation of vessel men who reside hereabouts, the office will be open beginning April 1 for the shipping of seamen and others who expect to be employed on the lakes during the coming season.

Is Loading Grain.

The big steamer W. H. Wolf is loading grain at Consolidated Elevator E, and will take her cargo through the Canadian Soo. The Dunham has been pulled back from elevator H and the John Dunn, Jr., will take her place. The Dunn will load about 225,000 bushels of flax for lower lake ports, and her holds are now being cleaned at the Clarkson dock.

Vessel Crews Arriving.

Capt. W. L. Girardin of the steamer Castalia has arrived to take charge of the fitting out of his ship for the coming season. He arrived yesterday from Cleveland. The Castalia is being repaired at Pittsburg No. 2 dock.

Engineer H. Otis Smith and crew of the steamer John Dunn, Jr., arrived a few days ago and are fitting out the ship for the coming season's work.

Master Appointed.

Capt. Henry Hensley has been appointed master of the steamer Normania, to succeed Capt. Mitchell Clark, deceased.

IS NEAT DRYHOUSE.

Fine Building Erected By Jones & Laughlin in Stambaugh District.

Iron River, Mich., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new buildings at the Jones & Laughlin mine put up by Contractor Wahlman of Ishpeming, are undergoing the finishing touches and will soon be ready for occupancy. The dry, 75 by 35, is one of the neatest in the district. It is of brick and cement construction and provides for 122 miners. It is practically complete, with the exception of the steel lockers, which will shortly be installed.

The new frame building to the west of the dry, is 44 by 30 feet and has three good sized rooms. It is well lighted and conveniently arranged for its purpose.

A 150-foot extension has been added to the trestle at the Jones & Laughlin and a stock pile begun on the west side of the shaft.

DR. W. H. KONKLER
Commissioner for Short Term

I am of German parentage and was born at Lancaster, Ohio, in 1867. I remained with my parents until I was 16 years old; from that time I acted as foreman for a truck farmer, Jacob Claspool, who certifies that William H. Konkler is a young man of good character, industrious and has good habits, and that he is worthy of position of honor and trust. In 1885 I decided to go to school; I entered a business university for two terms, working my way through, doing janitor and other work in city hospital to pay for my tuition. Hon. J. B. Whiting, ex-senator, city hospital physician, certifies: "That William H. Konkler is a young man of honest, sober and industrious habits; I have found him faithful and trustworthy under all circumstances."—Dated 1888. I was also bookkeeper one year in a grain elevator in Iowa; came to Duluth in 1889 and was employed by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad as agent, May 1889, until August 1902; during that period, in connection as agent, was postmaster at Allen, Minn., and was affiliated with the A. R. U., a labor organization. Mr. Thomas Owens, superintendent, certifies my record, conduct and services satisfactory. I left the Iron Range company on account of ill health of my family. Up to 1903 I was connected with a jobbing coffee manufacturing concern, until it was destroyed by fire, I sustaining a heavy loss personally. In 1903 I became interested in chiropractic; October, 1904, I opened offices at present location. I am a graduate Mechano-Therapist, Electric Therapeutics; also vice president and member of the examining board for the Minnesota State Non-Medical association. Again does the civil service examination affair come to the front with E. M. Barker, local secretary in the foreground. Those who wish to take these examinations are expected to inquire of Mr. Barker for further information before they dash in where angels fear to treat. But at any rate here are the latest examinations ordered, together with their dates:

April 9—Assistant observer of the weather bureau; trained nurse in the Philippine, Isthmian and Indian service, and agricultural inspector in the Philippine service.

April 16—Laboratory assistant in paper and textiles in the bureau of standards, department of commerce and labor; junior assistant in the department of agriculture; junior engineer in the water resources branch of the geological survey.

April 21—Pathologist in cereal diseases in the bureau of plant industry.

April 23—Assistant photographer, in any branch of the service; grazing assistant in the forest service; preparator of fossils in the geological survey; field matron in the Indian service; examiner of surveys in the forest service and postal clerk in the Isthmian service.

April 29—Dairyman for butter making in the dairy division of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture.

Death From Natural Causes.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The suddenness with which Jacob Olgren, aged 60, a tinner by trade, an old resident of West Ishpeming, died Saturday night prompted Coroner Prin to investigate but he learned that death resulted from natural causes. The funeral was held this afternoon.

Mr. Olgren is survived by his wife and five children, two sons and two daughters, all living out-of-town.

LANNERS GIVEN INDORSEMENT

West Duluth Citizens Ask Election of Candidate for Judge.

Five hundred West Duluth residents have already signed a petition urging the election of Harry W. Lanners as assistant municipal judge.

The petition is being circulated throughout this end of the city and will be distributed within a few days among all the voters of Duluth.

A copy of the petition follows:

"To our fellow voters: We, the undersigned, citizens of Duluth, residing in West Duluth, respectfully ask your attention that we may make a brief statement regarding the newly established West Duluth division of the municipal court.

"This court was created primarily to take care of the business of this end of the city and we believe that the judge should be a resident of this section if otherwise qualified, as his knowledge thus gainned would enable him to better discharge his duties. We, therefore, are indorsing the candidacy of Harry W. Lanners for assistant municipal judge to be in charge of the West Duluth division of the municipal court.

"He came to Duluth nineteen years ago when 17 years old, settling in West Duluth in 1896, and although he was the chief support of his mother, a widow of a Civil war veteran, and his invalid sister and niece, he began the study of law. By working all day and often late at night he was able to acquire the necessary legal education and was admitted to practice by the state bar examiners in 1899, passing with honors. Since then, he has maintained the only law office in West Duluth and has enjoyed the confidence of the people to such an extent that his practice has grown steadily.

"We, his neighbors and business associates, feel that he deserves recognition for the service he has rendered the public in maintaining a law office for the convenience of the West Duluth people in years gone by when business conditions were hard and financial rewards were small, and that these facts should be known by all the electors of the city.

"In conclusion, we hereby heartily recommend Harry W. Lanners for assistant municipal judge, as we believe him to have the qualities which would make a just and upright judge, and ask for him your vote and support."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ENTERTAINMENT

Delayed Celebration Will Be Held Next Thursday Evening.

The annual St. Patrick's day entertainment, postponed until after the Lenten season, will be given by the St. James' Catholic church, Thursday, at the Great Eastern hall, 210 Central avenue.

The feature of the enlertainment this year will be the presentation of the three-act comedy, "A Noble Outcast," by several members of the church. The cast for the play includes the Misses Agnes Ehr and Emeline Brett, Mrs. Spencer, and the Messrs. Sears, Allen, Bethune and Deutsch.

Ray M. Hughes will deliver the St. Patrick's day address.

Mrs. Leo A. Ball and Walter Mahon will render several vocal solos between the acts.

Rev. D. W. Lynch announced this morning that a special matinee performance will be given at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and that the evening performance would start at 8 o'clock.

STOLE HORSES AND CUTTER

Man Hired to Drive Animals to Duluth Disappeared.

Three horses and a cutter were stolen yesterday from Michael W. Willette, 608 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, by an unknown young man, whom he hired last Saturday at Eveleth.

Mr. Willette purchased six horses and two cutters Saturday at Eveleth and arranged to have two men bring them down to Duluth. An older man, who works for Mr. Willette, hitched one of the horses to a cutter and tied two more behind and the same was done with the remaining three horses.

Mr. Willette then arranged for this young man at Eveleth to drive the other horses into Duluth.

According to the story told by the older man, he was driving ahead for some distance, when this young man suggested that he be allowed to go ahead, as his horses were faster. This was the last he saw of the young man. They were to meet that evening at a farmhouse and spend the night, but the young man never showed up.

Mr. Willette reported the matter to the police this morning and an investigation is being made. It is understood that the young man is married and that his wife lives at Eveleth. His name is not known.

WITH THE CURLERS.

Bonspiel in Honor of Veteran Member of Club Is Planned.

The bonspiel at the Western Curling club in honor of the birthday anniversary of George J. Mallory, the oldest member of the club, will be played this evening.

It was announced this morning that only eight head games will be played and that the first draw will start at 7 o'clock. Zauft will play Keyes, Mallory will meet Olson and Wieland will play against Simpson in the first draw. Wade and Judson and Iltis and Holland will play at the 8:30 o'clock draw.

The ice at the rink is still in good shape and should the present weather continue, it is believed that the present curling season may be prolonged to April 1.

"STIRRUPER" SAYS HE DID NOT SIGN

Clarence Olson Does Not Approve of All Statements in Club Report.

Clarence Olson, whose name was signed to the published report of the Stirrup club on the candidates for the city commission, says that he did not sign the report, will not sign it and does not approve of all statements contained in it.

Mr. Olson was present at the meeting at which the report was read, but says that he did not sign it, either at that meeting or later. He says his name was used under a misunderstanding as to his attitude on the report, and he has notified the officers to withdraw his name from future publications.

ONE PERSON DROWNED IN WESTERN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 25.—One person was drowned today and several families were driven from their homes by the rising of the river Des Peres, which flows through the western and southern part of the city.

The flood was the result of a heavy rain which at times during the last forty-eight hours almost appeared as a cloudburst. Early today it was reported by the police stationed in the western end of the city that the river Des Peres was seven feet higher than ever before.

The river flows through Forest park, the great show place of the city. Today the principal drive there was under six feet of water.

SETTLER IS GIVEN VERDICT

Sufferer From Forest Fire Awarded $1,788.27 From D. & I. R. Railroad.

Action Is One of Forty Growing Out of Fires in 1910.

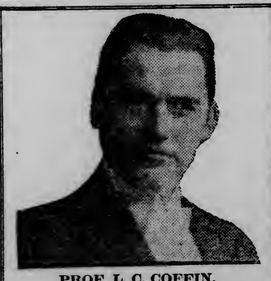
Victor Stromberg, homesteader on the Knox location and one of about forty litigants who have causes of action against the Duluth & Iron Range railroad growing out of the forest fires which swept the White Iron lake district during the summer of 1910, recovered $1,788.27 in a verdict returned by a jury in district court this morning.

In Judge Dancer's court yesterday afternoon, the jury which had been listening to the evidence for several days, took the case under consideration at 4:30 o'clock. An agreement was reached in favor of the plaintiff at about 11 o'clock. The jurymen went home and came into court this morning with a sealed verdict.

Stromberg's case is the second one to be tried at this term of court and the first one in which a recovery has been made. In the first case, in which John Makkyla was plaintiff, which was tried before Judge Dibell, the jury disagreed after having been out eighteen hours. This case may be tried at the next term of court. Stromberg's case was next brought on for trial. He sued for $6,858 damages.

Similar Action On Trial.

This morning, another jury was drawn in Judge Dancer's room to try a similar action which Erick Johanson has against the same defendant, the Duluth & Iron Range railroad company. As in the other cases, the company is charged with responsibility for the fires which swept that portion of the country during the month of June, 1910. Sparks from a locomotive are alleged to have started the conflagration which was quite general in that district.



Joseph De La Motte appeared as attorney of record in all but nine of the series of White Iron Lake fire cases. He has since, however, turned the litigation over to Joseph W. Reynolds, who is now directing the cases for the various plaintiffs. In nine of the actions, Mrs. I. C. Buell appears as attorney. Baldwin & Baldwin are attorneys for the railroad company.

Amended complaints in four of the actions in which Mr. Reynolds appears as attorney, were filed with the clerk of the court this morning. The plaintiffs and the damages sought are as follows: A. B. Koski, $5,250; Isaac Korpi, $10,000; Anna M. Waisanen, $2,060, and Elias Kangas, $1,500.

The fire cases have been dragging in the courts for nearly two years. A few of them have been fought out, each resulting in a long, drawn-out and expensive trial. One or two have gone to the supreme court. There are listed for trial on the March calendar about thirty-five cases.

Alleged Horse Thief Taken.

Fargo, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stealing a team, buggy, laprobes and two overcoats at Robinson, David Moon sold them at Pettibone. Before he could get out of town with the money officials located him and he was brought here to jail. It is stated he made a full confession of the theft and is anxious to start his sentence as quickly as possible.

NEW ICE FORMS IN ST. MARY'S RIVER

Reports Give No Encouragement for Early Opening of Navigation.

It has been learned here that ice is still forming east of Whitefish Point, in Lake Superior, and in St. Mary's river there is no sign of a letup of the ice condition. In fact it is claimed that since the last ice report from there new ice has formed and that it is more solid than ever.

Even at that there are vessel masters and others who aver that they are of the firm belief that all boats loaded will have cleared from the Duluth-Superior harbor by April 15. In view of the fact that that is just twenty-one days hence, it is believed by others that a thaw of almost miraculous proportions must set in to accomplish this, for almost all of the bays are solidly encased in ice and if it is true that new ice is forming in St. Mary's river, which is the crucial point of interlake navigation, something unusual in the way of warm weather must set in very soon to bring about this "consummation devoutly to be wished."

BOMBARDMENT OF SCUTARI STOPPED

Belgrade, Servia, March 25.—The bombardment of Scutari is understood to have been stopped on orders from the Servian government.

Servia acted on the advice of the French and Russian ministers, who notified the Servian premier that the powers had come to the unalterable decision that Scutari must belong to the future state of Albania.

Cologne, Germany, March 25.—The reply of the Balkan allies to the powers on the suggested mediation will propose that the future frontier between Turkey and Bulgaria should run from Midia on the Black sea by way of Muradli above Rodosto to the gulf of Saros, an inlet of the Aegean sea.

In this way Bulgaria would be excluded from the sea of Marmora, in accordance with the desire of the powers. Bulgaria, however, and the other Balkan allies, insist on the payment of an indemnity by Turkey. They are willing to suspend hostilities at once if Turkey surrenders the fortress at Adrianople and demobilizes her armies.

NOT A "LIGHTING TALK!" BUT AN ILLUMINATING TALK

I have been studying municipal government for several years.

I have paid particular attention to the cities in which the commission form of government is in force.

I know what they have done in the way of installing modern, high efficiency methods in city business.

I know what remarkable results they have produced by revolutionizing obsolete business methods, cutting out red tape, centralizing authority.

And I also know, from a very careful study of past conditions in this city, that unless the citizens of Duluth elect men as mayor and commissioners who represent the people and not the electric lighting company and the breweries, that our new commission form of government cannot be organized so as to produce the best results for all of its citizens.

With a corporation controlled commission the needs of the citizens will be considered AFTER the needs of the corporations have been satisfied.

You have had an illuminating example of what a corporation-controlled administration means.

How do you like it?

You can change it if you want to.

Will speak at Maccabee Hall, corner Twenty-first avenue west and First street tomorrow (Wednesday) evening.

The new voting system will be thoroughly explained.

GROWS BEAUTIFUL, HEAVY HAIR, WE PROVE IT—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Destroys Dandruff—Stops Falling Hair—Cleans and Invigorates Your Scalp—Delightful Dressing.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

OWNERS OF VACANT LAND

McEwen Says They Are a Detriment to the City.

Advocates Higher Assessment on Unimproved Property in City.

The non-resident owner of vacant land, who contributes neither improvements on his land nor personal interest to the city, but holds the land only for what he can get out of it by the development of the city, was declared to be the bane of Duluth in an address by W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at the Duluth Heights fire hall last evening.

Mr. McEwen said that a valuation that would properly distribute the burden of taxation, would also cut the tax rate from 40 mills to 30 mills, and would relieve the burden on the owner of his home. He declared that vast areas of vacant land within the city limits is held by non-resident speculators and is inadequately assessed. It appreciates in value with the development of the city, but contributes nothing to that development, he said.

Mr. McEwen gave concrete illustrations. He said there are three sections of land adjacent to Duluth Heights, which are held for speculation at $1,000 an acre and are valued at $7.50 an acre for purposes of assessment. He said the taxes on vacant lands within the city limits are not sufficient to pay for the maintenance of the roads leading to them.

Duluth Heights turned out in force to hear Mr. McEwen, who formerly lived in that section of the city. The fire hall was packed, and Mr. McEwen was given close attention during a speech of an hour and a half on municipal problems.

Speaking on municipal ownership, Mr. McEwen said that while all candidates have now declared in favor of taking over the electric lighting system by the city, it will be well for the voters to scrutinize the past records of the candidates that they may judge of their sincerity. He said that the selection of a good city attorney is of great importance that the commissioners may be properly guided in their negotiations for municipal ownership, and that a commission of aggressive men should be elected in order that the city may obtain municipal ownership on the most favorable terms.

"My relations to the laboring men are well known, not only in Duluth but all through the state," said Mr. McEwen. "It is not necessary for me to speak in this campaign of distinctive issues affecting labor. Every issue of municipal government affects labor in some manner. Taxation, municipal ownership, social welfare work, public health, economy and efficiency in municipal government, all have a direct relation to every man, women and child in the city."

MANY FOLLOW EASIEST COURSE

Cullum Says Numerous Questions Asked Candidates Work Injustice.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The public mind may be greatly confused because of the numerous questions asked by different societies, and the answers given by the many candidates. Without questioning the motives of those inquiring, or the answers given in good faith and from conviction by the candidates, I believe that a great injustice has been done those who have tried to answer these questions honestly and fairly. The questions of the liquor interests, or the answers given, had not yet been open to public inspection. Those of us who tried to state our true position might have stood well by choosing the easiest way out of it, and answer "yes" without qualification.

On the municipal ownership question, I answered in the affirmative; and gave my record for what it was worth as an earnest of future performance.

Those asking questions about segregation, I answered that after being close to and studying the question, I did not know, but would follow the way pointed out by moral purpose.

Those questions asked in regard to the penalizing of buildings, I replied that I had a better scheme, which I regarded as much more stringent and practical, in public and in private, I have stated that I would enforce this law to the very limit ,and employ whatever means were necessary.

I know that others, preferring to be honest in the matter rather than merely compliant, have answered in like manner; and I still insist that the man of honest moral purpose, with a quiet determination to fight wrong wherever found, is more valuable to this public than the man who simply promises to do so. Yours,

M. B. CULLUM.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"A Modern Eve."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"The Winning Widow."

Amusement Notes.

The cast of principals to be seen in the Berlin musical comedy success, "A Modern Eve," which Mort H. Singer will present at the Lyceum for the last time in Duluth, tonight, includes several names which have always been distinguished in the world of musical comedy and light opera. Alexander Clark, whose comical portrayal of the role of Cascadier, the henpecked husband, will go down in history as one of the funniest creations in musical comedy, has appeared in more than a score of Broadway musical successes in the past ten years. Marion Reddy is the singing phenomenon discovered last year by Mr. Singer during the record-breaking run of "A Modern Eve" in Chicago. Ray Raymond is said to be the best singing and dancing juvenile man in musical comedy. Among the others well known to the public are Arline Bolling, Henrietta Tedro, Florance Bain, Louis Kelso, Harry Dickeson and John Patton. There are several noteworthy song hits to be heard in "A Modern Eve," among them the famous waltz song, "Good-bye Everybody," "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?" "Rita, My Margarita," "Hello, Sweetheart" and "Every Day Is Christmas to a Married Man."

May Robson will appear at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday in the delightful comedy, "A Night Out." The story is an interesting one from first to last; it fairly scintillates with wit and humor, and there is an average of two hearty laughs a minute during the entire performance, especially when lovable Granmum is on the stage. In her portrayal of Granmum, Miss Robson exhibits consummate art. Her comedy is exquisite, her mannerisms, facial expressions and costumes making the character realistic to a degree. No other actress could do Granmum so delightfully as May Robson, or get so many genuine laughs out of it as she. Miss Robson will be supported by Paul Decker, Frank Harrington, John Rowe, C. C. Gwynne, Joseph Mann, Eddie Leaman, George Hall, Kathleen Comegys, Ruth Quinn, Louise Rand, Edith Conrad and Lucille Parrish.

"Who says that blondes are dying out?"

The question is asked by chic and charming Carrie Reynolds, one of the best photographic subjects on the vaudeville stage, who is at the Orpheum this week.

"It is possible that for a certain time in the last few years blondes were not held up as the most attractive types of beauty," continued Miss Reynolds, "but that does not alter the fact that ever since the time of Cleopatra, and who, it is claimed by many, was a decided natural blonde, that type of beauty has been in more than ordinary demand. If one visits any art gallery where paintings of the great masters hang, one will find, in the majority of cases, that the portraits most valued are those of blondes.

"Why are so many brunettes to be found at telephone boards, behind counters or living the life of mature maidens? Do you find many blondes waiting for some good man to come along and offer them a home? Not at all. Ask any manager of a telephone company or any other institution where pretty girls would naturally be found, why he has not more blondes among the hundreds of girls in his employ, and he will tell you quickly enough that he can't keep them long enough to learn the work. Some man is always coming along with his heart in one hand and a five-carat diamond ring in the other. The pretty brunette with marcelled wave and winsome smile remains at the switchboard and gossips with her co-workers about the 'splendid catch Mabel made.'"

CARRIE REYNOLDS.

"I've never seen a baseball game," confessed Miss Burtin, who is appearing at the Empress this week in "The Winning Widow," "and I've never been to a funeral and I've only seen one wedding." She forgot baseball long enough to remark that if she ever enters matrimony she would have to be blindfolded and backed into the stall.

"I am going to see my first game this summer," she continued, "I'll be all mixed up unless some obliging man tells me all about it—and I suppose he will be so interested in the game that he won't tell me anything."

Then the conversation took a flying leap to the suffrage question—and stayed there.

"I don't believe in votes for women," declared Miss Burtin as she slipped into the beautiful dress, which she wears in the second act of "The Winning Widow." "Women should not try to fight with men's weapons. Every woman can influence her husband, brother, sweetheart or son without the ballot. A woman once said to me: 'Think what influence you would have, Miss Burtin, if women could vote. You are at the head of your companions and when election time came, all the other women would be willing to vote the way you did.' 'Oh, yes,' I told her, 'and then a man would come along with big diamonds in his shirt front and would take the crowd out for a ride in his auto and they'd all vote for him.' It seems to me that women have enough to do at home. They ought to be tending to their little children and baking bread."

CANNED FOODS ARE FRESH FOODS

Few Hours From Field to Finished Product.

Canned fruits and vegetables are taken direct from the fields or orchards when they are in the right condition of maturity, and it is but a few hours until they are prepared, canned and cooked.

Within three or four hours from the time the food is growing on the stalk or vine the greater part of it is cooked and safely stored in the warehouse. A small part may be allowed to wait longer than the above minimum, but seldom longer than the day's run, for each day's picking is put up before beginning a new.

After the food is cooked in the air-tight can, it is absolutely protected from change.

The consumer gets fresh fruit and vegetables in the winter months instead of being limited to a diet of dried apples, salt pork and hominy. He is indebted to the canner for fresh, health-giving food fifty-two weeks in the year.

LONG TRAMP THROUGH SNOW

Christian Endeavorers Face Blizzard to Visit Poor Farm.

The members of the Duluth Christian Endeavor union last Sunday trudged through the raging blizzard on Sunday afternoon to the county poor farm, to take the regular Christian Endeavor Sunday greeting to the inmates. They walked the entire three miles out to the farm, often trudging knee-deep through the snow-drifts, and carrying potted plants and flowers. Half the party were women. After holding the services, they trudged back over the same road and through the same storm, making a most strenuous tramp of six miles in all.

It was not until Dr. C. J. Woolway, medical superintendent at the poor farm, yesterday afternoon telephoned to Clerk Shogran of the county poor board, telling of the visit of the Endeavorers, and calling to mind the roughness of the weather, that people in town took any notice of the undertaking of the heroic little party Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Woolway was unable to make his daily trip from the poor farm to the city yesterday, because the snowdrifts had rendered the roads impassable.

Raising Carnations In California

is easy and remunerative and requires but little capital. 100 plants cost not to exceed $5.00. Each plant yields 20 or 30 cuttings. One man in Loomis, in the spring, alone, sells 50,000 carnations at $8.00 to $10.00 a thousand, and he has only 5 acres. But this is only one of many pursuits in which one may profitably engage.

Truck gardening brings big profits, likewise chicken raising, fruit growing or farming. Investigate conditions. There is a future for you in California, and you owe it to your family; they will be happier and healthier.

CYCLONE VICTIM KNOWN HERE

Many Duluthians will be grieved to learn of the death of George J. Duncan, advertising manager of the Omaha Bee, in the cyclone at Omaha yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Duncan was well known in Duluth, having visited here on a number of occasions in the past few years. Last summer he was an official delegate to the International Rotary clubs' convention and took a prominent part at the meetings.

Mr. Duncan's home at 4101 Farnam street was destroyed by the cyclone late Sunday evening and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan were both severely injured. The latter is now in a critical condition at one of the hospitals at Omaha, where Mr. Duncan died yesterday afternoon.

Eat! But Let Your Stomach Rest!

Nine-tenths of all indigestion comes because the stomach has become so weakened it does not supply the necessary pepsin and pancreatic juices, essential to perfect digestion.

As a consequence, the food ferments and decays, eructation and belching of sour food results; you have rumbling of the bowels, dull pain, lazy, no-good feeling, dizziness, headache, heartburn, foul breath, feel irritable and grouchy, dyspeptic.

Samuel's "Three-P" capsules digest the food for you, give the stomach a chance to rest, and tone up the nerves, so you begin to look at the brighter side of things again. Not a secret medicine, but made after the prescription of a famous French specialist—often called "The Million Dollar Formula" for the good it has done. These instant relief capsules contain Pepsin, Papain, Glycero-Phosphates and other harmless ingredients, put up in sealed gelatin capsules, easy to take, and don't lose strength like tablets and pills.

Free yourself of all stomach trouble. Buy a package NOW, while you think of it. Two sizes: 25 cents, and family size, 50 cents, at your druggist. Write The Samuel Chemical Co., distributors for the United States and Canada, Cincinnati, Ohio, for a handsome booklet on stomach ills. Sent free. (6)

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS EVANGELIST

Despite the inclement weather last night, a large audience heard Evangelist Whiston's address on "The Man on the Fence," in the First Christian church.

It was a message on opinion and theory versus fact and truth. Several were baptized at the close and baptism will be a regular order of the meetings from now on. There were four more adult additions. Mr. Whiston said in part: "The three ages in Old Testament history, the ages of unity, division and decay, are vital in lives of men today. Notice the downward trend, from the higher to the lower, from the nobler to the baser. The law of spiritual or moral gravitation dominates every life. It is easier to go down than up, to do wrong than right.

"The avregae man takes the easy way, the way of sin and opinion. The old devil knows this, hence he makes it hard to do right and easy to do wrong. Come on with the crowd, boys,' is his cry. We hesitate, because we know the end thereof is death. 'Be a dead game sport,' the devil says, so off we go in the easy way. The man who does wrong in order to be in with the crowd is not a dead game sport, he is a coward. He hasn't the courage to say no.

"God's masterpiece is a Christian. He never made anything better. He takes the man who is down; the man with the black streak or the yellow streak, and by His regenerative process He transforms the life, and sends him out to sing the new song and do the new deed.

"If the average church member had one-tenth the interest in saving the world that the old devil has in damning the world, this world would have been saved to God years ago. If God himself had no more interest in saving Duluth than the average church member has, old Duluth would have gone to hell and perdition ere this. God loves Duluth, He cares for the sinner He died to save." Evangelist Whiston will speak tonight on "The Two Thrones."

ARRANGING FOR TESTS FOR FOURTH CLASS P. M.

Washington, March 25.—The problem of providing civil service examinations for the thousands of fourth-class postmasters placed under the classified service by the legislative orders, was taken up at a conference at the post-office department. Postmaster General Burleson, Assistants Roper and Dockery, several minor postoffice department officials and Civil Service Commissioner McIlhenny went over the situation. Tests will be framed by the department and the civil service commission jointly and will be submitted to President Wilson for his approval. The order for the examinations would have to come from the president.

The department officials are finding considerable difficulty in arriving at a basis for tests.

Well Known Traveling Man Gets Blood Poisoning and Dies.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. M. Way of Larimore was buried here today, his body being brought from Minneapolis, where he died Saturday evening. Mr. Way, a traveling man in this section of the Northwest during the past sixteen years, died from blood poisoning which had its inception in a frozen hand. Several months ago, Mr. Way, while making a cross-country drive, froze one hand quite severely, and from that poisoning started. He was for many years a resident of Blue Earth, Minn., and is a brother of Charles Way, president of the Minneapolis Bedding company.

Arrested On Second Charge.

Pittsburg, March 25.—S. L. Heeter, superintendent of schools, was arrested last night on a second charge sworn out by Miss Ethel Fisher, a housemaid in the Heeter home. Miss Fisher is in a hospital recovering from an operation. Heeter waived a hearing and was released on bonds of $5,000. Heeter came to Pittsburg about a year ago from St. Paul, Minn., where he was superintendent of the schools.

NOT A "LIGHTING TALK!" BUT AN ILLUMINATING TALK

I have been studying municipal government for several years.

I have paid particular attention to the cities in which the commission form of government is in force.

I know what they have done in the way of installing modern, high efficiency methods in city business.

I know what remarkable results they have produced by revolutionizing obsolete business methods, cutting out red tape, centralizing authority.

And I also knew, from a very careful study of past conditions in this city, that unless the citizens of Duluth elect men as mayor and commissioners who represent the people and not the electric lighting company and the breweries, that our new commission form of government cannot be organized so as to produce the best results for all of its citizens.

With a corporation controlled commission the needs of the citizens will be considered AFTER the needs of the corporations have been satisfied.

You have had an illuminating example of what a corporation-controlled administration means.

How do you like it?

You can change it if you want to.

Will speak at Maccabee Hall, corner Twenty-first avenue west and First street tomorrow (Wednesday) evening.

The new voting system will be thoroughly explained.

OWNERS OF VACANT LAND

McEwen Says They Are a Detriment to the City.

Advocates Higher Assessment on Unimproved Property in City.

The non-resident owner of vacant land, who contributes neither improvements on his land nor personal interest to the city, but holds the land only for what he can get out of it by the development of the city, was declared to be the bane of Duluth in an address by W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at the Duluth Heights fire hall last evening.

Mr. McEwen said that a valuation that would properly distribute the burden of taxation, would also cut the tax rate from 40 mills to 30 mills, and would relieve the burden on the owner of his home. He declared that vast areas of vacant land within the city limits is held by non-resident speculators and is inadequately assessed. It appreciates in value with the development of the city, but contributes nothing to that development, he said.

Mr. McEwen gave concrete illustrations. He said there are three sections of land adjacent to Duluth Heights, which are held for speculation at $1,000 an acre and are valued at $7,50 an acre for purposes of assessment. He said the taxes on vacant lands within the city limits are not sufficient to pay for the maintenance of the roads leading to them.

Duluth Heights turned out in force to hear Mr. McEwen, who formerly lived in that section of the city. The fire hall was packed, and Mr. McEwen was given close attention during a speech of an hour and a half on municipal problems.

Speaking on municipal ownership, Mr. McEwen said that while all candidates have now declared in favor of taking over the electric lighting system by the city, it will be well for the voters to scrutinize the past records of the candidates that they may judge of their sincerity. He said that the selection of a good city attorney is of great importance that the commissioners may be properly guided in their negotiations for municipal ownership, and that a commission of aggressive men should be elected in order that the city may obtain municipal ownership on the most favorable terms.

"My relations to the laboring men are well known, not only in Duluth but all through the state," said Mr. McEwen. "It is not necessary for me to speak in this campaign of distinctive issues affecting labor. Every issue of municipal government affects labor in some manner. Taxation, municipal ownership, social welfare work, public health, economy and efficiency in municipal government, all have a direct relation to every man, woman and child in the city."

MANY FOLLOW EASIEST COURSE

Cullum Says Numerous Questions Asked Candidates Work Injustice.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The public mind may be greatly confused because of the numerous questions asked by different societies, and the answers given by the many candidates. Without speculating the motives of those inquiring, or the answers given in good faith and from conviction by the candidates, I believe that a great injustice has been done those who have tried to answer these questions honestly and fairly. The questions of the liquor interests, or the answers given, had not yet been open to public inspection. Those of us who tried to state our true position might have stood well by choosing the easiest way out of it, and answer "yes" without qualification.

On the municipal ownership question, I answered in the affirmative; and gave my record for what it was worth as an earnest of future performance.

These asking questions about segregation, I answered that after being close to and studying the question, I did not know, but would follow the way pointed out by moral purpose.

These questions asked in regard to the penalizing of buildings, I replied that I had a better scheme, which I regarded as much more stringent and practical. In public and in private I have stated that I would enforce this law to the very limit and employ whatever means were necessary.

I know that others, preferring to be honest in the matter rather than merely compliant, have answered in like manner; and I still insist that the man of honest moral purpose, with a quiet determination to fight wrong wherever found, is more valuable to this public than the man who simply promises to do so. Yours,

M. B. CULLUM.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"A Modern Eve."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"The Winning Widow."

Amusement Notes.

The cast of principals to be seen in the Berlin musical comedy success, "A Modern Eve," which Mort H. Singer will present at the Lyceum for the last time in Duluth, tonight, includes several names which have always been distinguished in the world of musical comedy and light opera. Alexander Clark, whose comical portrayal of the role of Cascadier, the henpecked husband, will go down in history as one of the funniest creations in musical comedy, has appeared in more than a score of Broadway musical successes in the past ten years. Marion Reddy is the singing phenomenon discovered last year by Mr. Singer during the record-breaking run of "A Modern Eve" in Chicago. Ray Raymond is said to be the best singing and dancing juvenile man in musical comedy. Among the others well known to the public are Arline Bolling, Henrietta Tedro, Florance Bain, Louis Kelso, Harry Dickerson and John Patton. There are several noteworthy song hits to be heard in "A Modern Eve," among them the famous waltz song, "Good-bye Everybody," "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?" "Rita, My Margarita," "Hello, Sweetheart" and "Every Day Is Christmas to a Married Man."

May Robson will appear at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday in the delightful comedy, "A Night Out." The story is an interesting one from first to last; it fairly scintillates with wit and humor, and there is an average of two hearty laughs a minute during the entire performance, especially when lovable Granmunt is on the stage. In her portrayal of Granmunm, Miss Robson exhibits consummate art. Her comedy is exquisite, her mannerisms, facial expressions and costumes making the character realistic to a degree. No other actress could do Granmum so delightfully as May Robson, or get so many genuine laughs out of it as she. Miss Robson will be supported by Paul Decker, Frank Harrington, John Rowe, C. C. Gwynne, Joseph Mann, Eddie Leaman, George Hall, Kathleen Comegys, Ruth Quinn, Louise Rand, Edith Conrad and Lucille Parrish.

"Who says that blondes are dying out?"

The question is asked by chic and charming Carrie Reynolds, one of the best photographic subjects on the vaudeville stage, who is at the Orpheum this week.

"It is possible that for a certain time in the last few years blondes were not held up as the most attractive types of beauty," continued Miss Reynolds, "but that does not alter the fact that ever since the time of Cleopatra, and who, it is claimed by many, was a decided natural blonde, that type of beauty has been in more than ordinary demand. If one visits any art gallery where paintings of the great masters hang, one will find, in the majority of cases, that the portraits most valued are those of blondes.

"Why are so many brunettes to be found at telephone boards, behind counters or living the life of mature maidens? Do you find many blondes waiting for some good man to come along and offer them a home? Not at all. Ask any manager of a telephone company or any other institution where pretty girls would naturally be found, why he has not more blondes among the hundreds of girls in his employ, and he will tell you quickly enough that he can't keep them long enough to learn the work. Some man is always coming along with his heart in one hand and a five-carat diamond ring in the other. The pretty brunette with marcelled wave and winsome smile remains at the switchboard and gossips with her co-workers about the 'splendid catch Mabel made.'"

* * *

"I've never seen a baseball game," confessed Miss Burtin, who is appearing at the Empress this week in "The Winning Widow," "and I've never been to a funeral and I've only seen one wedding. She forgot baseball long enough to remark that if she ever enters matrimony she would have to be blindfolded and backed into the stall.

"I am going to see my first game this summer," she continued, "I'll be all mixed up unless some obliging man tells me all about it—and I suppose he will be so interested in the game that he won't tell me anything."

Then the conversation took a flying leap to the suffrage question—and stayed there.

"I don't believe in votes for women," declared Miss Burtin as she slipped into the beautiful dress, which she wears in the second act of "The Winning Widow." "Women should not try to fight with men's weapons. Every woman can influence her husband, brother, sweetheart or son without the ballot. A woman once said to me: 'Think what influence you would have, Miss Burtin, if women could vote. You are at the head of your companions and when election time came, all the other women would be willing to vote the way you did.' 'Oh, yes,' I told her, 'and then a man would come along with big diamonds in his shirt front and would take the crowd out for a ride in his auto and they'd all vote for him.' It seems to me that women have enough to do at home. They ought to be tending to their little children and baking bread."

CARRIE REYNOLDS.

CANNED FOODS ARE FRESH FOODS

Few Hours From Field to Finished Product.

Canned fruits and vegetables are taken direct from the fields or orchards when they are in the right condition of maturity, and it is but a few hours until they are prepared, canned and cooked.

Within three or four hours from the time the food is growing on the stalk or vine the greater part of it is cooked and safely stored in the warehouse. A small part may be allowed to wait longer than the above minimum, but seldom longer than the day's run, for each day's picking is put up before beginning a new.

After the food is cooked in the air-tight can, it is absolutely protected from change.

The consumer gets fresh fruit and vegetables in the winter months instead of being limited to a diet of dried apples, salt pork and hominy. He is indebted to the canner for fresh, health-giving food fifty-two weeks in the year.

LONG TRAMP THROUGH SNOW

Christian Endeavorers Face Blizzard to Visit Poor Farm.

The members of the Duluth Christian Endeavor union last Sunday trudged through the raging blizzard on Sunday afternoon to the county poor farm, to take the regular Christian Endeavor Sunday greeting to the inmates. They walked the entire three miles out to the farm, often trudging knee-deep through the snow-drifts, and carrying potted plants and flowers. Half the party were women. After holding the services, they trudged back over the same road and through the same storm, making a most strenuous tramp of six miles in all.

It was not until Dr. C. J. Woolway, medical superintendent at the poor farm, yesterday afternoon telephoned to Clerk Shogran of the county poor board, telling of the visit of the Endeavorers, and calling to mind the roughness of the weather, that people in town took any notice of the undertaking of the heroic little party Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Woolway was unable to make his daily trip from the poor farm to the city yesterday, because the snowdrifts had rendered the roads impassable.

Raising Carnations In California

is easy and remunerative and requires but little capital. 100 plants cost not to exceed $5.00. Each plant yields 20 or 30 cuttings. One man in Loomis, in the spring, alone, sells 50,000 carnations at $8.00 to $10.00 a thousand, and he has only 5 acres. But this is only one of many pursuits in which one may profitably engage.

Truck gardening brings big profits, likewise chicken raising, fruit growing or farming. Investigate conditions. There is a future for you in California, and you owe it to your family; they will be happier and healthier.

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles compel you to pass water often during the day and get up many times during the night.

Unhealthy kidneys cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease, the very worst form of kidney trouble, may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys improve, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

Sample Bottle Sent Free.

EDITORIAL NOTICE—To prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands of letters received from men and women who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy they needed. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in The Duluth Daily Herald. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

STANDING ROCK LAND DRAWINGS

Lottery Next Fall But Filing Not Till Spring of 1914.

Fort Yates, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—More information regarding the opening of the Standing Rock reservation lands has been received from Washington, where the details are being worked out. The drawings will occur some time this fall, but the date for the filing to begin will not be fixed until some time in the spring of 1914. The price for lands for filing during the first three months will be $5 per acre, for the third months it will be $3.50, for the third quarter it will be $2.50 and after that the regulation $1.25. The payments must be one-fifth down when filing is made and balance in five equal annual payments, unless commutation proof is made.

Before any drawings or filings by whites are made all Indians on the reservation who have not yet received allotment lands will be provided for under the law.

There will still remain, however, thousands of acres of choice land that will be greatly in demand by homeseekers.

Arrest Negro and White Girl.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—J. M. Bowen, a Federal government inspector, Monday arrested Halbert Grant, colored, and Lottie Grant, aged 17 years, white, at a local hotel. The negro is charged with violating the Mann white slave law. According to Bowen, the girl is a member of a prominent Detroit family. The couple claim they were married recently in Canada.

NEW DISCOVERY QUICKLY CURES KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses Are Taken.

If you are bothered with backache—or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon, no matter what else may have failed to cure you.

It is a positive fact that the new discovery, Croxone, promptly overcomes such diseases. It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for ridding the system of uric acid, removing the cause and curing the troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder; and puts the kidneys and urinary organs in a clean, strong, healthy condition.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate long standing cases, while it cures the most severe forms of kindey, bladder trouble, and rheumatism in a surprisingly short time.

You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle at any first class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

MODERN CANNING FACTORY CLEAN

As Highest Class Hotel Kitchen.

Most of the work of the modern canner is done by machines. Peaches are pared by machines, peas are vined or podded by machines, sweet corn is husked by machines, and so on. The amount of hand work is reduced to a minimum. Fresh running water is supplied in every part of the factory. Workers are required to keep scrupulously neat and clean.

Machines, conveyors, knives and parts which come in contact with the fresh food are constantly washed with running water; and at night, when regular work stops, the cleaners go in to wash down machines, walls and floors with scalding steam and water.

The factory which puts up 6,000 to 10,000 cases of peas in a day will use daily from 60,000 to 100,000 gallons of water, hot and cold, to wash and clean the plant.

The canner knows the importance of cleanliness and he has facilities for keeping his factory clean which are impossible for the ordinary housewife and which are scarcely equalled in the kitchens of our highest class hotels.

ing the best possible attention. Physicians of Omaha and Council Bluffs have volunteered their services and trained nurses have willingly followed the example of the physicians. Those patients who have shown improvement today will be moved from the temporary hospitals to places which have been provided for them by the city officials. Most of them are homeless, losing their abodes in the same instant of receiving their injuries. Many of the patients whose conditions are conthe sidered more or less critical have not been told of the complete loss which the tornado made of their property.

Snow Interferes.

The snow which, according to reports, was falling blizzard-like from Colorado to Central Iowa, seriously interfered with slender threads of telegraphic communication which had been established from Omaha to the outer world. The fact that such intense suffering is being caused here by the present storm, in spite of the heroic efforts being made by the city to provide for all who had been made dependent, caused Governor Morehead to fear that the conditions elsewhere in the state were in deplorable shape. He stated this morning that he would hasten action before the state legislature to obtain sufficient funds for the immediate care of storm victims.

The hospitals of the city are crowded; churches, fraternal orders and public institutions have opened their doors; the city officials are busy with relief work and hundreds of citizens are offering their homes and money to aid in caring for the stricken. Public subscriptions are also being taken by newspapers and the amounts already pledged for relief run into thousands.

Governor Morehead, after a tour of inspection of the tornado district today, said:

"This is my conception of hell."

Few of the houses destroyed were protected by tornado insurance so that in practically every instance the property loss is entire.

Omaha's Commercial club this morning issued a statement which gives some idea of the sweep of the storm.

According to this statement 2,179 people are homeless and 263 are absolutely helpless. Six hundred and forty-two houses were totally destroyed or rendered uninhabitable and 1,027 houses were partially destroyed.

Came Without Warning.

The storm came almost without warning, the day which opened with overcast skies having cleared in the afternoon.

The destruction began with the millionaire homes in the exclusive West Farnam and Bemis Park district. Five lives were lost here, but further northwest the buildings collapsed more easily and a large number of deaths resulted.

Rescue work started as soon as the residents of the town were able to hurry to the stricken district, but the night's work was by the light of lanterns and little was accomplished.

The storm took down all the wires in the path of the tornado and the electric power was shut off immediately to prevent further loss of life. When dawn broke, a train load of militia arrived from Lincoln and with the presence in the city of Governor Morehead, the work was systematized. Hospital facilities were generally adequate. Des Moines sent a special train with forty physicians and these helped out the local doctors who had been at work since 6 o'clock of the night before. Nurses and medical supplies were also brought on this train.

Money is pouring into the city, the city organizations taking the lead in providing funds. State and religious bodies are falling in line and offers are coming from all quarters of the United States.

The Child Saving institute at 69 South Forty-second street was a veritable death trap after the storm had spent its fury. Every available room was pressed into service.

Watching Her Dead Mother.

A pathetic sight was that of a young girl keeping watch over the body of her mother, Mrs. John Newman, who had been instantly killed. As the body lay on the porch of the institute awaiting burial arrangements the daughter, Mabel, told of the storm.

"Mother was ill and confined to a room on the second floor of our house," she said. "When the wind hit the house, it toppled over like pasteboard. Mother and myself were buried in the wreckage. As soon as I could pull myself from the debris, I began a search for her. Board after board I lifted; I tugged and pulled at them until my hands were cut and bleeding. Finally I reached her. I bent down to raise her, but she was dead."

A coincidence among the injured at the Child institute was that all were badly cut about the face, while the bodies were comparatively free from wounds. Ugly looking scalp wounds marked every injury.

The home of George J. Duncan, advertising manager of the Omaha Bee, at 4101 Farnam street, was destroyed. Mr. Duncan died at a hospital yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Duncan is in a critical condition.

Birthday Party Hit.

At the home of Patrick Hynes, 2104 North Fortieth street, a party celebrating his 81st birthday was in progress. The guests had just begun dinner and were drinking a toast to the health of their host when the storm swept the house away. All the party succeeded in getting out with minor injuries, except a grandchild, Miss Cecilia Bigelow, who was internally injured.

"The party had just begun dinner" said Mr. Hynes. "Suddenly there was a roaring sound. The next minute the house was in ruins. I wiggled around and out and aided the others in escaping."

And then suddenly brought back to the fact that his grandchild was near death, he said:

"Oh, if it had only been me instead of Cecila."

When the storm had passed Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm found themselves buried under a mass of broken and twisted furniture and tin cans which had been blown into the house. They extricated themselves with difficulty.

John Wright, a railroad watchman, probably owes his life to the fact that he went to work a half hour ahead of his usual time. Incidentally this is the third time that Wright's home had been threatened by a tornado.

Little Gladys Crook was revived after a house had been blown over her and she had been imprisoned for more than half an hour. It was necessary to chop a large hole in the side of the house before the little girl, whose cries for help had brought rescuers, was taken out, uninjured.

Cliff Daniels, his wife and their two children, met death together. When soldiers, digging about the ruins of their home, found the four bodies, the two little girls were found clasped in the arms of their mother while the body of the father was over them as if he had tried to shield them with his own body.

Gave the First News.

Mary Knudsen, a servant girl, was blown out of the home of her employer and, frightened, ran all the way downtown, fainting in front of a hotel. Her incoherent story was the first news of the disaster received in the downtown section.

Although Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Bryant escaped without injury, the aged mother of Mrs. Bryant was found buried in the cellar of the house and was rescued with difficulty. Debris had piled about her until only her head was exposed.

From the ruins of a negro pool hall the body of a negro was taken out along with many others. In one hand of the dead man was clutched a roll of bills.

The body of an unidentified child was found in the ruins of two houses with a little rag doll still tucked under her arm.

When C. Saber discovered the crushed and almost unrecognizable body of his wife in the ruins of an apartment house, he fled down the street shrieking wildly. He is missing.

E. H. Smith, a private of the signal corps from Fort Omaha, became insane after helping carry a number of bodies, and collapsed, when he had regained consciousness it was necessary to take him to the post hospital, where he was placed under restraint.

A. L. Green, advertising manager of a department store, living at 4904 Underwood avenue, was on his back porch watching the storm, when it broke.

Story of Eye Witness.

"It came like a rushing and roaring torrent of water," he said. "It came from the south and passed to the east. I went to my attic window immediately afterward and saw fires bursting forth from houses along the path of the storm. The flames made a ghastly sight as they illuminated the sky.

J. F. Trainer, 513 North Thirty-sixth street, rushed from his place of business, home to find his home in ruins, his wife, his aunt, Mrs. Edward Baggot of Chicago, visiting with them, and his three children were in the house, but only Mrs. Baggot was hurt.

E. W. Dixon, 433 North Thirty-Eighth street was bruised about the head and face and three children seriously injured. Dixon started upstairs as he saw the tornado funnel swoop down and crush the homes of his neighbors to the south. An instant later the wind struck his home, and he was hurled downstairs into the dining room. Dazed, he struggled to his feet and hurried his family to the cellar of his home. A second later his home was swept away and the family in the basement had but the sky above them. Flames sprang up on every side.

"It seemed as if the whole city was afire," said Dixon. "Then I lifted my wife and children out and ran down the street, joining scores of my neighbors. We had lost all, but were thankful for our lives."

You'll be wise and buy now—you'll have more to pick from—you'll get better service in salesrooms and in workrooms.

The season's choicest assortments are now ready — why delay choosing hats or wearables?

Trim Little Black Hats Are Here

The millinery departments shows some very clever little models in the well known Holland hats, which sell at $5.00 to $8.50.

There are black hats suitable for general wear, as well as models intended for mourning.

From the same source we have smart little models in grays, browns, tans and navy.

The values at $5 to $8.50 are quite as unusual as the styles are uncommon.

What Women Think of WOOLTEX COATS AND SUITS

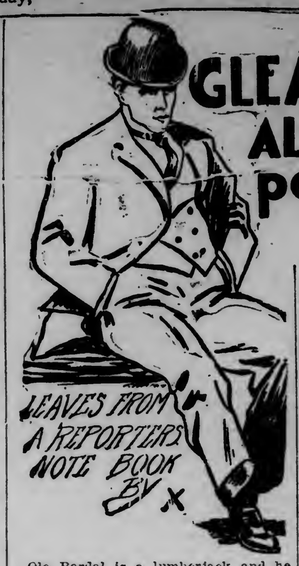
Wooltex is now the largest-selling make of women's tailored garments in the world.

Wooltex success has come because American women have learned to appreciate Wooltex quality.

Their appreciation has put it far in the lead, commercially, even against the competition of a thousand un-named, uncertain productions, sold at price only.

The difference is just here—when you buy a Wooltex coat or suit you know that it will give long, satisfactory service. When you buy anything else you can only hope it will.

Which is better—certainty or hope? Especially when the style argument is with Wooltex, too.



Wooltex Coats, $15 to $45.
Wooltex Suits, $22 to $55.

Come in and see the garments which have made themselves famous.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Ole Bordal is a lumberjack and he has been working in the woods all winter, accumulating a stake.

Yesterday morning he blew into the town with the pine needles sticking to his mackinaw and a wad of nearly an even hundred simoleons tucked in his jeans. With him was Peter Johnson Gulliland, who had not worked so much and who didn't have as rich a lining for his garments.

Peter adopted himself as Ole's partner and to properly celebrate the event they proceeded to get drunk. They consumed copious quantities of the joy stuff which is peddled across the Bowery boards which pass for "the mahogany" in common parlance. Most of the day and far into the night they tossed the hoot to the lonesome driver of the water wagon. For months she had been a gold old wagon," for Ole, "but she done broke down." Ole dropped with a splash befitting the first bath since he shipped to the tall timbers. Peter provided the echo.

When it got around towards midnight both of them had packages which should have been handled on the installment plan. They may have been expert top-loaders and able to stack them mighty high out in the big uncut, but when it came to stacking long ones in the gin mills they couldn't quite stand the gaff. Ole was more than wobbly and Peter was not much better. But Peter figured that they ought to go to bed and engineered a deal for a flop in a Bowery hotel.

About 3 or 4 o'clock this morning it appears that Peter came out of it, dug the cinders out of his blinkers and looked around. Beside him was Ole, snoring the snores of a snoring souse. And 'tis said that no snorer can snore like a snoring jag.

As Ole sawed wood, striking frequent knots, the wheels of Peter's think machine began to buzz. They informed him that Ole must have had quite a chunk of his roll in his pockets. To make sure, Peter took a look. He peeled them off one after another and when he had done taking stock, he found that Ole was possessed of some $70 in easily negotiable currency.

According to his own statement, Peter's conscience began to trouble him. He thought and thought and finally reached the conclusion that it would not be right to go away and leave Ole alone with all that money on him. So he said that as long as he had decided that he needed a few more drinks worse than he needed sleep, the proper course would be to take Ole's bankroll along with him, which he did. He took it for safe keeping, fearing that somebody might come into the room and relieve Ole of his wealth.

When Ole woke up Peter was missing. So was his hard-earned coin. He remembered that Peter had taken him to bed, so he acted upon the conclusion that the best procedure would be to start hunting for Peter. First he secured the offices of Patrolman John Connor and together they made an early morning round of the licensed refreshment stands. In one of them they found Peter, "stewed to the guards." The police say Ole was not much better, and both of them were sent to headquarters, Peter being charged with the theft of $70 and Ole being detained as a witness.

In police court Peter protested that his only purpose in taking the money was for safe keeping. Upon that statement the court concluded that Peter would desire an examination and set his hearing for tomorrow afternoon.

Joe Anderson was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of bashing John Ieu in the face with a beer glass. It is claimed that the two were part of a gang drinking in a saloon at 1104½ West Michigan street and became engaged in a drunken row which ended when Anderson opened Ieu's face with the glass. Anderson admitted that he was guilty of having assaulted Ieu but the court desired further information of the circumstances and continued the case until this afternoon for disposition.

Mike Burke, a woodsman, was picked up by the police last evening on Lake avenue in a helpless condition. It did not need a minute examination to determine that he was a very sick man. From headquarters he was removed to St. Luke's hospital for medical attention.

The eligible list for the police department is about exhausted and another civil service examination has been set for April 8 by Ruben Johnson, secretary of the civil service commission. Up to date thirty-five applications have been received, the longest list for several years past. Examinations for positions on the fire department will be given at the same time. The tests include physical examinations and written examinations.

The trial of Henry Miller, charged with conducting a house of ill fame at the St. James hotel, 213 West Superior street, was on again in police court this morning. It was started yesterday morning and it is likely that it will be concluded today.

Miller is the clerk who is said to have shown rooms to the two girls who made "dates" with Albert Q. Lee and Kin Sue, the Chinamen arrested on white slave charges. Miller claims that the two young women came to the hotel alone, registered and paid for their room. The claim of the city is that the girls gave him a card sent over by the Chinamen and that Miller showed them to Room 43 without asking any questions. About 3 o'clock in the morning it is alleged that the two Chinese were ushered into the same room, which was connected with an adjoining room by an open door.

Miller claims that the Chinese were assigned to the next room and that they had to go through the room assigned to the girls because No. 41 was locked and could not be entered from the hall. Miller said that he did not see either of the girls in the room when he took the Chinese upstairs to show them to their room.

Several witnesses were produced by the defense to support the contention that the girls registered and paid for the room and were not accommodated on the strength of the card said to have been given the girls by the Chinamen. The Chinese who are awaiting their examination on the white slave allegations were put on the stand this morning and their testimony was taken through Moy Sing Gat, an interpreter from St. Paul.

Railroads

Dixon Visits Duluth.

W. B. Dixon, assistant general passenger agent of the Milwaukee road is in the city today. There is no special significance to the visit of Mr. Dixon, it is said. He spent the morning visiting railroads and other friends.

Power Recovering.

W. J. Power, assistant general freight agent of the Great Northern road, who has been critically ill in St. Mary's hospital, is far on the road to recovery, it is reported today. Yesterday he was able to sit up for a short time and is able to receive the visits of friends if made briefly.

Trainmen's Ball.

The thirteenth annual ball of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen took place at the Auditorium last night and is said to have been the most successful that the organization has yet held in Duluth. Lodge No. 569, which gave the dance, has 108 members and the roster was well represented. A number of people from outside of the city attended, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, M. C. Williams and S. Browner of Carlton. The hall was prettily decorated and the music was good. The committees in charge were:

Arrangements—P. McHugh, R. O. Hughes and B. J. Brophy.

Door—W. P. Kennedy and W. A. Schultz.

Floor—R. O. Hughes, B. J. Brophy, P. McHugh, W. A. Robinson, John Thompson, M. B. Nichols and F. H. Wilson.

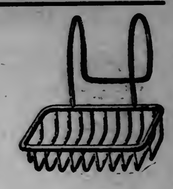
Judge Dibell is now busily engaged in cleaning up his work here preparatory to turning the affairs of his successor, the newly appointed Judge Bert Fesler.



SUIT AGAINST M. W. A. GOES TO THE JURY.

The personal injury action brought by John A. Ostrom against the Modern Woodmen, Duluth camp, No. 2341, and Jacobson Bros., contractors, which has been on trial for three days in Judge Cant's court, went to a the jury this afternoon. Plaintiff is seeking $3,100 damages for injuries claimed to have been received on Nov 23 last when he stumbled over an obstruction on the sidewalk on Twenty-first avenue west and fell fourteen feet into an excavation which Jacobson Bros., contractors, had made for the new modern Wood-men building, erected at the West end last fall.

OMAHA ASKS NO ASSISTANCE

No Calls for Aid Reach Duluth—Zenith City People Safe.

Aside from the fifty-two electricians sent from here last evening to Omaha and vicinity to assist in repairing the damage caused by the fearful storm of yesterday and the night before, there seems to have been no help asked of this section. The fifty-two were sent by the Bell Telephone company. The Zenith sent none, as it is out of its territory, the North American Telegraph company had no occasion to send any as the storm did not strike its path, and the Western Union did not send any from here, although men were sent from other points of its system.

Many people in Duluth who had friends in the vicinity of the storm have been on the anxious seat regarding their fate and have been on the ragged edge of anxiety, but, according to the list of dead and injured so far given, none of them have suffered loss.

One Duluth man to suffer great anxiety was W. C. McCarter, proprietor of the Duluth Business university. His wife and three children were in Omaha visiting Mrs. McCarter's aunt.

This morning at 1:30 o'clock Mr. McCarter received a message from his wife that all were well, unhurt, and as undisturbed as could be expected. It seems that where they resided was out of the path of the storm and they experienced nothing more than fright.

Gidding Buyer Returns.

R. G. Henderson returned yesterday from a brief trip to New York, where he has been in special session with other buyers and members of the Gidding firm, translating late imported models into correct post Easter styles designed to meet the demand of refined Americans who seek perfect harmony in color and style. Mr. Henderson comes back very much enthused over the season's second installment of fashions and eagerly announces the high hopes of the Gidding firm for a splendid season's business.

NO PATIENTS FROM DULUTH

City Has Sent No White Plague Sufferers to See Dr. Friedmann.

As far as can be learned, no Duluth sufferers from the great white plague, are on their way to New York to consult with Dr. J. J. Friedmann, Berlin physician, who claims to have a cure for tuberculosis.

Dr. A. T. Laird, superintendent at Nopeming, St. Louis county's newly established sanitarium for those afflicted with tuberculosis, who is in touch with the anti-tuberculosis work in Duluth, declares that he knows of no one who is contemplating consultation with the German physician.

Dr. Laird was reluctant about stating his views as to the merits of Dr. Friedmann's claims. He stated that he did not wish to be quoted as being over-skeptical, but he was like the man from Missouri who had to be "shown."

TORNADO DOES DAMAGE AROUND TOMAH, WIS.

La Crosse, Wis., March 25.—Heavy damage was done to the farming districts of Eastern Monroe county, Wis., by a tornado yesterday, according to information received when telephonic service was reopened today. The storm was most severe around Tomah where 100 more farm houses and barns were wrecked and stock killed by the score. In the city of Tomah the storm was felt but the loss is not great. No persons were killed so far as has been learned.

MARK YOUR BALLOT RIGHT.

A feature of the straw votes thus far taken on the candidates for city offices has been the failure of many persons to mark their ballots right. If anybody has any doubts about how to do this, he should get the matter straightened out before he goes to the polls.

A few very simple rules will cover the ground. Thus:

Vote in the first choice column for as many men as there are offices to be filled. If you vote more or less than that number your ballot will be thrown out.

When you have voted first choices for the men you prefer above all others for those offices, look over the list and see whom you would vote for if your first choices were not running. Vote for those men in the second choice column.

Then look over the list and decide which men you would not vote for under any circumstances. Suppose there are three such men in the list—Smith, Jones and Robinson. Any but these three you would be willing to see in the office to which they aspire. Then put a cross in the column headed "additional choices" opposite the name of every man except Smith, Jones and Robinson and the men you have already voted for on your first and second choices.

That is all there is to it. Mark your ballot in that way and it will count in the election, to the fullest possible extent. If you fail to vote your second and additional choices you will have that much less to say about the city government than the men who do vote those choices. And if you fail to vote first choices for just as many men as there are offices to be filled, your ballot will be thrown out.

Make sure, before the election, that you know how to use the ballot. It will save you annoyance in the booth, and may keep you from having your ballot cast aside.

A week from today it will all be settled. And a week from tomorrow everybody will wonder what all the excitement was about.

THE NEW LEGISLATIVE BODY.

Some hasty and ill-considered criticism of the reapportionment finally adopted by the state legislature and approved by the governor is going on in certain portions of the state press. Thus we find the Sherburne County Star-News, published at Elk River, denouncing the arrangement as a "makeshift that leaves no room for anybody to feel proud." The Star-News concludes its criticism by saying that "altogether it would have been better to pass up the matter until such time as a reasonable amount of justice and decency might have prevailed."

The new law is not ideally perfect, but it is vastly nearer so than the condition which it remedies. It reduces Southern Minnesota's former power in the senate from a total of 25 senators to a total of 20 1-6, and gives to the northern and western sections of the state 30 1-3 senators as against 24½ in the present legislature.

In the house similar changes in ratio have been made, for whereas the southern part of the state now has 41 members, under the new deal it will have only 34½; while the northern representation is increased from 40 to 62½.

As was pointed out in The Herald's dispatches from St. Paul at the time the bill was passed, the change which the new law brings about is little short of revolutionary. In the present legislature one member of the senate represents anywhere from 20,105 people in the southern districts to 56,468 people in the north; under the new apportionment the lowest unit of representation in the senate is 26,004 and the highest 37,053.

Similar improvement in conditions is made in the house, for whereas the present legislature shows representation units varying all the way from 12,565 in the south to 25,667 in the north, the next legislature will represent no unit smaller than 13,136 and none larger than 18,527.

Assuredly it is wrong to say that such an improvement as this could better have been passed up. It has been passed up for many years. And the action of the present legislature is far more just to the state as a whole than it had been feared would be possible to secure at this session. There are some inequalities yet, but they are as nothing compared with what the state has had to put up with in the last few legislatures.

Perhaps Sylvia Pankhurst's victory in her hunger strike will encourage the several thousand British working women who are hungry all the time. And then again—perhaps it won't.

MARCH WEATHER.

Ask almost any man or woman in Duluth and you will be told that the weather this month has been a corker. Probably you will agree with the opinion, and give your estimate as to how many hours of snowfall we have had since the month began. It is generally conceded that the weather here has been about the most conspicuous we have had in some time.

But just see what they are getting in other places. On Thursday and Friday of last week storms swept across parts of Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas and killed some 200 people, besides injuring some 400 others, some of them mortally. On Easter Sunday other storms struck portions of Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Missouri, with a destruction of human life fully as great as that of a few days before, and with property damage much greater, because it visited one of the most richly built up sections of the city of Omaha.

Meanwhile parts of Wisconsin and Indiana have been devastated by floods, and similar damage is threatened in Ohio.

Perhaps it would be advisable to knock on wood as the fact is mentioned, but there is no getting around the statement that Duluth has been favored, even though it has not been given the balmy weather that optimists expect to accompany the coming of spring. Snow is better than flood, and a thirty-mile wind is infinitely preferable to a tornado, even when the thirty-mile wind is accompanied by a marked chilliness of temperature. Duluth isn't such an undesirable place to live in, after all.

The almanac and the alarm clock are in a class by themselves—late seasons make no difference to them.

RESULT OF THE POSTAL BANKS.

Among the conditions advanced by the advocates of postal savings banks in this country as constituting a demand for such an institution was the vast amount of money that was sent out of the country by resident aliens. For some time this fund increased at the rate of about $12,000,000 a year, and it was asserted that the action of the aliens was due to their distrust of the private banking system of the United States, and that the movement of wealth would be checked if they could know that there was some place where they could deposit their savings under the direct care of Uncle Sam.

This same distrust of private institutions had the effect of driving the international shipments of money into the postoffice department, and international postal orders were made use of by the senders of earnings abroad. Now comes a report from the postoffice department showing that the amount of the international money order business decreased approximately $12,000,000 in 1912 from what it was in the preceding year.

Think what this means—from an increase of $12,000,000 annually to a decrease of $12,000,000 in one year! That is a change of $24,000,000 in one year in the amount of money that is kept available for circulation in this country instead of being sent abroad. And this in addition to the "stocking" hoardings that have been brought out of their hiding places and put into the postoffice deposits. Truly the postal bank is more than justifying itself and its advocates.

It's perfectly legitimate and thoroughly advisable to insist on having the bread wrapped up safely, so no dust can get on it. But that's no good excuse for putting a hand on a cigar.

THE PUBLIC DOMAIN BILL.

One of the most important measures now before the legislature is the public domain bill. There would be no excuse for not enacting it into law. It provides for the organization of one of the most vital parts of the work of the state government, so that instead of being performed as an adjunct to an already established department, it shall become the sole business and care of a thoroughly informed, competent and efficient corps of workers, under a responsible head.

This is not meant as a criticism of the way in which public land business has been handled in the past, at least as far as the acts or omissions of any individual are concerned. It is a demand that the care of our public lands, whether that care shall involve the sale of land or the problem of handling it under the state administration, be put in the hands of men who shall have that as their sole business.

Heretofore there has been a distribution of the power and authority regarding state lands. Certain duties have devolved upon the state auditor, as a secondary portion of his duties. Certain responsibilities have rested with other sections of the state administration. It was nobody's fault that this was so. The situation was the natural result of the laws and regulations governing state affairs.

Now it is proposed to create a department of public domain, which shall have for its sole business the handling of the state lands and all that pertains to them. The value of such a system must be apparent to all. It would mean that there could be a consistent policy under which that work could be developed. It would mean that responsibility would be fixed definitely, and that the work could be done more efficiently than has ever been possible under the old system.

The object of the present bill is to provide for efficient methods in the handling of the public domain until the Constitution can be amended to allow the full control of state lands to be turned over to the public domain department. The proposed temporary department would absorb the functions of a number of state departments and bureaus.

The bill should meet with favorable action in both houses. It will be a crime if the legislature at this session does not reorganize the departments relating to this subject, and weld them into a co-ordinated, businesslike, economical and efficient organization under a single department.

President Wilson's refusal to make any speaking dates, thereby running no danger of talking at Winona, shows that there are some precedents from which he intends to take warning.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 250 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

STATE FORESTERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you, through the Open Court, give me the information possible regarding the vocation of a forester, how obtained, remuneration, etc.? Thanking you in advance, I am, yours truly,

A READER.

Duluth, March 20.

If you write to State Forester W. T. Cox at the capitol building, St. Paul, he will give you any information on this subject you desire. An examination was held Saturday to fill vacancies for this position.—The Editor.

Queer Ante-Mortem Requests.

Tit-Bits: On Box Hill, in Surrey, may be seen the tomb of a man who was, by his own special request, buried upside-down in a coffin placed in a marble casing. With his head to the earth and his feet to the sky, he calmly awaits the Judgment Day, so the story runs, in the belief that heaven is under the ground, and that, believing this, it was his duty to be buried with his head towards it.

Not so very long ago there died, in the north of England, a farmer who left instructions that his body should be put into a coffin, and then placed in the loft of one of the barns on the farm premises. It was done, and will probably remain there for generations.

One is always hearing of the cobbler whose dying wish is that his tools shall be buried with him: of the old navy pensioner who desires to be put to rest in the uniform in which he once strutted about so proudly; of the shoeblack (and this happened in London quite recently) who said he should not quite "rest content" were the emblems of the trade he followed not buried with him.

One of the strangest requests on record was in connection with a basket-maker in a Lancashire town. Instead of the ordinary wooden coffin, he asked that one made by his workpeople in his own shop should take its place. Accordingly it was done, and never has man gone to his grave in a stranger coffin—one made of light wickerwork.

Ancient Measles Epidemics.

London Chronicle: Measles, which is causing anxiety to the authorities and pain to the students of Osborne college, is an ailment that has been sadly misjudged. For centuries—it is mentioned in Arabian writings as early as the tenth century—it was regarded (and treated) as a variety of smallpox, and when that fallacy was discovered, it was generally confounded with scarlet fever. No race of the earth is immune from measles, for though some countries enjoy long periods of immunity, the introduction of a single case is enough to cause an outbreak. In 1846, for instance, three-quarters of the population of the Faroe islands were infected from one case, and an even severer outbreak occurred in Fiji in 1875.

Where American Mothers Fail.

Philadelphia North American: That lack of discipline is one of the gravest weaknesses of the American mother was the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. William B. Griggs to the mothers in the babies' clinic at the Children's Homeopathic hospital.

"I can almost invariably tell the child of foreign born parents, no matter how young," declared Dr. Griggs. "There is a certain something about them, which can only be designated as good training, and American mothers could readily benefit by their example.

"Here, we are often too indulgent, and when we proceed upon a line of so-called 'discipline' we become too severe in our treatment. Rather should we endeavor to develop character by some other means than by useless threats, as is often done."

A Legend of the "Forget-Me-Not."

Boston Post: The blue bloom of the forget-me-not was christened on the banks of the beautiful Danube. There is a legend that two lovers once walked there. The girl admired some flowers, blue as her eyes, that grew upon an islet in the stream. The boy promised that she should have them, sprang into the river and swam to the island. Returning with the blooms, he had nearly reached the shore when the chill of the water and the strength of the current overcame him. With eyes fixed on the white face of his beloved, he flung the blooms at her feet, cried "Forget me not!" and was swept away beneath the icy waters to his doom.

The legend says the girl, in memory of him, wore forget-me-nots in her hair until she, too, died of a broken heart. Henry IV of England, in his exile, translated the forget-me-not to his friends to mean "Remember me."

From House to Senate, No. 8

By Savoyard.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was the purpose to close those chapters with this title when six had been written, but I cannot refrain from including in the lot Jonathan P. Dolliver and Daniel W. Voorhees. Of course, some of these days I'll have to take on William Alden Smith of Michigan as a subject of learned and impartial disquisition like these papers, for he is a wonder, a miracle. "Johnnie," asked the pretty little Sunday school teacher of one of her pupils, "what is a miracle?" The answer came prompt and biting: "Mother says it'll be a muriket if you don't set your cap for the new minister." As a statesman William Alden is fearfully and wonderfully made, as I shall show you before the roses come again. He is a "muriket."

I have seen a great many statesmen in congress who were like wasps—biggest when just hatched. Dolliver was different—he grew day by day. I do not think him as able a man as his colleague, George Perkins; but he is a much showier man. Perkins was after the order of John G. Carlisle, his mind a piece of frigid logic. A trope of rhetoric, or a flower of sentiment, he would put under his feet and stamp to death. Dolliver is much like Joe Blackburn would have been had Joe been a student. Napoleon said of Lannes, "I found him a pigmy; I lost him a giant." That was Dolliver. In the house he was comparatively small; in the senate he grew to be gigantically great. I sometimes think he would have been president had he lived. He was born two years later than Woodrow Wilson.

* * *

Like Abraham Lincoln, Dolliver had not one drop of Northern blood in his veins. Lincoln lived and died a Henry Clay Whig; Dolliver lived a Republican, and when he died he was not half a day's journey from the Democratic camp. I say it again, that in the summer of 1909 Jonathan P. Dolliver was Achilles and Ajax both in support of honest taxation in the Sixty-first congress, and but for treason in the Democratic camp he would have emerged victor from one of the most brilliant parliamentary struggles of Anglo-Saxon history. Some of that same set are there today. We shall see what we shall see.

And he was a precocious chap, too, was Dolliver. At the age of 17 he was graduated from a college of which William L. Wilson was the head, both natives of Virginia. At 20 Dolliver was admitted to the bar—that was in 1878. Then he went to Iowa, Fort Dodge, and in 1888, at the age of 30, he was returned to the Fifty-first congress—"the first Tom Reed congress," and in those days I was fool enough to despair that it was the end of the republic. He was a Tom Reed man, a favorite of that giant, and he so continued as long as Reed remained in public life. He was rapidly promoted, became a member of ways and means, and helped Dingley make the tariff enormity of 1897, for which he asked pardon twelve years later. He grew.

* * *

In the Fifty-third congress Dolliver was audacious enough to engage in debate with his old preceptor, William L. Wilson, whom he loved and who loved him. Then and there I got this idea which is a truth, that most of the error in government springs from the proneness of statesmen to confound coincidence with cause. Do that and you can prove anything. The most absurd and chimerical syllogism becomes accepted maxim. Charles James Fox said that all the wise and excellent statesmen of England had not conceived as much good in government as Lord Elgin had thwarted, or words of that import. His lordship was a post hoc, ergo propter hoc reasoner. That is the only logic the G. O. P. ever advanced. In 1893, and until he became senator, Dolliver was that order of statesman.

For instance, in his speech against the Wilson tariff, Dolliver brought in the famous message of President Buchanan of 1860, in which he discovered the low estate to which the public credit had fallen, and the youthful orator from Iowa laid it on what Mr. Blaine called "the free trade tariff of 1846," and its spawn, the freer trade tariff of 1857.

* * *

In a polemic I engaged in with the Hon. James T. McCleary of Minnesota, years afterward, who advanced the same post hoc, ergo propter hoc argument and cited the same fact of history, I said this:

"What are the facts? In 1857 the country had been so prosperous under the very low tariff of 1846 that the dogma of protection was as dead as the Whig party, and Mr. Blaine remarks in his book that free trade would have been our settled policy but for the war of 1861-65. Both parties made the tariff of 1857—a Democratic senate, a Republican house, and a Democratic president. It was the only tariff of the century both parties agreed upon, and it would have passed both houses unanimously but for the disagreement about wool. And be it remembered that the tariff of 1857, passed by both parties, was the lowest in our history.

"It is true that a financial panic came in 1857, but nobody of that day laid it on the tariff. Everybody was thoroughly satisfied with the tariff. The Thirty-fifth congress, which was Democratic, did not touch it, and the Thirty-sixth congress, that was not exactly Republican, but had a Republican plurality, did not touch it, until secession had made it absolutely necessary to provide more revenue. The panic of 1857 was due to the same cause that produced the panic of 1837—a reckless issue of state bank currency, unparalleled prosperity, and an era of indiscriminate speculation. To these were added the extensive building of railroads in undeveloped regions that could not make business to support them. That is what the thinkers of those times, who knew something about it, had to say of the panic of 1857.

"It is true, as Mr. McCleary cites, that President Buchanan wrote a most doleful message to congress in regard to the public credit and the revenues. That message was written in December, 1860. Now, an ordinary thinker would say that the bad state of affairs was due to the secession movement at the South and the approaching war that came a few months later; but the Hon. McCleary is not an ordinary thinker—on the contrary, quite the reverse—and he would have us believe it was due to the tariff. This is a sample of Mr. McCleary's logic; the other was a sample of his history. By and by I will give you a sample of his humor."

And here let me say, lest I forget, that, if to be a gentleman one must have kindness in his heart—and that is what makes the gentleman—my friend McCleary is in the class of the late Henry G. Turner, of Georgia, the most perfect gentleman I ever knew, and the despair of a ruffian like such as I.

* * *

As I said, Dolliver grew. He got bravely over that nonsense about the tariff. In the senate he waged against Aldrich the most brilliant and most relentless war for honest taxes the American congress can show. Balleyism was to the rescue. Aldrich's bacon was saved, and "some of them" friedmeat Democrats are yet in the senate. If they don't walk a chalk line somebody will gibbet them between now and dog days.

Dolliver was a great man and a great statesman. He died just as he was entering on his intellectual prime. It was grand to see him cast his gage at the feet of the truculent Bailey, who had the prudence to know whom to kick downstairs, and who was Alexander and Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon—in a sham fight with Spooner.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Personae dramatis: Theodore Burton, chairman rivers and harbor committee; Capt. Sam Brown, Monongahela valley coal magnate; star reporter, congressman, deckhands, Pittsburg chamber of commerce, ordinary reporters, curiosity seekers, etc.

Time: A bright summer morning several years ago.

Place: Capt. Brown's yacht Troubadour, on the Monongahela river.

Scene 1. River and harbor commission, T. Burton, chairman, boards the Troubadour, which Capt. Brown has offered for their use to inspect river improvements of Pittsburg. Introductions. Burton doesn't realize that Brown is owner of boat and host, besides being multi-millionaire and famous horseman.

Scene 2. (An hour later). Capt. Brown indulges in favorite amusement of recalling youth by piloting the boat himself. Only the star reporter in pilot house with him. Burton leaves other guests and searches for adventure. He likes to ride with the pilot, and joins Capt. Brown and the reporter. Tells Capt. Brown piloting "must be interesting work." Brown, realizing situation, answers with deep humility and respect, throwing in many "sirs," and forgetting he owns both sides of the river, with coal lands worth $3,000 an acre. Capt. Brown is so respectful that Burton talks to him with unusual kindness. Then conversation lags. Star reporter asks Capt. Brown how much the horse Troubadour has won so far that year. "Oh, about $76,500," says Brown. Burton blinks. "And how's old River Pirate doing?" inquiries reporter. "Oh, I'm giving him a rest," replies Brown; "just put him on my new farm at Lexington." Burton suddenly seasick. "What did you get for that last bunch of coal land, captain?" asks reporter. "One million, eight hundred thousand dollars," says Brown. Burton faints clear away. Quick curtain.

Attorney General James C. McReynolds has an absolute horror of writing a letter some day and having it mailed with a misplaced comma in it. He is just that particular about all the little details of his work. Everything must be accurate not only in fact but in grammar, form and punctuation. He goes in for neatness, too. A legal document covered with blots and scratched-out words would be a nightmare to him. When he gets ready to flush a few trusts presently and maltreat them, their only chance of escape will be to break into his office some night and muss up his papers to such an extent that he will not have the heart to take them into court.

McReynolds is a man not given to striking statements. Whatever he says impresses one for its clean-cut common sense rather than for its clever figures of speech.

* * *

Young Mr. Joseph Patrick Tumulty secretary to the president, goes in on an elaborate scale for the simple life.

He aims to tuck himself in his little bed always by 10:15, and often by 9:30—about the same time that the cabs and autos are calling to take social Washington out for the evening. His alarm clock harasses the still morning air promptly at 6:30, whereupon young Mr. Tumulty chases the last remaining fragments of slumber from his system by means of a cold bawth. He is not merely one of those cold bath liars, you understand, but actually steps right into the chill water like a man of moral courage. He does everything briskly, even to shaving and dressing. Instead of putting on one sock and then sitting and yawning and scratching his head for twenty minutes, he puts on his other sock right away, not to mention various other bits of clothing. Once dressed, he does not waste time, but reads a book or magazine until the breakfast hour, when he anoints his tummy with plain, substantial food. By 8 o'clock he is on the job at the White House, meeting personally more callers than any secretary there ever met before.

* * *

Tumulty is a systematic worker and insists on seeing personally every letter that goes out. He gets through the day's job shortly before 6 in the evening. Dinner at the Tumulty home is a gladsome sight. Five of his six small youngsters are old enough to sit at the table, but they are trained not to spill things or make any confusion whatever.

Right after dinner the president's assistant takes a brisk walk. Then he reads the "Yellow Journal," which is prepared at the White House and consists of editorials and political stories from the leading newspapers pasted on a sheet of yellow paper. To read this requires about an hour and a half every evening, but it is worth while. If a senator drops around the next morning and mentions the fact that he and his colleague are in a squabble of some sort, Tumulty already knows the whole story.

* * *

With the "Yellow Journal" disposed of, Tumulty reads other things—Dickens, Thackeray, O. Henry, Henry James, James Montague, Montague Glass—anything good, but, best of all, he likes a political novel.

About his only recreation away from home consists in going to the theater. He loves to foregather with one or two congenial spirits and swap stories and experiences, but for society—that is, the great strata of pretense with the capital S—he has no time or inclination.

W. H. Stafford of Milwaukee, who succeeded Victor Berger in congress, was a member of the house for several terms before Berger came in. He is a serious-minded lawyer with pink whiskers. The only trouble with him is that he looks more serious than a man is entitled to look.

Ingenuous.

Lippincott's: Marion came to the breakfast table late, and was scanned by the reproachful eyes of her mother.

"Did that young man kiss you last night, Marion?"

"No, mother," said the very pretty girl, with a reminiscent smile, "do you suppose that he came all the way from Blue Rock to hear me sing?"

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

For State Commission.

Lake Crystal Union: We favor the commission plan for the running of Minnesota. It will be millions of dollars in the pockets of the people.

Public Awakening.

Wabasha Herald: If there is any doubt as to the public awakening to which the papers so frequently refer, it is only necessary to call attention to the vigilance which is exercised over municipal, state and national representatives of the people. Better informed than ever on public questions, alive to the importance of taking an interest in them, the people are watching the doings of the lawmakers and are taking a hand in the questions under consideration whenever necessary. It is safe to say that legislators are hearing from their constituents more then ever. The latter are keeping in close touch with their representatives. And this is as it should be.

The Sensible Way.

Fairmont Sentinel: For one we would like to cast a direct ballot for the next president of the United States. It is the sensible way of doing and would be far more satisfactory.

One Point of View.

Cokato Enterprise: At this time of intense struggling, noisy, foolish and emphatically wrong ideas concerning the woman suffrage movement, one has not far to look to see that women do share in the burdens of the government, and that they are not fairly represented by man's sense of justice. For some unknown reason, men do not stand for higher education of women, and boldly say that woman's place is in the home. In judging from the only point of view at hand—namely, oneself, it is difficult to see how a man can lower himself to marry a woman whom he does not consider his equal.

Horrible!

Le Sueur News: Wilson is going to let Marshall sit with him in the cabinet! Terrible! Horrible! It has never been done before! How awful it will be!

Long Delayed.

Crookston Times: It is forty-four days since ground hog day—four days over schedule, and if the measly little animal don't come out pretty quick, the small boy should turn the hose in his hole and drown him out.

Every One Has Troubles.

Albert Lea Tribune: Europe is said to want intervention in Mexico. Europe had better settle its Balkan trouble first. The Mexican trouble will keep.

Does It Get the Goods?

Brainerd Dispatch: Minnesota is near the head of the class when it comes to the expenditure per capita for persons in the charitable institutions of the state. If the care they get is as far ahead of the other states as the price there should not be much murmuring.

The Crowd

John A. Sleicher in Leslie's: 'Tis night in the great city. Where are all the busy people? Are they burning the midnight oil in the council chambers while studying the perplexing problems of the day? Are they in the churches, in the lecture halls and the reading rooms?

Are they in the quiet family circle with its magic charm of domestic peace and comfort or in the chapel meditating on the everlasting goodness of God?

Alas! not so! But the crowds are not far away. To find them seek the blazing pathway of the white light district. Open the door and hear the din of "the lobster palace," the sensuous cabaret, the crowded theater and moving picture show. On with the dance!

A thoughtless people have become extravagant in prosperity, reckless in squandering their substance and careless in imperiling their health. Forgetful of the past, heedless of the future, living only for the present, they seek to get the most out of the fleeting hours. They get the worst.

Listen to the crazy ragtime! Join in the voluptuous dance! Eat, drink and be merry! Thou fool! Is there no call to duty; no spirit of self-sacrifice; no stretched out hand to the needy and forsaken; no thought of the perishing; no anxiety for the morrow?

Is this the crowd that is making public sentiment, directing legislative action, dominating political parties and crying out in its frenzy against our captains of industry, our established forms of government and the Constitution of the United States itself?

Away with the elder statesmen! "Go up, thou bald head!" Let the people rule!

A Fine for Dead Persons.

New York Journal: Germany is being blamed for the story of a factory notice now going the rounds. Prominently displayed near all the live wires, it reads:

: To touch these wires means : : instant death. Any one failing : : to respect this warning will be : : prosecuted and fined. :

No one has, up to the present, had to be prosecuted.

Highland Mary.

Ye banks and braes and streams around
The castle o' Montgomery,
Green be your woods, and fair your flowers,
Your waters never drumlie!
There simmer first unfaulds her robes,
And there the langest tarry;
For there I took the last farweel
O' my sweet Highland Mary.

How sweetly bloom'd the gay green birk,
How rich the hawthorn's blossom,
As, underneath their fragrant shade,
I clasp'd her to my bosom!
The golden hours, on angel wings,
Flew o'er me and my dearie;
For dear to me as light and life
Was my sweet Highland Mary!

Wi' mony a vow, and lock'd embrace,
Our parting was fu' tender;
And, pledging aft to meet again,
We tore oursels asunder;
But, oh, fell death's untimely frost,
That nipp'd my flower sae early!
Now green's the sod and cauld's the clay,
That wraps my Highland Mary!

Oh, pale, pale now those rosy lips
I aft ha'e kiss'd sae fondly!
And closed for aye the sparkling glance
That dwalt on me sae kindly!
And moldering now in silent dust,
That heart that lo'ed me dearly;
But still within my bosom's core
Shall live my Highland Mary!

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1893.

•••Col. Shandrew of the Minnesota National Guard met the militia companies at the West Duluth armory last night. All three companies have been without captains and the men have been somewhat disheartened. Col. Shandrew induced Capt. Dent of Company G to withdraw his resignation. It is expected Lieut. Bidwell will become captain of Company A, and it is understood that E. J. Luther, who has had considerable experience in military affairs, will be asked to accept the captaincy of Company H.

•••Capt. Thomas Sharp, U. S. A., stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, owner of Sharp's and other additions to West Duluth, has arrived in the city to look after his property interests.

•••William McVannell is now running the Kippen water business at West Duluth, having bought out D. A. Kippen, who will leave the last of the month for the Pacific coast.

•••One of the latest candidates for government office in Duluth is C. S. Dabney. He is after the position of immigrant inspector now held by E. H. Windom. J. Adam Bede is also said to be after the place.

•••The Northern Gas & Electric company has changed its name to Northern Electric Construction company. E. W. Barker is treasurer and Charles F. Speed manager.

•••At the opening exercises of the high school yesterday, Principal E. T. Critchett made his farewell remarks to the pupils. He was presented with a handsome gold watch by the teachers and pupils.

•••Master Mechanic A. F. Priest has assumed his new duties on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway. He formerly held a similar position on the Eastern Minnesota road. Capt. H. C. Braden of St. Paul has been appointed to a clerkship at Oneota and will check the material used in the construction of the new ore dock.

•••The directors of the board of trade have appointed the following special building and finance committee to take charge of erecting the new building: George Spencer, George Rupley, A. D. Thomson, Franklin Paine, Ward Ames and John Macleod.

•••A marriage license has been issued to Ludwig Anderson and Anna Lundgren.

A Nation of Book Readers.

From Sidney Whitman's "German Memories": A glance at the German book trade—more particularly the many publishers and booksellers, and the high standing of the best among them—throws an instructive light on the omnivorous appetite for reading which exists among the German people of all classes. Their business places are the resort of literary notabilities, as a few such were in London and Edinburgh in the eighteenth century. Scientific works, which in England can only be issued with the financial assistance of learned societies, are nearly all brought out in Germany at the sole risk and expense of the publishers in Leipsic, Berlin, Stuttgart and Munich, each of which cities is prominent in the order mentioned.

The catalogue of books published by the booksellers's firm connected with the Vorwarts, and appealing almost entirely to the working classes, is a surprising one. It embraces a cosmopolitan selection of the best works on history, political economy, and belles lettres of all countries.

Europe's Rulers Smaller Now.

Pall Mall Gazette: The rulers of Europe have lost somewhat in the matter of inches since the '80s of last century, when an exceptionally tall company of monarchs occupied the various thrones.

The gigantic Czar Alexander III, the equally tall though less robust King Leopold II, the Kanser William I, and his successor, the Emperor Frederick, King Christian IX, Kaiser Francis Joseph and the king of Greece (the only two survivors) were all men well above six feet.

MARK YOUR BALLOT RIGHT.

A feature of the straw votes thus far taken on the candidates for city offices has been the failure of many persons to mark their ballots right. If anybody has any doubts about how to do this, he should get the matter straightened out before he goes to the polls.

A few very simple rules will cover the ground. Thus:

Vote in the first choice column for as many men as there are offices to be filled. If you vote more or less than that number your ballot will be thrown out.

When you have voted first choices for the men you prefer above all others for those offices, look over the list and see whom you would vote for if your first choices were not running. Vote for those men in the second choice column.

Then look over the list and decide which men you would not vote for under any circumstances. Suppose there are three such men in the list—Smith, Jones and Robinson. Any but these three you would be willing to see in the office to which they aspire. Then put a cross in the column headed "additional choices" opposite the name of every man except Smith, Jones and Robinson and the men you have already voted for on your first and second choices.

That is all there is to it. Mark your ballot in that way and it will count in the election, to the fullest possible extent. If you fail to vote your second and additional choices you will have that much less to say about the city government than the men who do vote those choices. And if you fail to vote first choices for just as many men as there are offices to be filled, your ballot will be thrown out.

Make sure, before the election, that you know how to use the ballot. It will save you annoyance in the booth, and may keep you from having your ballot cast aside.

A week from today it will all be settled. And a week from tomorrow everybody will wonder what all the excitement was about.

THE NEW LEGISLATIVE BODY.

Some hasty and ill-considered criticism of the reapportionment finally adopted by the state legislature and approved by the governor is going on in certain portions of the state press. Thus we find the Sherburne County Star-News, published at Elk River, denouncing the arrangement as a "makeshift that leaves no room for anybody to feel proud." The Star-News concludes its criticism by saying that "altogether it would have been better to pass up the matter until such time as a reasonable amount of justice and decency might have prevailed."

The new law is not ideally perfect, but it is vastly nearer so than the condition which it remedies. It reduces Southern Minnesota's former power in the senate from a total of 25 senators to a total of 23 1-6, and gives to the northern and western sections of the state 30 1-3 senators as against 24⅔ in the present legislature.

In the house similar changes in ratio have been made, for whereas the southern part of the state now has 41 members, under the new deal it will have only 34⅔; while the northern representation is increased from 40 to 62⅓.

As was pointed out in The Herald's dispatches from St. Paul at the time the bill was passed, the change which the new law brings about is little short of revolutionary. In the present legislature one member of the senate represents anywhere from 20,105 people in the southern districts to 56,468 people in the north; under the new apportionment the lowest unit of representation in the senate is 26,004 and the highest 37,053.

Similar improvement in conditions is made in the house, for whereas the present legislature shows representation units varying all the way from 12,563 in the south to 25,097 in the north, the next legislature will represent no unit smaller than 13,135 and none larger than 18,527.

Assuredly it is wrong to say that such an improvement as this could better have been passed up. It has been passed up for many years. And the action of the present legislature is far more just to the state as a whole than it had been feared would be possible to secure at this session. There are some inequalities yet, but they are as nothing compared with what the state has had to put up with in the last few legislatures.

Perhaps Sylvia Pankhurst's victory in her hunger strike will encourage the several thousand British working women who are hungry all the time. And then again—perhaps it won't.

MARCH WEATHER.

Ask almost any man or woman in Duluth and you will be told that the weather this month has been a corker. Probably you will agree with the opinion, and give your estimate as to how many hours of snowfall we have had since the month began. It is generally conceded that the weather here has been about the most conspicuous we have had in some time.

But just see what they are getting in other places. On Thursday and Friday of last week storms swept across parts of Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas and killed some 200 people, besides injuring some 400 others, some of them mortally. On Easter Sunday other storms struck portions of Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Missouri, with a destruction of human life fully as great as that of a few days before, and with property damage much greater, because it visited one of the most richly built up sections of the city of Omaha.

Meanwhile parts of Wisconsin and Indiana have been devastated by floods, and similar damage is threatened in Ohio.

Perhaps it would be advisable to knock on wood as the fact is mentioned, but there is no getting around the statement that Duluth has been favored, even though it has not been given the balmy weather that optimists expect to accompany the coming of spring. Snow is better than flood, and a thirty-mile wind is infinitely preferable to a tornado, even when the thirty-mile wind is accompanied by a marked chilliness of temperature. Duluth isn't such an undesirable place to live in, after all.

The almanac and the alarm clock are in a class by themselves—late seasons make no difference to them.

RESULT OF THE POSTAL BANKS.

Among the conditions advanced by the advocates of postal savings banks in this country as constituting a demand for such an institution was the vast amount of money that was sent out of the country by resident aliens. For some time this fund increased at the rate of about $12,000,000 a year, and it was asserted that the action of the aliens was due to their distrust of the private banking system of the United States, and that the movement of wealth would be checked if they could know that there was some place where they could deposit their savings under the direct care of Uncle Sam.

This same distrust of private institutions had the effect of driving the international shipments of money into the postoffice department, and international postal orders were made use of by the senders of earnings abroad. Now comes a report from the postoffice department showing that the amount of the international money order business decreased approximately $12,000,000 in 1912 from what it was in the preceding year.

Think what this means—from an increase of $12,000,000 annually to a decrease of $12,000,000 in one year! That is a change of $24,000,000 in one year in the amount of money that is kept available for circulation in this country instead of being sent abroad. And this in addition to the "stocking" hoardings that have been brought out of their hiding places and put into the postoffice deposits. Truly the postal bank is more than justifying itself and its advocates.

It's perfectly legitimate and thoroughly advisable to insist on having the bread wrapped up safely, so no dust can get on it. But that's no good excuse for putting a band on a clear.

THE PUBLIC DOMAIN BILL.

One of the most important measures now before the legislature is the public domain bill. There would be no excuse for not enacting it into law. It provides for the organization of one of the most vital parts of the work of the state government, so that instead of being performed as an adjunct to an already established department, it shall become the sole business and care of a thoroughly informed, competent and efficient corps of workers, under a responsible head.

This is not meant as a criticism of the way in which public land business has been handled in the past, at least as far as the acts or omissions of any individual are concerned. It is a demand that the care of our public lands, whether that care shall involve the sale of land or the problem of handling it under the state administration, be put in the hands of men who shall have that as their sole business.

Heretofore there has been a distribution of the power and authority regarding state lands. Certain duties have devolved upon the state auditor, as a secondary portion of his duties. Certain responsibilities have rested with other sections of the state administration. It was nobody's fault that this was so. The situation was the natural result of the laws and regulations governing state affairs.

Now it is proposed to create a department of public domain, which shall have for its sole business the handling of the state lands and all that pertains to them. The value of such a system must be apparent to all. It would mean that there could be a consistent policy under which that work could be developed. It would mean that responsibility would be fixed definitely, and that the work could be done more efficiently than has ever been possible under the old system.

The object of the present bill is to provide for efficient methods in the handling of the public domain until the Constitution can be amended to allow the full control of state lands to be turned over to the public domain department. The proposed temporary department would absorb the functions of a number of state departments and bureaus.

The bill should meet with favorable action in both houses. It will be a crime if the legislature at this session does not reorganize the departments relating to this subject, and weld them into a co-ordinated, businesslike, economical and efficient organization under a single department.

President Wilson's refusal to make any speaking dates, thereby running no danger of talking at Winona, shows that there are some precedents from which he intends to take warning.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 250 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied by every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

STATE FORESTERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you, through the Open Court, give me the information possible regarding the vocation of a forester, how obtained, remuneration, etc.? Thanking you in advance, I am, yours truly,

A READER.

Duluth, March 20.

If you write to State Forester W. T. Cox at the capitol building, St. Paul, he will give you any information on this subject you desire. An examination was held Saturday to fill vacancies for this position.—The Editor.

Queer Ante-Mortem Requests.

Tit-Bits: On Box Hill, in Surrey, may be seen the tomb of a man who was, by his own special request, buried upside-down in a coffin placed in a marble casing. With his head to the earth and his feet to the sky, he calmly awaits the Judgment Day, so the story runs, in the belief that heaven is under the ground, and that, believing this, it was his duty to be buried with his head towards it.

Not so very long ago there died, in the north of England, a farmer who left instructions that his body should be put into a coffin, and then placed in the loft of one of the barns on the farm premises. It was done, and will probably remain there for generations.

One is always hearing of the cobbler whose dying wish is that his tools shall be buried with him; of the old navy pensioner who desires to be put to rest in the uniform in which he once strutted about so proudly; of the shoeblack (and this happened in London quite recently) who said he should not "rest content" were the emblems of the trade he followed not buried with him.

One of the strangest requests on record was in connection with a basket-maker in a Lancashire town. Instead of the ordinary wooden coffin, he asked that one made by his workpeople in his own shop should take its place. Accordingly it was done, and never has man gone to his grave in a stranger coffin—one made of light wickerwork.

Ancient Measles Epidemics.

London Chronicle: Measles, which is causing anxiety to the authorities and pain to the students of Osborne college, is an ailment that has been sadly misjudged. For centuries—it is mentioned in Arabian writings as early as the tenth century—it was regarded (and treated) as a variety of smallpox, and when that fallacy was discovered, it was generally confounded with scarlet fever. No race of the earth is immune from measles, for though some countries enjoy long periods of immunity, the introduction of a single case is enough to cause an outbreak. In 1846, for instance, three-quarters of the population of the Faroe islands were infected from one case, and an even severer outbreak occurred in Fiji in 1875.

Where American Mothers Fail.

Philadelphia North American: That lack of discipline is one of the gravest weaknesses of the American mother was the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. William B. Griggs to the mothers in the babies' clinic at the Children's Homeopathic hospital.

"I can almost invariably tell the child of foreign born parents, no matter how young," declared Dr. Griggs. "There is a certain something about them, which can only be designated as good training, and American mothers could readily benefit by their example.

"There, we are often too indulgent, and when we proceed upon a line of so-called 'discipline' we become too severe in our treatment. Rather should we endeavor to develop character by some other means than by useless threats, as is often done."

A Legend of the "Forget-Me-Not."

Boston Post: The blue bloom of the forget-me-not was christened on the banks of the beautiful Danube. There is a legend that two lovers once walked there. The girl admired some flowers, blue as her eyes, that grew upon an islet in the stream. The boy promised that she should have them, sprang into the river and swam to the island. Returning with the blooms, he had nearly reached the shore when the chill of the water and the strength of the current overcame him. With eyes fixed on the white face of his beloved, he flung the blooms at her feet, cried "Forget me not!" and was swept away beneath the icy waters to his doom.

The legend says the girl, in memory of him, wore forget-me-nots in her hair until she, too, died of a broken heart. Henry IV of England, in his exile, translated the forget-me-not to his friends to mean "Remember me."

From House to Senate, No. 8

By Sayoyard.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was the purpose to close those chapters with this title when six had been writ, but I cannot refrain from including in the lot Jonathan P. Dolliver and Daniel W. Voorhees. Of course, some of these days I'll have to take on William Alden Smith of Michigan as a subject of learned and impartial disquisition like these papers, for he is a wonder, a miracle. "Johnnie," asked the pretty little Sunday school teacher of one of her pupils, "what is a miracle?" The answer came prompt and biting: "Mother says it'll be a muriket if you don't set your cap for the new minister." As a statesman William Alden is fearfully and wonderfully made, as I shall show you before the roses come again. He is a "muriket."

I have seen a great many statesmen in congress who were like wasps—biggest when just hatched. Dolliver was different—he grew day by day. I do not think him as able a man as his colleague, George Perkins; but he is a much showier man. Perkins was after the order of John G. Carlisle, his mind a piece of frigid logic. A trope of rhetoric, or a flower of sentiment, he would put under his feet and stamp to death. Dolliver is much like Joe Blackburn would have been had Joe been a student. Napoleon said of Lannes, "I found him a pigmy; I lost him a giant." That was Dolliver. In the house he was comparatively small; in the senate he grew to be gigantically great. I sometimes think he would have been president had he lived. He was born two years later than Woodrow Wilson.

* * *

Like Abraham Lincoln, Dolliver had not one drop of Northern blood in his veins. Lincoln lived and died a Henry Clay Whig; Dolliver lived a Republican, and when he died he was not half a day's journey from the Democratic camp. I say it again, that in the summer of 1909 Jonathan P. Dolliver was Achilles and Ajax both in support of honest taxation in the Sixty-first congress, and but for treason in the Democratic camp he would have emerged victor from one of the most brilliant parliamentary struggles of Anglo-Saxon history. Some of that same set are there today. We shall see what we shall see.

And he was a precocious chap, too, was Dolliver. At the age of 17 he was graduated from a college of which William L. Wilson was the head, both natives of Virginia. At 29 Dolliver was admitted to the bar—that was in 1878. Then he went to Iowa, Fort Dodge, and in 1888, at the age of 30, he was returned to the Fifty-first congress—"the first Tom Reed congress," and in those days I was fool enough to despair that it was the end of the republic. He was a Tom Reed man, a favorite of that giant, and he so continued as long as Reed remained in public life. He was rapidly promoted, became a member of ways and means, and helped Dingley make the tariff enormity of 1897, for which he asked pardon twelve years later. He grew.

* * *

In the Fifty-third congress Dolliver was audacious enough to engage in debate with his old preceptor, William L. Wilson, whom he loved and who loved him. Then and there I got this idea which is a truth, that most of the error in government springs from the proneness of statesmen to confound coincidence with cause. Do that and you can prove anything. The most absurd and chimerical syllogism becomes accepted maxim. Charles James Fox said that all the wise and excellent statesmen of England had not conferred as much good in government as Lord Elgin had thwarted, or words of that import. His lordship was a post hoc, ergo propter hoc reasoner. That is the only logic the G. O. P. ever advanced. In 1893, and until he became senator, Dolliver was that order of statesman.

For instance, in his speech against the Wilson tariff, Dolliver brought in the famous message of President Buchanan of 1860, in which he discovered the low estate to which the public credit had fallen, and the youthful orator from Iowa laid it on what Mr. Blaine called "the free trade tariff of 1846," and its spawn, the freer trade tariff of 1857.

* * *

In a polemic I engaged in with the Hon. James T. McCleary of Minnesota, years afterward, who advanced the same post hoc, ergo propter hoc argument and cited the same fact of history, I said this:

"What are the facts? In 1857 the country had been so prosperous under the very low tariff of 1846 that the dogma of protection was as dead as the Whig party, and Mr. Blaine remarks in his book that free trade would have been our settled policy but for the war of 1861-65. Both parties made the tariff of 1857—a Democratic senate, a Republican house, and a Democratic president. It was the only tariff of the century both parties agreed upon, and it would have passed both houses unanimously but for the disagreement about wool. And be it remembered that the tariff of 1857, passed by both parties, was the lowest in our history.

"It is true that a financial panic came in 1857, but nobody of that day laid it on the tariff. Everybody was thoroughly satisfied with the tariff. The Thirty-fifth congress, which was Democratic, did not touch it, and the Thirty-sixth congress, that was not exactly Republican, but had a Republican plurality, did not touch it, until secession had made it absolutely necessary to provide more revenue. The panic of 1857 was due to the same cause that produced the panic of 1837—a reckless issue of state bank currency, unparalleled prosperity, and an era of indiscriminate speculation. To these were added the extensive building of railroads in undeveloped regions that could not make business to support them. That is what the thinkers of those times, who knew something about it, had to say of the panic of 1857.

"It is true, as Mr. McCleary cites, that President Buchanan wrote a most doleful message to congress in regard to the public credit and the revenues. That message was written in December, 1860. Now, an ordinary thinker would say that the bad state of affairs was due to the secession movement at the South and the approaching war that came a few months later; but the Hon. McCleary is not an ordinary thinker—on the contrary, quite the reverse—and he would have us believe it was due to the tariff. This is a sample of Mr. McCleary's logic; the other was a sample of his history. By and by I will give you a sample of his humor."

And here let me say, lest I forget, that, if to be a gentleman one must have kindness in his heart—and that is what makes the gentleman—my friend McCleary is in the class of the late Henry G. Turner, of Georgia, the most perfect gentleman I ever knew, and the despair of a ruffian like such as I.

* * *

As I said, Dolliver grew. He got bravely over that nonsense about the tariff. In the senate he waged against Aldrich the most brilliant and most relentless war for honest taxes the American congress can show. Baileyism was to the rescue. Aldrich's bacon was saved, and "some of them" friedmeat Democrats are yet in the senate. If they don't walk a chalk line somebody will gibbet them between now and dog days.

Dolliver was a great man and a great statesman. He died just as he was entering on his intellectual prime. It was grand to see him cast his gage at the feet of the truculent Bailey, who had the prudence to know whom to kick downstairs, and who was Alexander and Hannibal, Caesar and Napoleon—in a sham fight with Spooner.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Personae dramatis: Theodore Burton, chairman rivers and harbor committee; Capt. Sam Brown, Monongahela valley coal magnate; star reporter, congressman, deckhands, Pittsburg chamber of commerce, ordinary reporters, curiosity seekers, etc.

Time: A bright summer morning several years ago.

Place: Capt. Brown's yacht Troubadour, on the Monongahela river.

Scene 1. River and harbor commission, T. Burton, chairman, boards the Troubadour, which Capt. Brown has offered for their use to inspect river improvements of Pittsburg. Introductions. Burton doesn't realize that Brown is owner of boat and host, besides being multi-millionaire and famous horseman.

Scene 2. (An hour later). Capt. Brown indulges in favorite amusement of recalling youth by piloting the boat himself. Only the star reporter in pilot house with him. Burton leaves other guests and searches for adventure. He likes to ride with the pilot, and joins Capt. Brown and the reporter. Tells Capt. Brown piloting "must be interesting work." Brown, realizing situation, answers with deep humility and respect, throwing in many "sirs," and forgetting he owns both sides of the river, with coal lands worth $3,000 an acre. Capt. Brown is so respectful that Burton talks to him with unusual kindness. Then conversation lags. Star reporter asks Capt. Brown how much this horse Troubadour has won so far that year. "Oh, about $76,500," says Brown. Burton blinks. "And how's old River Pirate doing?" inquiries reporter. "Oh, I'm giving him a rest," replies Brown; "just put him on my new farm at Lexington." Burton suddenly seasick. "What did you get for that last bunch of coal land, captain?" asks reporter. "One million, eight hundred thousand dollars," says Brown. Burton faints clear away. Quick curtain.

Attorney General James C. McReynolds has an absolute horror of writing a letter some day and having it mailed with a misplaced comma in it. He is just that particular about all the little details of his work. Everything must be accurate not only in fact but in grammar, form and punctuation. He goes in for neatness, too. A legal document covered with blots and scratched-out words would be a nightmare to him. When he gets ready to finish a few trusts presently and maltreat them, their only chance of escape will be to break into his office some night and muss up his papers to such an extent that he will not have the heart to take them into court.

McReynolds is a man not given to striking statements. Whatever he says impresses one for its clean-cut common sense rather than for its clever figures of speech.

* * *

He aims to tuck himself in his little bed always by 10:15, and often by 9:30—about the same time that the cabs and autos are calling to take social Washington out for the evening. His alarm clock harasses the still morning air promptly at 6:30, whereupon young Mr. Tumulty chases the last remaining fragments of slumber from his system by means of a cold bawth. He is not merely one of those cold bath liars, you understand, but actually steps right into the chill water like a man of moral courage. He does everything briskly, even to shaving and dressing. Instead of putting on one sock and then sitting and yawning and scratching his head for twenty minutes, he puts on his other sock right away, not to mention various other bits of clothing. Once dressed, he does not waste time, but reads a book or magazine until the breakfast hour, when he anoints his tummy with plain, substantial food. By 8 o'clock he is on the job at the White House, meeting personally more callers than any secretary there ever met before.

* * *

Tumulty is a systematic worker and insists on seeing personally every letter that goes out. He gets through the day's job shortly before 6 in the evening. Dinner at the Tumulty home is a gladsome sight. Five of his six small youngsters are old enough to sit at the table, but they are trained not to spill things or make any confusion whatever.

Right after dinner the president's assistant takes a brisk walk. Then he reads the "Yellow Journal," which is prepared at the White House and consists of editorials and political stories from the leading newspapers pasted on a sheet of yellow paper. To read this requires about an hour and a half every evening, but it is worth while. If a senator drops around the next morning and mentions the fact that he and his colleague are in a squabble of some sort, Tumulty already knows the whole story.

* * *

With the "Yellow Journal" disposed of, Tumulty reads other things—Dickens, Thackeray, O. Henry, Henry James, James Montague, Montague Glass—anything good, but, best of all, he likes a political novel.

About his only recreation away from home consists in going to the theater. He loves to forgather with one or two congenial spirits and swap stories and experiences, but for society—that is, the great strata of pretense with the capital S—he has no time or inclination.

W. H. Stafford of Milwaukee, who succeeded Victor Berger in congress, was a member of the house for several terms before Berger came in. He is a serious-minded lawyer with pink whiskers. The only trouble with him is that he looks more serious than a man is entitled to look.

Ingenuous.

Lippincott's: Marion came to the breakfast table late, and was scanned by the reproachful eyes of her mother.

"Did that young man kiss you last night, Marion?"

"No, mother," said the very pretty girl, with a reminiscent smile, "do you suppose that he came all the way from Blue Rock to hear me sing?"

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

For State Commission.

Lake Crystal Union: We favor the commission plan for the running of Minnesota. It will be millions of dollars in the pockets of the people.

Public Awakening.

Wabasha Herald: If there is any doubt as to the public awakening to which the papers so frequently refer, it is only necessary to call attention to the vigilance which is exercised over municipal, state and national representatives of the people. Better informed than ever on public questions, alive to the importance of taking an interest in them, the people are watching the doings of the lawmakers and are taking a hand in the questions under consideration whenever necessary. It is safe to say that legislators are hearing from their constituents more then ever. The latter are keeping in close touch with their representatives. And this is as it should be.

The Sensible Way.

Fairmont Sentinel: For one we would like to cast a direct ballot for the next president of the United states. It is the sensible way of doing and would be far more satisfactory.

One Point of View.

Cokato Enterprise: At this time of intense struggling, noisy, foolish and emphatically wrong ideas concerning the woman suffrage movement, one has not far to look to see that women do share in the burdens of the government, and that they are not fairly represented by man's sense of justice. For some unknown reason, men do not stand for higher education of women, and boldly say that woman's place is in the home. In judging from the only point of view at hand—namely, oneself, it is difficult to see how a man can lower himself to marry a woman whom he does not consider his equal.

Horrible!

Le Sueur News: Wilson is going to let Marshall sit with him in the cabinet! Terrible! Horrible! It has never been done before! How awful it will be!

Long Delayed.

Crookston Times: It is forty-four days since ground hog day—four days over schedule, and if the measly little animal don't come out pretty quick, the small boy should turn the hose in his hole and drown him out.

Every One Has Troubles.

Albert Lea Tribune: Europe is said to want intervention in Mexico. Europe had better settle its Balkan trouble first. The Mexican trouble will keep.

Does It Get the Goods?

Brainerd Dispatch: Minnesota is near the head of the class when it comes to the expenditure per capita for persons in the charitable institutions of the state. If the care they get is as far ahead of the other states as the price there should not be much murmuring.

The Crowd

John A. Sleicher in Leslie's: 'Tis night in the great city. Where are all the busy people? Are they burning the midnight oil in the council chambers while studying the perplexing problems of the day? Are they in the churches, in the lecture halls and the reading rooms?

Are they in the quiet family circle with its magic charm of domestic peace and comfort or in the chapel meditating on the everlasting goodness of God?

Alas! not so! But the crowds are not far away. To find them seek the blazing pathway of the white light district. Open the door and hear the din of "the lobster palace," the sensuous cabaret, the crowded theater and moving picture show. On with the dance!

A thoughtless people have become extravagant in prosperity, reckless in squandering their substance and careless in imperiling their health. Forget-ful of the past, heedless of the future, living only for the present, they seek to get the most out of the fleeting hours. They get the worst.

Listen to the crazy ragtime! Join in the voluptuous dance! Eat, drink and be merry! Thou fool! Is there no call to duty; no spirit of self-sacrifice; no stretched out hand to the needy and forsaken; no thought of the perishing; no anxiety for the morrow?

Is this the crowd that is making public sentiment, directing legislative action, dominating political parties and crying out in its frenzy against our captains of industry, our established forms of government and the Constitution of the United States itself?

Away with the elder statesmen! "Go on, thou bald head!" Let the people rule!

A Flaw for Dead Persons.

New York Journal: Germany is being blamed for the story of a factory notice now going the rounds. Prominently displayed near all the live wires, it reads:

> To touch these wires means instant death. Any one failing to respect this warning will be prosecuted and fined.

No one has, up to the present, had to be prosecuted.

Highland Mary.

Ye banks and braes and streams around
The castle o' Montgomery,
Green be your woods, and fair your flowers,
Your waters never drumlie!
There simmer first unfaulds her robes,
And there the langest tarry;
For there I took the last farweel
O' my sweet Highland Mary.

How sweetly bloom'd the gay green birk,
How rich the hawthorn's blossom,
As, underneath their fragrant shade,
I clasp'd her to my bosom!
The golden hours, on angel wings,
Flew o'er me and my dearie;
For dear to me as light and life
Was my sweet Highland Mary!

Wi' mony a vow, and lock'd embrace,
Our parting was fu' tender;
And, pledging aft to meet again,
We tore oursels asunder;
But, oh, fell death's untimely frost,
That nipp'd my flower sae early!
Now green's the sod and cauld's the clay,
That wraps my Highland Mary!

Oh, pale, pale now those rosy lips
I aft ha'e kiss'd sae fondly!
And closed for aye the sparkling glance
That dwalt on me sae kindly!
And moldering now in silent dust,
That heart that lo'ed me dearly;
But still within my bosom's core
Shall live my Highland Mary!

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1893.

Col. Shandrew of the Minnesota National Guard met the militia companies at the West Duluth armory last night. All three companies have been without captains and the men have been somewhat disheartened. Col. Shandrew induced Capt. Dent of Company G to withdraw his resignation. It is expected Lieut. Bidwell will become captain of Company A, and it is understood that E. J. Luther, who has had considerable experience in military affairs, will be asked to accept the captainey of Company H.

Capt. Thomas Sharp, U. S. A., stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, owner of Sharp's and other additions to West Duluth, has arrived in the city to look after his property interests.

William McVannell is now running the Kippen water business at West Duluth, having bought out D. A. Kippen, who will leave the last of the month for the Pacific coast.

One of the latest candidates for government office in Duluth is C. S. Dabney. He is after the position of immigrant inspector now held by E. H. Windom. J. Adam Bede is also said to be after the place.

The Northern Gas & Electric company has changed its name to Northern Electric Construction company. E. W. Barker is treasurer and Charles F. Speed manager.

At the opening exercises of the high school yesterday, Principal E. T. Critchett made his farewell remarks to the pupils. He was presented with a handsome gold watch by the teachers and pupils.

Master Mechanic A. F. Priest has assumed his new duties on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway. He formerly held a similar position on the Eastern Minnesota road. Capt. H. C. Braden of St. Paul has been appointed to a clerkship at Oneota and will check the material used in the construction of the new ore dock.

The directors of the board of trade have appointed the following special building and finance committee to take charge of erecting the new building: George Spencer, George Rupley, A. D. Thomson, Franklin Paine, Ward Ames and John Macleod.

D. R. Smith leaves next week for his new home in Cleveland, Ohio.

A marriage license has been issued to Ludwig Anderson and Anna Lundgren.

A Nation of Book Readers.

From Sidney Whitman's "German Memories": A glance at the German book trade—more particularly the many publishers and booksellers, and the high standing of the best among them—throws an instructive light on the omnivorous appetite for reading which exists among the German people of all classes. Their business places are the resort of literary notabilities, as a few such were in London and Edinburgh in the eighteenth century. Scientific works, which in England can only be issued with the financial assistance of learned societies, are nearly all brought out in Germany at the sole risk and expense of the publishers in Leipsic, Berlin, Stuttgart and Munich, each of which cities is prominent in the order mentioned.

The catalogue of books published by the booksellers's firm connected with the Vorwarts, and appealing almost entirely to the working classes, is a surprising one. It embraces a cosmopolitan selection of the best works on history, political economy, and belles lettres of all countries.

Europe's Rulers Smaller Now.

Pall Mall Gazette: The rulers of Europe have lost somewhat in the matter of inches since the '80s of last century, when an exceptionally tall company of monarchs occupied the various thrones.

The gigantic Czar Alexander III, the equally tall though less robust King Leopold II, the Kaiser William I, and his successor, the Emperor Frederick, King Christian IX, Kaiser Francis Joseph and the king of Greece (the only two survivors) were all men well above six feet.

CHURCHMEN HAVE SLATE

Fifteen Candidates Given Indorsement of Inter-Church Council.

Law Enforcement, Lighting and Eight-Hour Day the Issues.

CANDIDATES FAVORED BY INTER-CHURCH COUNCIL.

For Mayor—
Marcus L. Fay.
W. B. Getchell.

For Commissioner, Long Term—
John T. Armstead,
Carroll F. Graff,
Leonidas Merritt.

For Commissioner, Short Term—
W. L. Bernard,
E. R. Cobb,
E. N. Edes,
W. A. Hicken,
John Hogan,
M. J. Murray,
C. E. Roe,
W. H. Smallwood,
D. E. Stevens,
B. N. Wheeler.

Two candidates for mayor, three for long term commissioners and ten for short term commissioners were indorsed by the Inter-Church council at a meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

The strict enforcement of the liquor laws, the abolition of the red light district, the municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant and an eight-hour day for city employes were the principles on which the indorsement was based.

The strict enforcement of the liquor laws, in the opinion of members of the council, demands that an ordinance be adopted under which no liquor license may be issued for a period of one year in a building in which a license has been revoked, and under which licenses shall be revoked on second conviction for violation of the law.

The council declared against segregation of vice in any form.

There was some question when the names of C. E. Roe and D. E. Stevens were presented for indorsement. It developed that although the Stirrup club was not satisfied with Mr. Roe's answer to the question as to the ordinance relative to penalizing buildings in which violations of the liquor laws occur, Mr. Roe has satisfied members of the council of his advocacy of that measure. Mr. Stevens did not receive the Stirrup club questions in time to answer for the report, but answered later.

W. L. Smithies, who presided over the meeting, said in regard to the council's attitude: "Conditions have changed. A new order of things is at hand. People are demanding a cleaner administration of municipal affairs and a cleaner set of officers to carry out their wishes. Candidates are beginning to realize that a spirit of unrest is in the air and that they will hereafter be called strictly to account for any act that does not meet the approval of the voters. The Inter-church council represents over 1,000 voters who stand for things that are clean and good, and who will demand that Duluth be made a better as well as a bigger city."

TO PROTECT STATE TIMBER

with timber there shall be used annually in constructing firebreaks and roads an amount equal to at least 5 cents per acre, this amount to be added to the selling price of the lands benefited.

The money is to be distributed according to the acreage of state land in each county and is to be spent under the joint supervision of the state highway commission and the state forestry board. "Such firebreaks," the bill says, "shall be located so as to most enhance the value of said lands, preserve its timber and protect its citizens, and at such places as shall be designated by the state highway commission and the state forestry board, jointly." It is provided also that the county may share in the expense of this work.

Need of Such Legislation.

The bill is preceded by a preamble, which sets forth the need of such legislation, as follows:

"Whereas, the state of Minnesota owns in certain counties in this state large areas of state lands, which said lands in most instances are covered with valuable timber, and which timber is liable to destruction by fire, and which timber from such possible fire has no adequate protection; and

"Whereas, the state of Minnesota in times past has sold a portion of its lands, which said lands so sold have been settled thereon, and which settlements are widely separated, and such persons so settled thereon are in constant danger of losing their lives, property, and homes by fire, by reason of the fact that the state of Minnesota has negligently permitted and allowed dead and down timber and other debris to accumulate in large quantities, thereby placing its citizens and its own property in constant danger, as aforesaid; and

"Whereas, the settlement of such lands and the sale thereof is hindered and practically made impossible by reason of the fact that there is practically no protection from fire for those settling thereupon; and

"Whereas, in the opinion of the legislature, if fire brakes were constructed by the state into, through, and from its said lands, that the state would thereby protect the lives of its citizens and its own property, and at the same time be able to sell said lands at a materially increased price therefor; and

"Whereas, said fire brakes in themselves, will not only operate to sell said lands, but will offer the most practical method of protecting the timber so situated upon said lands, and prevent destructive fires from burning such timber, and will prevent, where lands are not covered with timber, the burning of the surface soil therefrom by said fires; and

"Whereas, it is the clear and obvious duty of the legislature of the state to protect its citizens and its public domain, and to preserve the same, that it may receive therefor the greatest possible price by the sale thereof, etc.

The fees of personal injury lawyers in all cases would be subject to the approval of the courts, and no inordinate obsorption of personal injury verdicts by attorneys would be possible, if a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Albert Schaller of Hastings were to become a law.

The bill provides that in all actions for personal injuries, or for death by wrongful act, the compensation of the plaintiff's attorney shall be fixed by the court.

This is to be done without regard to whether or not there is any special agreement between the plaintiff and his attorney, such as that the latter shall get half the verdict for his fee; and any attempt to evade this provision on the part of the attorney, or to waive it on the part of the plaintiff, is declared to be void.

* * *

The house yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar the bill proposed by Charles P. Craig of Duluth and introduced by Representatives Holmberg, O'Neill and Flowers, providing for state aid to counties maintaining county agricultural agents. The bill carries an appropriation of $50,000, and it provides that the state shall contribute $1,000 a year to each county providing at least a similar amount to maintain such county agricultural agents. It also authorizes county boards to appropriate money for this purpose.

Regulating Cream Shipments.

After an unavailing fight by Northern Minnesota members and others, the house yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar the bill by Representative Finke, prohibiting shipments of cream more than fifty miles unless it is carried in refrigerator cars.

Representative E. R. Ribenack of Duluth led the fight against the bill, and in an address to the house showed that it would work great hardship in many sections of Northern Minnesota, where every effort is being made to encourage dairying, where soil and climatic conditions are ideal for such purposes, but where the dairying is as yet so sparse that it is impossible to create local co-operative creameries, and where there is a lack of refrigerator car service to reach the distant market at Duluth and elsewhere.

While the bill ostensibly is in the interest of sanitary conditions, it is admittedly in the interests of the rural co-operative creameries, and its purpose is to shield them against the competition of the large centralized creameries.

Representative Charles W. Bouck of Royalton offered an amendment providing that cream could be shipped up to 100 miles instead of 50, but his amendment was beaten.

So was an amendment by Representative Ribenack; the latter amendment being defeated, 41 to 30. The bill was then advanced to the calendar by an overwhelming vote.

The people of Pine county will shortly have an opportunity to vote on whether or not they wish to change the county name to "Clover." The senate yesterday afternoon, on motion of Senator Victor L. Johnson, suspended the rules and passed the house bill by Representative Adolph S. Larson of Sandstone authorizing the county to propose the change. The bill is applicable to all counties, but it is asked for only by Pine county.

Cook County Railroad Bonds.

The senate yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar in committee of the whole the Cheadle bill authorizing Cook county to issue bonds to aid in building a railroad from Grand Marais to connect with the Alger-Smith line. The bonds are limited to $100,000, and they must be ratified by a vote of the people of Cook county.

* * *

The senate in committee of the whole too similarly favorable action on several other bills by Senator Cheadle, as follows:

Allowing aliens to hold 5,000 acres of land instead of 160 acres, the present limit. As introduced, the bill allowed aliens to own 640 acres; but the committee that considered it increased the limit to 5,000 acres.

Giving the St. Louis county board of commissioners control over the amount to be paid the sheriff for boarding prisoners.

Appropriating $5,000 for firebreaks and trails through Burntside state forest, near Ely.

Prohibiting acquirement of title by adverse possession unless the claimant has paid the taxes on the land for five preceding years.

* * *

The senate also advanced to the calendar Senator Boyle's bill allowing the villages of Alice and Hibbing to consolidate and the house bill by Representative Healy providing for a clerk of the range juvenile court at $1,800 a year.

* * *

Two bills local to Duluth and St. Louis county reached final passage yesterday afternoon and will be signed by the governor within a day or two.

The house passed the bill by Senators Cheadle and Pugh, authorizing the city of Duluth to issue $50,000 in bonds to be used as a revolving fund to cut Superior street through the point of rocks. The bond issue must be concurred in by four out of five commissioners elected next Tuesday, to be effective.

The house also passed the Boyle-Knapp bill readjusting salaries in St. Louis county offices.

* * *

Knapp in the Chair.

Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm presided over the house in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon, his appearance in the chair being greeted by hearty applause from the house.

The house advanced to the calendar a large number of bills, including the following:

By Senator Rockne—Requiring railroads to maintain a safe clearance between structures located on and over their lines and cars passing over their lines.

By the senate railroad committee—Requiring railroads to furnish information needed by the railroad and warehouse commission to keep up the physical valuation of railroad properties.

By the senate railroad committee—Authorizing the railroad and warehouse commission to provide suitable equipment for testing railroad track scales.

By Representative Porter—Allowing the Creamery Package company of Winona, which has had its charter forfeited by a judgment of the supreme court holding that it has violated the anti-trust law, to resume business on payment of a fine of $10,000.

Without a word of debate or dissenting vote, the house yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole advanced to the calendar a bill by Representative Kerry Conley providing for an entirely new plan of municipal reorganization, applying only to cities other than Minneapolis, Duluth and St. Paul.

Any city other than these may by vote of its people adopt this plan. It provides for a mayor and council, the mayor to be the aldermanic candidate getting the most votes. Any qualified voter may become a candidate by petition, and of any candidate gets a majority of the votes at the primary he is to be declared elected. If no candidate gets a majority, the two highest are to go on the ballot, always without party designation, at another election to be held three weeks later.

An interesting feature of the Conley plan is the provision for a city manager, appointed by the council, who is to be the city's business agent and administrative head.

* * *

The senate yesterday afternoon under suspension of the rules passed a new bill by Senator Dunn of St. Paul allowing any first class city to issue bonds at rates of interest in excess of those fixed by the charter. Though intended for St. Paul, the bill applies to Duluth.

* * *

Senator Anderson yesterday afternoon introduced a bill in the senate authorizing any school district in the state to acquire land to be used to teach agriculture to its pupils.

* * *

Would Increase Salary.

Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth introduced a bill in the senate yesterday afternoon increasing the salary of the reporter of the Duluth municipal court from $1,000 to $1,500 a year. The rules were suspended and the bill was placed on the calendar.

* * *

Senator Marden of Barnesville yesterday afternoon offered in the senate a joint resolution asking the secretary of war to make a complete survey of the Red River of the North from Breckenridge north to the boundary, with a view to its improvement for navigation purposes by the construction of dams and locks.

* * *

A granite monument in Fort Ridgley state park to Chief Mou-zoo-maun-nee and the loyal Chippewas who stood by the whites during the Sioux outbreak of 1862 is proposed in a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Marden. The bill carried an appropriation of $1,000.

* * *

Senator Boyle of Eveleth is the author of a new senate bill prohibiting anybody from permitting a woman to be brought into the state for immoral purposes. The bill amends the present "white slave" law, which forbids bringing or enticing women into the state for such purposes.

* * *

The senate in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar the house resolution by Representatives Harrison and Vollmer, urging congress to make a survey for a 10-foot canal from Lake Superior to St. Paul by way of the Brule and St. Croix rivers, and requiring the state to investigate the project and report on its feasibility.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth opposed the resolution on the ground the plan is neither feasible nor commercially practical.

* * *

The house bill by Representative L. C. Spooner, directing the board of control to proceed to the manufacture of farm machinery at the state prison, was advanced to the calendar by the senate in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon.

* * *

The house committee on public health and pure food yesterday afternoon reported to the house without recommendation the bill legalizing various unorthodox schools of healing on the general term "naturopathic." This includes the "chiropractic" scheme of healing.

* * *

The house committee on crimes and punishments yesterday afternoon reported favorably to the house the joint resolution by Representatives Kneeland, Orr and Pfaender, providing for a state vice commission, similar to the one now working in Illinois, to inquire into the relations between low wages and vice.

* * *

The outlook for a new state building in St. Paul to house the supreme court, the law library and the collections of the Minnesota state historical society is good. The house committee on appropriations yesterday afternoon recommended for passage the Orr bill providing for such a building, and it is said that a majority of the house members have been checked as favorable to the bill.

Elevator Site Bill Revived.

The Ribenack bill, amending the law of 1911 providing for the lease of the old state elevator site at Duluth to the city of Duluth for public dock purposes, was given a new lease of life yesterday afternoon.

After the report of the house grain and warehouse committee, recommending the bill for indefinite postponement, had been made to the house, Chairman Bendixen of the committee moved that the bill be referred to the committee.

Mr. Bendixen stated later that he did this at the request of Senator Cheadle and Representative Ribenack, and that he believed the bill could be amended and passed.

The only purpose of the Ribenack bill is to put in the 1911 law a provision inadvertently omitted two years ago, limiting the life of the lease to twenty-five years.

The grain and warehouse committee's idea in killing the bill was that as a result of the house grain investigating committee's researches, it might be decided to propose a constitutional amendment giving the state power to build a state elevator on this site. The property was bought by a Populist legislature for this purpose, but the supreme court held that it would be unconstitutional to build a state elevator.

The 1911 law, and the Ribenack bill as well, provides for reserving an elevator site in case any farmers' organization decides to build one. Mr. Bendixen said that they would have no objection to the bill if it is amended so as to leave room for a state elevator if the state is enabled by a constitutional amendment to build one.

* * *

Women's Reformatory.

The house committee on state prison and reformatory yesterday afternoon favorably reported the senate bill appropriating $10,000 to buy a site for a women's reformatory, and directing the state board of control to prepare plans for such an institution and report them to the next legislature.

Because of this action, the committee recommended for indefinite postponement the bill by Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm appropriating $50,000 to build a women's reformatory.

* * *

The house labor committee yesterday afternoon turned over to the committee on public accounts and expenditures charges that the state board of electrical examiners has discriminated against certain workers, and that the board has been used by large concerns in their own interests. The public accounts committee will investigate the matter.

* * *

The house committee on public accounts and expenditures yesterday afternoon introduced a bill taking the administration of the inheritance tax law out of the hands of the attorney general and turning it over to the tax commissioner, and another bill reorganizing the attorney general's office. The attorney general's salary is increased from $4,800 to $6,000, and his five deputies are graded from $5,000 down to $3,000 in $500 steps.

* * *

The house passed the Campbell bill allowing the government to make contracts with street railway companies to carry mail carriers at less than regular rates, and the Nolan bill requiring all cotton duck or canvas articles to be labeled with their true weight, size and as to use of fillers, etc.

* * *

* * *

Though some of the more radical advocates of the initiative and referendum have been criticizing the action of Lieutenant-Governor Burnquist in appointing on the conference committee on that measure the authors of amendments regarded as conservative, those familiar with legislative practices are generally agreed that his appointments to this committee are highly praiseworthy. The objectionable appointments, from the radical viewpoint, are those of Senator George H. Sullivan, who proposed the amendment requiring constitutional amendments to be ratified by a majority of those voting at the election, and Senator A. J. Rockne, who proposed the amendment requiring petitions to be signed in one-third of the counties.

The custom of appointing to conference committees the authors of amendments to which exception has been taken is universal; and it is to be noted that a failure to do so is a failure to recognize the majority of the legislative body which adoptel the amendments.

Three out of the five senators appointed to this committee — Senators Boyle, Sageng and Haycraft—are unquestionable progressives.

"Full Train Crew" Bill.

Senators and representatives are being all but buried under telegrams, letters and petitions against the so-called "full train crew" bill now pending, which adds to the number of men usually employed to handle trains.

* * *

Representative Cleon T. Knapp, chairman of the house committee on general legislation, is receiving a large number of letters from advocates to the Wallace so-called "red light abatement" bill who appear to be under a misapprehension. The bill is not being held in the general legislation committee, as many seem to think, but was reported out for passage by that committee a week ago, and it was not held there any longer than is customary or than was demanded by the need of public hearings. When the bill was recommended for passage last week, a motion to delay action on the bill was defeated, Chairman Knapp deciding a tie vote to that effect.

The house grain investigating committee spent yesterday hearing the railroad and warehouse commission explain its methods and usages in the inspection and grading of grain.

Woman's Realm

Unusual interest is anticipated in the special open meeting of the Twentieth Century club which will be held Thursday afternoon at the library clubroom for which a program has been planned under the auspices of the art department of the club.

A talk on "Pottery" and an exhibition of interesting specimens will be given by Miss Jessie Thompson of this city who spent last year abroad making a special study of that subject and another feature of interest will be a review of Louise Calvert Hall's book, "Hand Woven Coverlets," by Mrs. A. B. Hilton.

Mrs. E. F. Barker, who is a personal friend of this author will also add a few interesting remarks about Mrs. Hall.

Ask For Literature.

All members of the club and their friends are cordially invited to be present and it is also requested that those who can take with them copies of magazines and papers or good children's books as donations to the reading room which the club is furnishing at the Bryant school social center. The club has arranged for reading tables and chairs and hopes to make the place especially attractive and good literature is desired.

A donation of magazines and books in this way is of no particular expense or strain upon any one and aids materially in placing good reading matter in the room for those who will use it.

OUTDOOR PAGEANT.

Feature of National Convention Will Include 1,000 Women.

An outdoor pageant will be one of the big features of the fourth biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States of America, which will be held in Richmond, Va., April 9 to 15.

This pageant has been specially written for this occasion and will be given on Saturday afternoon in a newly opened park on the outskirts of the city. Opening with a processional of nearly 1,000 young women representing every association affiliated with the national board; by episodes symbolizing the outstanding features of association work, its spirit and its influences and by carefully planned effects of color, costume and music, the pageant will be the most picturesque feature of the week. It will attract wide attention, as it is the first national pageant ever given, parts having been assigned to thirteen different associations as widely scattered as Cleveland, Ohio and Lynchburg, Va., who will come together at the convention for but one rehearsal.

Miss Lotta Clark, secretary of the national pageant committee recently organized in Boston, will direct the pageant.

Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, Mrs. Fred H. White and Mrs. George H. Claypool will go as delegates from the Duluth association.

Special interest will be manifested in this pageant on the part of Duluthians on account of the plan for a historical pageant being worked up for Duluth.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT PLEASES

Smith Memorial Scholarship Fund Will Be Materially Increased---Dance for Visitors.

Well trained and with a pleasing blend of voices, unusual with smaller choruses, the University of Minnesota Glee club rendered a delightful program of college songs at the concert given at the Central high school last evening. The young men were enthusiastically received by an exceptionally large audience.

Mrs. Carlyle Scott was unable to appear on the program through illness and her place was very successfully taken by Miss Winnifred Lynn, whose violin solo numbers won her considerable applause. Another pleasing feature of the program was the piano selections by Ernest Golden, the club accompanist, and the songs by the club quartet, which consists of Ingolf Grindeland, M. Crawford, Miles McNally and Russell Webster.

The concert last evening is the first of a series of three scheduled for the club in this part of the state. The other two will be given at Hibbing this evening and Virginia tomorrow evening. The young men will return to the university Thursday morning, when the spring sessions will be resumed.

The complete program rendered last evening follows:

"Coppah Moon" ..... Shelley
Baritone solo—"All Thru' the Night" ..... Old Welsh
Mr. McNally.
"The Kavanaugh" ..... Bullard
Glee Club.
Violin solo .....
Miss Lynn.
Songs for tenor—
"Heidelberg" .....
"Annie Laurie" .....
"Swing Along" .....
William Farquhar and Glee Club.
Songs .....
Glee Club Quartet.
Violin solos—
"Tambourin" ..... Rameau
"Chalet Girls' Sunday" ..... Ole Bull
"The Bee" ..... Schubert
Miss Lynn.
"On the Sea" ..... Buck
"Hark, as the Twilight Pale" ..... Blum
"Hark! the Trumpet" ..... Buck
Piano solos—
Mr. Golden.
College songs, concluding with "Minnesota" .....

The personnel of the chorus follows: First tenors, S. A. Grindeland, William C. Farnquist, K. Jones, O. M. Hanson; second tenors, E. D. Anderson, F. E. Cobb, M. D. Crawford, William S. Smith, A. G. Sund; first basses, M. F. McNally, G. B. Allen, A. T. Agnew, Le Roy Carlson; second basses, E. H. Balch, R. R. Klimenhagen, R. O. Webster, Don Stewart and H. Wilk; director, Prof. Carlyle Scott; accompanist, Ernest Golden.

The concert was given under the auspices of the Central High School Alumni association for the benefit of the Smith memorial scholarship fund. Edward Furni, president of the association, who was in charge of the concert, stated this morning that the gross receipts were very large and that the fund will be materially increased by the concert last evening.

Following the concert the members of the club were the guests of honor at a reception and dance given by the Northern Minnesota Alumni association. The affair was in charge of the following committees: Laird Goodman, chairman; Fred Buck, George Suffel, H. B. Haroldson and A. B. Kapplin. Messrs. and Mesdames R. E. Denfeld, Leonard Young, J. G. Williams and W. E. Magner chaperoned the dancers.

The members of the club left this morning for Hibbing.

MEMBERS CURIOUS.

Stunts Being Kept Secret for Students' Frolic.

Arrangements have been completed for the program of the students' frolic of the Matinee Musicale which will be given on Saturday afternoon of this week at the parlors of the Endion M. E. church, Nineteenth avenue east and First street, under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Lachmund and Mrs. Stephen H. Jones. The students are of course especially interested in the event, but the other members of the associate and active circles of the club are invited and have displayed a good deal of curiosity about the nature of the entertainment which is being kept a close secret.

Stunts have been worked up by different members of the club and some classical dances which will be especially featured are under the direction of Prof. Leo, whose entertainments are usually the essence of refinement and grace.

EASTER MUSIC.

Pleasing Program Given Before the Matinee Musicale.

Easter music featured the regular program of the Matinee Musicale given yesterday at the Endion M. E. church under the arrangement of Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Dworshak and Miss Florence Hyland.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers, an organist of power and temperament, played three numbers which were most satisfying and which won for her earnest applause. Mrs. Mark Baldwin, who has been heard by the club before this year, appeared in a group of songs, her pure, sweet voice delighting the audience, and George Suffel, who is always at his best in sacred music, sang Woodman's "Blessed Is He," which gave full scope to his pleasing baritone voice.

The ensemble work which the club has featured throughout the year was given by the quartet of the Pilgrim Congregational church composed of Miss Florence Hyland, soprano; Miss Alice Mae Brown, contralto; Leon Cooley, tenor, and Harry Gearhart, bass. The three numbers sung by this group of singers were given with exquisite harmony and delicate understanding.

The accompanists were Miss Rogers and Miss Carletta Simonds.

At the meeting of active members following the recital the report of the nominating committee was made by the chairman, Mrs. James Wanless. Several nominations were given from the floor for officers for the coming year, and these will be voted on at the annual election in the Young Women's Christian association building, April 12.

The last recital of the year will be held at Pilgrim Congregational church, April 7, when the "request" program will be given.

W. C. T. U. Banquet.

The Woman's Christian Temperance unions of the city will hold a joint banquet this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the First M. E. church to which the public is invited and at which a strong program of talks will be given. The program follows:

Piano solo, Mrs. L. H. Merritt; "Our Work," Mrs. Alfred Jaques; "The Legal Standpoint," Judge W. I. Windom; "Business' Worst Enemy," Watson S. Moore; solo, "Come, Papa, Come," Mrs. J. J. Daniels, the words and music to this selection were written and composed by Rev. J. J. Daniels; "Scoliosis, Diagnosis and Treatment," Dr. Richard W. Bowden; "Trying to Do With Tied Hands," Dr. Mary McCoy; "The City as a Woman Sees It," Mrs. A. B. Siewert; "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," Mrs. J. J. Daniels and audience, and "The Moral Issue" by Rev. Swaney Nelson.

The women who will be in the receiving line are the presidents and vice presidents, Mrs. Joseph Cochran, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Ella Robinson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. T. B. Jones, Mrs. Ed Gustafson and Mrs. L. W. Linder.

The hostesses at the various tables will be: Mrs. J. T. Culbertson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Helen Stewart, Mrs. David Adams, Mrs. B. H. Smith, Mrs. Seglum, Mrs. H. C. Ives, Mrs. T. F. Olsen, Mrs. M. E. Allen, Mrs. Swanson and Mrs. A. R. Bennett.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Schools Often Used as Relief for Lazy Mothers.

I am always a little shocked when I hear parents remark that they wish their children were old enough to go to school, for many of them imply, by their tone of voice, that having the little ones out of their way is a tremendous relief. I always breathe a silent prayer for the teacher with forty or fifty of the same sort to wrestle with five or six hours a day, six days a week, and then I give the children a thought. After all, they are to be pitied, not blamed. For if they are the sort that the parents desire to be rid of as soon as possible and as long as possible each day, then it is pretty safe to say that they owe it to the parents' lack of training, interest and care.

A woman, discussing the prospects of getting her youngest girl in school next fall, said that, although the child would lack a few months of the required age when the September term opened, she intended to send her and make affidavit, if necessary, that she was old enough to enter the primary grade.

"I wouldn't do that," I said, "she is such a little thing." In truth, she was not only small, but babyish and delicate as well. "I'd keep her out another year, at least, and give her a chance to grow and become strong and rosy. She has plenty of time yet."

But the mother looked at me as though to say, "What do you think the public schools are provided for, if not to relieve us of part of the care of our children." What she did say was: "I couldn't stand her around another whole year. She drives me frantic with her constant fretting and crying when she is in the house, and when she is out of it I am worried half to death for fear she will get run over, be bitten by a dog or meet some dreadful fate. Just as soon as my children have become old enough, I have sent them to school and been glad of the chance to get them safely out of the way for so many hours in the day. It gives me a chance to do something when they are gone."

Mothers—too many of them—do not take pains to train their children in small matters from the start, but send them to school for the teacher to do what they have left undone. The idea that the school is an asylum for children who worry their parents by their disobedience and misbehavior is wrong, for, while some training is implanted through the schools, the proper place for real training is in the home, and the proper ones to train the child are its parents.

Mrs. Mershon Hostess.

Mrs. Charles Mershon will be hostess at bridge tomorrow afternoon at her home, 1720 East Superior street, and she and Mr. Mershon will entertain Friday and Saturday evenings.

Choose Officers.

Officers were elected at the annual business meeting of the Guild of St. John's Episcopal church on Lakeside which was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. V. Heathcote, 4208 McCulloch street. Those chosen to lead the society during the year are: Mrs. J. A. Kirkwood, president; Mrs. Heathcote, vice president; Mrs. J. E. Bebb, secretary, and Mrs. M. A. Halloway, treasurer.

Reports of the past year's work were given and a social hour followed.

Scotch Concert.

The following is the program arranged for the Scotch concert, which will be given tomorrow evening at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, under the auspices of Clan Stewart for members and their families, followed by an informal dance:

Song—"Roaming in the Gloaming" .. John Galbraith.
Song—Selected .....
Miss M. Close.
Song—"Scots Wha Hae" .....
Willis Peer.
Song—Selected .....
Miss Lydia MacDonald.
Song—Selected .....
James Myron.
Song—Selected .....
Mrs. Percival Young.
Piano solo .....
George Myron.

School Luncheon.

The girls of the eighth grade domestic science class of the Endion school entertained at a daintily appointed luncheon this noon at the domestic science rooms of the C. C. Salter school. The menu which was deliciously prepared was the work of the girls themselves under the direction of the instructor, Miss Frances Quilliard. The decorations were carried out in pink and white with candles and a pot of pink tulips as a centerpiece. Their guests were:

Mesdames—
Brewer Mattocks, T. T. Hudson,
Watson Mendenhall, A. Dunning,
H. B. Paull,
O. L. Mather.
W. G. Hegardt,
Misses—
Severance, Mather,
Quilliard,

Give Dence.

About 125 dancers enjoyed the Easter ball given by Duluth council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans, last evening in the K. of P. hall, 118 West Superior street. Hawkinson's orchestra played the dance music for the evening.

Personal Mention.

No One Ever Before Dared to Give Such a Guarantee on a Go-Cart

The Season Is Drawing Near.

Investigate Our Large Line.

A Two-Year Guarantee on Each and Every Part of These Sidway Carts

What the Guarantee Means:

THE SIDWAY CARRIAGE

is more than a well built vehicle. It is the product of the most skilled mechanics, working in a modern, profit-sharing factory and using materials especially constructed to be good enough to guarantee for two years.

FABRIKOID MANUFACTURED LEATHER. While this has been a necessary part of collapsible carriage construction, even the best grade on the market would crack and peel from constant opening and closing of the hood and the carriage itself. After extensive experimenting, E. I. DuPont de Nemours Powder Company succeeded in producing for us a superior manufactured leather that will withstand this use. The Genuine Fabrikoid Leather we use is included in our guarantee and in addition carries the two-year guarantee of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Powder Co., sole manufacturers of Fabrikoid.

TIRES. They bear our trade mark because they, also, are made exclusively for our Guaranteed Carriages. A single one of these tires costs us as much as all four tires on an ordinary baby carriage.

CONSTRUCTION. We manufacture all parts of the carriage, hence are able to inspect the raw material as well as the finished product. Then the assembled running gear is tested to make certain it will withstand any strain or use to which it will be subjected.

Every Sidway Collapsible Guaranteed Baby Carriage leaving this factory not only represents the best efforts of an exceptionally equipped plant but is constructed of higher grade materials than were ever before used in collapsible baby carriages. We have sufficient confidence in our product to guarantee it to withstand any use it receives in two years. If any part wears out or breaks during that period, we will replace it free of charge and pay the transportation charges to any part of the world.

This guarantee is absolutely unconditional, not even requiring you to exercise ordinary care in the use of the carriage, but we have every confidence that in giving our customers the fairest treatment they have ever been accorded they will be equally fair with us.

So say the makers of this cart and we will back up every word of it

SEGREGATION IS CALLED "THE COLOSSAL BLUNDER OF THIS AND OTHER AGES"

Women at Mass Meeting Discuss Law Enforcement and Read the Answers of Candidates to Questions Put to Them.

"Segregation has been the colossal blunder of this and all other ages," said Mrs. A. A. Kerr yesterday afternoon at the mass meeting called at the Y. W. C. A. by the Women's Christian Temperance unions of the city for the reading of replies to questions asked the candidates on moral issues of the present political campaign. Forty-six of the men running for mayor or commissioners replied and their stands were made plain to the women present.

"We do not know just what the solution will be, but something must be done and segregation should be abolished, to start with," said Mrs. Kerr. "Segregation simply means keeping the gates open for crime and as the ranks must be continually refilled do the men who favor segregation want to risk the chance of their daughters and sisters being drawn to fill these ranks?"

Mrs. Ida Merritt spoke with feeling on the subject, saying that "if there is to be segregation, as some candidates seem to think there should be, then segregate the men who frequent houses of ill-repute as well."

"Law enforcement is the main issue and is absolutely necessary if we are to meet conditions as they are today," said Mrs. A. B. Siewert, "and for many years some of our laws have been dead letters. If we are going to do anything, we must stand for the right or evil will have its way and we must stand together and not be discouraged if results are slow. If women will only open their homes and their hearts to the fallen girls and young men and help them to see the right and live better lives, good will triumph a great deal more readily, for many who have gone astray have done so unwillingly, but through ignorance and misrepresentation."

Mrs. Alfred Jaques, in her talk, said: "We are concerned that this government be a good one and officeholders say they must follow public sentiment in the fulfillment of their duties. Let us give them public sentiment, then. Laws were made to protect society and let us stand for the absolute enforcement of the laws.

"Every candidate who replies to our questions says he will, if elected, enforce the laws, and it is the duty of every citizen to see that he does."

The Questions.

The sentiment of the meeting was voiced against the candidates who favored segregation and a few especially were commended for their stand on the following questions asked:

"Do you believe in the strict enforcement of laws relating to saloons and the sale of liquor?"

"Do you believe in the strict enforcement of laws relating to the social evil?"

"Do you believe in the segregation of vice?"

"If elected, will you enforce these laws as you will other laws relating to crime?"

Responses from candidates revealed the following stands taken by the men who are in the race for the position of mayor of Duluth:

W. B. Getchell said that he stood for the better enforcement of all laws and does not favor segregation.

Marcus L. Fay said, "I stand for the strict enforcement of laws, and especially the liquor laws and most certainly do not favor segregation, as there is no law permitting such action."

Henry Nesbitt declared he favored the strict enforcement of the liquor laws and that his stand on the matter of segregation and the other questions had been fully explained in the reply to the Stirrup club.

David Henry Day wrote that he believes in the strict enforcement of the present laws and will, if elected, help in the passage of new and better laws covering the so-called social evil. "You can no more segregate vice than you can virtue and I shall attack the social evil wherever it is possible to do so," he said. "I do not believe in the segregated district."

Morris Kaplan stated that he believes in publicity and education rather than in suppression as a solution to the social evil and that under present conditions he favors the segregation of disreputable houses to one district and in compelling owners and agents of such property to have their names printed on the property so receiving their share of merited disfavor.

Bernard Silberstein said that he would exact obedience to all laws.

William McEwen declared he would strengthen the present ordinances and would enforce the laws without fear and without favor and that he opposes segregation.

Marcus B. Cullum claimed that the enforcement of the statutes is almost impossible under the present conditions and that a public official cannot hope to accomplish everything at once.

W. I. Prince answered "yes" to all the questions except the third, stating he would exact obedience to the law at all times and that the social evil would be dealt with by him in a vigorous and determined manner. The segregated district he feels is not the right solution of the social evil.

Long Term Candidates.

Candidates for long term commissioner were next taken up and their replies given.

W. S. McCormick declared for the strict enforcement of the liquor laws and claims he would make an effort to suppress the social evil in business and residence districts but that the segregated district is necessary under present conditions.

P. G. Phillips and W. E. Towne answered "yes" to all the questions except the third, saying they did not favor segregation.

J. T. Armstead said he stood for enforcement of the laws and feels that absolute suppression of the social evil is possible. "I will make an honest and earnest effort for suppression without segregation," he said in his statement.

J. B. Dunphy said he would do his best to enforce the law if elected.

Carroll Graff declared he would not countenance the social evil and would be strict in law enforcement.

J. C. Wesenberg stated he would try to pass new ordinances, making the owners of buildings used for immoral purposes equally blamable with the keepers and would be firm in the enforcement of all laws but especially the liquor laws.

Leonidas Merritt replied in a particularly strong statement, saying particularly strong statement, saying partnership in vice is unthinkable and as it is the duty of every good citizen to uphold the law, I will, whether elected or not, do all in my power to enforce it."

C. E. Roe of the short term candidates stated that strict and impartial enforcement of the law is his stand and that segregation is not a strict enforcement of the laws and if elected he will do all in his power to see it abolished.

H. J. Mullin, J. W. Cumming, J. C. Myron and William L. Bernard replied that they would enforce all laws and did not believe in segregation.

Alex. Kennedy said his stand would be for "segregation with strict regulation with a view to abolition."

Roderick Murchison claimed he favors the appointment of a vice commission and that temporary segregation may be advisable while using every endeavor to stamp out the social evil.

O. G. Olson said, "There are no laws which allow of segregation, and I will enforce all laws."

W. H. Smallwood said, "I will do all in my power to diminish this social evil and for the doing away with the red light district and will exact the strict enforcement of all laws, especially the liquor laws."

E. R. Cobb said, "vice should neither be segregated, or scattered over the city but abolished and I will enforce all laws."

A. L. Belfamy answered, "yes," to all questions, and John Cashin answered "yes" to all questions.

D. E. Stevens claimed segregation is unlawful and he stands for strict enforcement of all laws.

Thomas Dillon answered "yes" to all questions and J. Scott Cash for his reply enclosed a copy of his platform which the speaker pointed out did not give his stand on any of the questions asked.

Martin J. Murray claimed he will endeavor to give a just administration along all lines.

W. H. Konkler expressed the opinion that the liquor traffic and the social evil should both be abolished some day.

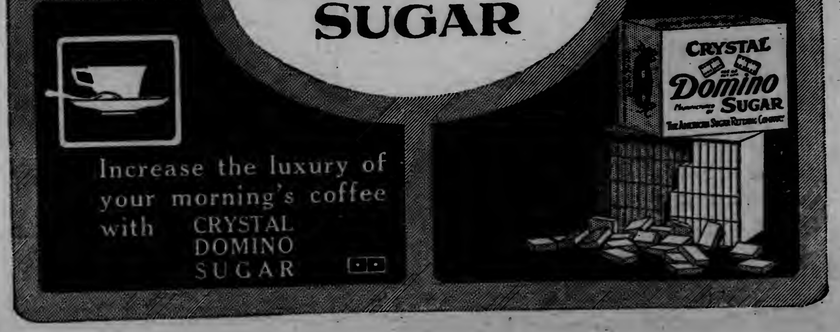
Frederick Tischer answered "yes" to all questions.

Edward Blackwood says he stands for strict enforcement of laws equally for men and women and that landlords and owners of property used for questionable purposes should be held equally to blame with the inmates of those places. Strict enforcement on these lines makes segregation less vital and it can never be a cure.

L. A. Larson stands for strict enforcement and the passage of stronger laws and does not favor segregation.

Neil B. Morrison said "yes" to all except the question on segregation.

Bert N. Wheeler claimed the segregation method to be almost as great a crime as the vice itself and he stands for the strict enforcement of all laws.



W. A. Hickem and John Coburn replied for strict enforcement and do not favor segregation.

In summing up the situation, Mrs. Joseph Cochrane said that evil forces at all times have stood together and what was needed to combat their strength is the standing together of the forces for good, and the great need of persistence.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Three New Vestrymen Chosen---Easter Donation Largest in History of Church.

At the annual meeting of the members of St. Paul's Episcopal church last evening, the financial report was read, showing that the Easter donation was the largest that had been received since the church was organized.

Three new vestrymen were elected, James Wanless, W. H. Rattenberry and Ralph Moore, to succeed Frederick W. Paine, J. H. Dight and G. L. Douglass. The members consented to the retirement of the latter three on condition that they would act if called upon. The vestrymen who hold over are: G. G. Hartley, H. M. Peyton, A. G. Le Duc, George St. Clair, H. R. Spencer and W. J. Olcott.

Mr. Paine was re-elected treasurer, J. E. Bowers was chosen senior warden and Henry Taylor, junior warden.

The following were elected to attend the diocesan convention in June: Delegates, T. S. Wood, C. W. Scott, A. E. Prudden, F. W. Paine, J. H. Hearding, J. H. Harper and G. L. Douglass; alternates, J. E. Bowers, G. L. Cheeseborough, William McBean, H. F. Green, John Gordon, H. R. Spencer and A. C. Le Duc.

Miss Edith Gutgesell of Minneapolis was chosen first assistant to the treasurer. Miss Gutgesell will visit every member of the parish in person. A reception in her honor will be given in the guildrooms of the church next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the members of the guild.

Winter Typhoid.

Although typhoid fever is mainly a disease of late summer and fall there are occasional epidemics which spread themselves over the winter months, and thereby keep the infection alive and widely diffused.

It has been said by many sanitarians that the summer and fall typhoid rate of any community is a fair index to the distribution of human filth and the laxity of sanitary control. Typhoid is preeminently a filth disease, and the infection is spread in the summer months mainly through milk, green vegetables, flies, human carriers and only to a small extent through water. Winter typhoid, on the other hand, is mainly carried through the water supply, and only secondarily through human contact. The few germs that might get into milk on the farm do not multiply in cold weather and may die before the milk reaches the consumer. The fly is not working at his usual job of carrying filth, and green vegetables are scarce. Water, however, is just as likely to be contaminated during the winter as during the summer months, particularly if it be an open winter. In the winter, with a contaminated water supply, there is likely to develop a number of cases of typical typhoid, but a very large number of cases which are frequently diagnosed as winter cholera or winter diarrhoea, and what physicians call atypical forms, are also common.

Now, these atypical cases are much more dangerous to the community than typical typhoid, for no precaution is taken against their spreading the infection, and such cases must be looked upon as the chief source of winter infection, although it be carried in water. A town having a winter typhoid epidemic may not suffer a high death rate, but is almost sure to carry the infection through to summer, to start a widespread and serious outbreak. So every effort should be made to stamp out the winter variety thoroughly, and, by cleaning up in the spring it may be possible to keep the summer disease within control. A winter epedemic is not difficult to suppress, provided all atypical cases are recognized and every case of winter diarrhoea is looked upon with suspicion. Osler says that typhoid is a disease of youth and early adult life and that there is reason to believe that it is much more common in atypical form among children than is generally supposed. Out of 1,500 cases treated at the Johns Hopkins hospital there were 231 cases under 15 years of age, 253 between the ages of 15 and 20, while there were only 227 between the ages of 30 and 40, which has always been considered the most susceptible time.

Dr. Evans of Chicago says in regard to winter typhoid that while the fall rise in typhoid fever rate is largely to be blamed to careless individuals, typhoid milk, typhoid carriers and flies, the winter epidemic is something the city government can properly be blamed for. The citizen of a town with winter typhoid should strenuously agitate for improved water supply. He should protect himself and family by being vaccinated against typhoid, but keep on boiling all water, and agitating for a better supply. Typhoid vaccination is now past the experimental stage and any physician can supply the vaccine on request. It appears to be quite harmless and fairly positive in its protection.

The Business Man's Tools.

The Public Health Journal says: "It has been said that it is the bad workman who spoils his tools and afterwars complains of them. The chief tools of a business man are his own healthful mind and the healthful mind of his associates—it being just as much a part of the employer's problem in seeking prosperity to see that he and his associates have proper holidays and proper surroundings in the shape of air, housing, and food, as it is a part of a general's problem to protect his army from disease or starvation."

Questions and Answers.

Joint Tuberculosis.

D. W. writes: I am a person of 35 and had hip joint disease when I was 12 or 13, which left me a cripple, but has given me little or no trouble since. Lately the joint has been feeling tender and I have been losing weight. Is there danger of a general infection taking place after all these years?

REPLY.

The disease in the hip-joint had no doubt become thoroughly walled off by itself, and, therefore, gave you no symptoms all these years, but the infection, no doubt, is still alive and an injury to the joint severe enough to break up the infected area might result in a general infection at any time. You should rest the limb as much as possible, take plenty of fresh air and good food, and have your physician watch the case until it again becomes stationary.

Oysters and Typhoid.

F. B. writes: The oyster season is now with us, and, as I am extremely fond of them I would like to know if the danger from typhoid infection is very great, or if all the talk about oysters being great typhoid carriers is exaggerated?

REPLY.

Ever since an excessive epidemic of typhoid which occurred at Middletown, Conn., in 1894, was conclusively shown to be due to the eating of raw oysters which had been fattened in contaminated water, there has been a prejudice against raw oysters in this country. It has been shown by many experiments that the typhoid germ will grow and multiply rapidly within the oyster, and investigation of the methods used by dealers for fattening them revealed the fact that this was done largely in brackish water often contaminated by sewage. This practice is now prohibited by legislation in many of the seacoast states and the better class of dealers use precautions against possible contamination, both in the fattening process and during shipment. With the use of ordinary care in selecting oysters, shipped by responsible dealers in cans surrounded by ice and properly sealed, there is probably no greater danger from eating raw oysters than there is from drinking raw milk coming from unknown or careless dairymen. Cooked oysters are perfectly safe, and it is interesting in this connection to note that in the epidemic I have just mentioned it was only those who ate the oysters raw that contracted typhoid. Many ate the oysters cooked and escaped.

From the facts stated above you may form your own judgment about how much the dread of typhoid from eating oysters has been exaggerated.

Inhaling Tobacco Smoke.

A. A. B. writes: Which harms health most—inhaling a pipe or a cigarette?

REPLY.

Inhaling tobacco smoke from any source is bad, but from a pipe or cigar is much worse than from a cigarette. This is because in pipe or cigar the tobacco is much stronger and while containing more nicotine it also irritates the sensitive mucous membrane of nose and throat, often producing chronic pharyngitis.

LAST DAYS OF COUNCIL

Weekly Session of City Fathers Is Very Quiet Affair.

Only Two More Meetings of "Old" Body Will Be Held.

The meeting last night was short and quiet, with only such routine business as was absolutely necessary to keep the machine moving coming up for consideration. Two more meetings will be held. One will be March 31, the night before the election, and the other will be April 7, the only meeting after election and the one which will mark the end. On that occasion the aldermen will sing their swan song and depart to meet no more as members of the common council of Duluth. April 14 the newly-elected commission will take over the reins of municipal administration, legislative and executive.

The city engineer reported to the council on routes for a proposed street car line from Sixth avenue east and Eleventh street to the Upham road at Mesaba avenue. Two routes were suggested. The engineer recommended plan A, estimated to cost $8,646, stating that it was the more feasible. The estimated cost of the other, plan B, was $5,520.

* * *

F. W. Kuhlmey filed notice of a claim of $5,000 for a broken leg, alleged to have been sustained through negligence on the part of the city. He claims to have broken his leg near Third avenue east and Second street by a fall on an icy walk.

* * *

The nineteen sprinkling districts fixed by the board of public works were approved by the council. Some will be sprinkled with water and in others the dust will be laid with oil.

* * *

An ordinance appropriating $500 for labor and material in putting underground wires owned by the city had its first reading, as did an ordinance appropriating $2,468 for a concrete culvert and fill over Brewery creek at Sixth avenue east.

* * *

The ordinance awarding the Fay-Schan company the contract for furnishing bands for the mayor and commissioners was passed. The price was $1,392. Each commissioner and the mayor will be under bonds of $25,000.

* * *

The ordinance providing that inner courts of buildings of more than one story shall be provided with air intakes was passed.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

The stock of groceries of Harry Sander, 28 East Fourth street, consisting principally of canned goods, coffee, etc., which inventories about $400.00 and accounts receivable about $230.00, will be offered for sale in bulk at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, at the store building Thursday morning, March 27th, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The inventory of stock can be inspected by applying to W. M. Bergin, No. 631 Manhattan Bldg., Duluth, Minn. The trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. All bids must be accompanied by cash or a certified check for at least 10 per cent of amount of bid.

SCRAMBLED EGGS.

Postoffice Clerks Having Trouble With Improperly Packed Parcels.

Of late the postoffice officials have been bothered by the receipt of eggs not properly packed for transportation by parcel post. This has occurred quite frequently of late, but on Saturday last the worst case of scrambled eggs that has yet assailed the hands of the distributors arrived.

Assistant Postmaster Weld says that some offices are not careful enough in demanding proper packing of such fragile articles as eggs, and the loss of them by breakage is almost certain.

He says that one Minneapolis firm sends eggs through the post right along and has devised a container that seems to fill the bill both for safety in transportation and for lightness. It is expected that the container field will soon be crowded both for eggs and bottles, and perhaps other fragile goods.

PATIENT INOCULATED BY FRIEDMANN DIES.

New York, March 25.—Prof. Frederick Ostrander, a teacher of languages, who was inoculated by Dr. Friedmann in Bellevue hospital last Friday for tuberculosis of the lungs, kidney and bladder, died in that institution last night. The physicians in Bellevue refused to discuss the case.

Prof. Ostrander, it is said, had been a sufferer from the disease for years. From what little could be learned, the man's condition was so bad that nothing could have been done to help him. Some surprise was expressed that Dr. Friedmann consented to treat him.

SETTLER FORCED TO WATCH HIS FAMILY SLOWLY DYING

Michael Rom, homesteader at Celina, near Virginia, threatens to kill himself, if the county does not come to the aid of his stricken family.

The threat of self destruction was received in a letter which yesterday came to the office of Charles Shogran, clerk of the poor board.

Rom claimed that two of his children were dangerously ill and that his wife was also sick. Rather than see them die, he would also take his life.

Mr. Shogran immediately got into long distance communication with Dr. John H. Crowe, poor commission representative at Virginia, who will go to the relief of the stricken family.

The letter which was received yesterday afternoon by Mr. Shogran was addressed to the board of poor commissioners and read as follows:

"I hate to beg, but I have to do it. I would like to get help for my poor children who took sick about Christmas time. They can't live and they can't die and I can't stand to see them in that condition. I can't work because my whole family is sick. I can't get the kind of food that will give them the proper nourishment. I can't go anywhere for fear they will die while I am away. I had the doctor from Virginia twice, but cannot afford to get him again. I need help quick. I think two of my children will die before this letter reaches you. If I can't get help somewhere I'll take my life and that will settle the trouble for me. The children have difficult breathing, nose bleeding and can't eat. I am by the Little Fork river."

PROPOSES CHANGE IN PRESENT LAW

County Attorney Wants Convictions of White Slavers Made Easier.

County Attorney Warren E. Greene desires changes in the present Minnesota white slave laws.

He would amend the law so as to do away with the necessity of proving that the house into which men seduce young girls is one of "ill-fame." The amendment would read "any building."

He also proposes another change which will make persons who allow a girl to enter a building for immoral purposes guilty under the statute.

To this end, he has sent a copy of the proposed amendment to Senator James P. Boyle at St. Paul, with the request that it be introduced at this session of the legislature.

Sequel To Love For Doll

Maternal Instinct Greatly Developed by Teaching Children to Love their Dolls.

The little child's doll is mother to the most romantic fairy. And in the years that pass, the doll fades into the petals of a June rose, to evolve the most wondrous of all transformations.

And now comes a more serious period when the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best effort can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend, an external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every cord, nerve, muscle and tendon involved.

There will be no pain, none of that nausea or morning sickness, no sensation of distress or strain of expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, thus making the period one of restful days, of peaceful nights and a source of happiest anticipation.

The young, expectant mother must be carefully watchful lest she become absorbed in those mental distresses which fily prepare her for the most important event in her life.

Mother's Friend enables her to avoid all sensation of dread, worry or pain, and thus she is preserved in health and strength to take up the joyful task of motherhood.

You will find Mother's Friend on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle. Do not fail to use it regularly as directed. Write to-day to Bradfield Regulator Co., 135 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their most valuable little guide book for expectant mothers.

FLOCK OF WILD GEESE SEEN

In suplte of the new-fallen snow, a drop in the temperature and the dishing up by the weather man of another mass of winter weather, Duluth was given some real assurances of spring yesterday.

A flock of wild geese came yesterday afternoon, lingered for a while and then flew away again. According to R. E. Patterson, who was among those who saw them, they were evidently the forerunners of the migratory flock which seeks the Northern lakes for breeding grounds.

Yesterday the geese came to Lake Superior but evidently were not satisfied with the wintry aspects for they retraced their flight in a southerly direction and almost over the same course as they came.

The appearance of the flock is regarded as a harbinger of spring.

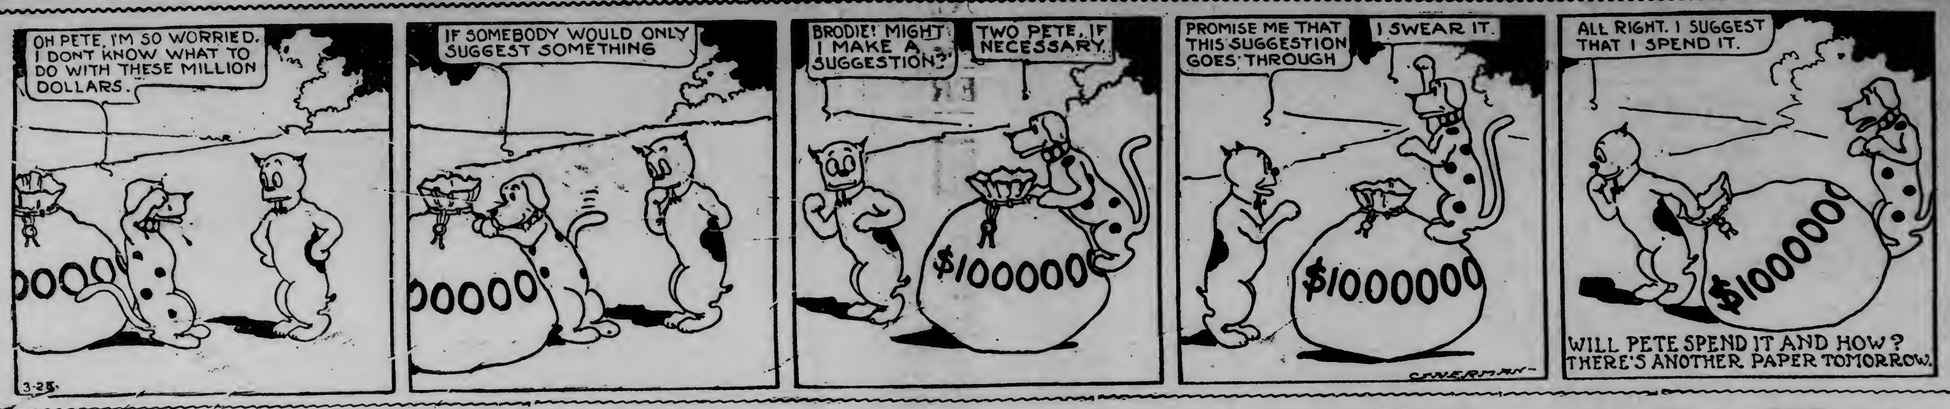
OBSTINATE CATARRH



cannot be corrected by local treatment; to arrest the flow of secretion you must remove the cause; this symptom is only one of nature's warnings of a run-down system.

Build your strength and vital forces with SCOTT'S EMULSION; it supplies the needed lime and concentrated fats; the glycerine soothes and heals the delicate organs; the emulsion nourishes the tissues and nerve centers and makes red, active blood.

Scott's Emulsion overcomes catarrh by compelling health and vigor.

PETE IS A GOOD LITTLE SUGGESTER —By C. L. SHERMAN

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

KENMARE IS LOOKING UP

Chicago Money Is Going Into North Dakota Lignite Mines.

Machinery to Be Installed and Briquetting Plant Operated.

Kenmare, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kenmare is to have two briquetting plants in operation this summer. Eleven lignite coal mines are in operation in this vicinity, some of them on a large scale, and with the other roads ordered by the state railway commission to make physical connections with the Soo, the coal mining industry is attracting more attention. The miners claim the lignite of this part of the state is the highest quality in North Dakota and are exploiting it on that ground.

Chicago Expert on Ground.

One mine was recently sold to a new company of which R. D. Ruffin of Chicago is president. He is here now inspecting the property. For twenty years he has operated and owned mines in the central west and more recently secured exclusive right to the Masche briquetting process. This he has shown to Dean Babcock, in charge of the state briquetting plant at Hebron. The dean says the process is practical. Ruffin states that $250,000 worth of machinery will be shipped into Kenmare at once and the briquetting plant placed in operation. It will ship its products all the year and the company will also ship lignite in bulk during the winter season.

Fond du Lac Flood Subsides.

Fond du Lac, Wis., March 25.—The waters in the east and west branches of the Fond du Lac river, which reached, Monday, the highest point in thirty-two years, are receding and fears of further flood damage have abated. The damage to stocks of merchandise was several hundred thousand dollars.

DAIRY COWS ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

North Dakotan Sent to Buy Good Stock Can Find Very Few.

Fargo, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—High grade young dairy cows are more in demand and harder to find than anything else in the country, according to O. D. Center, one of the experts of the Better Farming movement in this state. As a result of the efforts of the organization and the increasing interest in dairying many farmers who are co-operating with the better farming plans wanted some young cows. Mr. Center was chosen to look them up. He was instructed to secure 100 head and nothing but the highest grade of 2-year-olds. He was gone three weeks and returned with twenty-one. He could have secured some of lower quality of older age, but found the kind he wanted particularly scarce and a half dozen buyers for each one offered. He wanted only the best as they are to be used as the foundation for future herds in this state and animals of poor quality would not answer the purpose.

HAVE ABANDONED LAND SHOW PLAN

Reported in North Dakota Northwest Development League Will Quit.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwest Development league, which has conducted land shows two successive winters in St. Paul and Minneapolis, will not repeat the experiment this year, according to word received here, and there is said to be some doubt about the league continuing. Will A. Campbell, the secretary, a former Omaha publicity agent, has gone into the newspaper business at Helena, Mont., and there are other evidences the league is going to pieces, despite all the publicity it has received. President Lewis Penwell of the league, in a newspaper statement made at Helena, Mont., a few days ago, said there would be no land show this year. At the conclusion of the land show held in Minneapolis last winter it was announced that the next land show, to be held some time this year, would be held in Milwaukee, Cleveland or some city nearer the centers of population than the Twin Cities. Now comes the announcement there will be no land show at all this year. Neither the two Dakotas nor Minnesota are said to have received the benefits from the land shows expected, the boosting being confined mostly to Montana, Idaho and Washington, and largely maintained by the railroads.

IS INDICTED FOR SLAYING VETERAN

Gustafson to Answer for Killing Darling in Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Gustafson, accused of murdering W. A. Darling, an aged veteran of the Civil war, and then shooting at the driver of a police patrol wagon Sunday morning, was indicted for murder in the first degree late last night by the Hennepin county grand jury.

Gustafson was arrested early in January, suspected of having attempted to blow up the Wells memorial hospital, and reported to Sweden, but gave the detective who had him in charge the slip while in New York and later returned to Minneapolis. Gustafson has figured in the local police court at infrequent intervals since March 1909.

GOVERNOR EBERHART OFFERS OMAHA AID.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—Governor Eberhart has wired Mayor Dahlman of Omaha as follows:

"The people of Minnesota extend sympathy and stand ready to lend any aid necessary.

"ADOLPH EBERHART,
"Governor."

BURTON TO COMMAND.

Hudson Major in Charge of Third Battalion, Including Superior.

Madison, Wis., March 25.—Capt. W. Y. Burton, Hudson, has been promoted to major in the Third regiment, Wisconsin National guard, and has been assigned to command the Second battalion, composed of the companies at Hudson, Eau Claire, Menomonie and Superior, in place of Maj. John Turner of this city who for four years has been in command and who in that time has brought it from the last to the leading battalion in the regiment. Maj. Turner has been assigned to the First battalion.

"CHICKEN" TALK COSTLY.

Marinette, Wis., Married Man Too Free With His Expressions.

Menominee, Mich., March 25.—Addressing numerous girls on the streets here as "chicken" and "dearie" caused the arrest of Warren Russell, aged 30, a married Marinette man, who has two children, as a master. It cost Russell $22 to "square it" in court. He excused his conduct by saying he was intoxicated.

SUES HIS OWN WIFE.

Escanaba Man Wants $5,000 for Being Accused of Insanity.

Escanaba, Mich., March 25.—Alleging that through false representations he was greatly humiliated by being required to submit to an examination for insanity, George A. Hurley of this place has commenced suit against his wife, Jennie L. Hurley, and her son, Emil Moster, asking damages of $5,000. Hurley was found not insane at the examination.

MONTANA VENDETTA.

Man and Woman Are Shot During Neighborhood Row.

Fort Benton, Mont., March 25.—Undersheriff Wilson has brought in from the Highwood mountains Jake Bishop and Fred Johnson, suspected of complicity in a shooting affair at the Bishop ranch, twenty-five miles from here, in which Mrs. Fern Verrill and Charles Skilling were dangerously wounded.

The defendants have admitted doing some shooting, but deny any intention of harming the woman. They say they took a shot at Skilling with a shotgun, in order to frighten him and discourage his visits to the Bishop ranch.

After Skilling had received a charge of buckshot in the leg he secured a gun and more shooting occurred, five shots in all being fired. The shooting seems to be the result of a neighborhood quarrel.

LAKES ARE ALL FULL.

No Lack of Water in Northern Minnesota Lakes This Year.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—Minnesota's northland lakes will have plenty of water this summer, the streams will be well supplied and fishing will be excellent, according to reports received from his rangers by State Forester Cox.

There is an average of three and one-half feet of snow in the northern woods—more than at any time last season. The snows of the late winter have been especially beneficial, the rangers report, and there is no danger of a drouth until late in the year, even should there be a scarcity of rain.

The presence of abundant moisture also will serve as a blessing to settlers and for several months will eliminate the danger of extended forest fires.

BOTTINEAU PIGGER IS GIVEN LIMIT.

Bottineau, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Phillip Holzman, one of the latest to be captured by the officials for violating the prohibition law, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 110 days in jail and to pay a $200 fine. The officials have been especially active after violators of the prohibition law.

LEAVES HIS RELATIVES ONLY 10 CENTS APIECE.

Faribault, Minn., March 25.—The will of the late Robert W. Woodville, 85 years old, of Northfield, who died at his home March 17, has come to the probate court of Rice county in this city for settlement.

Only 10 cents apiece is stipulated in the will as the share of the relatives, while much of the rest of the estate, which is valued at about $15,000, has been divided up among his friends. St. Olaf and Carleton colleges will receive a share and $1,000 was left for the establishment of a restroom in the city of Northfield.

SNOW BLOCKS HEARSE.

Casket Taken From Conveyance and Carried on Sleigh in Escanaba.

Escanaba, Mich., March 25.—Finding it impossible, even with the aid of a big crew of laborers, to break the roads into St. Joseph's cemetery here, the body of Frank Straika, who died at the Delta county almshouse, had to be taken from the hearse at the cemetery gates and conveyed to the grave on an ordinary team sleigh. Mourners and hearse attendants had to leave their carriages and struggle through the drifts to reach the grave.

BIRCHWOOD, WIS., NEWS RENDERED HOMELESS.

Couderay, Wis., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Birchwood News office in the village of Birchwood, near here, and all its contents were totally destroyed by fire which started from a defective chimney. The News was a weekly publication, with N. F. Weston as publisher and editor.

TO TAKE REILLY TO PENITENTIARY.

Larimore, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. James J. Reilly was arrested here and is being held for officials of Cavalier county who propose to turn him over to the state penitentiry at Bismarck under the sentence of ten years just affirmed by the supreme court, for manslaughter in connection with the death of a woman patient nearly two years ago.

Reilly was on his way to Minot to consult his attorneys, claiming to have secured a fifteen-day stay of execution from the supreme court. He was accompanied by James Wakeford, one of his bondsmen, when arrested.

BEMIDJI ALSO WANTS THE COMMISSION FORM.

Bemidji, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Signed by 102 citizens of Bemidji, a petition for the appointment of a new charter commission for this city was presented to Judge Stanton today. On May 31, 1911, a charter commission of fifteen members was appointed to draw up a new charter, incorporating the features of the commission form of municipal government. This commission did not act, and the petition prays that a new commission of fifteen members be appointed which will have a new charter drawn up to be submitted to the voters. The petition was prepared by Frank S. Arnold and K. K. Roe, who also circulated it.

Gets La Moure Franchise.

La Moure, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has granted a charter for an electric light plant to I. I. Bennett. The provisions of the franchise call for the establishment of the plant within six months, and the franchise runs for thirty years.

Wants to Burn Things.

Mandan, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he possessed an uncontrolable desire to burn everything which he could gain possession of, even to the room in which he was held a prisoner by New Leipzig citizens when they arrested him, Peter Johnson probably will be deported to Sweden. He has been in this country but three months.

Johnson's mania is fire, and it is believed by officials that several fires of supposed incendiary origin at New Leipzig were started by him.

Sleepy Eye Boy Drowns.

Sleepy Eye, Minn., March 25.—Harold, the 7-year-old son of William Larkin, was drowned in the Cottonwood river Sunday while playing on the ice with companions. His body was recovered in thirty minutes.
